Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., last evening, entertained a large number of fraternal visitors from Halsey Council, of Newark, among whom were the degree team of the latter organization. During the course of the evening several candidates were initiated. Short addresses of a fraternal nature marked the latter portion of the meeting, while refreshments and a general social hour followed.

HEAR ROUMANIA WILL FIGHT SOON

Paris Officials See Significance in Recall of Prince Sturdza.

BRITISH CRUISER SUNK?

Roundabout Report That One Has Been Lost in Adriatic—Several More Vessels Victims of Submarines—Little Change in France.

Paris, June 11.—An apparently well founded report that Roumania will intervene in the war almost immediately has been started by the recall of Prince Sturdza, a member of the Roumanian royal family to Bucharest. The summons to return to his native country was pressing and a companion of his stated that the prospect of Roumanian intervention is the reason.

The official communique, which deals exclusively with operations around Arras, today says:

"Renewed successes at the labyrinth, where we continued to drive the enemy back. Some progress to east of the labyrinth where we captured several German works."

Another official statement issued today says:

"At the Dardanelles we have consolidated the results obtained in the battle June 4 at the extreme right of the ravine of Creve Deve. By minor actions we have achieved some new gains. Questioning of prisoners confirms reports that the loss of the enemy has been considerable."

New York, June 11.—A press despatch from Innsbruck by way of the Swiss frontier and Geneva and Paris says that announcement has been made there by the Austrians that one of their submarines yesterday sunk a British cruiser of the Liverpool type at a point thirty miles off St. Jean Medua, in the Adriatic.

London, June 11.—A wireless from Berlin says the Batavia liner Zwina has been sunk. Five members of her crew and eleven passengers were saved.

A despatch from Cardiff says that the Glasgow steamship Strathcarron was torpedoed yesterday. The crew was rescued.

Queenstown, June 11.—The Russian bark Thomassini has been sunk by a German submarine. Her crew was saved.

Rotterdam, June 11.—The British trawler Coronella, hailing from Lowestoft, has been destroyed in the North Sea by a German submarine. The crew has landed here.

Petrograd, June 11.—The following official statement was given out at the War Office today:

"The Austro-Germans have been driven back to the right bank of the Dneister. We captured 17 cannon, 49 maxims and 88 officers and 6,500 men."

Rome, July 11.—The following statement was given out today:

"There is nothing of importance to report as to operations in Trent, except the occupation of Podestagno by us. There is a lull in the Carnic Alps. We now securely hold the citadel of Monfalcone, and all the heights dominating the city."

Berlin, June 11 (by wireless).—The following statement was given out at German headquarters today:

"Western Theatre—Attempts of the enemy to advance northeast of the Lorette Hills as well as repeated attacks by the French against our positions south and north of Neuville St. Vaast failed. Fighting at

ATTENDED THE WEDDING OF BOROUGH COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Wilmot and son, Jack, of Third street, attended the wedding of Mr. Wilmot's sister, Miss Harriett E. Wilmgt, of Brooklyn, to Wallace Caldwell, also of Brooklyn, Tuesday. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home, 391 Dean street. A reception followed the ceremony and the couple then departed on a wedding trip to San Francisco. The groom has just graduated from a New York college. He has accepted a professorship in an Indiana college.

Mrs. Wilmot and son returned home yesterday morning, after having visited several friends at King's Highway, Coney Island, and Middle Village, L. I., Wednesday.

The Farther Lights Missionary Society will give an entertainment this evening in the First Baptist church. A silver offering will be taken.

TO PRESENT FLAG.

The ceremonies incident to the presentation of a flag to the New Market School by Friendship Council will be held tomorrow afternoon. The presentation will be made to the Board of Education at the schoolhouse and will be preceded by a parade of the uniformed members of the order, led by the Public Service band, through the principal streets of the village.

ENJOYED ANNUAL PICNIC.

The Public Service Band enjoyed a picnic at Palisades Park, yesterday. The members of the band with their families and friends filled two cars. The cars passed through the borough on the way to the park at 10 o'clock in the morning. Returning they passed through here at the same hour at night.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, moved into the recently completed house of Contractor H. B. Eckert, on Third street, east of Washington avenue, yesterday.

GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY.

John Vroom, of North avenue, was tendered a surprise party in honor of his thirty-ninth birthday at his home, Tuesday evening. The party was arranged by his wife. The surprise was a complete one. There were thirty-eight guests present from New Market, Plainfield and this place, and everybody had a fine time. The evening was spent in playing games and in dancing. Refreshments were served during the evening. Mr. Vroom received many nice presents in honor of the occasion.

Miss Alice Gooch, of Fourth street, is spending a month in Brooklyn as the guest of her uncle, Fred Byrd.

Mrs. L. D. Treichler, of Fourth street, is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Martha Frantz, of Waynesboro, Pa., and also her sister, Miss Anna, from the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Gooch, of Fourth street, are planning a trip to Cape Cod.

Mayor E. B. Latham leaves tomorrow afternoon for Detroit, where he will attend the Electrical Jobbers' convention, which will be in session from Monday until Friday of next week.

Roy Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith, of Front street, has resigned his position with Van Dusen, the paperhanger.

Mrs. Charles S. Day is planning an afternoon hike for her music pupils from New Market to Washington Rock. It is expected that the affair will take place very shortly.

Edward Lockwood is spending two weeks with his grandmother at Westchester, N. Y.

Albert C. Giddes, of Lincoln avenue, is confined to his home suffering from rheumatism.

Bartley Biernbrauer, son of Mr and Mrs. A. W. Biernbrauer, of Lincoln avenue, has completely recovered from his attack of malaria.

Constable and Mrs. C. Wesley Blaine entertained Mr. and Mrs Thomas Meulick, Mrs. Greta Vendule Miss Mary Van Arsdale and Mrs Goldson W. Smalley, recently.

"TOO MANY HUSBANDS."

The Mount Pleasant Dramatic Club will present a play, "Too Many Husbands," in the Presbyterian chapel, Thursday evening, June 18, under the auspices of Scout Troop No. 1.

Mrs. W. R. Hetfield and Mrs. Thomas Beck were visitors in New York city today.

Borough Engineer Lewis T. Churchill has purchased an Iver-Johnson bicycle.

'Plains & Fanwood.

About fifty women from Scotch Plains and Fanwood attended the card party and social afternoon held in the Fanwood firehouse yesterday. The affair was arranged by a number of local women for the benefit of a man who has been a gardener around here for the past thirty years for various families, and who has become unable to work since an illness.

Gordon Urner has returned to his home in the borough, for his summer vacation, after completing his first year at Cornell College.

Clarence Bettmann, a former resident, but lately of Deal, is visiting friends in the borough.

After a three months' residence at Deal, George Spearn has returned to this place and is spending the summer at the residence of Frank Palmer, on Tillitson road.

The cast of ten local young people are ready to give the second production of "How the Vote Was Won," for the benefit of the Fanwood branch of the Woman's Political Union, and tomorrow night will present it in Excelsior Hall in Scotch Plains. If anything, it will be better than the first effort last Saturday in the Fanwood firehouse. Music will be rendered by Suhr's orchestra and dancing will follow the play.

The fifteen pupils composing the graduates from the local school this year are making extensive preparations for their graduation exercises that will be held on Thursday, June 24, in the Baptist church at 8 o'clock. For the first time in a number of years the size of the auditorium will allow all those who wish to attend the exercises to be present, something that has been impossible before, owing to the assembly room of the school being so small. All of the examinations of the eighth grade will be State papers this year.

About a dozen members of the local branch of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage attended the mass meeting at Elizabeth, last night. The next meeting of the society will be on the first Monday in July, at which time there will probably be another lecture.

The Boy Scouts have decided on the night of July 1 to give their entertainment for the benefit of their camping fund. It will be in the Parish House. Rehearsals will be held frequently during the intervening time.

The Altar Guild will meet in the Episcopal church tomorrow afternoon.

The second round of play at the Westfield Golf Club for the Sinclair Cup will be played tomorrow. Nearly all of the local members are after the prize and several are picked as favorites.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will hold a strawberry festival in Excelsior Hall on Tuesday night of next week.

The weekly shoot of the Rifle Club will be held tomorrow afternoon on the Westfield avenue range.

Bound Brook.

Rev. William T. Boult will preach a special patriotic sermon on Sunday night in the Congregational church.

Somerset Lodge, No. 56, K. of P., and Pioneer Council, No. 58, Jr. O. U. A. M., will attend in a body.

The edition of today's Chronicle will be a special suffrage campaign number. It will contain articles by members of the clergy of Bound Brook and Somerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Miller are the parents of a son born yesterday.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 69 degrees; 11 a. m., 69 degrees; 1 p. m., 80 degrees.

The man or woman who have not the habit of "trying again" very often fail as want advertisers, wholly for that reason.

$15 TO $25 AT ROTHBERG'S

Every time we sit down to write an advertisement about Rothberg Clothes, we feel like a young man in love—so full of our subject that we don't know how to begin, nor when to stop.

But in one important particular, Rothberg Clothes transcend the human affections—they never grow cold and indifferent, but remain true to the end.

Obviously, a $25 Rothberg suit is made of better fabrics than one at $20, and one at $20 is better than one at $15, but in the cut and the fit they are identically the same.

Every Rothberg Suit, regardless of price, can be depended upon to hold its shape as long as you wear it, and whether you pay $15 or $25 makes no difference in the fit.

In other words, all that a $25 Rothberg suit offers over one at $20, and all that one at $20 offers over one at $15 is simply more of the same thing.

MANY DELEGATES AT ANNIVERSARY

Baptists Hold Forth in Elizabeth Church and Make Annual Reports.

LOCAL MEN TAKE PART

Enthusiasm marked the seventy-fourth anniversary meeting of the East New Jersey Baptist Association, held in the Central Baptist church, Elizabeth, yesterday and last night. Plainfield was largely represented in the list of 180 delegates who took an active part in the conference session during the morning, afternoon and evening.

The following representatives from local churches attended: First Baptist, Rev. Philip B. Strong; Clerk Oliver B. Leonard, Deacon Charles Conover, Mrs. Charles Conover, Deacon James L. Manning, Deaconesses J. L. Manning, F. W. Jones, G. F. Brown, Anna E. Boice, Mrs. J. A. Powlison, Mrs. G. H. Robins, Mrs. S. Whitney Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Thorn; Park Avenue Baptist, Rev. Birney S. Hudson. Although this list included the authorized delegates, many individuals accompanied them to Elizabeth and were present at the services. The Park Avenue Baptist church was particularly strong in numbers, many young people making the trip.

Dr. Strong opened the convention with a short devotional service and during the morning the Rev. Joseph J. Allen, of the South Plainfield Baptist church, read a report showing the present status of "General Church Work." In the afternoon the Rev. J. Madison Hare, of Scotch Plains, spoke on "A Conquering and Triumphant Church." In the evening Dr. Strong again led the devotional services and the feature of the evening's program was a stirring address delivered by Ivan P. Flood, secretary of the Young People's State Convention.

HONOR RETIRING PRINCIPAL

both ornaments last night in honor of the occasion.

The addresses by Dr. Maaxson and Mr. Cox were filled with meritorious praise for the work Miss Humpston has done during her forty-one years of service to the city. Both declared the work she has accomplished in the community is beyond estimation, and her going takes away one of the most valuable assistants the educational department of Plainfield has ever had. Mr. Cox also read a resolution passed by the Board of Education, as follows:

"Whereas, Miss Millicent E. Humpston, after forty-one years of service in the schools of Plainfield, has tendered her resignation, it is

"Resolved, that the Board accept with regret the resignation of Miss Humpston, and it is further

Resolved, that the Board spread upon its minutes and express to Miss Humpston its highest appreciation of the value of her efficient work and its sincere thanks for the benefits conferred on the children and the community by her long and faithful service."

Miss Humpston is a native of Plainfield, and became a member of the public school teaching corps immediately after her graduation from the Oswego Normal School. She entered upon her duties in the old Washington School building, at Fifth and Liberty streets, now known as St. Mary's Commercial Hall. She was made principal within a few years, and has remained in that capacity since. When the new Washington School building was erected at Essex street and Darrow avenue she was transferred there, together with most of her teachers. Situated as it is in a cosmopolitan district, the Washington School principalship has been anything but an easy task, yet Miss Humpston has accomplished it in a manner such as to elicit flattering encomiums from officials and parents alike. It is doubtful if another school building in the city has such a feeling of harmony and loyalty as that which has always existed between Miss Humpston and her corps of assistants. She has served the city faithfully and well, and in her withdrawal from the position she has held so many years she takes with her the heartfelt wishes for a long period of needed rest and enjoyment.

BASEBALL POOL GAMBLING.

When the great race tracks were put out of business a few years ago, the sportily inclined looked about for some other method of gambling. A large number of them hit on the baseball pool scheme, and there is not a town where some of these, either large or small, are not to be found in operation. Here in Plainfield there are a number, but the magnitude of the operations is not to be compared with that in other cities. In fact, it would be hard for the police to stop the practice here because of the manner it is carried on.

There are some cities, however, where a determined campaign is underway to put an end to the practice, which it has been found is depriving the families of many working-men of needed money for support. Dispatches tell of prosecution being started yesterday in Minneapolis, and the Pittsburgh Leader is carrying on a determined campaign against the gamblers in that city. The Leader found that the police authorities would not do their sworn duty, so it employed detectives and secured the evidence, finally having the complaint made by one of its own employes, thus prodding the district attorney and police department into activity. Five arrests have been made, and it is said by the Leader that it expects to reach some "men higher up" before it gets through with the job.

In the Minneapolis case, Charles Jordan, a saloonkeeper, was arraigned for conducting a baseball lottery. It is said that the pool is backed by a big gambling syndicate in Chicago and New York, perhaps the same one that backed a similar game in Plainfield last year, until the Daily Press exposed its operations here.

The heads of the big baseball leagues realize that gambling put horse-racing out of business, so they are co-operating with the authorities in the attempt to stop the practice, so far as organized baseball is concerned. It is said that the business underway in this form of lottery is so great that the Federal authorities are becoming interested, and will soon begin a campaign against the practice. One feature of the practice is that wire-tapping methods cannot be resorted to in fleecing victims, and where the pools are conducted by local people, known to the participants, no dishonest methods, other than violation of the gambling laws, are possible.

VEGETABLES BY WEIGHT.

The Newark Evening News calls attention to the fact that Oregon has abolished the dry measure, and all commodies that have generally been sold by the quart, half-peck or peck are now sold in that State by weight or by numbers. Oregon claims to be the first to adopt this plan, and expects that it will bring about highly satisfactory results. If these expectations are fulfilled there is reason to believe that other States will follow the example.

New Jersey is especially interested in this method, for two reasons. In the first place, there is a disposition on the part of some dealers to cheat in measuring out beans, peas, potatoes, etc.; a disposition amply proved by the thousands of false measures captured and confiscated by the State Department of Weights and Measures under the new law. And, secondly, the State has so generally cleared out cheating scales that there is now little difficulty in getting fair weight of whatever is purchased by weight.

Buying vegetables by weight—like buying eggs or bread—is always the more certain way of getting the true quantity purchased. It is, if the scales are correct, much superior to the ordinary dry measure and more just as between honest seller and customer.

The second note to Germany is fully representative of the sentiment of the American people. Secretary Bryan, by his resignation prior to the note being made public, sent forth the impression that the note would immediately plunge us into war, while the text proves that President Wilson had no such thought when drafting the missive. It is a straightforward reflection of the sentiment of the people, strong and determined, and directly in contrast to the silly "statement to the people" which Bryan gave out for publication at the same time.

Plainfielders continue to rise to positions of prominence in the business world. Councilman Richard A. Claybrook has just been made vice president of the New York Produce Exchange, and it was only a few days ago that Stephen H. Voorhees became a vice president of the National City Bank, one of the most powerful institutions in the country. Hardly a week passes that some well known Plainfielder is not found occupying an enviable place in the news of the day.

The police are trying to enforce the new traffic regulations in a reasonable way, and they find that the greatest obstacle is the ignorance which the average automobilist displays of the provisions of the act. There is no excuse for any person remaining in ignorance of the law, for copies of it may be procured from the Motor Vehicle Department on Trenton on application, or, better still, a copy of the pamphlet laws of 1915 may be had on application to the superintendent of the Capitol.

Those who have been identified with the Young Women's Christian Association fully realize the loss to that institution when Miss Elizabeth Wethereil leaves to take up her work in Syracuse University. At the same time she will take with her the best wishes of all who have come in contact with her in this city.

It is not surprising to hear that out of town physicians have visited Muhlenberg Hospital and praised its business methods. Not only in management, but in facilities offered the local institution ranks with the leaders in the State, and is probably the best equipped one in a city this size in the country.

The contributed editorial for tomorrow has been written by Robert Newton Crane, who will discuss a topic that is being largely commented upon at the present time.

"COMMUNITY SOCIAL" A GREAT SUCCESS

Attractive Program at Affair Held at the Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

The first "Community Social," held under the auspices of several organizations of this city at the Y. M. C. A., last night, was a great success and was enjoyed by a large number of people. The yard in the rear of the association building was lighted with electric lights and lanterns and was filled with seats, every one of which was occupied with guests. The social committee offered a most interesting program, in which Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. members, boy scouts and the Christian Endeavor Societies of this city took part. Beside these the Epworth Leagues of the city were also represented.

F. O. Dunning, chairman of the social committee of the Y. M. C. A., made a short address of welcome, explaining the object of the affair, and Secretary Alfred Estes also spoke about the guests getting acquainted with each other. Boys' Secretary Edwin Glaentzer announced the various features. The entertainment opened with a musical selection, Alfred Korff rendering a cornet solo, accompanied by Clifford A. Braider on the piano.

A delegration of Boy Scouts from Kangaroo Patrol, of Troop 8, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, gave an interesting demonstrations of scoutcraft. Henwood Erickson, leader of the patrol, endeavored to show the audience how they made fire without matches, but was unable to get the spark. He has accomplished this feat several times and the demonstration last night gave the audience an idea of how it was done by the Indians. Walter Brown entertained with a demonstration of wig-wagging or talking with flags at a distance. He went through the entire alphabet and then apparently talked for a length of time without stopping. During the performance Albert Renne became a hospital patient of the scouts and they did some quick work in treating and bandaging a scalp wound. The boys who took part in that demonstration were: Heywood Erickson, Walter Brown, Martin Snyder, Albert Renne and Henry Mygatt.

The Christian Endeavor Union furnished an interesting part of the program, the society of the First Presbyterian church giving a one act sketch entitled, "Why We Never Married." The cast consisted of seven girls and seven boys and each related why they had never taken the matrimonial step. In the end the boys all made proposals, were accepted and seven couples made their exit to the tune of the wedding march.

Exhibitions of tumbling were given by Gus Engler and Eric VanOrden, of the Y. M. C. A. tumbling team, and their many fast numbers, including the back flip, held the attention of the audience for some time. The Y. M. C. A. girls gave demonstrations of the various arts, including cooking, housekeeping, millinery, and pantomimes were acted while the girls sang.

Following the program a social time was enjoyed and refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake, were served by the leaders' corps of the Y. M. C. A. senior department. Bert Newmiller was chairman of the refreshments committee. The affair proved to be a greater success than was anticipated and it is probable that it will be repeated next year.

COMPLETE COLLEGE COURSE

Plainfield, gave a short address of welcome to the entire assemblage, and introduced the speakers.

Thomas W. Churchill, president of the Board of Education of New York city, delivered the opening address, in which he congratulated the young women of the graduating class. Although too many commencements are an ordeal and something painful, Mr. Churchill said there was a lure about the whole thing. "It is ever new, ever fresh, ever green, because youth is found at all commencements. That is the lure and that is what makes the world progress."

The speaker deplored the fact that some people are so color blind that they would rather clean streets than clean minds, and lauded the educational facilities of Mt. St. Mary's College. Continuing, Mr. Churchill said: "If there is anything I dislike it is caddishness; I dislike a snob. I have seen men of wealth who were all dross, and poor fellows who were all gold. A man's title does not amount to much. Whatever a title a man has is a good deal of an accident. Most men grin and bear it, and that element that compels them to do so is what we call character. Even if you are graduated from a college, even if you possess automobiles, even if you come from a wealthy family, and you turn your nose up at the poor girl who is less fortunate than you, there is something vitally wrong with your education. If she is unfortunate and weak the noblest thing you can do is to have the philosophy to recognize that girl and to be kindly and uplifting to her without vanity.

"In this college you have formed the cement of character. Now, you will enter the university of hard knocks, whose colors are black and blue, and whose college cry is "ouch," and you must be disposed to meet all these and persevere no matter what goes on around you. In this age of hustle and with so much going on, women are coming down to the equal of men. The world can get nothing better from you than good cheer, humor and kindliness. The sweetest thing you can do is to provide sunshine for the nation. I have the greatest of homage for the sisters who have guided you through these years. You have education with religion. I believe that without faith, life is a dross; without faith, life is unsettled, cunning. I believe in faith, or else we are like a Dead Sea apple, we only look like fruit. I believe that the work of your teachers in general, but especially those who immure themselves from the world, is sweetened by the breath of God, and it is uplifted, ever colored by the rays of God. Their names are not made immortal, no sculptured bust will perpetuate their fame, but their memorial is the baptism of the world. I hope the time will never come when men will forget their endowment and will not be humble enough to take off their hat to a sister as a she."

The baccalaureate address was delivered by Dr. Calvin N. Kendall, Commissioner of Education of New Jersey, and he congratulated the graduates for four reasons: First, that they have had the benefit of Mt. St. Mary's College and the contact with their teachers; second, because they were in America; third, because of the friendships formed. "There are no friendships any better, any sweeter, any dearer, even the friendships formed in later life, than the friendships formed in school days. Do not neglect to keep them." Fourth, because you are young. My admonition to you is to keep young and in order to do this youth is measured by two ways. First, by the almanac and by the calender, and second, by the way you feel and by your attitude toward life."

"I have long felt that New Jersey is a good place to have a college in the midst of the hills and so situated that it would be convenient to the big city. The State of New Jersey will be richer and richer as it multiplies its facilities for education, public and private, and the assets of the State have already increased because of Mt. St. Mary's. I want to say, frankly, that although I had heard much about this college, this is my first opportunity to view the magnificent building for myself. I want to congratulate the members on the clean, wholesome atmosphere permeating this college. In fact, I have never been in a Catholic institution where cleanliness was not next to Godliness. I emphasize this because it is a part of the education of women." Mr. Kendall spoke in terms of admiration of the up-to-date and modern equipment of the domestic science department, the art, physical and musical departments. In concluding, Mr. Kendall urged the graduates to enter their life with enthusiasm and will, and to have punctuality as one of their assets.

The candidates for the degree of bachelor of arts were presented by Rev. Father Hart. They were Sister Mary Xavier, New York city, and Miss Isabella Dorothea Mullen, of New York city. Five college extension students received certificates. Thse were Miss Loretta Leontine Burns, Garwood; Miss Julia O'Brien, Elizabeth; Miss Melusina Louise Neumann, Elizabeth; Leona Kane, Elizabeth, and Miss Emma Rekemeier, Elizabeth. Miss Elizabeth Dominica Brown, of Perth Amboy, received a special certificate.

Rt. Rev. James A. McFaul, D. D., LL. D., of Trenton, spoke a few words of encouragement and congratulation to the students and gave them his blessing.

Among those present were the following: Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Raritan; Hon. W. Churchill, of New York city; Dr. Calvin N. Kendall, Trenton; David Kenney, Rev. Father Zimmer, Raritan; Rev. Father Paoli, Raritan; Rev. Father B. N. Bogan, Plainfield; Rev. Father Hart, North Plainfield; Rev. Father Baldwin, Rev. Father Ryan, Somerville; W. J. McCloud, Elizabeth; Cornelius Atkinson, New Brunswick, and Bernard M. Gannon, of Perth Amboy.

SOMEBODY STOLE PRIZE ROSES FROM JOHN KYLE

Believing that he has been the victim of a practical joker possessing a poor sense of humor, John Kyle, of Spooner avenue, is maing an exhaustive investigation with the hope of ascertaining the identity of the culprit who appropriated a bunch of prize rosebuds from him on the 7:55 commuters' train from this city Tuesday morning. Kyle has for several years been interested in horticulture and has taken as his particular hobby the cultivation of the large natural order of Rosaceae, having recently grown several unusual specimens of the prickly shrubs with pinnate leaves. Mr. Kyle is connected with a Porto Rican sugar concern and contemplated providing samples of his garden prizes to the firm's agricultural expert.

The ones he had in his possession Tuesday morning were of a rare type and valuable. The position of the stipules, the peculiar contraction of the calyx, the division into six lanceolate segments insteads of five, the size of the corolla, and the scarcity of stamens were all extraordinary and he was taking them to New York for the purpose of having them examined before sending them to Porto Rico.

The Spooner avenue rosarian has been actively engaged in raising the exogenous mode of growth since a boy, but his experiments have failed to yield anything unusual up to the present time. He would be glad to secure any information that would aid him in his search for the thief.

FORTY DAYS THIS TIME.

Arrested the second time in two days for creating disturbance around the International Motor Company's plant on Clinton avenue, Mike Catalick, an Austrian, was this morning sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or serve forty days in the county jail by Judge DeMeza. When arraigned on the same charge yesterday morning Catalick's friends pleaded for leniency, and as a result the judge gave him another chance, at the same time admonishing him not to go near the factory again.

VERDICT IN JURY'S HANDS

exhort money from the defendant. He reviewed the calibre of evidence offered by Vanderhoef at the hearing before Special Master John P. Owens, in the Plainfield District Court, when Vanderhoef was charged with declaring that he "would make a slick witness for Mrs. Roundey and that he needed $50 to repair a crank shaft on his automobile."

The attorney decried the manner in which Prosecutor Stein cross-examined a Polish servant girl, claiming that the witness was "too scared to know her own mind." Referring to Frank Vanderhoef, father of the "boy-detective," Mr. English classed him as a drunkard and laid special stress on the man's admission that he was intoxicated the night before he appeared on the stand for the prosecution. English assailed Harold Vanderhoef, the detective, as a "self-confessed perjurer and fugitive from justice."

Dwelling on the State's claim that Sergeant Maurice Higgins had sought Harold Vanderhoef as a witness, Mr. English said that he believed that the prosecution never wanted Harold, and that if he had been summoned the "youth's testimony would have been riddled full of holes." He commented on the Rev. Charles M. Anderson's testimony regarding Mrs. Roundey's character. Dr. Anderson testified the day before as to Mrs. Roundey's good reputation.

Taking up the State's issue Union County Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein declared that he could see no difference between murder and perjury and urged the jury to return a verdict of guilty. He classed Mrs. Roundey as a menace to fellow creatures and declared that such individuals as the defendant would at any time come forward with false testimony that might be instrumental in sending an innocent man to the electric chair. He took exception to the size of the hole through which Mrs. Roundey claimed to have witnessed Mrs. Pionier and John K. Roundey in a compromising position on the night of October 23. The hole in question was little over one-eighth of an inch in size and the only light inside of the room, according to Mrs. Roundey, was that thrown by an electric bulb in the street seventy-five feet away. He reviewed Mrs. Roundey's alleged attempt to enlist the aid of an ignorant Polish servant and the foreigner's refusal to "sell" her testimony. He classed Mrs. Roundey as a clever, crafty individual who could be credited with formulating just such schemes as caused the trouble she stood accused of.

In the courtroom during the entire trial prominent members of the Order of Eastern Star were interested spectators. Both Mrs. Roundey and Mrs. Poinier were identified with this female auxiliary to the Masons, but it was apparent from the attitude displayed in court yesterday that Mrs. Roundey will no longer be a welcome guest at the meetings. Others in the courtroom included Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Herring, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson; Henry D. Plass, of New York, Mrs. Roundey's father; John Plass, Mrs. Roundey's brother; John K. Roundey, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Poinier, and many other well known Plainfielders.

The case has aroused State-wide interest as manifested in the representation of lawyers and justices at the trial.

STRAWBERRY AND ICE CREAM FESTIVAL A SUCCESS

The monthly meeting of the Missionary and Aid Society, of Warren chapel, was held yesterday afternoon, at the summer home of Mrs. J. W. Gavett, of Valley road. There were twenty-six present and the trip was taken from this city in an auto-bus. The meeting was held at 3 o'clock, and after the business was transacted the meeting was adjourned until next September.

Following the meeting a social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess. The party returned home about 5 o'clock.

WILL HOLD PUBLIC HEARING ON THE PROPOSED ORDINANCE

For the purpose of ascertaining the stand of the public in general on the proposed ordinance to license newsboys, Mayor Leighton Calkins has announced that a hearing on the proposition will be held Monday night, in the Common Council chambers. All interested in the proposed piece of municipal legislation are invited to be present and express their opinions on the subject.

This action has been prompted primarily by the informal comment that has been awakened over the ordinance and the councilmen will be present Monday night to explain points demanded by the taxpayers.

SMALL FIRE IN BOROUGH.

The North Plainfield fire department was called out at 1:25 o'clock this afternoon, by a call from box 142, located at Fritz place and Somerset street. The fire was in the blacksmith shop of Dave Flammer, but was a small one and only chemicals were used. The damage was slight.

JOHNNY'S TRIALS.

Bet our sidewalk'd be covered
With the 'rithmetic I've done;
Bet I've writ a million answers
Since the time I first begun.

Allus lots and lots more comin',
Oh, the work I gotta do!
Wonder why in thunderation
This old work ain't never through!

Wonder if there's many others
Adds up just the same as me?
I jest guess and keep on guessin',
Hopin' one and one makes three.

Wonder, if I keep on learnin',
I'll be just the stupid fool
Teacher seems to like to call me
When he keeps me after school?

Wonder, in that place called Heaven,
If they give you sums to do?
Any place'd seem 'most Heaven
Where a feller's work was through!

STUDIED FROM LIFE.

"Thanks," said the tragedian, setting down his glass, and absentmindedly pocketing my change which lay upon the bar between us. "Many thanks for your good opinion. I always study from Nature—from Nature, sir. In my acting you see reflected Nature herself."

"Try this cigar," said an admirer of Nature, reverently. "Now where did you study that expression of intense surprise that you assume in the second act?"

"From Nature, sir—from Nature To secure that expression I asked an intimate personal friend to lend me five dollars. He refused. This caused me no surprise. I tried several more. Finally I struck one who was willing to oblige me; and, as he handed me the bill, I studied in a glass the expression of my own face. I saw there surprise, but it was not what I wanted It was alloyed with suspicion that the bill might be a bad one. I was in despair."

"Well?" said the other, breathlessly.

"Then an idea struck me. I resolved upon a desperate course. I returned the five dollars to my friend the next day, and on his astounded countenance I saw the expression I was in search of. Make it very light this time."

Of the tailor it might be said that it takes nine of him to make a man it needs only one to break a man.

WHY?

I wonder why I never get an answer to my "ad"?
I haven't had one single one—it really is too bad.
Without a girl I can't go out, but still must stay indoors,
To cook and sweep and do besides all of the other chores.
I don't believe that servant girls read newspapers at all;
For six times I've inserted this—I yet have one to call:

WANTED—A girl to do housework in small family. Must not be good-looking. Liberal wages.
MRS. NEWBRIDE, 210 X Ave.

And why is it Jack laughs at this and says: "I'll tell you flat, Whirld Wants work wonders, but they'll bring no girl to answer that!"

OR DEAD ONES.

Bustler.—How's that suburban cemetery scheme of yours doing?

Hustler.—First-class! All I want now is to get a few live men in it.

A CHANGE.

Starveling.—We've got a French cook at our boarding house.

Dumpling.—Notice any difference.

Starveling.—Yes, the hash is served as soup.

WHAT HE MISSED.

Drummer.—Could I show you a few goods, Mr. Rosenbaum?

Rosenbaum.—Py heavens! You missed a pig order py nod gedding here a liddle sooner. I shust dis minute failed!

DIPLOMAS WILL DIVEST P. H. S. OF SOME STERLING TALENT IN ALL SPORT BRANCHES

The graduating class that completes its course in Plainfield High School this year, takes with it the largest per cent. of athletic material that has ever left that institution with one class. Every branch of athletics promoted in the school is represented by some of the seniors. Basketball, baseball, football, tennis and track are included.

With the help of these seniors the local institution has been able to clean up two city championsips in basketball and baseball, one county championship in baseball, and the Central New Jersey interscholastic title in track and field athletics. Such a record has never been attained before during any one year of school activities. This year is the first time that Plainfield has beaten Rahway and captured the county baseball championship. It is also the first time that the track team has amounted to anything. However, under the excellent coaching of Jack Fritts, this team has for the first time brought a Central New Jersey title to this city.

The basketball team, which won the interscholastic championship for the first time in two years, will be the heaviest loser. Five out of the seven men will leave school this term, leaving Captain-elect Wheelan and Sheldon Coudray, a substitute, as the nucleus for next year's squad. The five men who leave are Rosenson and Captain McNamee, forwards; Chamberlain, centre, and Ryder and Peacock, guards. This team played together all last season without a change in the lineup and won twenty-one out of twenty-eight games.

The team that will feel the loss most next to the basketball team is the football squad. With the loss of Captain Peacock, who has played for four years, Benny Rosenson and Ralph Greene, the High School will have to get three sterling backfield men. Thare Smith, the star end, who helped win many games, has left school to go into business, and his side partner, Chamberlain, will graduate this year.

A small, but very important part of the baseball squad will be absent from next year's games. Denny and Brick, who have pitched their team to a city and county championship, will both graduate. Captain Rosenson and William Peacock, who hold the positions of shortstop and catcher respectively, will also get sheepskins.

Although this is the first year that the track team has amounted to anything, Peacock has earned several honors in the short dashes, while Chamberlain has won laurels in the weight throws.

However, with this heavy loss of material, Coach Ralph S. Patch is far from disheartened. For basketball he has Wheelan and Coudray from last year and a squad of ten second team men from which to choose. The most likely men are Noonan, Mills, Dunham, Herbert Peacock and Chester Alpaugh.

There is a very substantial rumor about that some new "stuff" will enter the school next year and compete in the athletic events. Voorhees, Leal's star pitcher, and Leonard Lewis will probably come out for baseball, and Stevenson, the baby giant of Leal's, is going to try for a backfield position on the football squad. With this material and that already on hand, a little coaching ought to round things into fine shape.

FINAL CONTEST FOR BOROUGH SCHOOLBOYS

"Oldtime" Ballists to Oppose North Plainfield on Hyde Oval Tomorrow.

The final game of the season for the North Plainfield High School baseball team will be played on Hyde Oval, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, when the Alumni nine will oppose the schoolboys for the second time this year. The maroon and black team will play behind Oscar Dilts, who will pitch, and George Townley, who has recently returned from Springfield Training School, where he was a member of the pitching squad, will oppose him.

Practically the same graduates that formed the team two weeks ago will play again, but "Hub" Stine will be among the missing. Carlton Smith will probably do the backstop work.

The teams will lineup as follows:

N. P. H. S.	Alumni
Townley, 3b	Taylor, 3b
VanMater, rf	Burner, 2b
VanDeventer, cf	Smith, c
Dilts, p	F. Dunning, 1b
Hebert, lf	Townley, p
Conroy, 2b	Bowden, ss
Dawe, ss	Spencer, rf
Smalley, c	Newkirk, cf
Meade, 1b	W. Dunning, lf

BAPTIST TEAMS TO PLAY.

The First Baptist and Park Avenue Baptist baseball teams are due to have a hot fight on Crescent Oval, tomorrow afternoon. This will be the first meeting of these two teams and both have good records so far. Patterson and Compton will probably be in the points for the Front street aggregation, while VanZandt or Bowlby will pitch for the Parks and will be received by Moulton.

HOPE TO PLAY "TABS."

The Clinton avenue baseball grounds, the home of the Hope Chapel team, will be the scene of a good game tomorrow afternoon, when the Hope Chapel and T. A. B. aggregations hook up in their first game. Schott will probably be back in the game for the Chapelites.

ELKS' BOWLING TONIGHT.

Four matches will be rolled in the Elks' two-man tourney tonight. The following teams are scheduled to get into action: Townley-Swalm vs. Laing-Weiss, Laing-Weiss vs. Stout-Banks; Stout-Banks vs. Blatz-Firstbrook, and Blatz-Firstbrook vs. Townley-Swalm.

APGAR P. H. S. CAPTAIN.

At a meeting in the Plainfield High School, Wednesday afternoon, Roy Apgar was elected baseball captain for the 1916 season.

WESTFIELD TENNIS.

A mixed doubles tennis tournament will be the feature of the Westfield Golf Club, tomorrow afternoon.

That funny fellow Scoop is on the classified page.

N. P. H. S. TO LOSE TRIO OF ATHLETES

Ralph Smalley, Duclos VanMater and Harold Meade to Be Graduated.

Tomorrow's baseball battle between the North Plainfield High School and Alumni teams will probably be the last game for several of the High School players under the school name. Three are due to be graduated from school two weeks from last night, but the captain next year will have a good squad with which to form a team. The leader for 1916 will probably be elected some time next week and the managers of all the athletic teams are due to be chosen in the near future.

Captain Ralph Smalley, who has led the team for two years; Duclos VanMater, who has played four years, and Harold Meade, the new first baseman, will be among the missing when the call is made next spring. All of these players will be greatly missed and Smalley's graduation will leave the backstop position, which is always a hard one to fill, open. Meade, who came here from Philadelphia, has been a great help to the borough team all season and his ability to "dig 'em out of the dirt" has saved the infielders many errors during the various games. VanMater has been a good hitter and steady outfielder this year and he will be missed in right garden. The borough team's infield played good ball all this year and with only one man going out the prospects for a good team next year are good.

Warren Townley, who plays third base, and Oscar Dilts, who has covered the shortfield position and pitched, are the likely candidates for the captaincy and either one will make a fine leader.

"Duke" VanMater will also be missed on the basketball court, as he has been a member of the team for several years. Smalley and Meade never entered any line of sport but the national pastime.

LEAL BASEBALL CAPTAIN MAY ENTER HIGH SCHOOL

Rumors to the effect that Roy Voorhees, star pitcher and captain-elect of the Leal School baseball team, will enter Plainfield High School in the fall, have been passed around and if he should take this step Plainfield's baseball stock would probably take a big leap. Voorhees is one of the best scholastic pitchers in this vicinity and with the support of the red and blue team could undoubtedly make a fine showing.

Both of Plainfield's pitchers are to be graduated this month, which will mean the breaking in of new twirlers next spring and Voorhees will be welcomed into the Ninth street institution. He was graduated from the private school today, but it was said he intended taking a post-graduate course next year.

The Causbrook-McVoy team, of the Elks' Bowling League, tightened its hold on first place last night by winning all the games played. The average of this team is now .800, with twelve wins and three defeats. The Zink-Nash, Jr., combination was the victim of the leaders, and all three games were won by large margins.

The Blimm-Leonard duo also had a good night, winning five and dropping one. This team took the odd game from the Zink-Nash team and then made a clean sweep over the Banks-Stout pinners. The scores follow:

Causbrook	190	227	183

Coach Nickalls says Yale crews are now in good physical condition. Varsity and freshmen eights work out two and one-half miles.

Tonight at Mannattan Opera House Dr. Roller will meet Aberg in a finish match on the mat.

Gustave F. Touchard, national indoor tennis champion, enters semi-final in New Jersey title meet.

Johnny Dundee and Leach Cross to box ten rounds at Ebbets Field, June 18.

Penn crews worked out two miles.

Syracuse arrives at its new quarters.

Roy Webb qualifies for New Jersey golf title.

Victor Linart, fastest pace follower in Europe, broke record for 2 miles in a workout at Sheepshead Bay Velodrome.

Milburn Saylor, of Indianapolis, to meet Benny Leonard next Wednesday night at the St. Nicholas A. C. Saylor's first appearance in a New York ring.

Agnes Patch, daughter of Dan Patch, is victor in $3,000 purse for three-year-old pacers at Exposition track.

ROD AND REEL

Good reports of weakfish are coming in from the Raunt and Canarsie. Despite the bad weather and rough water of the forepart of the week, good catches were made off Sehy's place. Shrimp is the favorite bait on Long Island, while shedder crab and tapeworms are the favorites on this side of the big bay.

Word from Octoraro states that the stripers are in, and that all that is needed is a clearing of the water that was discolored by the recent storms.

Big pickerel catches continue to be made. William Morris, of Roselle, and a friend accounted for thirty-seven pickerel that ran from twelve to fourteen inches, yesterday. They also picked up a few bass, but the latter were returned to the water.

The weakfish are surely in Raritan Bay, but the cold water, the weather and the late spawning season have all been against their biting. After we have had a few hot days they will be heard from.

SOME MARKS MADE BY GIRL SWIMMERS

Plainfield High School Class Holds Its Initial Tank Meet.

Feminine swimmers enrolled in the Plainfield High School classes set up some notable records in the first annual aquatic meet held in the school tank under the direction of the instructor, Miss Bessie Ralston, yesterday afternoon. Individual excellence was exhibited by Miss M. Taylor, who captured the trophy emblematic of the largest point score. The Freshman class captured the class cup.

Miss Lottie Mendell proved the individual surprise of the meet, the fact that she is a beginner in the art of self-navigation in the water, making her performances particularly creditable. She came in second in the half-mile and fifty-yard dash, and took part in the class relay:

The results:

Half-mile—First, M. Taylor; second, L. Mendell; third, W. Stringham; time, 21 minutes, 5 seconds.

50-yard dash—First, M. Taylor; second, L. Mendell; third, R. Fuller; time, 4 seconds.

100-yard dash—First, R. Fuller; second, E. Stevens; time, 3 minutes 15 seconds.

20-yard dash (for beginners)—First, L. Ball; second, M. Stout; third, C. Bremble; time, 20 seconds.

220-yard dash—First, R. Enander; second, A. Franke; third, D. Thiers; time, 5 minutes, 26 seconds.

Plunge for distance—First, M. Taylor; second F. Peacock; third, M. Heritage.

10-yard dash (beginners)—First, L. Ball; second, J. Bremble; third, S. Rothberg; time, 8 seconds.

Dive for form—First, H. Peacock; second, J. Peacock; third, M. Simons.

Relay race—Won by Freshman team, composed of H. Peacock, M. Simons and H. Taylor; second, Sophomore team, composed of L. Ball, J. Peacock and R. Fuller; third, Senior team, composed of E. Stevens, M. Eaton and L. Mendell; time, 1 minute, 30 seconds.

Obstacle race—First, P. Enander; second, M. Simóns; third, D. Thiers; time, 50 seconds.

Points scored for class cup—First, Freshman, 48 points; second, Sophomore, 30 points; third, Senior 15 points; fourth, Junior, 14 points.

Individual points for trophy—First, M. Taylor, 20 points; second, H. Peacock, 15 points; third, L. Ball, 13 points; fourth, J. Peacock, 12 points; fifth, R. Enander, 10 points; sixth, tie between M. Simons and R. Fuller, 9 points; seventh, L. Mendell, 7 points.

N. P. H. S. TENNIS PLAYERS MADE EXCELLENT SHOWING

Playing on the Park Club courts yesterday afternoon, the Rutgers College varsity tennis team defeated the North Plainfield High School racquet swingers by a score of 5-3. Considering the age and experience of their opponents the High School boys put up a good article of tennis. Dunning's playing again featured for the home team, and he carried off the first court choice with two out of three hard-played sets.

The summaries: Conger and Lee, of Rutgers, defeated Dunning and Ball, of North Plainfield, 6-0, 6-1; Chandler and Tomkinson, of North Plainfield, defeated Wells and Richardson, of Rutgers, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5; Dunning, of North Plainfield, defeated Lee, of Rutgers, 3-6, 9-7, 6-4; Wells, of Rutgers, defeated Tomkinson, of North Plainfield, 6-1, 7-5; Richardson, of Rutgers, defeated Chandler, of North Plainfield, 7-5, 6-2; Conger, of Rutgers, defeated French, of North Plainfield, 6-0, 6-3. Point score—Rutgers, doubles 2, singles 3—5; North Plainfield, doubles 2, singles 1—3.

PARIS AS AN ART CENTER.

Its Treasures in the Louvre and Its Gems of Architecture.

In population Paris ranks third among the cities of the earth, with more people than Washington, Mexico City, Rio, Buenos Aires and Santiago together. It is the world's capital in many respects. Its art treasures surpass those of any other city; its fashions dominate the civilized world and even influence the uncivilized; its language is the court tongue of the earth; its history is a panorama of the story of civilization from the days of the Goth and the Vandal down to the present.

In the heart of the city stands one of the world's most noted of buildings—the palace of the Louvre. It is the priceless art museum of France, and there are contained within its three departments—sculpture, paintings and antiquities—examples of the highest expression of human genius. The collections of the Louvre, were they offered for sale, would bring a total price so stupendous as to be unbelievable. For example, in the gallery of Apollo, among other treasures, rest the diamond hilted sword of Bonaparte, valued at $400,000; the famous Regent diamond, valued at $3,000,000; the gems of many a beauteous queen of France, and the swords and spurs of Charlemagne.

A life might be spent in study here, and libraries might be written upon the treasure which the Louvre houses. In the hall of sculpture stands the peerless Venus of Melos, a thing more ravishing than any other vision ever hewn from a stone. In this hall there are many pieces of antiquity and of more modern times, the loss of any one of which would be irreparable. Yet the strange people of this city, fired with enthusiasm for a communistic theory, once mined the Louvre, poured petroleum over it and prepared to destroy with gunpowder what it had taken the world more than 2,500 years to produce.

Paris is overrich in the possession of the beautiful, the impressive and the magnificent. Its famous buildings make an almost unending list. Richest among the world's theaters is the Paris home of opera—without, an architectural delight; within, a fascinating inspiration in snow white marble, onyx, jasper, malachite and bronze. Its famed grand stairway is a fitting prelude to the highest moods that can be produced by the music on its stage.

And there is not wanting a strong element of grewsome and terrifying reminiscence in this glorious city. The traveler stands amid the wide sweep of the Place de la Concorde (Place of Peace), and he thinks that here before an assembled bestial mob the razor blade of the guillotine rose and fell untiring while head after head, mid bitter jest and song, rolled from the gory machine into the great common basket and the quivering trunks were corded at its side. Age and youth and loveliness were sacrificed to brutish passion on this now serene square in a way that only Rome had equaled.

Every contrast is found in Paris and all varieties of excellence. Here is the world's highest structure, the Eiffel tower. This huge shaft of steel is one of the most overpowering things within the city. Forty draftsmen worked two years on the 15,000 different designs necessary for its 15,000 sections. Restaurants, shops and a theater are housed upon its steps and within its corridors. Ten thousand people can gather here at one time.

The best position now open to one of your ability and experience will be secured by a want advertiser.

BISHOP O'CONNOR OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

Head of Catholic Diocese Celebrates Sixtieth Anniversary Today.

Bishop O'Connor, of the Newark Catholic diocese, is observing his sixtieth birthday today. No plans have been made for any special celebration of the event. Priests in this diocese and others will not let the day pass unnoticed, however.

The ecclesiastical duties of Bishop O'Connor began about thirty-eight years ago. He was ordained to the priesthood December 22, 1877, at Louvain, Belgium. Since that time his activities have covered a wide field. He first was professor of philosophy and dogmatic theology at Seton Hall and later was appointed a successor to the late Rev. Dr. William L. Salt, as director of the Seminary of the Immaculate Conception at Seton Hall. This was in 1899 and two years later he was appointed vicar-general of the diocese.

On October 30, 1895, the clergyman left Seton Hall and became rector of St. Joseph's church, Newark, where he remained six years. He was consecrated bishop of Newark, July 25, 1901. A few years afterward he was spoken favorably for the archbishopric of Manila, but was not appointed. Besides his many activities in the church Bishop O'Connor is engaged in newspaper work. In September, 1908, he entered the field of journalism, acquiring the Catholic newspaper, The Monitor. He has controlled its policy since.

Since his consecration Bishop O'Connor has made three trips to Rome to report the condition of the diocese to the Pope. The first was made in January, 1904, the second in April, 1910, when the Pope conferred a signal mark of favor upon him, nominating him to the office of bishop assistant at the pontifical throne, an honor held by only five others in this country. He again visited Rome in April last year.

Bishop O'Connor's early education was obtained in a private school in Newark. Later he went to Seton Hall, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts. Upon leaving that institution he went as a divinity student to the American College in Rome, where he spent four years. The bishop is a native of Newark.

BURGLARIES VS. FIRES.

During the year 1914, there were many more burglaries than fires. It is therefore just as essential to carry Burglary Insurance as it is to carry Fire Insurance.

We received a greater number of burglary claims during 1914 than during any other year in the history of this agency.

If you want the BEST BURGLARY POLICY in the BEST COMPANY—place your business here.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

It only needed warmer weather to convince local people that the Plainfield Airdome is the best place in the city to see moving pictures during the summer season. The crowds have been flocking in every night the past week and the resort at Front street and Watchung avenue is now fully launched upon a successful career. Sitting in the open air amid pleasant surroundings while watching one's favorite actors and actresses enact the silent dramas has tickled the fancies of old and young, while the films provided are easily the superior of all contemporaries.

It requires a visit to the Airdome to realize fully what a wonderful place it is. Manager Shannon has transformed what was once a vacant lot and an eyesore into a commodious auditorium. Comfortable seats are provided for patrons and the surroundings have been beautified by the lavish use of palms, potted plants, Chinese lanterns and general decorative effects. The newsboys of the city and the Boy Scouts were the guests of Manager Shannon at last night's performance, and the little fellows have been added to the hundreds who have been sounding the praises of Plainfield's newest and most up-to-date amusement institution.

For tonight and tomorrow night, Manager Shannon is offering Mary Pickford in her latest and greatest success, "Mistress Nell," in which Miss Pickford portrays "Nell Gwynn" with all the charming freshness and parvarity that has made her the highest salaried screen artist in the country. In addition to "Mistress Nell" there will be comedy and dramatic pictures of a less number of reels, giving positive assurance of a program that is certain to please every one.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Surrounded by an exceptional strong cast of photo-play favorites, Miss Grace Washburn is offered by the World Film Corporation in Charles K. Harris' original dramatic production, "When It Strikes Home," which will be shown at Proctor's Theatre next Monday, June 14, both afternoon and evening, in addition to the regular program.

The fact that some of the greatest dramatic successes of the day are woven around every-day happenings is emphatically demonstrated in "When It Strikes Home." Mr. Harris, composer of "After the Ball," and other song successes, was standing in his window when in the street many feet below him occurred an incident, trivial enough in itself, that brought him the inspiration for his most successful dramatic effort.

Such is the forcefulness of the production as a dramatic masterpiece, that the Shuberts chose the film as a headline feature of their mammoth photo-play program at the New York Hippodrome. It will be brought to Proctor's Theatre next Monday, at the close of its Hippodrome engagement.

Dumas' masterpiece, "The Clemenceau Case," is the offering at Proctor's Theatre this afternoon and tonight, while the bill for tomorrow promises several hours of delightful and varied diversion. The program will be headed by the five-reel production of "The High Hand," featuring Carlyle Blackwell. This will be supplemented by two reels of absorbing serial, "The Goddess," one reel of Paramount travel pictures, and several other one and two-reel comedies and dramas. Proctor's symphony orchestra changes its musical program at every performance, delighting the ear with fresh selections each day.

TEXT OF WILSON'S NOTE TO GERMANY

The text of the American rejoinder to the German government's reply to the note following the sinking of the Lusitania follows:

"The Secretary of State ad interim to the American Ambassador at Berlin.

"Washington, June 9, 1915.

"Department of State,

"American Ambassador, Berlin:

"You are instructed to deliver textually the following note to the Minister of Foreign Affairs:

"In compliance with Your Excellency's request I did not fail to transmit to my government immediately upon their receipt your note of May 28 in reply to my note of May 15, and your supplementary note of June 1, setting forth the conclusions so far as reached by the Imperial German Government concerning the attacks on the American steamers Cushing and Gulflight. I am now instructed by my government to communicate the following in reply:

"The government of the United State notes with gratification the full recognition by the Imperial German Government, in discussing the case of the Cushing and the Gulflight, of the principle of the freedom of all parts of the open sea to neutral ships and the frank willingness of the Imperial German Government to acknowledge and meet its liability where the fact of attack upon neutral ships which have not been guilty of any hostile act by German air craft or vessels of war is satisfactorily established, and the government of the United States will in due course lay before the Imperial German Government, as it requests, full information concerning the attack on the steamer Cushing.

"With regard to the sinking of the steamer Falaba, by which an American citizen lost his life, the government of the United States is surprised to find the Imperial German Government contending that an effort on the part of a merchantman to escape capture and secure assistance alters the obligation of the officer seeking to make the capture in respect of the safety of the lives of those on board the merchantman, although the vessel has ceased her attempt to escape when torpedoed.

"These are not new circumstances. They have been in the minds of statesmen and of international jurists throughout the development of naval warfare, and the government of the United States does not understand that they have ever been held to alter the principles of humanity upon which it has insisted. Nothing but actual forcible resistance or continued efforts to escape by flight when ordered to stop for the purpose of visit on the part of the merchantman has ever been held to forfeit the lives of her passengers or crew.

"The government of the United States, however, does not understand that the Imperial German Government is seeking in this case to relieve itself of liability, but only intends to set forth the circumstances which led the commander of the submarine to allow himself to be hurried into the course which he took.

"Your Excellency's note, in discussing the loss of American lives resulting from the sinking of the steamship Lusitania, adverts at some length to certain information which the Imperial German Government has received with regard to the character and outfit of that vessel, and Your Excellency expresses the fear that this information may not have been brought to the attention of the United States. It is stated that the Lusitania was undoubtedly equipped with masked guns, supplied with trained gunners and special ammunition, transporting troops from Canada, carrying a cargo not permitted under the laws of the United States to a vessel also carrying passengers, and serving in virtual effect as an auxiliary to the naval forces of Great Britain.

"Fortunately these are matters concerning which the government of the United States is in a position to give the Imperial German Government official information. Of the facts alleged in Your Excellency's note, if true, the government of the United States would have been bound to take official cognizance in performing its recognized duty as a neutral power and in enforcing its national laws.

"It was its duty to see to it that the Lusitania was not armed for offensive action; that she was not serving as a transport; that she did not carry a cargo prohibited by the statutes of the United States, and that, if in fact she was a naval vessel of Great Britain she should not receive clearance as a merchantman; and it performed that duty and enforced its statutes with scrupulous vigilance through its regularly constituted officials.

"It is able, therefore, to assure the Imperial German Government that it has been misinformed. If the Imperial Government should deem itself to be in possession of convincing evidence that the officials of the United States did not perform these duties with thoroughness the government of the United States sincerely hopes that it will submit that evidence for consideration.

"Whatever may be the contentions of the Imperial German Government regarding the carriage of contraband of war on board the Lusitania or regarding the explosion of that material by the torpedo, it need only be said that in the view of this government these contentions are irrelevant to the question of the legality of the methods used by the German naval authorities in sinking the vessel.

"But the sinking of passenger ships involves principles of humanity which throw into the background any special circumstances of detail that may be thought to affect the cases, principles which lift it, as the Imperial German government will no doubt be quick to recognize and acknowledge, out of the class of ordinary subjects of diplomatic discussion or of international controversy.

"Whatever be the other facts regarding the Lusitania, the principal fact is that a great steamer, primarily and chiefly a conveyance for passengers, and carrying more than a thousand souls who had no part or lot in the conduct of the war, was torpedoed and sunk without so much as a challenge or a warning, and that men, women and children were sent to their death in circumstances unparalleled in modern warfare.

"The fact that more than one hundred American citizens were among those who perished made it the duty of the government of the United States to speak of these things, and once more, with solemn emphasis, to call the attention of the Imperial German Government to the grave responsibility which the government of the United States conceives that it has incurred in this tragic occurrence, and to the indisputable principle upon which that responsibility rests.

"The government of the United States is contending for something much greater than mere rights of property or privileges of commerce. It is contending for nothing less high and sacred than the rights of humanity, which every government honors itself in respecting and which no government is justified in resigning on behalf of those under its care and authority.

"Only her actual resistance to capture or refusal to stop when ordered to do so for the purpose of visit could have afforded the commander of the submarine any justification for so much as putting the lives of those on board the ship in jeopardy.

"This principle the government of the United States understands the explicit instructions issued on August 3, 1914, by the Imperial German Admiralty to its commanders at sea to have recognized and embodied, as do the naval codes of all other nations, and upon it every traveller and sea man had a right to depend. It is upon this principle of humanity, as well as upon the law founded upon this principle, that the United States must stand.

"The government of the United States is happy to observe that Your Excellency's note closes with the intimation that the Imperial German Government is willing now, as before, to accept the good offices of the United States in an attempt to come to an understanding with the Government of Great Britain by which the character and conditions of war upon the sea may be changed.

"The government of the United States would consider it a privilege thus to serve its friends and the world. It stands ready at any time to convey to either government any intimation or suggestion the other may be willing to have it convey, and cordially invites the Imperial German Government to make use of its services in this way at its convenience. The whole world is concerned in anything that may bring about even a partial accommodation of interests or in any way mitigate the terrors of the present distressing conflict.

"In the meantime, whatever arrangement may happily be made between the parties to the war, and whatever may in the opinion of the Imperial German Government have been the provocation or the circumstantial justification for the past acts of its commanders at sea, the government of the United State confidently looks to see the justice and humanity of the government of Germany vindicated in all cases where Americans have been wronged or their rights as neutrals invaded.

"The government of the United States therefore very earnestly and very solemnly renews the representations of its note transmitted to the Imperial German Government on the 15th of May, and relies in these representations upon the principles of humanity, the universally recognized understandings of international law, and the ancient friendship of the German nation.

"The government of the United State cannot admit that the proclamation of a war zone from which neutral ships have been warned to keep away may be made to operate as in any degree an abbreviation of the rights either of American shipmasters or of American citizens bound on lawful errands as passengers on merchant ships of belligerent nationality. It does not understand the Imperial German Government to question those rights. It understands it, also, to accept as established beyond question, the principle that the lives of non-combatants cannot lawfully or rightfully be put in jeopardy by the capture or destruction of an unresisiting merchantman, and to recognize the obligation to take sufficient precaution to ascertain whether a suspected merchantman is of fact of belligerent nationality or is of fact carrying contraband of war under a neutral flag. The government of the United States deems it reasonable to expect that the Imperial German Government will adopt the measures necessary to put these principles into practice in respect of the safeguarding of American lives, and asks for assurances that this will be done.

PENROD

Copyright, 1914, by Doubleday, Page & Company

"But where was your father?" she cried.

"Ma'am?"

"Where was your father while"—

"Oh, papa?" Penrod paused, reflected, then brightened. "Why, he was down at the train waitin' to see if Uncle John would try to follow 'em and make 'em come home so's he could persecute 'em some more. I wanted to do that, but they said if he did come I mightn't be strong enough to hold him, and"— The brave lad paused again modestly. Miss Spence's expression was encouraging. Her eyes were wide with astonishment, and there may have been in them also the mingled beginnings of admiration and self reproach. Penrod, warming to his work, felt safer every moment.

"And so," he continued, "I had to sit up with Aunt Clara. She had some pretty big bruises, too, and I had to"—

"But why didn't they send for a doctor?" However, this question was only a flicker of dying incredulity.

"Oh, they didn't want any doctor!" exclaimed the inspired realist promptly. "They don't want anybody to hear about it, because Uncle John might reform—and then where'd he be if everybody knew he'd been a drunkard and whipped his wife and baby daughter?"

"Oh!" said Miss Spence.

"You see, he used to be upright as anybody," he went on explanatively. "It all begun"—

"Began, Penrod."

"Yes'm. It all commenced from the first day he let those traveling men coax him into the saloon." Penrod narrated the downfall of his Uncle John at length. In detail he was nothing short of plethoric, and incident followed incident, sketched with such vividness, such abundance of color and such verisimilitude to a drunkard's life as a drunkard's life should be, that had Miss Spence possessed the rather chilling attributes of William J. Burns himself the last trace of skepticism must have vanished from her mind. Besides, there are two things that will be believed of any man whatsoever, and one of them is that he has taken to drink. And in every sense it was a moving picture which, with simple but eloquent words, the virtuous Penrod set before his teacher.

His eloquence increased with what it fed on, and as with the eloquence so with self reproach in the gentle bosom of the teacher. She cleared her throat with difficulty once or twice during his description of his ministering night with Aunt Clara. "And I said to her, 'Why, Aunt Clara, what's the use of takin' on so about it?' And I said, 'Now, Aunt Clara, all the crying in the world can't make things any better.' And then she'd just keep catchin' hold of me and sob and kind of holler, and I'd say: 'Don't cry, Aunt Clara. Please don't cry!'"

Then, under the influence of some fragmentary survivals of the respectable portion of his Sunday adventures, his theme became more exalted, and, only partially misquoting a phrase from a psalm, he related how he had made it of comfort to Aunt Clara and how he had besought her to seek higher guidance in her trouble.

The surprising thing about a structure such as Penrod was erecting is that the taller it becomes the more ornamentation it will stand. Gifted boys have this faculty of building magnificence upon cobwebs—and Penrod was gifted. Under the spell of his really great performance, Miss Spence gazed more and more sweetly upon the prodigy of spiritual beauty and goodness before her, until at last, when Penrod came to the explanation of his "just thinking," she was forced to turn her head away.

"You mean, dear," she said gently, "that you were all worn out and hardly knew what you were saying?"

"Yes'm."

"And you were thinking about all those dreadful things so hard that you forgot where you were?"

"I was thinking," he said simply, "how to save Uncle John."

And the end of it for this mighty boy was that the teacher kissed him!

CHAPTER VII.

Fidelity of a Little Dog.

THE returning students that afternoon observed that Penrod's desk was vacant, and nothing could have been more impressive than that sinister mere emptiness. The accepted theory was that Penrod had been arrested. How breath taking then the sensation when at the beginning of the second hour he strolled in with inimitable carelessness and, rubbing his eyes, somewhat noticeably in the manner of one who has snatched an hour of much needed sleep, took his place as if nothing in particular had happened. This at first supposed to be a superhuman exhibition of sheer audacity, became but the more dumfounding when Miss Spence, looking from her desk, greeted him with a pleasant little nod. Even after school Penrod gave numerous maddened investigators no relief. All he would consent to say was:

"Oh, I just talked to her."

A mystification not entirely unconnected with the one thus produced was manifested at his own family dinner table the following evening. Aunt Clara had been out rather late and came to the table after the rest were seated. She wore a puzzled expression.

"Do you ever see Mary Spence nowadays?" she inquired, as she unfolded her napkin, addressing Mrs. Schofield. Penrod abruptly set down his soup spoon and gazed at his aunt with flattering attention.

"Yes, sometimes," said Mrs. Schofield. "She's Penrod's teacher."

"Is she?" said Mrs. Farry. "Do you"— She paused. "Do people think her a little—queer these days?"

"Why, no!" returned her sister. "What makes you say that?"

"She has acquired a very odd manner," said Mrs. Farry decidedly. "At least, she seemed odd to me. I met her at the corner just before I got to the house a few minutes ago, and after we'd said howdy do to each other she kept hold of my hand and looked as though she was going to cry. She seemed to be trying to say something and choking"—

"But I don't think that's so very queer, Clara. She knew you in school, didn't she?"

"Yes, but"—

"And she hadn't seen you for so many years I think it's perfectly natural she"—

"Wait! She stood there squeezing my hand and struggling to get her voice, and I got really embarrassed, and then finally she said in a kind of tearful whisper: 'Be of good cheer. This trial will pass.'"

"How queer!" exclaimed Margaret.

Penrod sighed and returned somewhat absently to his soup.

"Well, I don't know," said Mrs. Schofield thoughtfully. "Of course she's heard about the outbreak of measles in Dayton, since they had to close the schools, and she knows you live there"—

"But doesn't it seem a very exaggerated way," suggested Margaret, "to talk about measles?"

"Wait!" begged Aunt Clara. "After she said that she said something even queerer and then put her handkerchief to her eyes and hurried away."

Penrod laid down his spoon again and moved his chair slightly back from the table. A spirit of prophecy was upon him. He knew that some one was going to ask a question which he felt might better remain unspoken.

"What was the other thing she said?" Mr. Schofield inquired, thus immediately fulfilling his son's premonition.

"She said," returned Mrs. Farry slowly, looking about the table; "she said, 'I know that Penrod is a great, great comfort to you.'"

There was a general exclamation of surprise. It was a singular thing, and in no manner may it be considered complimentary to Penrod that this speech of Miss Spence's should have immediately confirmed Mrs. Farry's doubts about her in the minds of all his family.

Mr. Schofield shook his head pityingly.

"I'm afraid she's a goner," he went so far as to say.

"Of all the weird ideas!" cried Margaret.

"I never heard anything like it in my life!" Mrs. Schofield exclaimed. "Was that all she said?"

"Every word!"

Penrod again resumed attention to his soup. His mother looked at him curiously, and then, struck by a sudden thought, gathered the glances of the adults of the table by a significant movement of the head, and, by another, conveyed an admonition to drop the subject until later. Miss Spence was Penrod's teacher. It was better, for many reasons, not to discuss the subject of her queerness before him. This was Mrs. Schofield's thought at the time. Later she had another, and it kept her awake.

The next afternoon Mr. Schofield, returning at 5 o'clock from the cares of the day, found the house deserted and sat down to read his evening paper in what appeared to be an uninhabited apartment known to its own world as the "drawing room." A sneeze, unexpected both to him and the owner, informed him of the presence of another person.

"Where are you, Penrod?" the parent asked, looking about.

"Here," said Penrod meekly.

sy, the Sioux City Squealer; or, 'Not Guilty, Your Honor.'"

In this manner the reading club continued in peace, absorbed, contented, the world well forgot—until a sudden, violently irritated slam bang of the front door startled the members, and Mrs. Schofield burst into the room and threw herself into a chair moaning.

"What's the matter, mamma?" asked her husband, laying aside his paper.

"Henry Passloe Schofield," returned the lady, "I don't know what is to be done with that boy; I do not!"

"You mean Penrod?"

"Who else could I mean?" She sat up, exasperated, to stare at him. "Henry Passloe Schofield, you've got to take this matter in your hands. It's beyond me!"

"Wait! She stood there squeezing my hand and struggling to get her voice.

Stooping, Mr. Schofield discovered his son squatting under the piano, near an open window—his wistful Duke lying beside him.

"What are you doing there?"

"Me?"

"Why under the piano?"

"Well," the boy returned with grave sweetness, "I was just kind of sitting here—thinking."

"All right." Mr. Schofield, rather touched, returned to the digestion of a murder, his back once more to the piano, and Penrod silently drew from beneath his jacket (where he had slipped it simultaneously with the sneeze) a paper backed volume entitled, "Slim-

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Story of The Talkative Fairy.

"TONIGHT I will tell you kiddies about the talkative fairy," said daddy.

"These fairies are nice little folk to tell about. They are little creatures of the imagination, which, you know, is the mind's brush that paints funny little moving pictures. While I tell a story you kiddies are thinking of little pictures of what I tell you. And that is imagination.

"The fairies have always existed in people's imagination, I think. As you know, there are stories about good fairies and tales about bad fairies. This is about the talkative fairy who belonged to the good fairies, but was rather a nuisance even so.

"For you see that fairy always talked too much. She just naturally couldn't keep still. She bothered all the other fairies so they couldn't pay attention to their duties, and they grew so tired of it.

"These fairies all lived together in a dell. You know a dell is always the favorite home of fairies. Mr. Shakespeare, who wrote plays, always had his fairies live in dells, and so do the poets.

"This dell was a lovely place. It was carpeted with rich green grass and surrounded by rolling hills. Trees grew around it, and the air was very fresh, and a delightful breeze used to blow over it, and the fairies enjoyed life there.

"They used to love to gather in the dell on moonlit nights and dance to the music of fairy bells which a fairy orchestra used to ring for them. They would fold their little wings close to their shoulders and take each other's little hands and dance and dance around while the bells made sweet music for them. And I am sure human beings would have been delighted if they could have seen them, but you know human beings can't see fairies.

"But the talkative fairy used to spoil their fun. I have forgotten her name, but it doesn't matter anyway. This fairy never used to be able to talk enough to satisfy herself, and she talked too much to satisfy anybody else.

"When the other fairies came out to dance the talkative fairy would be there, and she would talk and talk and talk, and she talked so loud and so long that her voice would drown the music of the bells so that the other fairies would have to stop dancing, and they were greatly provoked with her.

"So one night they just chased after this talkative fairy and made her go away and told her not to come back to the dell any more.

"Nor did she. And what do you suppose she is doing now? Why, she's so angry to think that she can't go back to the dell that she is flying around whispering to little children to talk when they shouldn't!"

Household Hints

APPETIZING MEXICAN DISHES

Mexican Rice—Slice three good-sized onions and three small green peppers. Fry in olive oil. Take half cup rice, boil till nearly done, drain and add to frying onions and peppers till onions are cooked, then add a little water and simmer till the grains are cooked dry and whole.

Mexican Rice With Peanuts—Rice cooked as for a pudding, with a cup of chopped peanuts to a cup of the rice (measured before cooking); add sugar to taste, and one egg. Ground peanuts spread over the top with a little sugar or a meringue, may be used.

Mexican Beans—One good-sized onion, one tomato, one "tooth" of garlic if agreeable to taste; fry together and add to boiling water of beans, as well as a piece of corn shuck. This gives the real Mexican bean taste so celebrated.

SPRING CLEANING HINTS

To Wash Lace Curtains—Try this plan and you will find that your curtains will last much longer. Shake out the dust and fold the curtains evenly, from four to eight times, according to size. Now wet them, wash, boil and rinse, always keeping them folded until they are ready for the stretching frame. When they are washed in this way, none of the fine threads will give way.

To Clean Enameled and Painted Surfaces—All such places, like on the doors near the knobs, that have been soiled from the hands or other causes can be easily cleaned by a cloth dampened with turpentine and gently rubbing until the dirt disappears. Then use moderately warm water in which a small portion of borax has been dissolved. Have ready a dish of finely ground Spanish whiting and after dampening your cloth in the borax water, dip it well into the dry whiting and go over the work carefully. After you have gone over the paint in this way, allow the whiting to dry, and then with clear water and a clean cloth, wipe all the work carefully, removing the whiting. Cleaned in this way, white enamel or paint will preserve its original appearance for a long time.

Excellent Wallpaper Cleaner — Use two cups of flour, one cup salt, one cup cold water, one teaspoon kerosene oil. Mix and cook until transparent, then knead into a ball and when cool use as any wallpaper cleaner.

Cleaning Brass—To clean brass bedsteads, dampen a cloth with ammonia, rub briskly over a piece of pumice soap and then over the brass. Very little rubbing is required.

To Clean Bedsprings—Use a dish mop dampened with kerosene.

To Clean Gilt Frames—Sponge with oil of turpentine or spirits of wine, leave the frames to dry, but do not wipe them.

To Clean Piano Keys—Moisten a cloth with lemon juice and dip in silver whiting.

To Clean Highly Polished Woods—To preserve the polish on pianos or any pieces of highly finished furniture, there is nothing better than raw linseed oil, one-half pint; pure cider vinegar, one-half pint. Put this into a bottle and shake until it becomes creamy. Dampen a piece of cheese cloth with this preparation and go over the article to be cleansed, then with a dry soft cloth rub the piece of furniture until it is dry and shines. This will not only clean your furniture, but will preserve its new appearance. This is fine for leather furniture, polished floors, staircases, grained work and so forth. By corking the bottle and keeping in a cool place this preparation will keep for any length of time.

TOP COAT FEATURES

Black and white checks are shown for top coats. Many of these coats are cut double breasted. A turnover collar is shown that is high at the back and rolling in front. The dark bone buttons are the only ornamentation of many of these coats.

FISH PATTIES

Salmon, lobster or crab, either fresh or canned, may be used. To each cup of the flaked fish add one dill pickle chopped fine, one slice of minced green pepper and the yolk of a hard boiled egg mashed fine. Mix thoroughly with mayonnaise dressing. Fill the patties with this mixture, add a spoonful of the dressing on the top and three small stuffed olives.

APPLE BISCUIT

When making bread take out one pint of the sponge after it has become light, add two tablespoonfuls of molasses, one tablespoon of lard, melted, and sufficient graham flour to make a soft dough. Beat thoroughly, then add one cup of chopped apple. Shape into biscuit, place in patty pans and let rise very light before baking.

RADIATOR BRUSHES

The new radiator brushes, which are only about an inch wide, are slightly curved, and have soft horsehair bristles of graduated length. Not a speck of dust can hide from these handy cleaners, says the New York Times, for they fit every crack and crevice between the radiator pipes.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Well, I think the perturbed spirit of Mrs. Ellson is calm at last," said Olive one dull autumn day, as she came in with the mail. "It's ten days since I dared fate by going with you to the Scotts in the doctor's auto. I have been looking for some more of her literary efforts for five days."

"Hope deferred maketh the heart sick," laughed Nell, "but do not be discouraged. She may be slow, but you are tolerably sure to hear from her in some way. I've had a rather intimate acquaintance with her."

There was no reply. Olive had opened a letter from home and was busily reading it. Suddenly she sprang to her feet, her whole face ablaze with anger.

"I wish I had her here," she exploded.

"What is it?" asked Nell, her eyes wide with wonder.

Olive threw the letter to her and began pacing up and down the room. Inside the home letter was a typewritten sheet. Nell opened it and read:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Dunn: We are utter strangers and only a sense of duty is responsible for my intruding upon you. I am a resident of Fairport and so know of your daughter's visit, through the paper, though I have never met the fine, upstanding young goddess, and probably never shall. My morals are not sufficiently lax to permit me to belong to 'society' in Fairport.

"Are you aware that your daughter is receiving the attentions of a young doctor of about thirty who was divorced by his wife this fall? She had endured his infidelity for seven years, vainly hoping to reform him. The Mortons here are great admirers of this Don Juan and will believe nothing against him. Of course your daughter takes their opinion, being a stranger to the facts.

"I thought you should know and offer that as an apology for this letter. Naturally I cannot sign my name. An Interested Observer."

A note from Olive's father accompanied this effusion; it was very short:

"Dear Girlie: I am sending this remarkable composition to you as I make nothing out of it, not being in possession of the cipher code.

"I have been thinking for days that we could not spare you any longer and my amiable correspondent's revelations have not changed my mind. Come home and explain the situation. Lovingly, Dad."

As Nell finished reading, Olive stopped in front of her, her whole figure vibrant with anger. Nell watched the vivid face on which strong emotion was written, while she said:

"Wasn't there a girl about your height who was hungering for experience, something unconventional?"

Olive laughed in spite of her anger.

"That's a fact. I ought to be enjoying this, but I didn't bargain to have Daddy worried. I can't forgive her for that."

"Alas, dear," said Nell, "no one can have experiences alone; we drag those we love into all our joys and sorrows."

"Don't be instructive, Nell. I can't manage two teachers at once. At present I am learning from experience. Well, I must go and pack my trunk."

"Oh, must you go?" There was real trouble in Nell's voice.

"I've been here over a month now. It needed a jolt to jar me home, I guess." She gave Nell a flying kiss and raced up the stairs.

DON'T BUY "JUST GAS"

STANDARD Motor Gasoline is so much better than "just gas" that it is worth while to be particular when you are having your tank filled.

"Just gas" makes trouble in the form of constant carburetor adjustments necessitated by varying grades of fuel. "Just gas" makes further trouble in the form of cylinder carbon. Much of the carbon trouble that comes to the repair man is caused by the use of an inferior and varying gasoline.

Standard Motor Gasoline is a straight-distilled, homogeneous product—every drop like every other drop. It is absolutely uniform wherever you buy it, and it is cheaper because there are more miles in a gallon.

Use Polarine, the Standard Oil for Motors. Obtainable wherever you see the "Standard Motor Gasoline Service Station" sign.

Library Notes.

Furnished by the Directors of Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room.

Published Every Friday.

"A Russian Comedy of Errors," by George Kennan. Mr. Kennan has collected into a volume a number of stories and sketches of Russian experiences of his own and of friends, most of which have appeared from time to time in various magazines. Every one who has read one of these stories will be glad to have them in permanent form, as they are unusually well told and interesting.

There are ten of them and they run the scale from the comic to the tragic, and from plain recital of facts to strange allegorical legends believed by the peasants. There is one story that tells how Thomas Baily Aldrich made a last trip to Russia. He was accompanied by his wife, but had only one passport, and in this Mrs. Aldrich was not mentioned. In some unaccountable way they managed to get across the frontier but after that were simply deluged with suspicions, and official accusations and apologies until they were glad to escape.

Another story is one which was sent to Mr. Kennan by a Siberian exile, with whom he had previously been acquainted. It was impossible for him to write directly, and the communications came hidden between two folds of tent lining, which had of course, been searched by the authorities before Mr. Kennan was allowed to receive it.

Just now when Russia is possibly finding a new birth through war, these sketches are particularly interesting, and perhaps depict a Russia which will never be seen again.

Two unusual stories, the scenes of both of which are laid in New York city, have recently been published and have some curious points of superficial likeness. The heroes of both of them belong to poor families and in their youth see the impoverished side of life.

"The Harbor," by Ernest Poole. This is the author's first book and has run through three editions. To choose New York Harbor as the subject of a novel is to attempt an ambitious piece of work, but Mr. Poole appears to have made a success of it, for this first book of his has been considered by a number of critics as one of the best novels that has appeared in a long time. It is earnest, sincere and well placed, and has none of the crudities of the usual first novel. The hero is born on Brooklyn Heights, overlooking the Harbor, and his first impressions and first adventures are all concerned with it. He goes away for a while to study in Paris but returns to New York to take up writing as a livelihood, and then the Harbor which he once regarded as sordid and ugly, furnishes the scenes of many of his most powerful stories, and he becomes thrilled with its power and beauty, and the romance and wonder of modern commerce.

"Blue Blood and Red," by Geoffrey Corson. This book has its scene laid in Staten Island, and pictures a New York that many thousands of New Yorkers do not know much about, although they have only to cross the ferry to find social conditions and characters so widely different from the rest of the city that they might belong to a distant State. Still, interesting as the book may be as a portrayal of a locality, it is of more consequence as a chronicle of human life. Some of its characters, particularly the old sailor living out the remainder of his days in a certain "Mariners' Rest," easily identified as Sailors' Snug Harbor, is particularly well drawn. The reader's chief interest though, must centre round the hero and heroine, one of them belonging to the old aristocracy whose blood has thinned as its fortunes have diminished, and the other belonging to a truly plebian family but destined to rise.

All children should meet and learn to know these people:

Aeneas the Wanderer
Aladdin of the Lamp
Alexander the Great
Alfred the Founder
Apollo the Charioteer
Arthur of the Round Table
Bruce the Undismayed
Cadmus the Alphabet Maker

Shakespeare the Poet
Sindbad the Sailor
Stephenson the Engineer
Tell the Fearless
Thor the Thunderer
Ulysses the Rover
Washington the Leader
Wellington of Waterloo
William the Conqueror
Xerxes the Great Persian

There are books in the library which tell all about these people. If your children, or perhaps yourselves, do not know about any of them, you can have them made real to you by reading about their lives, and the stories of their lives will help you too.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

The introduction in the Council of the ordinance for licensing newsboys has given rise to so much misunderstanding that it is best, perhaps, to put in print some of the fundamental facts on which the ordinance is based.

The attendance officer of the Board of Education is doing her work thoroughly, as she always has, and the school authorities are not asking new duties. They are simply asking the ordinance as an aid to carrying out duties already thrust upon them by State law. In the recent codification of the labor law and the compulsory attendance law the Legislature laid upon the school authorities practically all the duties prescribed by the proposed ordinance.

It is now a law that no child under sixteen shall sell papers after 7 o'clock at night or before 6 o'clock in the morning; also, between 6 in the morning and 7 in the evening, no child under sixteen can sell papers without first having obtained a license from the school authorities. Any child who sells papers contrary to these conditions is liable to arrest, and any newsdealer who employs children under sixteen without a license from the School Board in the form of an age and working certificate issued by the Board and approved by the State Commissioner of Labor, is liable to arrest and a fine of $50. The passage of the ordinance, therefore, does not create these conditions, nor does it bestow on the Board the power to regulate the selling of newspapers by children. These things have already been imposed on the school authorities by the Legislature, and even if the ordinance is not passed, the School Board is compelled to assume these duties.

The purpose of the ordinance is to help the school authorities to fulfil the duties required of them by the law as effectively as may be and with as little friction as possible. If badges are worn by those who have certificates, it is at once apparent, without any question, that the boy is selling papers legally. Therefore the wearer of a badge needs never to be questioned, and the employers of such boys need not be worried by attendance officer or police. If no badge is required, then every boy with newspapers is subject to be overhauled at any time to see whether he has the proper certificate, and employers must be interviewed at regular intervals to see whether they are complying with the law. The purpose of the ordinance is simply to give the whole the dignity and backing of the city government, and to secure the easy co-operation of the police with the school authorities in administering the State law.

A similar ordinance has been in operation in Newark and Elizabeth, and, I suppose, other cities, for some

Mrs. Charles Child Wheeler entertained the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society yesterday afternoon.

The North Plainfield Township Improvement Society will hold a reception after the business meeting Monday evening, June 14, in the improvement hall. Members and others are invited. The guests of honor will be the newly elected president, Francis E. Bodin and Mrs. Bodin; retiring president, Dr. Richard G. G. Moldenke, and Mrs. Moldenke; the ex-presidents, William E. Patte, W. De La R. Anderson, and their wives.

Miss Elsie F. Schmidt, of Gladstone, has returned to her home to take part in the Indian Legend portrayal.

Mrs. Charles E. Spier will conduct the prayer service in Wilson chapel tonight.

as directed and required by the Ordinance of the City of Plainfield, entitled "An Ordinance Concerning the Construction and Repair of Sidewalks and Curbs," approved July 15, 1910, as amended, not having been completed, the Common Council of said City has directed such improvement to be made under the direction and supervision of the Street Commissioner, and further directed notice of such contemplated improvement to be given to the owner or owners of any lands thereby affected, and further directed that if such improvement shall not be completed within the time and in the manner directed in this notice, the Street Commissioner shall thereupon forthwith proceed to cause such improvement to be made by the city under his direction, as authorized by said Ordinance and the Act of the Legislature hereinafter referred to. The foregoing is a description of your property affected, sufficiently definite in terms to identify the same and the following is a description of the required improvement, viz., the construction, adjoining said property, of a sidewalk to be laid as directed in said Ordinance (to which ordinance and the record thereof in the City Clerk's Office reference is hereby made for greater certainty), at the expense of the abutting land owners, composed of concrete to be laid in conformity with the specifications for cement sidewalks as set forth in "Standard Specifications for Portland Cement Sidewalks and Curbs," filed in the office of the City Clerk, April 11, 1910.

The Street Commissioner shall give the correct lines and grades in all cases.

Notice is further given that unless said improvement shall be completed within thirty days after the publication of this notice, it is the intention of said City to make said improvement or cause the same to be made, pursuant to the authority of the Act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled, "An Act to authorize cities to construct and repair sidewalks and curbs and to provide for the payment of the cost thereof," approved April 13, 1908, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Proof under oath of the publication or service of this notice will be filed within two days thereafter in the office of the City Collector, being the officer charged with the duty of making official searches for liens.

Said Act of the Legislature provides that in case of non-payment of the charges authorized thereby, the land and real estate subject to the liens of such charges may be sold in the manner provided for the sale of lands for the non-payment of assessments.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., June 5, 1915.

HANGS HIMSELF TO TOP OF CELL

Seventeen-year-old Philadelphia Boy's Attempt Frustrated by Flynn.

ARRESTED FOR FIGHTING

Fear That He Would Lose Friendship of Mother and Girl Led Milford Brunswick to Tie Belt Around His Neck.

Despondent over the disgrace that he foresaw as a result of his arrest on a disorderly charge by Sergeant Maurice Higgins yesterday afternoon, seventeen-year-old Milton Brunswick of Philadelphia, attempted to hang himself in a cell at police headquarters last night. But for the fact that Roundsman Charles Flynn heard a choking sound ensuing from the cell-room the youth's attempt at self-destruction would have probably been successful. When Flynn went to investigate the unusual sounds he found the boy's body hanging to the steel net work on top of the cell, his neck being fastened to the structure by means of a strap which had previously been used by him as a belt.

Flynn cut the strap and the body fell to the floor, life being apparently extinct. First aid remedies, however, brought out the fact that the boy was still breathing and City Physician Norman W. Currie was hastily summoned. The would-be suicide responded to treatment and he was soon himself again.

Tied about his right wrist Flynn found a note addressed to his mother. It read:

"Dear Mother:

"For you I have tried to live a good and honest life, but I met a fellow who picked on me and wanted to fight. Mother, I fought him and was arrested. I am disgraced now and Helen would have nothing more to do with me if she knew I was in jail. So I do not want to live. Give my love to Helen and Esther, and pray for me mamma. Love to Paul.

"Your loving son,

"Milford."

The Paul referred to in the letter was Paul Pope, one of the youths arrested with Brunswick yesterday afternoon, and who is said to be the cause of the fight between Brunswick and Benjamin Avsevitz, an Austrian. George Martial was the fourth one arrested, he being merely a spectator.

Because Avsevitz had told other boys that Pope owed him $7.50 for a balmacaan overcoat Brunswick agreed to "beat up" the Austrian. Sergeant Higgins appeared on the scene when the melee was at its heighth and took the quartet into camp. Brunswick and Avsevitz, the real combatants, being retained all night in police headquarters.

All were arraigned in police court this morning before Judge William G. DeMeza when Brunswick admitted that he was sorry for having attempted the rash act and plead for a chance to go right back to his home in Philadelphia. He had been spending his vacation here and intended to return Monday. Judge DeMeza gave the youth a heart-to-heart talk and placed him in charge of a Plainfielder who agreed to see that he took the next train back to the Quaker City.

Avsevitz, who presented a badly disfigured countenance as the result of his encounter with Brunswick, who is a student at a Philadelphia boxing academy, was inclined to take the matter lightly in court this morning and as a result was remanded to jail for the week end. The other two were discharged.

LARGE CLASS TO RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Fifty-two Pupils to Be Graduated From St. Mary's Grammar School.

Sixteen commercial and thirty-six grammar school pupils will receive diplomas for satisfactory completion of their course at St. Mary's Parochial School, Sunday, June 20. The commencement exercises will be held in the church and an elaborate program has been arranged for the event. Many prominent speakers will be in attendance and it is highly probable that Rev. Father Dillon, superintendent of the schools in the Newark diocese, will be here. Many handsome prizes and medals will be awarded the honor pupils in the class at that time.

The complete list of graduates is as follows:

Commercial class: Misses Mary Elizabeth Traynor, Agnes Elizabeth Denny, Helen Marie Heffern, Catherine Elizabeth Schuck, Anna Clare Fosbre, Caroline Elizabeth Scheldecker, Marguerite Adria Traynor, Mary Catherine McNamara, Mary Esther Regan, Dorothy Marie Feiring, Grace Mary White, Anna Theresa Callahan, and Messrs. Anthony Francis Sabino, Stephen Charles Murphy, John Thomas Diskin and William Henry Clarkson.

Grammar school: Misses Maria Anna Brandt, Mary Appollonia Butcher, Mary Madeline Dorgan, Norena Winifred Denny, Cecelia Veronica Fee, Margaret Joan Gallagher, Loretta Agnes Graniery, Anna Agnes Harrington, Nora Catherine Heffern, Caroline Clare Hennessey, Margaret Louise Higgins, Mabel Margaret Jackson, Irene Mary Keating, Margaret Wilhelmina McCarthy, Margaret Elizabeth McCarthy, Mary Ellen McCarty, Mary Frances McCauley, Mary Agnes McGauley, Elizabeth Regina Mottley, Catherine Margaret O'Connor, Anna Magdalene O'Sullivan, Esther Theresa Regan, Julia Catherine Regan, Nora Catherine Regan, Alice Regina Ryan, and Messrs. Charles Francis Buganti, Robert Joseph Clarkson, Francis Augustine Connelly, Francis Thomas Connelly, Leo Vincent Keating, James Michael McCarthy, Arthur Frederic Murphy, John Thomas Newell, Robert Joseph Reynolds, Thomas Patrick Simpson and Joseph Michael Welsh.

TWO DAYS' WORK ALL FOR NOTHING

$25,000 Worth of Saurer Motor Parts Go Down With the Steamer "Inkum."

The sinking of the British steamer "Inkum," which was torpedoed by a German submarine off the coast of England, Monday, was of more than passing moment to many Plainfielders. Included in a large cargo of war munitions which she carried was a shipment of auto truck parts from the International Motor Company's plant in this city. There were no complete trucks, but numerous cases carrying emergency motors, connecting rods, driving gears and other essentials needed in repairing machines were included in the manifest. The value of the shipment was about $25,000 and represents about two days' work at the Saurer plant as it is being run at present, the shop force running twenty-four hours to the day.

The "Inkum" was a large freight steamer and was the biggest vessel sunk during the past week by the German undersea boats. She carried a varied assortment of supplies for the allied armies shipped from the port of New York. The torpedo struck her without warning, but the crew had time to escape.

When the Lusitania was sunk on May 7 it was rumored from various sources that the big liner had 48 Saurer trucks in her hold. This has since been denied by the company's officials, who assert that the bills of lading for a large number of its trucks was on the Lusitania and the shipment was to have been made a week later. It required several weeks of office work in order to again prepare the bills previous to sending out the machines.

FIRST COMMUNION CLASS.

At the 7:30 mass tomorrow morning the largest first communion class that St. Mary's parish ever had will receive the Blessed Sacrament for the first time. There are about seventy-five boys and as many girls in the class.

CHARMING GARDEN PARTY AND TEA

Mrs. S. S. Carvallo Hostess at Affair Given by Equal Suffrage League.

MUSIC AND ADDRESSES

Miss Louise Connolly, of Summit, Gives Stirring Talk on "Suffrage"—Vocal and Instrumental Selections a Feature of Function.

Mrs. S. S. Carvalho was the hostess at a very charming garden party and tea given under the auspices of the Equal Suffrage League, yesterday afternoon at the Carvalho home on West Eighth street. The women gathered in the Porcelain House which is now the home of a wonderful collection of oil paintings in which both the Italian and English schools of art are represented. The beautiful little tea room, which is entirely built and furnished in the Elizabethian style, was also opened for the use of the guests.

Music was furnished by little Miss Johnston who, although only thirteen years of age, is a good Suffragist and a splendid musician; also by Mrs. Bender, who sang several beautiful numbers, and Mrs. Evans, who delighted the audience with her violin. Stephen Haff was the accompanist.

Miss Louise Connolly, of Summit, who spoke recently in the Friends' Meeting-house, was in her usual happy mood. Miss Connolly is an enthusiastic advocate of equal suffrage, but in speaking to an audience composed largely of women her keynote is always service and the necessity for women to prepare for the changes which are taking place, economic, social and political, and for the new duties to which they are to be called.

"The difference between Suffragists, Antis and neutrals," said Miss Connolly, "is largely tempermental." Some people are just naturally conservative and in favor of leaving things as they are and some are so engrossed with their own private affairs that they have no time or thought to give to the subject while others are naturally enthusiastic and while they may be living sheltered lives themselves they see the dangers and disadvantages under which less fortunate women are laboring and they yearn to help. They are Suffragists because they see in the ballot one way of bettering conditions. There are many angels in the Anti camp and because by their very sweetness they have always been able to get others to see things as they do they imagine all women can work in that way. Naturally they think influence is enough for women without the vote which is the weapon man uses to back up his influence. "Influence," said Miss Connolly, "is made up of personality plus prestige." Men have fully as much personality as women and usually more prestige hence if the vote is valuable to them it is equally so to women.

"The mistake in regard to women, if there has been one made," continued the speaker, "was made by our grandfathers when they opened the little red schoolhouse to girls as well as boys. They read history with the boys and we began to raise a body of Patriotesses. No wonder they have wanted to know about and have a part in the affairs of the nation." The great duty of woman today, as Miss Connolly sees it, is to do whatever she can, no matter how humble the capacity, to serve her generation and hasten the coming of the true democracy.

After the address, Mrs. Jones, the president of the league, made a strong appeal to all Suffragists present to give of their time and money during the few remaining months of the campaign.

Refreshments were served in the garden and a silver offering was taken at the door.

PUT ON PROBATION.

Charged with stealing a bicycle, Thomas Moore, of this city, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the police court, yesterday. Because of the plea made by his wife, who would be left without support in the event of the man being committed to jail, Judge DeMeza gave him another chance, he having returned the wheel. Moore will report weekly to the probation officer.

COMMITTEE TO MEET HERE.

Assemblyman Pierson's legislative committee of inquiry into the financial methods employed by municipalities throughout the State, will meet in this city on Friday night, June 25, at which time local officials as well as those from nearby towns will be invited to attend and give such informations as the committee may desire.

ROUNDEY JURORS FAILED TO AGREE

Stood 11 to 1 for Conviction When Final Ballot Was Taken This Morning.

MAY NOT RETRY CASE

First Return of Jurists Made to Ask Judge Connolly to Let Them Make Trip to Plainfield to View Roundey Apartments.

As a climax to a deliberation of twenty-four hours, three-quarters of which was consumed in heated debating, the jury in the State's case against Mrs. Florence E. Roundey, charged by four indictments with crimes involving perjury, brought in a verdict of disagreement at 10:15 this morning in Elizabeth, and was discharged by Judge James C. Connolly. At the conclusion of the long review of testimony the jury is understood to have closed at 11 to 1 for conviction, the votes having previously been taken at 9 to 3 and 10 to 2.

When the decision was arrived at Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein was out of town and could not be located by a Daily Press reporter. Assistant Union County Prosecutor Martin O'Connor would not commit himself concerning the possibility of retrying Mrs. Roundey, but the general impression seems to be that the litigation would be culminated at this point.

The final return of the jury to the courtroom was the second since it was charged by Judge Connolly at 10:45 yesterday morning, it having come in at 9:45 today when the foremen requested Judge Connolly to allow the jurors to make a trip to the Roundey apartments over the Endress store on West Front street. From this meager request it is garnered that certain jurors' minds were not clear concerning the conditions that surrounded Mrs. Roundey's alleged detective work when she claimed to have personally witnessed a meeting of Mrs. Poinier and Mr. Roundey in the West Front street apartments through two small holes drilled in the door. Judge Connolly, however, ruled that the case had been closed and refused to grant the request. The jury then went out and brought in the disagreement verdict fifteen minutes later.

PARENTS ENTERTAIN FOR THE MISSES DOUGLAS

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Douglas, of Grove street, entertained a number of guests last night, for their daughters, the Misses Lucy and Mabel Douglas. There were about fifty present, including several from out-of-town. The lawn at the side of the home was illuminated with Japanese lanterns and many of the guests remained out of doors in the cool breezes until forced into the house by rain.

Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening, music being furnished by Miss Florence Walsh, of this city. "Five hundred" and whist were also enjoyed. The rooms were decorated with flowers banked on the walls and shelves, which was very attractive. Punch was served during the evening and at midnight a dainty collation was served by the hostess' mother.

The North Plainfield High School faculty was well represented. Miss Lucy Douglass is a member of the graduating class this year.

FUNERAL OF LAWRENCE FAHN.

The funeral of Lawrence Fahn, whose death occurred Wednesday, was held yesterday afternoon, from the home of his son, Lawrence Fahn, on West Front street. Rev. C. H. Kues, rector of Holy Cross church, officiated at the service, which was private. The floral tributes were unusually many and handsome, among the set pieces being one from Columbia Lodge and Gesang and Turn Verein, of which Mr. Fahn had been a member. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pall-bearers: John Alster, John Wirth, Augustus Hedrick, Henry Haurand, Harrk Barker and Augustus Kunz.

WILL PROBATED.

The will of the late Mrs. Isabelle Jackson, who lived on Arlington avenue, was admitted to probate this morning, in Elizabeth. The entire estate is bequeathed to her daughter, Miss Addie Parker Jackson, of this city.

A RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong Will Perform the Ceremony—Bride-elect is Granddaughter of Late Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes.

Miss Elizabeth Flanders, of this city, and Frederick Staples, of Southborough, Mass., will be married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, at the home of the bride-elect's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, the borough. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, of which Miss Flanders is a member, will officiate. The guests, about sixty in all, will be confined to the relatives and a few intimate friends of the couple.

Miss Flanders will wear a gown of white faille, trimmed with point lace, also an old point lace veil and will carry a bouquet of lilies of the valley. She will have but one attendant, Miss Elizabeth McGee, her cousin, being the maid-of-honor. Her gown will be of variegated tulle and she will carry a bouquet of purple sweet peas and lavendar orchids. Edward Fay, of Southborough, will be the best man. Miss Flanders will be given in marriage by her brother, William Flanders, of this city.

The house has been elaborately decorated for the affair with palms and white ramblers. The effect is especially pleasing in the library, where the ceremony will be performed, while the color scheme of green and white has been carried out in the adjoining rooms. The wedding march and music for the informal reception to follow the ceremony will be furnished by an orchestra.

After the reception, the couple will leave on an extended trip and in the fall will reside at Southborough, where Mr. Staples is master of the well-known Fay School. Miss Flanders, who is the granddaughter of the late Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes, who was pastor of the First Baptist church for nearly fifty years, is well-known here, where she has a large circle of acquaintances. She has been active in the doings of the younger society set. She has received a large collection of gifts from relatives and friends.

GIRL RUN OVER BY AUTO BUT ESCAPED ANY INJURY

What was declared by eye-witnesses to be a miraculous escape from fatal injury, occurred on West Front, near Somerset street, late yesterday afternoon, when a taxicab owned and driven by Charles Barry, ran over ten-year-old Teresa Severs, of 115 Belmont avenue. Although the car struck her with sufficient force to knock her down the machine passed over her without injuring her.

After her body had passed between the two sets of wheels without being touched she picked herself up and started to run away, but Chief of Police Kiely, who was in the immediate vicinity, restrained her. She was taken to her home by Chief Kiely. The driver of the auto was exonerated from all blame in the matter inasmuch as the girl ran out directly in front of him.

UNLICENSED PEDDLERS TO BE SEVERELY DEALT WITH

Alexander Wexler, a peddler, who gave his address as New York city, was arrested Thursday by the local police for selling linen dress goods in the Cottage place section without a license. It cost him $8 to secure his freedom.

In passing sentence, Judge DeMeza said: "I am determined to break up this practice of men coming in from other cities and selling here without a license and I will fine or send to jail every one who comes before me. Local merchants pay taxes and licenses for selling privileges in Plainfield and there is absolutely no reason why rank outsiders should be allowed to do what our own people are prohibited from doing."

NEWARK MAN MISSING.

The local police have been asked to keep a watch for Anton Strob, a Newarker, who has been missing from his home in that city for several days. He is described as being five feet eight inches in heighth; has black hair, weighs 170 pounds, and wore a dark checked suit.

GLASER PLANT IS CLOSED BY BOARD

Health Officials of Piscataway Township Take Action After a Year's Fight.

Following an agitation covering the past year, creating considerable public opinion against the plant, the Piscataway Township Board of Health this week took drastic action against the Glaser Fertilizer Company, ordering the concern to close its place of business at New Era. The meeting of the Board at Hotel Nelson, New Market, was a lively one, many arguments, both pro and con, being brought forward during the discussion of the resolution, which was finally carred, thus making possible the carrying out of a majority of those living in the immediate vicinity of the rending works. At the same time the inspector was given orders to keep the plant under strict surveillance, arresting anyone who should carry on the regular work there, whether they should be employers or employes. The order as contained in the resolutions was to take effect Wednesday morning.

Many residents of New Era have had a strong feeling against the operation of the factory, as they claimed that strong and unpleasant odors were continually coming from the place. The same objections were raised against it when located at Alton. While those living nearby are pleased at the orders of the Board of Health, there are others who fear that they were too drastic and that there is trouble ahead for the official body should the strict sense of the orders be carried out to the letter. Residents of the township, however, are calmly looking on, and waiting for the next step to be taken by the management of the concern involved.

JOHN D. BUCKLEY LEAVES BIG ESTATE

Thomas T. Buckley, Nephew of This City, is One of the Beneficiaries.

Brooklyn, June 12—An appraisal of the estate left by John Dunlap Buckley, an uncle of Thomas Townsend Buckley, of 607 West Front street, Plainfield, the report of which was filed today in the Surrogate's Court, shows that when he died on January 24, 1914, he left a net estate of $353,283.60.

Under the provisions of the will executed July 7, 1908, the estate is divided as follows: Mary Bronson Buckley, widow, $25,000 in cash, $100 worth of wearing apparel and the rest as a life estate for her principal, at her death to pass over to his daughter, Marion D., or his daughter's issue. Should the daughter not survive her mother and there be no issue then the principal is to go to Charles Ramsey Buckley, the testator's brother. Should this brother be not living at the time then $5,000 is to go to Thomas Townsend Buckley, the Plainfield nephew and the rest to the issue of Charles Ramsey Buckley. Mrs. Buckley, the widow, and this brother are the executors.

Mr. Buckley was at one time connected with the old grocery firm of Berry, Wilson & Lohman, of New York, retiring about twenty-five years ago. The Plainfield nephew is the son of William T. Buckley, a deceased brother.

BOY HIT BY AUTO.

An automobile owned and driven by L. B. Harris, of West Front street, struck fifteen-year-old Louis Faick at Park avenue and West Fifth street yesterday afternoon, slightly injuring the youth about the legs and body. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital for temporary treatment.

AUTOS COLLIDED.

An automobile owned and driven by Dr. Ill, of Newark, ran into an auto driven by Dr. Garhart, of West Fourth street, this morning at West Fifth street and Park avenue. Neither driver was injured but the axle on the local man's car was broken and the mudguard was bent.

Have You Seen the 1916 Hudson?

Just arrived. The price has been reduced to $1,350—$200 less than last year,—the value has been increased at least $200. It is one of the most beautiful and luxuriously appointed cars made. Its new yacht-line body with roomier 7 passenger tonneau, ever-lustre finish, and its deep soft enamel leather upholstery towers above all as an epoch-making betterment. Come in and see this wonderful car which is bound to set a new standard in automobile values for 1916. Thompson Auto Co.—Adv. ***

KAISER RECEIVES WILSON'S NOTE

Foreign Minister Von Jagow Immediately Telegraphs Message to Galicia.

EXPECT REPLY SOON

Report From Petrograd Indicates Further Progress for Czar's Forces With Capture of Many Prisoners—French Gain Ground.

Washington, June 12.—Dispatches from Berlin by the way of London variously interpret official feeling there as pessimistic regarding outcome of Teuton-American crisis and as regarding the United States note as conciliatory and sure to meet the desired response.

What opinions are voiced thus early and openly are no doubt not valuable as weather-vanes. In the last analysis the answer to the note will be framed by the high council with the permission of the Kaiser.

Immediately upon the receipt of the note in Berlin Foreign Minister von Jagow had it telegraphed to the Kaiser, who is on the Galician front.

Official Washington today looked to Ambassador Gerard in Berlin for some indication of how the German government views the note. Unofficial advices say that officials of the German foreign office are familiarizing themselves with the contents and it is expected here that as soon as they had done so the ambassador will send some definite information concerning the German attitude.

Germany probably will not give its answer pending the arrival of Meyer Gerhard, the personal representative of Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador to Washington. This will delay the reply for perhaps a fortnight.

Word from the ambassador as to the German attitude is awaited with the keenest interest, particularly in view of the conflicting unofficial information from Berlin.

Dispatches coming direct from Berlin say that some quarters in Berlin regarded the note as more conciliatory than cable dispatches had indicated. On the other hand, dispatches received by way of London say that Berlin is pessimistic regarding the continued maintenance of friendly relations with the United States.

Amsterdam, June 12.—Berlin official circles are pessimistic concerning the effect of the latest American note. The note has not yet been published in the German newspapers, but it has been placed in the hands of the Kaiser.

London, June 12.—A despatch from Petrograd says that an official announcement issued there indicates further victories for the Czar's forces with the capture of many prisoners and guns. Probably the most important of the successes was on the Dneister not far from Stry. Several villages also have been taken by the Russians on the left bank of the Dneister in the same region. The communication says that Stanislau was evacuated without fighting.

Amsterdam, June 12.—The Cologne Gazette publishes a despatch from Halle, stating that Prince Ernst von Saalfeld, the second son of Prince Earnest von Meinninger, has been killed in action on the eastern front.

Paris, June 12.—Although slow, continual progress is being made by the French in the battle around Arras. Fresh progress in the region of Font De Buval, north of Lorette Hills, is reported in an official communique issued today. One hundred and fifty German prisoners were taken with a great amount of war material in the capture of a number of German trenches at Touvente Farm, southwest of Hebuterne, on Friday.

London, June 12.—The Grimsby trawler, Waago, has been sunk by a German submarine in the North Sea. The members of the crew of the fishing boat have been landed at Hartlepool.

Paris, June 12.—The battle of the Isonzo as reported continues as favorably for the Italians as it has for the last several days, says a despatch from Rome. The battle is now certain to end in complete victory, says the despatch.

Cutting It Short

If some people would remember how hard it is to get money from others, it wouldn't be so easy for others to get money from them.

It takes 5 or 10 minutes to buy a suit of clothes, but don't forget that you have to wear it a whole season, whether it is a dream or a disappointment.

In this connection, we respectfully submit that ten minutes spent in buying a Rothberg suit will give you a season of satisfaction, plus tailoring and style. At $12, $15, $18, $20 and $25.

The John Wanamaker Store

Subway at Astor Place. Broadway at Ninth, New York.

Preliminary Statement to a Most Important Sale of Famous WHITTALL RUGS

Starting at the Wanamaker Store Next Monday Morning

A year and a half ago we distributed 11,539 perfect Whittall rugs.

There are several grades of Whittall rugs. Some of the lower grades we do not deal in regularly.

By an unexpected opportunity we closed a transaction four days ago for

at the warehouses in Worcester of the highest grade Whittall rugs in all the patterns not to be repeated.

The opportunity came to us to take over this large quantity of fine rugs because of our known outlet in Philadelphia and New York.

The bringing out of so great a quantity of these very fine rugs at this time priced extraordinary low is an event that and temporarily affect all the rest of the rug business in our own stores as well as elsewhere, but the advantages to our customers in the sale are so very great that we would have rendered them sorry service had we not instantly and eagerly seized upon the opportunity to bring it about.

There are

$104,000 Worth of the Rugs

These are in beautiful patterns and now that the looms will not remake them it gives the only opportunity that there is to get them.

The Whittall people fix a standard price for their goods at the beginning of each season and dealers may not usually sell below these prices.

In taking over this great lot of goods we were left free to fix our own prices on the goods that we bought $104,000 of and

Our Own Rug Customers Shall Have This Entire Lot for $75,000 Which Means the Saving of Nearly $30,000.

Please note that Whittall rug dealers generally throughout the country are given the privilege once every Summer to make a discount upon the prices of their left-over discontinued patterns, only such little sales are frequently advertised very forcibly to stimulate the general rug business.

The fact remains, however, that it is possible for them to contain only the left-over goods of their season's selling and the few and undesirable rugs that have been declined by all the customers who have seen them.

This Is a Different Sort of Sale

The goods are new.

Every M. J. Whittall rug grade and size is represented and most important of all there are

Plenty of the Most Wanted Rugs, the 9 x 12 Rugs

These splendid room-size pieces represent the very cream of the collection. They are things magnificent and beautiful — finest of all among them are the famous Whittall Anglo-Persian Wiltons, without doubt the finest of all rugs made in this country.

In the great sale of Whittall rugs we were privileged to have in 1913, some customers knowing values came hundreds of miles to buy room-size Anglo-Persians.

This is another sale and there will be other customers as wise.

Next to the Anglo-Persians there will be

Plenty of the Anglo-Indian Wilton
Plenty of the Teprac Wiltons
Plenty of the Royal Worcester of the Richmond Wiltons
Chlidema and Peerless Brands

It will be a straight-out M. J. Whittall rug sale.

Please observe whenever you can a fine Whittall rug, whether or not the name is woven into it. If the name is there it means that the rug is one of the finest made in America, of the best worsteds and wool.

It more closely proximates the beauty and value of the Oriental rugs than any other rug woven by machinery. These rugs in our sale coming Monday are the Whittall rugs.

Thousands of Whittall Rugs

They are new rugs that have not been picked over, that have not been rolled up and unrolled a thousand times under the disapproving glances of customers seeking floor furnishings. They are

Opened Up Now for the First Time

They are shown for the first time and there are no other rugs mixed in with them.

The customers' pick on Monday morning will be absolutely first pick from fresh brand-new goods.

Sale on Fourth Gallery, New Building.

Day of Privilege, Monday

In Advance of the

Wanamaker Silk Packet Sale

Special display of thousands of silk packets one floor above the Silk Rotunda—at the head of the Grand Stairway, Monday.

Those who are in the Store then and cannot come again Tuesday will be given the opportunity to select such silk packets as they wish.

Deliveries will be made on the first day of the sale, Tuesday.

The Silk Packet Sale was originated in the Wanamaker Store three years ago.

It is a direct means to an end—clearing our silk shelves of all short pieces.

By arranging these silk-ends in the shape of packets we found it added to the convenience of customers and ourselves.

The Silks

Ninety-nine per cent. of these silk packets are straight off the Wanamaker shelves. (One per cent. are manufacturer's remnants.)

Every silk in fashion is represented. Tub silks to bridal and dance silks — nothing lacking.

Black, white and all colors and shades.

Lengths for all purposes.

The Prices

Just as no two sleds toboggan to quite the same distance, so these silk packets are priced differently in almost every case.

Save on a packet $1.50, $2, $3, $4, $7, $11, $20 and [illegible]!

Look over a hundred packets and not two bear the same figures.

Up until Friday night 18,500 packets were ticketed and priced. By Tuesday several thousand more packets will be ready.

First floor, Old Building.

MICHAEL F. WATSON BUYS GRANT AVENUE PROPERTY

The residential property at the northwest corner of West Third street and Grant avenue and owned by Jacob Rubin, was sold at sheriff sale in Elizabeth, Thursday, under foreclosure proceedings brought by the mortgagee, Mrs. Sarah G. Ross. The purchaser was Michael F. Watson, who secured it for $3,500.

The property in question was known for many years as the Townsend Rushmore place. The house was one of the most pretentious in that section of the city at the time it was built and was intended for only one family. It is the intention of the new owner to put on a rear addition and make it a two-family dwelling of the "double decker" type.

The property mentioned adjoins Mr. Watson's own home and by its acquisition he now owns the entire west side of Grant avenue in the block between South Second and West Third streets.

IN THE SUBURBS

Dunellen.

The Gulf Refining Company, one of the chief competitors of the Standard Oil Company, is to build a station in Dunellen and will start it in a very few days on the erection of a plant, on which they propose to expend between twelve and fifteen thousand dollars. The plant will be put up on the land of the Central Railroad to the east of the roundhouse and well over on the railroad property. It will be not unlike the plant of the Standard Oil Company's at Rock avenue, being of concrete construction surrounded and protected by corrugated iron and proof in every way against fires.

Work on making brick was resumed last week at the brickyard of Albert Rajotte, on Jefferson avenue, and the force of men, numbering thirty-five at present, are hustling like good fellows. Mr. Rajotte states that he will have still more men at work at an early date. He has numerous orders ahead and the outlook for a good season is very bright.

The lot of land situated on Lincoln avenue next to the residence of William P. Deering has been sold by the owner, A. Tipling, to Charles A. Osborn, of Sea Cliff, N. Y.

The laying of a concrete sidewalk in Columbia Park, on what will be an easterly extension of Columbia street, will start at an early date. Proprietor Frederic Harrington will also go ahead with the building of two or more houses.

The Apgar Construction Company has purchased a valuable piece of property for development purposes on Lincoln avenue, between Third and Fourth streets. The deal was made through the enterprising real estate man, John Fedderman.

Contractor Charles Wrage has been awarded contracts by President Samuel Schwartz, of the Equator Park Realty and Development Company, for the erection of two houses on Sanford avenue of the Equator tract. The houses will each contain seven rooms. Ground was broken for one of the houses this week.

Contractor Firman H. Gise has been awarded the contract of erecting the foundation for the St. John's parish house, which is to be moved from Washington avenue to First street, in order to make room for the new church.

New Market.

Charles M. Kelly will soon enter the ranks of the speeders as he will shortly purchase an automobile. A garage is being erected this week on the rear of his premises on Prospect avenue by Contractor VanAistyne, of Piscataway.

Middlesex Boro.

Work on the new cottage that is being built by O. A. LaPointe, on Mountain avenue, is progressing rapidly. The foundation is completed and the frame work is going up.

Architect P. C. VanNuys, of Somerville, has been chosen by the Board of Education of the Township of Franklin to draw the plans for the proposed two-room schoolhouse to be built at Middlebush. An effort will be made to have the plans and the work done so that the building may be completed and ready for use when the fall term of school begins in September.

George E. Jones, of Newark, architect in charge of the erection of the new $9,000 headquarters of Basking Ridge Fire Company, No. 1, was in Basking Ridge Wednesday inspecting the progress of the structure.

Scotch Plains.

Hubert Philips, the local contractor, has completed his work on the addition which he has been building to J. Hudson Tompson's residence on Martine avenue. The painters have also done their work and this addition will soon be ready for occupancy.

SHERIFF SALES.

Seven pieces of property were sold Wednesday afternoon at the weekly sale in Sheriff Otto's office, as the result of foreclosures of mortgages. They included three local sales as follows:

Sarah G. Ross vs. Jacob Rubin, premises in Plainfield, sold to complainant for $2,000; Robert H. Cook vs. Michael Sliwinski, a lot in Plainfield, sold to complainant for $1,000; Sarah T. Manning vs. K. and G. Incorporated, premises in Plainfield, sold to complainant for $2,351.61.

Sheriff Charles P. Sebring, of Somerset county, has transferred to Maro Dellona, of North Plainfield, for $1,550, lots 22 and 23 in block No. 1 of the tract known as Plainfield. This land was sold in execution of a judgment of $626.85 held by E. Tunison. Maro Dellona then transferred the same land to Laurabell E. Moffett, of Scotch Plains.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"Her Shattered Idol," the thrill-a-minute photo drama at the U. S. Astor Theatre, is just the type of motion picture that will long hold its place in the regard of film fans. It is a picture which grips the audience from curtain to curtain and the interest never lapses. There is just enough comic relief to season the visualization, like a dash of paprika. And, best of all, it tells a story with a big, human theme, a dramatic preachment against the sins of society. The plot has been plucked from American life and possesses exceptional appeal to old and young alike.

Manager Frank G. Hall, manager of the Astor Theatre, announces several dramatic treats for next week. "The Island of Regeneration," Rev. Henry Townsend Brady's remarkable novel in film form, will be screened Monday and Tuesday, featuring Miss Edith Storey, a motion picture actress of wide fame. Valli Valli, a musical comedy actress of renown, will appear Wednesday and Thursday in "The High Road," a drama of engrossing interest. Miss Valli Valli, who is an English woman, is a prime favorite among Plainfield theatregoers. She will be recalled as the star of "The Chocolate Soldier," "The Purple Road," "Queen of the Movies" and many other musical shows of equal note. Miss Valli Valli is one of the most versatile actresses of the generation. She has appeared in dramas of supreme tensity and then in shows that make one laugh. In both lines she is excellent.

"The Island of Regeneration" is a picture drama of all hits and no misses. It was produced by the Vitagraph Company of America and released on the V. L. S. E. program, for the presentation of whose pictures in Plainfield Mr. Hall has obtained exclusive rights. The story is one of fascinating interest and the pictorial element surpasses anything ever shown in Plainfield before, according to its exhibitors.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

The most emphatic hit ever achieved by a photoplay was made at the Plainfield Airdome last night, when "Mistress Nell" opened a two night engagement. Every foot of film in the five parts of the production brought some absolutely new situation or thrilling scene and the large crowd of spectators were held in a tight grip from beginning to end. Mary Pickford, the peer of all screen artists, was seen as "Nell Gwyn," the part played for many years by Henrietta Crossman, but it is doubtful if the latter at any time in her career imparted any more intensity to the role than does this charming young woman of the camera.

"Mistress Nell" will be repeated at tonight's performance and it is safe to predict that another large audience will follow the story. Daniel Frohman spared no pains in making the production complete and although Manager Shannon has many splendid photoplays booked for the season, it is reasonable to presume that none will exceed the perfection of "Mistress Nell."

The Airdome continues to draw big crowds nightly having established itself as the most comfortable and most desirable amusement place in the city. It is convenient to Plainfielders and suburbanites as well through the fact that all street car lines pass the door. Manager Shannon has adopted the slogan that "the sky is the limit" in reference to the Airdome, meaning that nothing deters him from getting the finest pictures produced, affording conveniences for patrons and giving the best show for the money anywhere in the State. The prices are always the same and the best part of it is, no matter how big the photoplay or how expensive the program, the admission fee is within the reach of all.

TO OPEN SUMMER SCHOOL.

A. S. Jamieson, senior master of the Lawrenceville School, re-opens his summer school for boarding and day pupils at Spring Lake July 1. The school is in its eleventh season and Mr. Jamieson's long experience in educational work peculiarly fits him with the help of efficient masters to meet the requirements of his pupils, each of whom receives his personal attention. Boys are taken for the season or shorter periods and those who board at the school are given all the advantages of bathing, etc., under the supervision of the masters.

EPISCOPALIANS OBSERVE MAGNA CHARTA DAY

The part that the Church of England took in the extortion of the Magna Charta, "The Great Charter of English Liberty," from unwilling King John at Runnymede, will be the topic of sermons in the Episcopal churches of the United States tomorrow. The Protestant Episcopal Church, as the daughter and heir of the Church of England, whose rights and privileges and freedom were so strongly shown in that immortal instrument, will celebrate the 700th anniversary. The anniversary of the famous event in the cause of liberty is made especially dear to the Episcopal church because the Archbishop of Canterbury, Stephen Langton, was the first of the signers at Runnymede on the Thames. In addition to special sermons in the churches, felicitations are being cabled to the successor of Langton, Archbishop Tandall Davidson.

AN URGENT APPEAL FOR CONTRIBUTIONS

Prompt Response Necessary to Insure Successful Celebration.

Allen E. Beals, chairman of the fireworks display committee of the Plainfield Playground Commission, arranging for the community celebration of Independence Day, at Parker Field, on the night of July 5, issued this appeal to the public spirited citizens of this city, this morning, in the hope that the necessary funds might be subscribed:

"Owing to the necessity of getting our contract into the hands of the fireworks company that is to supply the pyrotechnic display at Parker Field this year in ample time to procure for this city their most competent men to take charge of the feature, it will be necessary for the Playground Commission to know by Tuesday night whether the necessary funds will be forthcoming. Only twenty-five dollars had been subscribed out of a needed $300 up to last night. That leaves $275 to be subscribed in three days.

"Any citizen can do a patriotic act by sending in a contribution, no matter how small, to defray the cost of an exhibition that would be worthy of the traditions in which we live. There are thousands of tired mothers and fathers who cannot get into an automobile or a railroad train and enjoy a day at the shore or a trip up the river, to whom the annual Fourth of July community celebration is a treat. This year it is planned to make the occasion especially pleasant by the addition of a band concert, one that will be high-class in every respect.

"It is incumbent upon the Commission to raise this money by public subscription. Checks may be sent direct to Secretary G. W. Wriston, 515 East Seventh St., or they can be sent to the editor of the Daily Press. Subscriptions sent in will be acknowledged in the columns of this paper." Mrs. C. E. Ryder today contributed $5 to the fund.

JACK CARDIFF TO SPEAK IN THIS CITY JUNE 20

The Y. M. C. A. has secured Jack Cardiff, "Billy" Sunday's physical trainer, to speak at a meeting for men on Sunday afternoon, June 20, at 4 o'clock. If the weather is favorable the meeting will be held in the outdoor gymnasium of the association. Further details of the meeting will be announced later.

Jack Cardiff will be remembered as the well-known prize fighter of other days. He was converted and later joined "Billy" Sunday's team, where he has been doing good work.

PICTURES HORROR OF EUROPEAN WAR

A. W. Kenworthy, of the Borough, Tells of His Experience While Abroad.

SAW ZEPPELIN RAIDS

Was at Yarmouth When Bombs Were Dropped From Airship—Describes Awful Condition of Belgium Refugees.

After spending the best part of two years in England where they had unusual opportunities to watch the progress and terrible results of the European conflict that has aroused the whole world, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Kenworthy, their daughter, Miss Claire Kenworthy and son, Nelson Kenworthy, of Willow avenue, the borough, returned home this week. While abroad they visited Mr. Kenworthy's sister, Mrs. Feeney, at Clipesby Hall, Norfolk, which is near Yarmouth, and traveled ten thousand miles in their automobile throughout England and Scotland.

When interviewed today by a representative of the Daily Press, Mr. Kenworthy expressed great pleasure in his return home where he could escape the awful sights which have greeted his eyes during his trip abroad. It was in the vicinity of Yarmouth that many of the Zeppelin raids were made and Mr. Kenworthy said that the people had become so accustomed to them that they failed to frighten them any longer. However, he said that the dropping of bombs from the airships produced an effect beyond description.

Mr. Kenworthy pictured the Belgium refugees and the wounded English soldiers as he saw them returning from war, and he said that it made his heart ache. He said that the people of England while still confident of success are markedly depressed. When asked whether England had not been slow in getting into action, Mr. Kenworthy, who is an Englishman, replied, that when the English people are quiet that is the time that they are doing real things.

He said that England is fully alive to the situation and now has three million men under arms, and are prepared to stay in the fight whether it takes three or twenty years to win out, for they believe that in the end victory will be theirs. Mr. Kenworthy remarked that what impressed him, perhaps, more than anything else was the killing of English soldiers, which he said was frightful. He witnessed the early stages of the war, saw thousands of soldiers leave for the front and then saw them returning with an arm or leg gone or otherwise injured, and in his opinion the feeling of martial spirit is gone, yet every man is loyal.

The trade in England, Mr. Kenworthy said, has resolved itself into one channel, that of supplying war materials. He was much interested in the fact that the last thing he saw as he left Liverpool on the American liner St. Paul, on May 29 for this country, was a large shipment of Saurer trucks which had been made at the company's plant in Plainfield.

He said that it was his pleasure to give automobile rides to many wounded soldiers and they appreciated the oportunity beyond words. Speaking of the loyalty of the English men and their desire to fight for their country, Mr. Kenworthy said that at Cambride and Oxford there are not 10 per cent. of the students, the majority being at the front.

Mr. Kenworthy had considerable difficulty in securing passage for America. On one occasion he had tickets on two different boats only to be informed that they had been taken out of the service. On the way over he said that two passengers who were strongly pro-German caused a near riot by their talk and actions and the other passengers made it so unpleasant for them that one night one of the two men was afraid to go to bed, sitting up all night.

LOCAL SCHOOL REPRESENTED.

Charles Bostwick, H. F. Oesting, A. B. Cutler and the Misses Lucile Jackson, Alice M. Lindsley, Ruth Klein and Mary Decker were the Plainfield teachers who have exhibits of their work at the second annual Union county manual training exhibit which opened yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church, Broad street and Caldwell place, Elizabeth. Practically every school in the county that has a manual training course is represented and County Superintendent of Schools A. L. Johnson and the committee in charge feel unusually elated by the interest the public has taken in the event.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, JUNE 12, 1915.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is Robert Newton Crane.

A West Front street merchant consulted me recently for advice as to his legal rights in the matter of successfully objecting to an automobile owner's parking an automobile on West Front street in front of his place of business, and allowing it to remain there unattended for several hours at a time. I advised him that nothing could be done with reference to the matter, as there was no law or ordinance covering such a situation. I told him that if the same person had left a horse and wagon standing in front of his place of business unattended, it would be a violation of Section 24 of the city ordinance relating to "Morals, Peace and Good Order, etc.," and for each violation thereof a penalty of $10 is provided.

Undoubtedly the merchant had a just cause for complaint, but the automobile has grown so fast, both in numbers and in popularity, that the City Fathers have neglected to legislate concerning this situation.

Look down Front street tonight at any time between eight and nine clock, and you will see a continuous line of motor cars parked on either side of the street. Most of these cars will be left standing and unattended for one, two and three hours at a time, while the owners and occupants attend the picture shows, do their shopping, and visit among themselves. This is manifestly wrong, both as to the general public, as well as to the merchant whose place of business is materially obstructed by the car left standing in front of it.

In case of a serious fire occurring in the heart of the city at such a time, serious results would be almost inevitable, as it does not require a great stretch of the imagination to believe that there would be great confusion and disorder in hurriedly starting and moving automobiles at one time.

How this matter should be regulated will require study and careful investigation on the part of the Common Council. The ordinance regulating such a matter must necessarily be so framed as to be fair and reasonable to every one concerned. Nevertheless, the regulation of the parking of automobiles on the principal streets of this city should be taken up immediately.

REV. A. E. FINN IS NOW DOCTOR OF DIVINITY

Rev. Albert E. Finn, formerly pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, this city, but now of the First Baptist church of Rochester, Pa., has recently been honored by the degree of Doctor of Divinity, conferred by Geneva College, of Western Pennsylvania.

Dr. Finn came to this city from the Baptist church of Cherryville, in January, 1904, and during his pastorate many additions were made to the church and the activities of the various church societies and the Bible school were greatly stimulated.

In September, 1909, Dr. Finn was called to the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Rochester, Pa., where he has done most effective work building up the membership and spiritual life of both church and Bible school.

Owing to his efforts and the hearty co-operation of the membership and congregation, a handsome stone building for the Bible school was completed last year. The center of this structure is now occupied each Sunday by the men's Bible class, taught by the pastor. This class numbers over 350 with an average Sabbath attendance of 250—a school in itself. Dr. Finn is now carrying forward plans for a new church edifice, many pledges toward which have already been paid.

Dr. Finn is a graduate of Bucknell University and of Crozer Theological Seminary, class '99. His many friends will be pleased at this honor which has come unexpectedly to him.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The senior class held its first class day practice yesterday. A schedule of practices for next week has been announced by the president. They are: Monday morning at 9:30; Wednesday morning at 8:30, and Friday morning at 9:30.

A large number of students went to Westfield last night, and were present at the Westfield High School senior dance. A very enjoyable evening was spent in dancing.

The senior class held a class picnic last night, at Dr. Eaton's farm in the Watchung Mountains. The pupils had their supper around a large camp-fire and then went to see the Indian Legend play.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Proctor patrons had an opportunity this afternoon to see Carlyle Blackwell in "The High Hand," the inspiring romance of love, politics, capital and labor, from the novel by Jacques Futrelle. The picture is in five parts and the role of Jim Warren, as played by Mr. Blackwell, received favorable comment from the large audience at the theatre. "The High Hand" will be repeated this evening. Today's program also includes "The Goddess," Paramount Travel pictures and several one and two reel comedies.

Continuing his policy of securing only the best feature photo-play productions, Manager Sanderson has secured for presentation Monday afternoon and night, the World Film Corporation's five part picturization of Charles K. Harris' original dramatic production, "When It Strikes Home." Miss Grace Washburn plays the leading role in this presentation and she is surrounded by an exceptionally strong cast of photo-play favorites. Such is the forcefulness of the production as a dramatic masterpiece that the Shuberts chose the film as the headline feature of their mammoth photo-play program at the New York Hippodrome, and immediately after its New York engagement will be brought to this city.

Briefly the story of the play is as follows: Richard Hartley, while still under twenty-one years of age, meets at a merry dinner party a famous dancer with whom he carries on a desperate flirtation. In a spirit of jest they are married. When full realization comes, Dick goes to his father who institutes proceedings for the annulment of the marriage. Later Dick marries the girl he had been engaged to and they are seen a few years later, childness and mourning their loneliness. In the meantime the divorced wife has become a mother, but keeps the fact from Hartley, who later adopts his own son without knowing who his parents are.

The years pass and young Hartley, a rising young physician, is engaged to the daughter and a firm friend of his father's and candidate for election as a member of an exclusive club, when his rival in love, learning of his unknown parentage, attempts to discredit him by framing up a spurious ancestry. The frameup is in a fair way to be successful when his mother, learning of it, breaks her silence of many years and acknowledges him as her son and the son of Richard Hartley. His parentage established, the young physician wins the girl he loves, is elected to membership in the club and learns his true identity. His foster mother having died several years before, leaving his father a widower, he brings about a re-union between the elder Hartley and his divorced wife. It is a happy ending and a logical one, Mr. Harris, in reaching this conclusion, weaving his story so that it ends naturally and as the spectator most wants it to.

AFTER THE WAR

One novel feature of the wedding was the fact that the music including the wedding march, was produced by a Victrola concealed in a group of palms.—Excerpt from a news item of a recent wedding.

The June Wedding and a VICTROLA

A Victrola not alone as an accessory to a home wedding, as recorded in the above news item, but as a wedding gift.

What could be a better gift to the young couple about to make a new home of their own than something that will add to the beauty and attractiveness of that home? And what could possibly be quite as appropriate in this respect as a fine Victrola?

Prices go all the way up to $200. A $200 Victrola may be paid for by the donor at the rate of until the full amount is paid. Please consider this an invitation to any one interested in Victrolas to examine the varied assortment in the Wanamaker Victrola Salons—every style and every size made.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY HOLDS A LAWN FESTIVAL

A very successful lawn festival was given on the ground at the Washington headquarters, Front street and Gerard avenue, last night by the Women's Auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post, Na. 73, G. A. R. A large crowd was present all evening and great quantities of ice cream and cake and strawberries were disposed of. Home-made candy was also sold, and Madame Harrikajenie, formerly of Roumania, but now of New Brunswick, told fortunes. The grounds were made decidedly attractive by an arrangement of Japanese lanterns.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Mrs. Edward P. T. Smith, chairman; Mrs. Ada P. England, Miss Adzetta Townley, Mrs. Mary Ketchell and Miss Edna Smith. Twelve young girls acted as waitresses.

MR. SMITH IMPROVES.

William Palmer Smith, of Belvidere avenue, who has been seriously ill at Muhlenberg Hospital following an operation performed last week was reported today as being considerably improved and with excellent chances for a quick recovery.

Augustus P. Hetfield, of Madison avenue, who retired from the New Jersey Central passenger service a few years ago, has been seriously ill for the past few days.

Miss Idabel Conover, who has been confined to her home for the past two weeks, continues to improve.

NO AMMUNITION STORED IN CASTLE

Dr. Richard Moldenke Brands Rumors as False Concerning His Property.

NOT A GERMAN DEPOT

Reports in Circulation Accused Owner of Offering Big Castle to Germans for Occupation—He is An American-born Citizen.

Persistent rumors in circulation here during the past week to the effect that Dr. Richard Moldenke's castle at the base of the "first" Watchung Mountain was being put in readiness for occupation by the Germans in case America declared war on Germany, were branded as erroneous and far-fetched by the owner this morning, in an interview with a Daily Press reporter. "I am an American born citizen and the fact that I owe my allegiance to this country renders this report without foundation. There is absolutely no reason to believe that I would place my castle at the disposal of the Germans in case of war with Germany or any other country."

It is the supposition of Dr. Moldenke and others that the story now in circulation was started by a reporter from one of the Metropolitan newspapers who interviewed him last Sunday. He was shown a collection of old guns and ammunition which Dr. Moldenke cherishes as relics and keeps in a curiosity den in the castle, and it is believed that the war weapons, together with the fact that Dr. Moldenke's name is distinctly German, gave rise to the impression that the castle might prove an excellent camping ground for Germans in case of war. These relics are long past the state of usefulness.

The castle in question has been visited by hundreds of tourists from all parts of [illegible] located on the southern side of Valley road. It is known as the "Elsinore," having been named in memory of Dr. Moldenke's daughter. The structure has adorned the mountain slope for about fifteen years and is still in the course of construction, new features being added continually. It contains twenty-five rooms and one of the remarkable features is that it has 246 windows. It is circular in shape and patterned after architecture of the twelfth century.

Dr. Moldenke and his family live in the castle and a portion of it has been fitted out as a lavatory to be used by the owner for experimental work on iron and steel, in which the doctor is an acknowledged authority.

The fact that it is located at the base of the incline instead of on the crest of the hill would probably prove a disadvantage to soldiers who might attempt to occupy it in case of war.

INDIAN LEGEND AGAIN GIVEN IN PANTOMIME

Famous Production Viewed by 1,200 Spectators in Watchung Last Night.

All roads led to the Indian Legend Portrayal in Watchung last evening. In spite of threatening clouds which hung over the valley over 1,200 spectators witnessed the production. A great many were turned away because of the lack of seating capacity.

The unique natural amphitheatre with the combined effects of the costumes, tepees, horses and the natural scenery, formed a remarkable picture. The spectators viewed the performance across the brook and pond which mirrored every detail of the play.

The first tableaux showed the entire cast of 108 grouped on the mountain side. Edward F. Bodin sang "Wetumpka," the Indian love song composed by Charles G. Spier, in honor of Princess Wetumpka. The entire cast joined in the chorus. The second picture was a new one introduced this year and showed Wetumpka, the Indian maid, saving the life of Chief One Feather in Amboy. The next scene depicted the settlers choosing their camp site and showing their camp life. After the evening meal and all had retired an Indian with all his craftiness stole up the brook in a canoe and attacked the white scout and was wounded. The settlers break camp and flee up the mountainside.

The Indians come to their usual hunting and fishing ground and make camp. The camp life, true to Indidan customs was prettily depicted. During the evening meal the tribal scout Deer Prong, appeared showing his wound. The council of war, the war dance led by Blue Wolf, and the dance of the India n boys created much applause.

After pleading with One Feather, the Princess is joined in wedlock to the chief by his medicine man after the burying of the hatchet and the smoking of the peace pipe.

LYDIA CHAPTER HAS A STATE VISITATION

Big Gathering of Eastern Star Members in Honor of Grand Lodge Officers.

The lodge rooms of Lydia Chapter, No. 41, Order of the Eastern Star, in the Babcock building, were filled to their capacity last night on the occasion of an official visit from the Grand Lodge officers and members from other cities. More than two hundred people were in the gathering in all and following a business session, during which the degree was conferred on one candidate, a social time and banquet were enjoyed.

The visiting delegation included Most Worthy Grand Matron Mrs. Lillie White, Paterson; Most Grand Worthy Patron, James Dougan, Hackensack; Right Worthy Associate Grand Matron Mrs. Lydia Oliver, Newark; Right Worthy Associate Grand Conductor Mrs. Minnie Reed, Elizabeth; Worthy Grand Marshall Mrs. Margaret Newman, Rutherford; Past Most Worthy Grand Patron James Bridges, South Orange. Lydia Chapter's worthy matron, Mrs. Lulu Krinic, presided during the evening. At the close of the initiatory work, Mrs. George Westcott recited in a most commendable way a beautiful poem dealing with the degree ritual of the Eastern Star, to the accompaniment of the "Tales From Hoffman" on the organ by Mrs. Elizabeth Woodard. In this connection also Mrs. Robert L. Giddes sang two solos. The contribution was a revelation to many of the members and it received enthusiastic commendation from the Grand Lodge officers.

At the close of the business session, several gifts were presented to visitors and officers of the lodge. The lodge as a whole presented Most Grand Worthy Matron Mrs. White with a half a dozen iced tea glasses and silver spoons and Most Worthy Grand Patron Dougan with a silver clothes brush. After these had been made the three presiding officers of Lydia Chapter received presents from the other officers as follows: Worthy Matron Lulu Krinic, gold bracelet inscribed on the inside "From Your Officers—1915;" Worthy Patron Guy D. Peck a steak set, Associate Matron Mrs. William R. Causbrook, tomato service and cheese knife. Speeches followed the making of each gift.

Late in the evening the assemblage adjourned to the banquet hall where refreshments were served. This room was beautifully decorated with huge Jack roses while the table held handsome electric stand lamps, the combined effect eliciting many favorable comments. The floral decorations in the banquet room were arranged by Mrs. William Hutchcroft and the lamps were located by William R. Causbrook. The lodge room was also elaborately decorated with ferns and daises in a color scheme and arrangement worked out by Miss Aller, chairman of the decorating committee.

The committee in charge of the affair were the following: Reception, Mrs. Frank R. Wynkoop, Mrs. Calvin H. Rugg, Mrs. Elvina Weaver, and Mrs. George Bayer; refreshment committee, Mrs. William Hutchcroft, chairman; Mrs. George Skinner and Mrs. Robert Rowden.

TEACHERS TO ORGANIZE.

A. B. Meredith, assistant commissioner of education in charge of high schools, has been appointed a committee to organize the commercial teachers of the State for more efficient work. The committee comprises D. A. McMillan, Newark; J. C. Evans, Plainfield; F. C. Tibbetts, Jersey City, and Henry VanDeusen, Bayonne.

The committee met yesterday afternoon in this city, when arrangements were made for the first meeting in Newark, Saturday, October 23. An attractive program has been planned. After the meeting the committee witnessed the Senior-Faculty game at Parker Field.

RALPH RUNYON MAY BE SENT TO PANAMA

Peer of Schoolboy Vaulters Has Good Chance to Make Team.

Ralph Runyon's ability as a pole vaulter will be put to a severe test next Saturday afternoon when he competes in the Metropolitan senior championships at Travers Island. This is one of the biggest athletic events of the year in this section and all of the clubs send their best men for honors. Runyon will be against a picked lot of pole vaulters and will have to show his best as there will be no handicaps.

The championships this year will be harder fought than ever as the winners of events will have their expenses paid to Cambridge later for the national tryouts when the team which is to go to the Panama-Pacific Exposition is to be picked. The local athlete, who will compete for the Pastime A. C., is practising hard, trying to raise his best marks. It is doubtful that Jack Fritts will enter.

Platt Adams, formerly of this city, who was a member of the 1912 Olympic team to Sweden, will be seen in the hop, step and jump event and stands a fine chance of winning it.

VANDEVENTER IS ONE OF COLLEGE "CHAMPS"

Plainfield Boy a Member of Winning Tennis Aggregation.

Ludlow VanDeventer, of this city, played on the Princeton tennis team against Cornell, yesterday, on the West Side Tennis Club courts at Forest Hill, L. I., when the New Jersey team made a clean sweep of four singles and two doubles matches and annexed the national intercollegiate team championship. The local player took part in a singles match, defeating W. C. Blair 6-3 and 6-4. Playing with Leslie Cooper in the doubles, VanDeventer took the measure of C. A. Thompson and F. T. Hunter in straight sets 7-5, 6-4.

The match was a play-off of a tie in the league standing and the Ithacans never had a chance to win. The playing of Captain Church, of the Tiger combination, was the feature of the day.

WHIRLWIND FINISH DEFEATED PROFESSORS

Eleventh Hour Spurt Put the Game on Ice for Seniors.

Old scores that have been piling up since the last P. H. S. Senior-Faculty game last June were settled yesterday in a very surprising manner on Parker Field, when the ball-players of the graduating class toyed with the "profs" until the ninth session, then scored three runs, which were enough to give them a 13 to 12 victory. Those who left the ball grounds at the beginning of the last round, when the score was 12 to 10 in favor of the teachers, missed the best part of the entire game, and the changes of expression on every one of the faculty's faces was alone worth the admission and time spent.

Whether the Seniors had their plan of campaign previously laid out or not is a mystery, but they finished up in a manner that would equal a story-book tale. In the first inning the Faculty crossed the plate six times, while the Seniors could get only a pair. For eight long innings the schoolboys held the short end of the score, but their attack in the ninth frame put their opponents off their game and the last half of the ninth was of the one, two, three routine.

At the end of the third inning the Faculty had two more runs and the score was 8 to 2. The Seniors then came to life and caught Mr. Woodman resting on his honors of the three previous innings. The result was several hits and three runs, but Woodman's teammates came to the rescue and scored a trio of runs in their half of the fourth. To the many spectators who had gathered for the slaughter, the Faculty put the game on ice in the fifth, when they scored once and blanked their opponents, giving them a lead of seven runs.

Thinking that this lead was enough for their school masters, the Seniors took the situation in hand and began to turn the tide of the game in the sixth inning. Two in that round, one in the seventh, two in the eighth and three in the ninth made the prettiest finish that has been seen on Parker Field in many a day. In all four of these innings the professors were given a goose egg. Chamberlain, Peacock and Rosenson did the twirling for the winners.

The weakfishing has started in in earnest over in Jamaica Bay. Good catches were made this week at the Raunt and at Canarsie. The fish are running large, too, some of them averaging from three to four pounds apiece. Shrimp is the favorite bait over there, although a few are using shedder crabs and bloodworms. The guides all chum for their fish and thus keep them around the boat once they are located. Catches have run from a dozen to twenty fish to the man. Weakfishermen are now waiting for word of the weaks taking hold in Raritan Bay. The guides and boathouse men along Raritan Bay, fellows who get out for the fish just as soon as they are being taken in the nets and try to coax them to take the hook. As a rule, the Jersey fishing does not start in until ten days to two weeks after the fish are taking the hook on the other side.

Good catches of sea bass were made at the Cholera Banks recently. One man got ten sea bass and one fluke. Several big humpbacks are being picked up by the regulars, and catches run from six to ten fish to the man.

While fishing for pickerel yesterday in Branch Brook Park Lake, a fisherman caught two Oswego bass, one of which tipped the beam at three pounds four ounces, and the other about two pounds. Both fish were returned to the lake after weighing.

The fish known as the Susquehanna salmon is what is called a wall-eyed pike in this part of the country. It is not of the salmon family, having none of the distinguishing characteristics of that fish, its flesh being white instead of pink. It is found in great abundance in all the Great Lakes. Several large-sized specimens have been caught in Greenwood Lake. It is called the wall-eyed pike because of the distinctly marked eyes. It prefers clean, clear and rapid streams, and frequents the vicinity of sunken logs, etc., and is one of the gamest battlers in the entire list of fresh water fish. The proper tackle for this fish is the same as that for black bass. The pike prefers minnows, but will also greedily take crawfish, small frogs, tadpoles, worms, lamphrey eels and helgramites.

There was an exodus of striped bass fishermen from New York yesterday bound for points along the Susquehanna River.

Bass are jumping evenings in Weequahic Lake, which is a splendid sign. They snap up the flys and bugs that drop on the water as though they are hungry. A visitor to Branch Brook Lake said he saw the bass leaping there about 6 o'clock in the evening and the splash they made looked as though the bass were big ones.

PRINCETON "GRAD" ON A LONG HIKE

Dr. Wm. Vail Stops Here Enroute to Reunion of His Class Today.

Robert J. Shaw, the local druggist, was pleasantly surprised while at dinner yesterday noon at the Waldorf, he was greeted by a man who he recognized as an old friend. He was Dr. William Vail, of Newark, and he was accompanied by Mr. Cooper. Mr. Shaw joined his friend at dinner and they talked over old times and thoroughly enjoyed about an hour in each other's company.

Dr. Vail is a member of the class of 1865 of Princeton University and was walking from Newark to Princeton for the annual reunion which takes place today. He likes hiking and does not mind going a long distance at a stretch. Today is the fiftieth anniversary of Dr. Vail's graduation, to the day, and the class of '65 is there to head the long parade composed of the many classes that have been graduated since that time. He will also witness the annual baseball game between Princeton and Yale and will be there "rooting" for the Orange and Black as hard as any of the supporters.

After spending a short time with Mr. Shaw after dinner, Dr. Vail and his companion left for their destination, Somerville being their next stop. They expected to make Princeton either late last night or early this morning.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN THE PLAINFIELD BUILDING WORLD

Homes of Individuality

Selected by Walter J Keith, Architect

BRICK BUNGALOW DESIGN NO. D-1359

The bungalow illustrated herewith depicts a worthy example of adaptability of brick for bungalow construction.

There are many practical advantages in the arrangement of rooms suggested for this exterior. The living room and dining room extending across the front of the house will make a most desirable and beautiful interior.

The second desirable feature is the owner's room, with its adjoining sleeping porch opening from the living room through a pair of glass doors.

The second floor shows how four good-sized sleeping rooms could be provided if the pitch of the roof was slightly increased.

The estimated cost, exclusive of heating, plumbing, electric work and decorations, is $2,500. Plans and specifications, $20.00.

All inquiries concerning "Homes of Individuality" will be cheerfully answered by simply addressing "Homes of Individuality Department," Plainfield Daily Press.

CHANGES LOOKED FOR IN PRICES

New $20,000,000 Hager Cement Co. Expected to Influence the Market.

DEALS ARE REPORTED

Revival in Ship Building Would Create a Heavier Demand for Supplies, Including Steel, Lumber, Iron, Glass, etc.

New York, June 12.—Various changes are looked for in the price and supply of building materials coming into the metropolitan district, before the turn of the first half of the year. The principal concern is with supply. If the reported deals for the centralization of control of various shipbuilding establishments are fully confirmed by future events and the new $20,000,000 Hager Portland Cement Company gets underway in time to take up some of the business expected to materialize within the next few months, a conflicting condition affecting prices will result. These two factors alone will have an important bearing upon practically all other building materials.

If there is to be a revival of shipbuilding in this country a heavier demand is going to be created for steel, lumber, iron, glass, oils, rope, tar, copper, brass and practically every commodity that enters building construction of the better sort. If the chain of manufacturing plants is established as proposed by Mr. Hager, it will put an effectual brake upon any skyrocketing tendency of Portland cement owing to the otherwise almost certain shortage in cement supply before the autumn season sets in. If the price of Portland cement is kept within the 90-cent mill level the price of all concrete ingredients will remain within reach of the builder and even common brick prices will not soar beyond safe metropolitan district wholesale levels.

In other words, the demand for construction materials in the face of restricted supply, in almost every branch of the trade save that of common brick entering this market is such as to cause the wholesale trade considerable uneasiness. Producers recognizing the trend of affairs are not desirous of selling their products at a loss, nor at a meagre profit. They are simply holding back until they can make some money.

In the meantime building construction statistics from all parts of the country show a $100,000 gain over the corresponding period last year. When manufacturers of building materials compute the requirements of the late summer and autumn they are giving more consideration to exports and general structural requirements. The demeanor of steel, copper, chemicals used in paints and varnishes, hardwoods, special grades of lumber, spelter, cement and common brick in the last few weeks are only vanes showing which way the business air currents are blowing. It may account for the action of railroad companies in coming out for liberal supplies at this time.

Whereas in the past the requirements of building construction was the principal factor under consideration, it is at present temporarily only a secondary factor. The requirements of brick and concrete roads, the heavy exports of shaped or manufactured building materials, such as metal ceilings, reinforcement, cement, etc., to South America and the neutral countries abroad have only one interpretation to those in the supply market here. Jobbers abroad are looking for an early peace and are preparing for the reconstruction period by loading up. It is argued that if this change can take place now with the war still in progress every day the end of the war comes nearer the greater this demand will become.

The result is that the American building contractor and the man who is contemplating the construction of buildings of any sort will find an ascending scale of prices as already shown in leading lines. Inclement weather has had a restricting influence upon the movement of materials in important centres throughout the East, but the basic supply is nevertheless restricted and will continue to be so. One authority said that it would be wholly conservative to arbitrarily mark up all building materials ten per cent. after September first.

FILE PLANS FOR BUSINESS BLOCK

Seven Building Permits Are Issued During the Past Week.

BIDS ON NEW WORK

Contractors Greatly Encouraged by the Present Outlook—Many Garages to Be Erected During the Summer.

The filing of plans and the issuing of a permit for the erection of a business building in the Fourth ward is the feature of the local building world this week. Aside from this, seven other construction permits were issued by Inspector T. O. Doane, covering the erection of five garages, one workshop and one alteration job, calling for the expenditure of $15,135. The total for the month is now twelve permits and expenditures amounting to $18,695.

The past week has been one to lend encouragement to the local construction outlook, and judging from the large number of plans that are out at the present time, the activities shown during the course of the week are likely to continue for some little time. Architects about the city report themselves as being fairly busy, as do many of the contractors, the latter especially so in connection with the figuring of estimates and bids on new and prospective work.

The permits as issued this week by Inspector Doane are as noted below:

First Ward.

Percy A. McVoy is to erect a 12x18 foot frame garage at 60 Sandford avenue on the property recently purchased by him. The cost of the structure will be $200. Albert DeNise has the mason contract, while George I. Ferguson will care for the carpenter work.

Godfrey J. Weinman has been granted a permit for the construction of a 17x21 foot frame garage at 16 Westervelt avenue. The cost of the building will be $450. Alexander Milne is the general contractor.

Albert Brinkley will erect a 12x20 foot frame workshop at 308 Berckman street at a cost of $150.

Second Ward.

S. G. Genung will erect a 12x18 foot frame garage at 822 Hillside avenue at a cost of $150. D. R. Conover, of the borough, is the general contractor for the work.

Charles B. Helyer is to erect an 8x16 foot garage at 446 East Seventh street at the cost of $25. The work will be done by the owner.

Third Ward.

John J. Praed is to erect a 10x16 frame garage at 944 West Sixth street at a cost of $60. Michael Rimmer has the contract for the work.

The only permit for alterations issued this week was taken out by Angelo Brancaty for improvements to the dwelling at 451 West Fourth street. An addition measuring 22x18 feet, and two stories high, will be placed on to the rear of the house. The estimated cost has been placed at $1,600. Fred C. Lancaster is the architect of the improvements, while Peter C. Thomson has the general contract.

Fourth Ward.

The business and apartment building to be erected at West Third street and Plainfield avenue at a cost of $12,500, by the Bloom Contracting Company is described in another column.

THE GARDEN DAY BY DAY

By TARKINGTON BAKER

The Week's Work In Brief

Prune all spring-flowering shrubs as the flowers fade.
Provide stakes for plants requiring support.
Feed both flower and vegetable plants liberally.
Stop cutting asparagus when peas come into bearing.
Sow New Zealand spinach, summer radishes and endive.
Spray to guard against insect pests and diseases.

AS fast as the blossoms fade prune the flowering shrubs. Cut off the wood that has borne the blossoms and enough of the heavier wood to allow for the growth of new shoots upon which, next year, the bloom will be borne. Usually the shrub, by the time the blossoming season is ended, will push out new shoots. Cut back to these, aiming, always, to have the top bud—that is, the bud just below the cut—pointing outward. Severe pruning, as a rule, will increase the size of the flowers borne; lighter pruning makes for quantity rather than for quality. If it is necessary to cut a thick, heavy limb back to a considerable distance, it probably will be as well to cut it off sharply at the main stem. The wound, if large, should be painted.

In both flower and vegetable garden, be prepared to stake plants as necessity arises. Nothing detracts from neat appearance more than a sprawling plant that should be standing upright. Stakes in the ornamental borders, of course, should be as inconspicuous as possible. Set them firmly and straight and never so that the top of the stake itself protrudes above the top of the plant supported. In the flower garden, galvanized wire stakes, made of straight, heavy material, are best and most permanent and least conspicuous. A supply of them—to be had of any dealer in florist's or nurseryman's supply materials—should always be on hand.

Feeding of plants grown either for flowers or crops must be liberal during these mid-season days. This applies also with equal force to the shrubs that have bloomed and are now being pruned, to vines, trees, fruits and, in fact, to plant life of every description. The nitrate of soda—indispensable in all gardening operations—can be applied either in crystal form at the rate usually prescribed in this department—an ounce to a square yard—or a solution of it may be made by dissolving an ounce in a gallon of water.

Applied either dry or in solution, however, care must be taken to keep it off the foliage of the plants treated. Potash in the form of sulphate or muriate of potash, may be applied at the same rate—a little less, however, say at the rate of a pound and a half to the square yard, will suffice. Acid phosphate, or dissolved bone, supplying phosphoric acid, may be applied at the rate of half an ounce to the square yard.

The limit of cutting asparagus is about six weeks. A fairly safe rule to follow is to put away the asparagus knife when the peas come into bearing. After the cutting season has passed, give the bed a thorough cultivation and if the plants have been earthed up, level the hills, apply nitrate of soda or liquid manure between the plants. If rust makes its appearance, cultivate frequently, at least once every eight or ten days, and spray with Bordeaux at frequent intervals. If the asparagus beetle proves troublesome, dust fresh, air-slaked lime or powdered arsenate of lead, or the two combined, on the foliage when it is damp from a recent shower or from early-morning dew.

New Zealand spinach, notable for its ability to resist the heat of summer, is one of our best pot-herbs and will richly repay the gardener who gives it liberal treatment. Drill in the seed an inch deep in rows eighteen inches apart. As the seedlings appear, let them grow until crowding begins, then thin to nine inches apart, eating the thinnings; and, at a second thinning, to eighteen inches apart, again making use of the thinnings. Each time, apply nitrate of soda. This, or liquid manure, should be applied regularly every fortnight. Cultivate thoroughly until the plants attain sufficient size to cover the ground and make further cultivation unnecessary.

Sow summer radishes in drills one inch deep twelve inches apart. When the seedlings appear, thin to six inches apart in the rows. Sow every two or three weeks for succession through July. In August, if the weather is not too hot toward the latter part of the month, a sowing may be made of the ordinary, or spring radishes.

Endive makes an excellent salad plant and should be more commonly grown than it is. Sown now, it will prove an excellent successor to the lettuce which, it is needless to say, will not prosper in the heat of summer. Sow the seed one-fourth inch deep in drills one foot apart. Thin to ten inches apart in the rows. The leaves may be picked for salad or for greens any time after they are four inches tall. It is best, however, when it is headed and blanched. Blanching is done best by tying up the leaves and keeping them so for ten or twelve days. Be sure that they are perfectly dry when tied.

Spraying at this season of the year is especially important in both flower and vegetable garden. Bordeaux used at frequent intervals will prove an effective bar to the advent of a good many diseases. Arsenate of lead can be applied with the Bordeaux. If disease gains a foothold, however, especially with melons, cucumbers, squash, tomatoes, celery, etc., use the ammoniated copper solution instead of the Bordeaux. The latter can be had ready made of dealers, and the former, also, may be purchased ready to dilute and apply.

RENEWED ACTIVITY NOTED IN TENEMENT CONSTRUCTION

Tenement house construction throughout the State has taken on fresh activity, as may be noted in the work of the State Board of Tenement House Supervision. Twenty-three permits were issued by the Board during the week ending last Saturday, calling for the expenditure of $287,500. Six of the permits, calling for the alteration of buildings, call for the expenditure of $2,500. During the preceding week, eighteen permits were issued by the Board, calling for work amounting to $262,500.

Three of the permits as issued cover buildings to be erected in this county, and are as noted below:

Elizabeth—Mrs. Kate Malleskie, 126 Pine street, three-story frame, $6,000.

Summit—Jacob Shahnazarin, 479 Morris avenue, three-story frame, $4,000.

Roselle Park—Angelo Di Donato, 104 Westfield avenue, three-story brick, $7,000.

JUST NOTES

Local automobile agents must be drumming up business, judging from the number of permits covering the erection of garages. Five is the number for this week.

By the way, what has become of the movement for a City Hall for the "Queen City." The Common Council has acted favorably on almost every other suggestion made in the first annual message of Mayor Leighton Calkins, as presented to that body last January. Nigh to six months have passed, but no announcements of definite action as yet.

Permits of last June called for the expenditure of $102,236. Present prospects are bright for going beyond that mark this month.

Dunellen to have plant of the Gulf Refining Company. Every little hamlet around Plainfield is receiving attention from industrial concerns, while this city is lagging as far as new industries are concerned. Would to the powers that some of our civic organizations and citizens who are well acquainted on the outside would get on the job.

Eighteen dwellings for this city that are now being planned indicate that some investors have faith in the steady growth of Plainfield.

BLOOM CONTRACTING CO. TO ERECT BUILDING

The extension of West Third street as a business thoroughfare is evidenced this week by the issuing of a permit to the Bloom Contracting Company for the erection of a two-story brick business and apartment house at the corner of Third street and Plainfield avenue, the structure to cost $12,500. Fred C. Lancaster is the architect of the building, while the work will be cared for by the owners.

Not only does the building contain two large stores, but also shelters six fair-sized apartments to cater to the needs of the neighborhood created by the continued growth of the West End of the city. Two of the apartments are to be on the first floor, while the other four are to be on the second. The structure will have a frontage on West Third street of 94 feet, running back to a depth of 48 feet. The rear walls will be of concrete.

EIGHTEEN DWELLINGS ARE IN PROSPECT

Predicted That Building Activity Will Be Doubled During Coming Season.

Should a fair portion of the plans for prospective buildings now in the hands of contractors seeking estimates, materialize, the building activities in this city should, without a doubt, be doubled. At the present time, plans are out or being prepared, for at least eighteen dwellings, one church edifice, one storage warehouse, several alteration jobs, as well as for additional shops for the Saurer Motor Company at West Front street and Clinton avenue.

Among the larger dwellings being planned are the new homes for Samuel Rushmore on Belvidere avenue, Champlain Riley on the mountain, near Washington Rock. C. D. Manning has plans out for a business structure at Craig place and Somerset street, as well as for a storage warehouse on East Third street.

Announcement was made this week also that the proposed new edifice for the Netherwood Reformed church will be started before the middle of the summer, the structure to be reared on Leland avenue, in the East End.

Other plans now being prepared include those of extensive alterations to the home of Brooks Carson on Norwood avenue, the borough, as well as those of a dwelling to be erected on Duer street by Charles Stephens.

Taking everything into consideration, appearances at the present time seem to indicate that local building conditions will soon reach a point close to normal. Plans are now out for nearly $160,000 worth of new buildings and alterations looking for estimates on the part of contractors. The remainder of this month, together with July, should be productive of many construction permits.

Copyright, 1914, by Doubleday, Page & Company

"Well, what has he"—

"Last night I got to thinking," she began rapidly, "about what Clara told us—thank heaven she and Margaret and little Clara have gone to tea at Cousin Charlotte's—but they'll be home soon—about what she said about Miss Spence"—

"You mean about Penrod's being a comfort?"

"Yes, and I kept thinking and thinking and thinking about it till I couldn't stand it any"—

"By George!" shouted Mr. Schofield startlingly, stooping to look under the piano. A statement that he had suddenly remembered his son's presence would be lacking in accuracy, for the highly sensitized Penrod was, in fact, no longer present. No more was Duke, his faithful dog.

"What's the matter?"

"Nothing," he returned, striding to the open window and looking out. "Go on."

"Oh!" she moaned. "It must be kept from Clara. And I'll never hold up my head again if John Farry ever hears of it!"

"Hears of what?"

"Well, I just couldn't stand it, I got so curious. And I thought, of course, if Miss Spence had become a little unbalanced it was my duty to know it as Penrod's mother and she his teacher. So I thought I would just call on her at her apartment after school and have a chat and see. And I did, and—oh"—

"Well?"

"I've just come from there, and she told me—she told me! Oh, I've never known anything like this!"

"What did she tell you?"

Mrs. Schofield, making a great effort, managed to assume a temporary appearance of calm. "Henry," she said solemnly, "bear this in mind, whatever you do to Penrod it must be done in some place when Clara won't hear it. But the first thing to do is to find him."

Within view of the window from which Mr. Schofield was gazing was the closed door of the storeroom in the stable, and just outside this door Duke was performing a most engaging trick.

His young master had taught Duke to "sit up and beg" when he wanted anything, and if that didn't get it to "speak." Duke was facing the closed door and sitting up and begging, and now he also spoke—in a loud, clear bark.

There was an open transom over the door, and from this descended—hurled by an unseen agency—a can half filled with old paint.

It caught the small besieger of the door on his thoroughly surprised right ear, encouraged him to some remarkable acrobatics and turned large portions of him a dull blue. Allowing only a moment to perplexity and deciding after a single and evidently unappetizing experiment not to cleanse himself of paint, the loyal animal resumed his quaint, upright posture.

Mr. Schofield seated himself on the window sill, whence he could keep in view that pathetic picture of unrequited love.

"Go on with your story, mamma," he said. "I think I can find Penrod when we want him."

And a few minutes later he added, "And I think I know the place to do it in."

Again the faithful voice of Duke was heard pleading outside the bolted door.

Penrod entered the schoolroom Monday morning picturesquely leaning upon a man's cane, shortened to support a cripple approaching the age of twelve. He arrived about twenty minutes late, limping deeply, his brave young mouth drawn with pain, and the sensation he created must have been a solace to him, the only possible criticism of this entrance being that it was just a shade too heroic. Perhaps for that reason it failed to stagger Miss Spence, a woman so saturated with suspicion that she penalized Penrod for tardiness as promptly and as coldly as if he had been a mere, ordinary, unmutilated boy. Nor would she entertain any discussion of the justice of her ruling. It seemed almost that she feared to argue with him.

However, the distinction of cane and limp remained to him, consolations which he protracted far into the week—until Thursday evening, in fact, when Mr. Schofield, observing from a window his son's pursuit of Duke round and round the back yard, confiscated the cane, with the promise that it should not remain idle if he saw Penrod limping again. Thus, succeeding a depressing Friday, another Saturday brought the necessity for new inventions.

It was a scented morning in apple blossom time. At about ten of the clock Penrod emerged hastily from the kitchen door. His pockets bulged abnormally, so did his cheeks, and he swallowed with difficulty. A threatening mop, wielded by a cooklike arm in a checkered sleeve, followed him through the doorway, and he was preceded by a small, hurried, wistful dog with a warm doughnut in his mouth. The kitchen door slammed petulantly, inclosing the sore voice of Della, whereupon Penrod and Duke seated themselves upon the pleasant sward and immediately consumed the spoils of their raid.

From the cross street which formed the side boundary of the Schofields' ample yard came a jingle of harness and the cadenced clatter of a pair of trotting horses, and Penrod, looking up, beheld the passing of a fat acquaintance, torpid amid the conservative splendors of a rather old fashioned victoria. This was Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., a fellow sufferer at the Friday afternoon dancing class, but otherwise not often a companion; a home sheltered lad, tutored privately and preserved against the coarsening influences of rude comradeship and miscellaneous information. Heavily overgrown in all physical dimensions, virtuous and placid, this cloistered mutton was wholly uninteresting to Penrod Schofield. Nevertheless, Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., was a personage on account of the importance of the Magsworth Bitts family, and it was Penrod's destiny to increase Roderick's celebrity far, far beyond its present aristocratic limitations.

The Magsworth Bittses were important because they were impressive. There was no other reason. And they were impressive because they believed themselves important. The adults of the family were impregnably formal. They dressed with reticent elegance and wore the same nose and the same expression—an expression which indicated that they knew something exquisite and sacred which other people could never know. Other people in their presence were apt to feel mysteriously ignoble and to become secretly uneasy about ancestors, gloves and pronunciation. The Magsworth Bitts manner was withholding and reserved, though sometimes gracious, granting small smiles as great favors and giving off a chilling kind of preciousness. Naturally when any citizen of the community did anything unconventional or improper or made a mistake or had a relative who went wrong that citizen's first and worst fear was that the Magsworth Bittses would hear of it. In fact, this painful family had for years terrorized the community, though the community had never realized that it was terrorized and invariably spoke of the family as the "most charming circle in town." By common consent Mrs. Roderick Magsworth Bitts officiated as the supreme model as well as critic in chief of morals and deportment for all the unlucky people prosperous enough to be elevated to her acquaintance.

Magsworth was the important part of the name. Mrs. Roderick Magsworth Bitts was a Magsworth born herself, and the Magsworth crest decorated not only Mrs. Magsworth Bitts' note paper, but was on the china, on the table linen, on the chimney pieces, on the opaque glass of the front door, on the victoria and on the harness, though omitted from the garden hose and the lawn mower.

Naturally no sensible person dreamed of connecting that illustrious crest with the unfortunate and notorious Rena Magsworth, whose name had grown week by week into larger and larger type upon the front pages of newspapers owing to the gradually increasing public and official belief that she had poisoned a family of eight. However, the statement that no sensible person could have connected the Magsworth Bitts family with the arsenical Rena takes no account of Penrod Schofield.

ADDRESSED FLOWER GUILD.

The regular meeting of the Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild was held in the Friends Meeting-house, corner Watchung avenue and Third street, last night, and was unusually well attended. J. M. Harper, president of the local branch of the guild, presided at the meeting which opened with a short devotional service led by Rev. E. C. Conover, pastor of the Temple Baptist church. Mr. Conover made an address also. In the absence of Mrs. J. H. Evans, Mrs. Black led the singing. Piano solos were rendered by Miss Carrie Higgins.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Hon. Thomas Mott Osborne, prominent sociologist and warden of Sing Sing Prison, against Equal Suffrage

That the all-absorbing topic of Woman Suffrage, which is to be voted upon in the Eastern States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts is attracting the attention of men high in our political and official life has been proven once more.

Only recently, Hon. Thomas Mott Osborne, of Auburn, N. Y., who gained considerable notoriety sometime ago by living in Asburn Prison for a week that he might study prison life and conditions and who was shortly after made warden of Sing Sing prison, gave an interview in which he made plain his attitude upon the question of Woman Suffrage. In doing so he allied himself with such prominent men as Hon. Elihu Root former Secretary of State of the United States, His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, and men of equal calibre. Quite recently he sent a letter to Miss Alice Hill Chittenden president of the New York Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, in which he stated, "that it is very true that I am opposed to equal suffrage and shall vote against it in November. . . . I believe entirely in the statement that possession of the ballot by women will make them less valuable in social work."

This simply serves as another instance to prove that the men who have served their country long and well and are therefore well qualified to give opinions regarding any move which affects the political, social or domestic life of this country are unalterably opposed to equal suffrage. After looking at the matter from an unbiased view-point these men are unable to determine wherein such revolutionary procedure as equal suffrage contemplates can work any good to the country as a whole.

Equal Suffrage Is Dying Out.

Since November 1, 1914—Thirteen States have rejected radicalism distinguished as Woman Suffrage.

By November 3, 1915—Four more States, the greatest in the Union, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts—will have defeated it, if the men learn how the vast majority of the women stand.

Get the facts and figures—showing how "Votes for Women" in Suffrage States has INCREASED TAXES, LESSENED RESPECT FOR LAW, WEAKENED GOVERNMENT, and LOWERED THE STATUS OF WOMEN.. All this has happened WITHOUT BRINGING ONE LAW IN A SINGLE STATE of benefit to women or children or uplighting social conditions.

SINCE NOVEMBER 1, 1912—Only two States have adopted equal suffrage for women—Montana and Nevada.

Montana and Nevada are the two wettest States in the Union. They have the smallest proportion of women to men in America. They have the smallest proportion of married men in the country. Combined they gave only 7,386 majority to woman suffrage. Over 5,000 of these votes were Socialistic votes and over 2,000 were Mormon votes. The total population of these two States is [illegible] less than the city of Pit[illegible] Pennsylvania alone has 15,000 more women than all the Suffrage States combined.

Less than 9% of the people of the United States live under Equal Suffrage.

No State has ever given over 30% of its electoral votes in favor of Woman Suffrage.

In forty-five (45) years Equal Suffrage has "slipped through" eleven sparsely settled States on waves of Populism, Mormonism and Socialism by the average majority of less than 9,000 votes per State—while 70% of the electorate did not vote in favor.

Let us hasten the coming of COMMON SENSE about WOMAN'S RIGHTS, the right to PROTECTION, the right to REMAIN FREE FROM POLITICAL DUTIES, JURY SERVICE, etc.—the burden of the ballot. Over 90% of the women do not want to vote—if you believe in democracy, in majority rule, let us defeat Mormonism, Socialism, Feminism and "Votes for Women."

The confident advertiser for work is convincing. Knowing his capability in certain lines, he "speaks right out." It's not egotism—it's self-confidence.

And by and by He Hit Upon a Real Idea.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Porcupine Got His Dinner.

"THE porcupine is a very clever little fellow sometimes," said daddy, "which I will show you by this story, Jack and Evelyn. You will decide that he knows a thing or two, I am sure.

"You know what a strange little creature the porcupine is. He is all covered with sharp quills that stick into you like needles unless you are very careful. It will not do to be careless around a 'fretful porcupine,' the name by which this little creature has always been known.

"This story has to do with the glad springtime, when the air was balmy and all the woods had turned green. Under a pine tree lay a queer round ball that was stuck full of sharp quills, and this, of course, was the porcupine. He had enjoyed a nap that afternoon, and he wanted his dinner.

"Now, a porcupine feeds upon tender roots and green leaves, and it was for a spot where the tenderest and nicest of these grew that the porcupine started. But he knew well enough that there were plenty of other creatures of the woods who knew about this same spot and that they would be starting for it also. So he made what haste he could.

"But you know the porcupine travels very slowly on his little short legs, and the other creatures were far faster than he. So when he got to the feeding ground there were so many other creatures of the woods already there that he couldn't get anywhere near the tender shoots and green leaves.

"Then he had to think hard what to do. There were too many other creatures there for him to attempt to shoot them with his quills, and, too, there was a big bear, and it would never do for the little porcupine to attack him.

"So what was the poor little 'fretful porcupine' to do? He just had to have his dinner. He was just as hungry as he could be. And there were the other creatures all in that spot, with no room for the poor little porcupine, and so the little porcupine thought hard, and by and by he hit upon a real idea.

"This idea came to him when he was walking back into the dark woods on his four little stubby legs. All of a sudden he saw a bed of brilliant blue bells, and then he knew just what to do.

"He stuck out all his quills, and he rolled over and over among the flowers and leaves until every spike was stuck just full of them. He looked just like a big ball of flowers and leaves.

"And then, tucking his head and legs well under him, he just rolled like a ball into the midst of those other creatures which were feeding, and the peculiar sight frightened them so that they ran away. And then the porcupine had a nice dinner all by himself.'"

Household Hints

STORING WINTER GARMENTS

Easy Method of Safely Storing Winter Clothing Over Summer Months—Purchase ten cents' worth of oil of cedar and saturate bits of cotton with it. Tack these in among the articles to be packed away and wrap them up in newspapers. You will find in the fall that your clothing is in perfect condition and that it has a delightful "woodsy" odor.

In laying away winter garments, if they are mended and tied with a label on the outside, giving name of owner, and each child's name placed on the underwear, it will save trouble later on. If clothes are worn considerably, mark them "seconds." What can be tied in parcels lay on a shelf, such as "Johnny's brown coat and mitts." Inside the chest put a small card telling what has been laid away.

SOME VINEGAR USES

Vinegar is good for use in many ways besides on the table.

Now in housecleaning time when the hands are put to so much hard usage with strong soap, after washing your hands rinse them well, then pour strong vinegar on them and wipe dry; you will be surprised to see how soft they will be. Vinegar kills the alkali of the soap.

Vinegar and salt will clean anything brass; but be sure to rinse off and wipe dry. Heat it hot and wash the brass.

Vinegar and salt applied hot is excellent for a sprain or a bruise.

THE TABLE.

Devilled Crab—Two cups crab meat, one-fourth cup mushrooms, two tablespoons butter, pinch cayenne, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon chopped onion, yolks of two eggs, two-thirds cup milk or white stock, one teaspoon lemon juice, one tablespoon chopped green peppers, one tablespoon [illegible] catsup, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Bake twenty minutes in ramikins.

Cheese Pie—One teacup sour milk curd slightly salted, two eggs, three-fourths cup sweet milk, half cup sugar, half cup currants or raisins well cleaned. Rub curd thoroughly before mixing with other ingredients. Bake in deep plate lined with rich crust. Powder with cinnamon.

Potato Cake—Two cups white sugar, one cup butter, one cup hot mashed potato, one cup walnut meats, one-half cup sweet milk, two cups flour, four eggs, five teaspoons melted chocolate, two teaspoons baking powder. Bake in layers and put together with marshmallow frosting.

Cake Filling—Break white of one egg into bowl, do not beat. Add two-thirds cup fruit, one pound confectioner's sugar, XXXX; beat thoroughly one-half hour. Chop fruit fine (any kind will do, fresh is best).

Sour Cream Icing—Two-thirds cup sour cream, two cups granulated sugar, one-half teaspoon orange or vanilla extract. Combine sugar and cream and boil gently until it threads. Beat until creamy. Spread over cake.

Baked Apples—Wash, cut in halves and remove cores of smooth apples. Fill place where core was removed and spread over top of apple a paste made of equal parts of sugar buter and flour. Lay peeling side down in pan and bake until tender and a light brown.

Noodles for Chicken or Beef—Take three eggs and knead flour till quite stiff; roll very thin, fold once, roll up, cut very thin and drop in broth.

Devil's Cake—Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter and lard, two eggs beaten separate, one-half cup sour milk in which put one-half teaspoon soda, three-fourths cup boiling water, one-half cake Baker's chocolate melted, two and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder. Flavor with vanilla.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD.

"Dick," said Nell as she met her husband at the door, "that Ellson woman has gotten Olive's home address in some way and has written a letter to her parents, a regular poison pen letter, telling them about the 'immoral' society into which we have introduced her. Her father has sent for her to come home."

"Does he believe we would do a thing like that?" exclaimed Dick. "Will he take the word of a person who would write an anonymous letter against friends he knows?"

"He doesn't know what to think, but says she has been here so long he wants her, and she's going. I hate to have her go, but I hate worse to have that woman think she has succeeded in driving her away. I wish she could stay a little longer on that account, if for nothing else."

"So she's scared you out?" Dick remarked as Olive came down the stairs.

"Not for a minute. I am simply retiring to fortifications," laughed Olive. "The doctor doesn't need to know about this, does he? Poor man, he has had trouble enough."

"I know," said Nell, "but he must be informed of every move of the enemy. It looks as if the postmaster were an acomplice. How else could Mrs. Ellson get the address?"

"How does she think of so many things to do?" Olive sat with her chin in her hand, looking into the fire.

"She's a clever woman and her mind is bent on harrassing the doctor, and venting the poison bitterness of her heart upon him," said Nell sadly. "I tell you, she's to be feared."

"Well, if my lady thinks she can intimidate me she is doomed to disappointment. She is making the doctor positively attractive by the wall of mystery and excitement she is building around him. She has thrown down the gauntlet, I pick it up. And so we forge a lifelong trouble for ourselves."

The maid came into the dining room to lay the cloth for dinner as Olive delivered this speech with appropriate gestures.

"We'll have the Parsons and the doctor and his sister over to dinner tomorrow night; you will not go till Wednesday. Can't you explain by letter and stay a few days longer?" begged Nell.

"Letters are no good in a case like this. I could fill a mail pouch and get nowhere. When I get Daddy in the morris chair and I sit on the arm and look into his face, that's something like! I can make him see light. Dear old Daddy! I'm sorry to have this come at the end of my visit."

"I told you that woman—"

"Nell!" Olive shook her playfully by the shoulders. "You surely would not be guilty of saying 'I told you so.' I'll send a letter to Daddy tonight, telling him what to point me."

CHILDREN'S DAY IN THE CHURCHES

Attractive Programs Will Be Presented by City and Borough Sunday Schools.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

Children's Day will be observed at Grace M. E. church tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. There will be special services by the children of the Sunday-school and all are welcome. Beginning Sunday, June 20, the Sunday-school session will start at 9:45 o'clock for the summer months.

The Epworth League will hold its regular meting at 7 o'clock and at the evening service the pastor, Rev. C. S. Gillespie, will preach on "The Battle with the Beast."

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST.

Children's Day will be observed by the Park Avenue Baptist Bible school tomorrow morning in the church auditorium at 10:30 with a program which promises to be attractive in every detail, one that will interest young and old alike, including exercises by both the main school and elementary department, the singing of carols led by William N. Runyon and selections by an augmented orchestra conducted by Arthur S. Mosher. All members of the school are requested to meet in their respective classes at 10:15 so that the school may march into the church in a body and be in their places by 10:25. A cordial invitation is extended the public to attend the exercises. The Young People's Association will hold their usual evening meeting at 7:15. These services are increasing in numbers and spiritual power, and increased activities are planned for the coming year.

FIRST BAPTIST.

The Bible school of the First Baptist church will celebrate Children's Day tomorrow morning at 9:45 o'clock, with appropriate exercises. One feature of the program will be an address by Rev. R. F. Y. Pierce, formerly pastor of the Second Avenue Baptist church, New York, but who left that church to take up evangelistic work. He is now conducting evangelistic services in New York city, a friend having granted the use of an automobile, and the service being conducted in the financial district of New York at mid-day from the automobile. Dr Pierce makes his services interesting as he is an artist of ability.

The Sunday-school program follows: Cornet solo, Miss Jewell; flower offering, primary and beginners' departments; song, "Jesus Loves Me," school; invocation, Mr. Dunwell; responsive reading; prayer, Mr. Harris; recitation, "Little Children," Betty Powlison; recitation, "The Roses So Sweet," Betty Case; song "A Bird Note," junior department; recitations, "The Flowers' Party," Estelle Holman, and "In Time Gone By," Jamie Case; address, Rev. R. F. Y. Pearce; song, "Angels Voices Ever Singing," school; benediction.

NETHERWOOD REFORMED.

At the Netherwood Reformed church the Children's Day service will be held at 11 a. m., at the time of the regular morning service. An interesting program of songs and exercises will be given by the Sunday-school. The evening service will be an illustrated story of the wonderful land and people of Japan. A beautiful set of lantern slides will be used.

TRINITY REFORMED.

An interesting program consisting of recitations, songs and exercises by the various departments of the Sunday-school will be held at Trinity church tomorrow at 11 o'clock in honor of Children's Day.

The program follows: Song, "Jesus Loves Me," beginners' department; recitation, "Nothing Too Small," Verna Dunavan and Wilhelmina O'Neil; recitation, "A Dear Little Bird," Milton Jackson and Elizabeth Trembath; exercise, "Little Helping Hands," Frederica Canfield, Elizabeth Gay, Helen Zepp and Hazel Schjarback; song by the school; recitation, "Welcome," Pauline Davidson; recitation, "A Children's Day Thought," Eleanor Sheppard; song, "From Sunny Fields," primary department; recitation, "Children's Day," Dorothy Giles; recitation, "Unless Your Heart Is Right," Frances Hedrick; song, "Dear Lover of Children," Edmund and Herbert Young; recitation, "Mother's Old Sunbonnet," Violet Neighbour; recitation, "A Wonderful Helper," Louise Pangborn; song, "Daisy Faces," Dorothy Schenck, Helen O'Neil, Hazel Pangborn, Louise Anson, Alberta Dolliver, Kathryn Smalley, Hazel Dunn, Margaret MacIntyre, Dorothy Kenyon; exercise, "Guest of Jesus," Junior Lindly, Brooks Benton, Albert Wilson, Stanley Neighbour; song by the school; exercise, "Mothers' and Fathers' Helpers," Doris Bittenbender, Dorothy Dean, Mary Baker, Alice Benton, Lucile Neighbour, Gladys Davis, Edward Kellogg, Harry Messler, Hervey Kesselring, Edgar Seager, Clifford Gary and Earle Wyman; song, "Doing His Will," primary department; recitation, "King Wheat," Viola Pawson; recitation, "God in the World," Alva Hansen; recitation, "Your Words," Hazel Crevelling; address.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MUSICAL IN THE P. H. S. AUDITORIUM

Following the custom of previous years, the Plainfield High School will give its sixteenth annual concert tonight in the school auditorium. A chorus of 700 voices, the largest group of singers ever heard in this vicinity, will fill the spacious stage and front part of the hall. The Glee Club will give a few selections under the direction of Miss L. A. Engstrand.

As a fitting close Charles R. Lewis will present a comic opera by five members of the Glee Club. This farce, "Penelope," is full of fun and laughter accompanied by some very good singing.

The program: Selections from Chin Chin, by the High School orchestra, Mrs. J. C. Evans, director, "To Thee O Country" and "Where the Flag is Full of Stars," by the High School; tenor solo, "Dear Heart Awake," by G. M. Stricklett; "Oh, My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose" and "May Song," by the High School Glee Club, Miss L. A. Your next new boarder is probably watching the classified ads just now—for "opportunity news."

If you have not advertised for a position, you are not competing with those who do advertise.

Some of today's "To Rent" ads will cause placards to disappear from windows and doors.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — EXPLOSIVE INVENTORS SHOULD BE ON THE FIRING LINE — BY "HOP"

TO GIVE A DANCE.

The regular meeting of the Daughters of Scotia will be held Monday night, June 14, promptly at 7:30. Following the routine business session a social time and dance will be enjoyed until a late hour. Refreshments will be served throughout the evening. Clansmen and their friends are invited to attend.

The "thrift-instinct" in people makes the "For Sale" ads interesting to them.

RAISE CORN IN THE FIELD BUT DON'T GROW CORNS ON YOUR FEET.

This is the season of the year when both kinds grow rapidly. You don't want the kind that grows on your feet. It's dangerous to cut them or trim them and besides they only grow that much faster. But it is sure and safe to use

Rexall Corn Solvent

The one best remedy. It removes painful corns and callouses painlessly, try it on our guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

MISS BENNETT A JUNE BRIDE

Becomes the Wife of Harold Mager at Attractive Home Ceremony.

A RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Rev. David Smalley, Uncle of Bridegroom, Officiates—Miss Marion Mager the Bridesmaid—Couple to Reside Here After Honeymoon.

Miss Hilda Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett, of 370 Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, and Harold Mager, also of the borough, were married Saturday evening at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. David Smalley, pastor of the Methodist church, Martinsville, an uncle of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends from Lowell, Mass.; Buffalo, New York, Fanwood, Martinsville and Plainfield.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine, trimmed with lace. She wore a veil and carried bride roses. Miss Marion Mager, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid-of-honor. Her gown was of white crepe de chine over pink and she carried pink roses. Evelyn Young and Marie Bennett, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. They wore white lingerie dresses over pink and carried baskets of white and pink roses. Gay Hartley, of the borough, was best man and the ushers were George Broadbent and E. D. Young. The wedding march was played by Miss Edith Mager, sister of the bridegroom.

A reception followed the ceremony, during which congratulations were offered and supper was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Mager left for Delaware Water Gap to spend their honeymoon. They will reside on Washington street upon their return.

The bride was the recipient of a large collection of gifts, including a set of solid silver from employes of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, New York, where Mr. Mager holds a position. The home was attractively decorated for the affair, pink and white being the prevailing colors. In the centre of the dining-room table was a large bride's cake, which was cut during the evening.

PLAINFIELDERS PLAN A TRANSCONTINENTAL TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. VanZandt and daughters, the Misses Ethel and Marguerite VanZandt, of Madison avenue, have arranged for a transcontinental pleasure trip to begin July 7. They will proceed via the Sante Fe to the Pacific coast, stopping at Omaha, Nebraska, Albuquerque, N. M., the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and both expositions, San Diego and San Francisco.

After several weeks on the Pacific coast, spending most of the time at San Francisco and Los Angeles, they will proceed homeward by the northern route, making stopovers at Denver, Salt Lake City, Yellowstone Park and lastly Des Moines, Iowa. Mr. VanZandt has a brother at the last named place, with whom he will visit while in the Capitol City.

MISS ANNIE SHANNON.

Miss Annie Shannon, sister of the late Michael and Morris Shannon, for many years well-known residents of the West End, died yesterday at the home of her nephews, John and James Shannon, of 445 West Third street. She was a native of Ireland and had resided in this city for the past forty-five years. She was a member of St. Mary's church and had many friends. Beside the nephews, John and James, she has three other nephews, William, Clinton and Harry, and two nieces, Margaret and Catherine Shannon, all living in Plainfield. The funeral will be held at the late residence Wednesday morning at 8:30 and in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

CIVIC ASS'N ELECTS.

The West End Civic Association has elected these officers for the coming year: President, Thomas C. Vail; vice-president, Joseph Edgar; secretary-treasurer, William J. Boyd. The directors of the association will meet at the home of the president Friday night, June 25, and the fall meeting will be held on Friday, September 10.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rowland Entertain Many Guests in Honor of Event.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rowland, of West Sixth street, observed their tenth wedding anniversary Saturday evening, when they entertained a number of relatives and friends from Newark, Bound Brook, Annandale and Plainfield. The evening was spent playing games and a feature was vocal and instrumental music.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland not only received the congratulations of the guests, but were remembered with a large number of useful gifts, including tinware and aluminum ware. The couple was married in this city on June 12, 1905, by Rev. George B. Shaw, who was then pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. The bride was Miss Kizzie Neagle, she being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Neagle, of West Sixth street.

BANISHED FROM TOWN FOR PART IN A STREET "MUSS"

As the result of the part they played in a scene on West Front street during the busy hours Saturday night, Frank, alias "Dutch" Mallinson, Charles, alias "Paddy" Lyons, and Frank Batallie were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, the first two named being sentenced to quit the city as "quick as their legs could carry them to the boundary line," and the last named being severely reprimanded. They were arrested by Patrolmen John Henderschott and Martin Welsh, after a hard scuffle and were incarcerated in the city jail over the week-end. Lyons and Mallinson have long police records.

In the scuffle Lyons' fingers were badly injured and Henderschott was forced to use his night-stick with telling effect on the men. They were all intoxicated.

DR. MAUD KINNAMAN TO SPEAK IN THIS CITY

Dr. Maud Kinnaman, of Washington, Warren county, who was graduated from the Woman's Medical College, Philadelphia, on June 3, will address the Woman's Missionary Circle of the First Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the lecture room of the church.

Dr. Kinnaman is planning to go to the foreign field as a medical missionary when she has served sixteen months as intern in the General Hospital, Philadelphia. To secure this position, she passed a competitive examination with ninety-five others, only two of whom were women. All interested in missions are cordially invited to be present.

ICE CREAM AT PROCTOR'S.

Patrons of Proctor's Theatre have a treat in store for them next Wednesday, both afternoon and night, when every attendant will be regaled with a plate of delicious ice cream. It will be served at 4:30 in the afternoon and 8:30 at night, the time in the afternoon being set in order to provide for the school children who come late. The treat has been arranged by Manager H. S. Sanderson as a summer surprise in the belief that the cool delicacy will enable the patrons to enjoy the show just so much better.

LOCAL MAN CHAIRMAN.

Dr. A. F. VanHorn, of Central avenue, will be chairman of the first annual meeting of the New Jersey Association of Medical Inspection and School Hygiene to be held in the City Hall, Newark, Friday and Saturday, June 25 and 26. He is medical supervisor in the Plainfield public schools.

"GYMKANA" IS POSTPONED.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances the local physicians who had planned to give a "Gymkana" at the horse show grounds on Saturday afternoon, have been obliged to postpone the affair indefinitely. The physicians believe that it would be unwise to give its annual outdoor affair this year and consequently have abandoned the plans.

BOY BROKE ARM.

Roland Bellis, of Central avenue, suffered a compound fracture to his right arm last week while playing with friends at the Whittier School. He was on the ground and a playmate fell on his arm, bending it backwards.

MAY RE-TRY ROUNDEY CASE IMMEDIATELY

It is Rumored That Both Sides Have New Evidence to Use in Second Hearing.

New evidence even more sensational than that which featured the trial that culminated Thursday, is rumored to be in possession of both the State and the defense for a retrial of the charges against Mrs. Florence E. Roundey and it is expected that Union County Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein will move for a second arraignment of the defendant at the present term of court. It was at first thought that the jury's disagreement, following a deliberation of nearly twenty-four hours, would result in the perjury charges being laid over until the October term, but it is understood that the State is desirous of calling a retrial as soon as possible in order to bring about a disposition. Mrs. Roundey is accused of having bribed witnesses to give false testimony to prove John K. Roundey's infidelity as a husband.

When the case comes before another jury it is not at all unlikely that Harold Vanderhoef, the twenty-two-year-old "amateur-detective," who confessed to a bribe of $100 received from Mrs. Roundey, will be brought from San Francisco to testify for the State. Vanderhoef's sudden disappearance, and testimony advanced at last week's trial to the effect that Mrs. Roundey had seen him off when he left New York for California, was one of the sensations in the first arraignment.

The case was marked by contradictory evidence and the disagreement was not entirely unexpected.

WILL DECIDE CONTEST AT COUNCIL MEETING

Boy Scout Essay Competition for Camp Cooking Kit.

At the monthly meeting of the Boy Scout Council at the Y. M. C. A., at 8 o'clock this evening, judges will decide which Scout will receive the camp-cooking kit offered by Mrs. Stephen G. VanHoesen, district agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, for the best composition on the Scout law prescribing kindness to animals and fellow beings. Competitors must have their competed compositions in by 8 o'clock this evening.

The matter of having the Boy Scouts of the city police Parker Field on the night of July 5, when Independence Day will be celebrated with a community concert and fireworks display, will also be brought up before the council and several additional members will be voted upon, including formal action upon the resignation of A. V. Searing, Jr., as Scoutmaster of Troop 5, and the appointment of his successor. John Richards, who is the first Scout in Plainfield to be advanced from the rank of tenderfoot through all the offices in a troop to the highest. Mr. Searing will continue as first deputy Scout commissioner. Scoutmasters and assistants are invited to be present at tonight's meeting.

WILL RUN A WEEK-END SPECIAL TO THE LAKE

For the purpose of meeting the growing demand for better week-end train service from Plainfield and adjacent communities to the territory covered by the High Bridge branch, especially Lake Hopatcong, Budd's Lake and Schooley's Mountain, as well as to main line points between Somerville and High Bridge, the New Jersey Central announces that by a readjustment of certain traffic conditions, it has been possible to put into commission a Saturday half-holiday special between New York and Lake Hopatcong. This train will run through without change of cars.

The new train will be operated for the particular benefit of New Jersey Central patrons and will make its first trip on Saturday, July 3, leaving Plainfield at 1:32 in the afternoon. It will make stops at Netherwood, Grant and Clinton avenues, as well as the North Avenue station. It is believed that this train will prove a great convenience to people in this section.

BOX CAR BROKEN INTO.

The local police were notified by officials of the Union Beef Company, this morning, that a box car full of meat belonging to that concern had been tampered with while standing on the East Fourth street siding some time during last night. The police are investigating.

90 CENT GAS RATE IS AFFIRMED BY COURT

Trenton, June 14.—The Court of Errors and Appeals today, by a vote of 6 to 4, reversed its former decision in the 90-cent gas rate case. The decision today sustains an order issued some months ago by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners fixing a rate of 90 cents per thousand feet for gas in all sections of the State served by the Public Service Corporation, including Plainfield. The original order was made after a hearing on rates asked by the city of Passaic, and the Public Service Company appealed to the courts. In a former decision the court decided that franchise values were not considered by the Utility Commission in determining the rates, and there was such a public demand for a rehearing that the court reopened the matter, with a victory for the people and the Utility Commission.

CRESCENT COMPANY HOLDS MEMORIAL

Uniformed Pythians Make Annual Visit to Departed Brothers's Grave.

Sixteen members of Crescent Company, No. 13, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, made the annual visitation to Portchester, N. Y., yesterday, for the purpose of conducting memorial services over the grave of Harvey L. Patterson, a member of the organization at the time of his death in the Westfield wreck, January 27, 1903. The trip was made both ways by automobile and was accomplished without any mishap. The party left Plainfield yesterday morning at 7:15, reaching Portchester at 11 o'clock. The return trip was commenced at 8 o'clock last night, but owing to the fact that the wrong road was taken in the darkness shortly after Portchester was left behind they did not get to Plainfield until 1:15 this morning.

The exercises at the grave in Rye cemetery were conducted by Captain J. E. Flannery, assisted by William Watkins, as prelate, and Fred Douglas, Oliver Pierson and Charles McGinley, representing "Friendship," "Charity" and "Benevolence" respectively. The Portchester Knights of Pythias also took part and after the Patterson service had been completed the Plainfielders assisted in the regular Portchester memorial. Every courtesy was shown the Crescent Company men by their New York State hosts and they returned home loud in their praises at the treatment accorded them. The arrangement for the trip was made by Harry Werner.

Pythian Memorial Day will be observed in this city next Sunday and the Portchester company has promised to attend, and bring a band. Crescent Company has engaged a drum corps and with a large delegation from Elizabeth, the delegations will form an imposing procession on its way to and from the cemeteries.

MANY YOUNG WOMEN TAKE ENTRANCE "EXAMS"

The following young women from the Hartridge School are among a large number of pupils taking the board examinations for entrance to college at the Plainfield High School today.

The Misses Catherine Ames, of Metuchen, preliminaries; Augusta Burke, finals; Elizabeth Burke, preliminaries; Sarah Carvalho, preliminaries; Marjorie Dobins, of Pasedena, preliminaries; Louise Earle, Marion Frost, preliminaries; Bessie Jewett, finals; Dorothy Jewett, preliminaries; Alice Joy, Helen Lounsbery, Dorothy McKenzie, preliminaries; Margaret Miller, finals; Lucille Martin, of Louisville, preliminaries; Susan Nevin, of Sewickly, finals; Saidee Sandford and Esther Strong, preliminaries; Margaret Stanley-Brown, of Kew Gardens, finals; Barbara VanVliet, preliminaries.

TO HOLD BIRTHDAY SOCIAL.

A birthday social will be held in T. A. B. Hall, Friday night. The affair will be given by St. Mary's Social Club and is for all members of that organization whose natal day falls some time during the month of June. The committee in charge of arrangements have a particularly pleasing program and all who attend are assured of a delightful evening.

CHIEF O'NEILL REMOVED.

As the result of an investigation and hearing on charges preferred by prominent citizens, the Westfield Common Council has removed Chief of Police O'Neill from office. He has held the position for a number of years and the recent dissension among department members has resulted in the unearthment of the allegations.

P. H. S. SONGSTERS IN UNUSUAL PRODUCTION

Glee Club Appeared in Annual Concert With Many Novelties.

One of the most successful and enjoyable concerts ever given by Plainfield High School pupils was presented Saturday night by the entire school in the sixteenth annual musical. Under the direction of Charles L. Lewis, supervisor of music, a volume was attained from over five hundred voices never before equalled in this city. The Glee Club, which has been organized and instructed during this school term by Miss Lottie C. Engstrand, performed in a finished manner, that reflected credit on the coach.

Several selections of outside talent were greatly enjoyed and heartily received by the large audience. Morgan L. Stricklett, the tenor soloist, sang a number of selections and was called out repeatedly for encores. The Philomela ladies' sextette, composed of Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Mrs. Guy Bender, Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. Whitall, Mrs. Moyer and Mary Tugwill, and accompanied by Arthur Lewis and Mrs. Johnson on the violins, was exceptionally fine.

The last number on the program, a comic opera entitled "Penelope," or the "Milkman's Bride," put the audience into a joyful laughter. The members of the small cast took their parts well. They were "Mrs. Croacher," Ruth Voorhees; "Penelope," a servant, Margaret Tubbs; "Pitcher," a policeman, Daniel McNamee; "Tossu," a soldier, Frederick Chamberlain; "Chalks," the milkman, Evan Stevens.

HARRY SMITH WILL RECEIVE SHEEPSKIN

Prominent Borough Boy to Be Graduated From Rutgers College With Honors.

Harry B. Smith, son of Captain and Mrs. William C. Smith, of Grandview avenue, will be graduated from Rutgers College at the 149th commencement exercises tomorrow morning. He will receive the degree of bacnelor of science. Since entering the New Brunswick institution, following his graduation from North Plainfield High School, Smith has attained a high place in academic work and athletics. He is chairman of the senior ball committee and has charge of the reception to be given in the college auditorium tomorrow night.

He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, and of the Freshmen and Junior Class honorary societies. While at Rutgers, Smith was manager of the varsity tennis team, a member of the Junior promenade and Freshmen pipe committees, was manager of the class football team, and a member of the College Glee Club.

Spencer Embree and Russell J. Savitz, of Westfield, will also be graduated tomorrow. Embree was formerly employed as a reporter by the Plainfield Daily Press.

LOST $4 GAMBLING, THEN HELD UP MAN WHO WON IT

Because he accepted the role of highway robber to get back the sum of $4 which he alleged one George Gilbert, of 386 East Third street, had won from him in a crap game, Eugene Britton, a colored character, claiming residence at 606 West Fourth street, will probably have to sojourn for twenty days in the Middlesex county jail at New Brunswick. Britton was nabbed by a posse of Dunellen citizens after Gilbert had been shorn of his pocket money by a dark complexioned gent who escaped from Marshal Weiner after the latter had gotten him as far as the Dunellen lockup Saturday afternoon.

When caught for the second time Britton stoutly denied the charge against him, but after the Dunellen police had retraced their steps Gilbert's $4 were located, and confronted by this material evidence the prisoner broke down, saying that Gilbert had proven the luckier at "rollin' the bones." As a consequence Gilbert was arrested for "shooting crap" and received a sentence of $5 with the option of spending twenty days with Britton. Gilbert paid.

MRS. MARY ATKINS KYTE.

Mrs. Mary Atkins Kyte, widow of Arthur B. Kyte, died yesterday at her home in Westfield. She was sixty-nine years old and had many friends in Plainfield. The funeral will be held in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Westfield, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and burial will be in Fairview cemetery, Westfield.

TORCHLIGHT PARADE WILL BE A FEATURE

Extensive Plans Being Made for the Independence Day Celebration.

Prospects of reaching the $500 in the public subscription asked for in order to give this city a suitable Independence Day celebration now seem bright. In the belief that the public will subscribe the full amount the committee is proceeding with its tentative plans. These include a band concert, a fireworks display of a spectacular nature, and several other surprise features that are being held in reserve by the committee until the total amount subscribed is in hand. The time is short for making plans and prompt responses are urged.

The committee hopes to be able to have enough money to give the grounds a carnival appearance that night by the liberal use of Japanese lanterns, and to introduce the fireworks display with a torchlight procession of Boy Scouts, led by Camp-fire girls and the band around the grounds. Checks should be made payable to G. W. Wriston, secretary, and sent to the editor of this paper or to Mr. Wriston, 515 East Seventh street. Contributions so far made include:

LOCAL ELKS ARRANGE FOR FLAG DAY EXERCISES

In accordance with the mandate of the grand lodge, Plainfield Lodge of Elks will observe Flag Day by holding appropriate exercises in the Watchung avenue clubhouse tonight. The program will be of a patriotic nature and each Elk is privileged to invite his male friends.

Past Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon will deliver an address in keeping with the occasion while James Coleman will deliver a eulogy to the flag and Joseph O'Keefe will recite the history of Old Glory. There will also be music of an inspiring order. The plans have been arranged by a committee composed of V. W. Nash, Jr., Chauncey F. Stout and Francis J. Blatz. Similar exercises were held last year and proved so highly interesting to the members it was decided to repeat them on a more elaborate scale. Heretofore outsiders were not permitted to attend, but with the new order of things it is believed that a large gathering will be present tonight.

WEALTHY WOMAN LEAVES HER HOUSE TO SERVANTS

Nearly $150,000 in bequests, of which about $90,000 are of a public character, are contained in the will of Miss Laurastine Cotheal Smith, who was a member of an old Plainfield family, who died at her home, 23 Fulton street, Newark, at the age of seventy-seven years. Miss Smith had long been known for her activity in charities and in matters relating to the uplift of her sex.

Among the personal bequests are three of $6,000 each to the three servants, Mrs. Isabella Cuypers, Miss Sarah L. Sipp and Miss Marie Kraft. They are also to receive all of the wearing apparel, jewelry, household effects and all other personal property owned by their late mistress, and are to enjoy a life residence in her Fulton street home. The home thereafter is to go to Trinity Episcopal church, Newark.

Miss Smith's relatives were all born and lived in Plainfield, a number of them residing for a time at Watchung. She made her home in Newark at the death of her parents, but frequently made local visits. Miss Miss Smith's body was brought to Plainfield for interment in the family plot at Hillside cemetery.

TO GIVE A RECITAL.

The Misses Helen George, Marguerite VanZandt, Julia Rowley and Elizabeth Martin, four advanced pupils of Miss May Vincent Whitney, will appear in a recital on Thursday evening, June 17, at Miss Whitney's studio in the Babcock building. An attractive program will be presented, consisting of movements from Mendelssohn, Chopin and Greig concertos, with second piano accompaniments; also solos and two eight-hand numbers. Mrs. Noel Evans will be the assisting violinist.

POLICE ON VACATIONS.

Patrolmen John Henderschott, James Saunders and Arthur Craig began ten-day vacations this morning. Patrolman Roland McIntyre returned Saturday night from a similar sojourn.

REVERSE AT ARRAS FOR ALLIED ARMY

German Statement Says Severe Defeat Has Been Inflicted With Heavy Losses.

TRIESTE IN DANGER

Governor Leaves and Officials Follow Him—Italians Take Voluntina Pass, Driving Enemy From Strong Intrenchments.

Berlin, June 14.—A reverse described by the German War Office as a severe defeat, has been inflicted between Arras and Lievin. In an official statement issued by the War Office today it is declared that the French have lost heavily in that region. Minor attacks delivered by the enemy along the Yser were repulsed.

Gen. Von Mackensen's forces, attacking over a front forty-five miles long, have taken Sieniawa on the San River, and captured other important positions of the enemy in that region. The prisoners taken in that section now total 16,000.

Paris, June 14.—Admission of the loss of part of the trenches captured from Germans north of the Souchez sugar factory is made in the Official War statement today. However, further progress was made by the French engaging the Germans east of the Loretta Hills, north of Arras.

London, June 14.—A despatch from Rome says that the Governor of Trieste has transferred his residence to Adelsberg. The Chamber of Commerce has been transferred to Vienna and the Trieste Treasury has been sent to Lebiana.

The British steamship Arndale, 3,583 tons gross, has been sunk by a mine in the White Sea. Two Danish schooners, the Katrine and the Cross Merstal, were stopped today by a submarine. The crew of the Merstal were sent abroad the Katrine and the former vessel then set on fire.

Rome, June 14.—Official Italian War statement today says:

"At a number of points along the frontier from Tonale Pass to Carnia the enemy has attempted to arrest our progress. All these attacks were repulsed. In the region of Tonale the enemy, supported by strong fire from his fortification, attacked our positions near Tonale Saddle, the Chandy Peak, Monte Pissola, the Valley of Girbicaria, Monte Piano, the Misurina region, and Sesisi Pass as well as at Freikopfel Pass. The most violent of these was on Friday and Saturday nights, when, with the aid of searchlights, the enemy sent his infantry against our positions in the Val Grande, the Balpiccolo, and at Frieknopfel Pass.

"Our offensive in sector of Volaia in Carnia continues to make good progress. After taking Volaia we captured Volantina Pass, driving the enemy from strong trenches and he fought stubbornly on the retreat.

"On Sunday we bombarded the Austrian forces of Malborghetto with heavy guns, obtaining good results. The higher side of the fortress caught fire and shells and ammunition depots were blown up. Along the Isonzod we consolidated the positions taken."

Constantinople, June 14.—The Turkish War Office gave out the following official statement today:

"During the night of June 11-12 attacks of the enemy against our right wing were repulsed with heavy losses and the Allies had to fall back to their original positions. On Saturday morning the enemy batteries at Avi Ba Burnu fired a great many shells but these did not have the least effect. Our Anatolian batteries successfully bombarded the enemy's positions Sunday."

Athens, June 14.—Anti-war riots are reported to have broken out in Constantinople. German soldiers were attacked in the streets by Turks.

Cardiff, Wales, June 14.—The British steamer Hopemount, 3,300 tons, was sunk by a German submarine Saturday. Four members of the crew were wounded by shells fired from the submarine.

Plymouth, June 14.—The French schooner Diamant was sunk off Pandeen by a German submarine on Sunday. Her crew was put shore here today.

COURSE OF BIBLE LESSONS.

The woman's Bible class of the Crescent Avenue church has made arrangements for the coming fall and winter whereby Dr. Wilbert W. White, president of the Bible Teachers' Training School, of New York, will give a course of lessons on St. John's Gospel. This series will be open to the men of the congregation as well as women. Miss Palmer will give a course of lessons later in the winter.

JACK REED KELLY IS GIVEN BIRTHDAY PARTY

Jack Reed Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Kelly, of Second street, was tendered a party at his home Saturday afternoon by his parents in honor of his sixth birthday. The home was beautifuly decorated for the occasion. The color scheme of the decorations was yellow and white. The ceiling of the dining-room was a mass of white crepe from which myriads of skillfully made butterflies of yellow shade were strung. The porch was decorated with Japanese lanterns. The afternoon was most enjoyably passed by the host and his guests with games played on the lawn, for which prizes were offered, featuring.

The feature of the afternoon for the kiddies, however, was when the time for the serving of refreshments arrived. They assembled about two large tables. The refreshments consisted of ice cream, cake and other dainties. At each plate was favors of yellow baskets filled with candies. There were also heart shaped place cards at each plate. To these place cards were attached colored twins which led to two large Jack Horner pies, one in the center of each of the two tables. Attached to each piece of twine was some toy or trinklet and the drawing of these favors was attended by much merriment.

The party ended with a grand march. As the young guests fell in line for the march each one was presented with a yellow butterfly wand. A picture of the kiddies lined for the march was taken by Mrs. Dr. Tuttle. Mrs. Tuttle also took other interior and exterior views.

The young host received numerous presents. The young guests with some older folk, who were present, follow: Betty Carpenter, Harriet Jones, Luella Apgar, Cornelia Craig, Helen Ayers, Katherine Monahan, Doris Fenner, Gertrude Monahan, Cornelius Berkheiser, Elizabeth Hamley, Richard Terry, Samuel Latham, Clarence Apgar, Edward Kookogey, Gerard Gessner, Jerome Kookogey, Norbit Gessner, Jerome Monahan, William Burns, George Fenner, Lewerne Kirchner, Mrs. Henry Kirchner, Mrs. Theodore Apgar, Mrs. Edward Ayers, Mrs. Paul Carpenter, Mrs. E. M. Jones, Mrs. S. M. Kookogey, Mrs. Dr. Tuttle, Mrs. Wayne Burns and the Misses Hazel and Gladys Marien.

Examinations in the local schools began today with the State finals for the Eighth grade. The county examinations for the other classes will start Thursday.

The members of the Fanwood Fire Company will meet in the firehouse tomorrow night.

In discussing the possible winners of the golf tourney at the Westfield Golf Club recently, someone offered the rather interesting information that, as the club draws its members from Plainfield and Westfield, this place supplies more than its share of material. The professional mark of 77 over the course is held by A. J. Conway, of the township, while the amateur mark of 73, the lowest ever made over the course, is held by Councilman A. I. Nichols, of the borough. With the changing and improving of the links, now nearing completion, these two will have to hold their titles against new aspirants and some lively matches are sure to ensue. Besides that, Miss Hazel Gardener, of North avenue, holds the crown as woman's single champion and when paired with Mrs. S. W. McAneny, of North avenue, is almost unbeatable in the doubles. Miss Gardener is one of the best woman golfers in the club.

The weekly shoot of the Rifle Club was held on the Westfield road range on Saturday afternoon, when Captain Louis Tuzo, of Terrill road, instructed the boys in target shooting. Under his direction they are showing great improvement and Mr. Tuzo expects to make crack shots of them all. He is greatly interested in the club and is preparing each member with a set of four books on shooting, volumnes which have been recognized in the American Navy. Each member of the club was given a typewritten copy of the constitution and by-laws on Saturday and arrangements were made to have butts constructed for the range.

The morning services at the Baptist church yesterday, which were held on the spacious lawns, were attended by many people, including the members of the Junior Order American Mechanics, in observance of Flag Day. Rev. J. Madison Hare preached an interesting sermon and special music was rendered. The special services to commemorate Children's Day were held in the church last night and were witnessed by the parents of the cradle roll members and those of the Bible school. The interior of the church was prettily decorated for the occasion and the singing of the Bible school was a feature. Rev. J. Madison Hare also spoke.

'Gene Lidgate, of North avenue, played with the Young Men's Club team at Hackensack, on Saturday and did his share toward a victory by excellent work both behind and at the bat.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church has completed preparations for the holding of a strawberry festival in Excelsior Hall tomorrow night.

Mrs. Joseph E. Rhodes has returned to her home on Midway avenue after visiting relatives in Minnesota.

The one act farce, "How the Vote Was Won," was again skillfully produced under the auspices of the Fanwood branch of the Woman's Political Union for the second time in as many weeks when an excellent cast presented it in Excelsior Hall on Saturday night for the enjoyment of Scotch Plains residents. If anything it was more of a success than the first effort in the Fanwood firehouse and the audience forgot that it was a Suffragette comedy in their laughter. In reality it leans neither for nor against, but presents both sides of the suffrage question in such a morose way that it is bound to be entertaining. The cast follows: Horace Cole, a clerk, Reed Holliday; Ethel, his wife, Miss Dorothy Hoar; Winifred, his sister, Mrs. Lamar Van Syckle; Agatha, another sister, Mrs. Frederick Sherwood; Molly, a niece, Mrs. Edward Pierce; Maud Spark, a cousin, Miss Emily Garder; Lizzie Wilkins, an aunt, Mrs. J. H. Thompson; Christine, a distant relative, Mrs. S. B. Thompson; Lily, the maid, Mrs. George Reiner; Gerald Williams, a neighbor, Southard Outwater. The cast was coached by Thomas Louden, a sucessful playright, and Mrs. Louden, a former figure in the theatrical world, both of whom reside in the borough, and it was largely as a result of their efforts that the play was worthy of the legitimate, not alone the amateur stage.

One of the most valuable additions to the Fanwood Public Library since its formation was made several days ago when Mrs. Charles Norton presented twenty volumes of the sermons of Charles Hadden Spurgeon.

Mrs. Frank A. Stryker and daughter, Geraldine, have returned to East Whitehouse from Ocean Grove.

The Bedminster Reformed church Sunday-school will hold Children's Day exercises next Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Apgar has returned to Frenchtown after a visit to her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Peter V. Johnson; at Centreville.

A strawberry festival will be given tomorrow night on the Centreville Methodist Episcopal church grounds.

INFECTION OF GRAPE FRUIT THREATENED

Vast Sections of Florida Visited by a Germ Known as "Citrus Canker."

According to a communication received by D. K. Dilts, of Jackson avenue, the borough, the grape-fruit, one of the principal fruits of Southern Florida, is rapidly becoming infected by an incurable disease which threatens to kill the trees. The fact was discovered about a year ago that some of the trees had a very fatal disease known as "Citrus Canker," which thus far is incurable. The correspondent further states: "After experimenting on cures for some time we decided to burn the infected trees and so prevent infection. We had 2,300 young trees which were about ready to set out, burned up early, upon the discovery of canker. These young trees would have been worth 50 cents each in a short time. Our large trees have been free from the disease so far. In order that you may understand better what this means to this locality, I will say that recently the Federal Government has appropriated $35,000 and the State $125,000 to fight this disease, $68,000 being available for Dade county alone. Every tree in this county is inspected by special inspectors, every week. These inspectors all have special uniforms which must be dipped in bichloride whenever they finish inspecting a grove. If canker is found a special wagon with an oil tank is sent for. A long hose, with an oil burner at its end, is attached to the oil tank which is under air pressure. The oil is lighted as it comes out of the burner and a flame five or six feet long shoots out. This is applied to the trees until entirely consumed and the ground around the trees is thoroughly burned over. This disease has reduced land values considerably and has entirely stopped the clearing of land and the setting out of young groves. Many are only fertilizing enough to keep trees alive until they see the result of the canker eradication measures."

JUDGE SETTLES DIFFERENCES AMONG STREET COMBATANTS

Although he was haled to court as the aggressor among four young men implicated in some trouble in front of the Astor Theatre last Monday afternoon, Thomas Mullin, of North avenue, was the only one to be adjudged not guilty after a lengthy hearing before Judge DeMeza, this morning. The other three, including Jacob Abrams, Walter Smith and James Duffy, were reprimanded by the court for the part they played in the fracas. Mullin was exonerated from all blame and evidence tended to substantiate his contention that he acted as "peace maker."

Mullin and Abrams were in court on complaint of Patrolman Birmingham, and Harry Hall, manager of the Astor Theatre, subsequently filed complaints against Duffy, Abrams and Mullin. Apologies were ordered by Judge DeMeza and the differences were satisfactorily adjusted before the combatants left the courtroom. H. C. Runyon represented Mr. Hall.

RUTGERS HONORS FOR BOUND BROOK GRADUATE

Among the Somerset county boys who graduate from Rutgers Collelge at the one hundred and forty-ninth commencement tomorrow morning were: Roy M. D. Richardson, Ime M. Rose and Alfred F. W. Sfarra, of Bound Brook. Richardson was awarded the bachelor of arts degree, and Sfarra and Rose the degree of bachelor of science.

Richardson made an enviable record during his college course. He was one of the two commencement speakers, graduated with high honors, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and won the following prizes: Second Sloan Scholarship, Spader prize in history, Myron Smith prize in oratory, Bussing and O'Grady prizes in extempore speaking, the Joseph P. Bradley prize in Roman law. He was editor-in-chief of the "Targum," business manager of the "Scarlet Letter," a member of the varsity debating team, of the varsity gymnasium team, captain of the varsity tennis team, a member of "Queen's Players," the college dramatic society, and a member of the self-government board.

THE BIRTHDAY OF THE AMERICAN FLAG

Thirty-one States in the Union Are Today Observing Flag Day.

Washington, June 14.—With thirty-one States observing Flag Day, and patriotic societies and schools in every American city and village holding exercises in honor of the Stars and Stripes, President Wilson will sound the triumphant chord of the whole nation in a speech this afternoon. From the arena of diplomacy, world discord and international chaos, he will step out into the sunshine south of the Treasury Building, pay his tribute to the flag for which he labors and lead the salute of thousands of Americans gathered for the ceremony.

The birthday of Old Glory is of special significance this year, when the world has reached one of its crises. The responsibilities brought to the big Republic of the West are reflected in its people. It has seemed peculiarly fitting this year that Americans express their sincere devotion to the flag and what it stands for. The manifestations of patriotism and love of country are therefore more widespread this year than ever before.

One hundred and thirty-eight years ago, on June 14, 1777, Congress, representing the thirteen federated colonies, legislated "that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white, on a blue field, representing a new constellation."

The first time the stripes design was publicly recognized as the American flag was when it was flown from Prospect Hill, in Somerville, Mass., early in January, 1776. It was this flag that was selected by the committee sent from Congress to Cambridge to confer with Washington as to the adoption of some national emblem.

The thirteen stripes were made of the same width to express equal importance of the colonies, and were sewed together to express their unity of purpose. White was chosen to represent the idea of just and reasonable demands that might be secured by peaceable means. Red was chosen to represent the force and determination that must be used, if necessary, to secure justice.

This first flag bore the British union. Later stars, emblematic of the new constellation and permanence of liberty, were used, and were arranged in a circle to represent the endlessness of the colonies' federation.

The first official flag of the United States was made by Betsy Ross in Philadelphia in the summer of 1776. Elizabeth Griscom Ross was a widow, and kept a little upholstery shop in Arch street. One morning she had as a visitor George Washington, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin. This august committee had come to ask Mrs. Ross to sew a flag whose design had just been completed. She glanced over the design and suggested changes. The committee were more versed in diplomacy than in needlework, so they accepted her suggestions. One of her changes was that the flag should be oblong instead of square, as they had designed it.

Though the striped flag was flown to the breeze in January, 1776, and was perfected by Mrs. Ross and Congress, it did not have its official birth until the next year, when Congress formally adopted the national emblem.

The men who carved the nation from the chaos of political strife did not foresee the possibility of forty-eight commonwealths when they designed the flag. All the empire their minds could then compass was hedged about by the territory of other nations. So when new States began to appear, Washington ordered that a new stripe and a new star be added for each newcomer.

By 1818, when territorial expansion was proceeding on a stupendous scale, it was seen that the flag was about to become an unlovely, cumbersome affair, for it then had twenty stars and twenty stripes. So a law was enacted that year which gave us the flag of today—thirteen stripes for the original colonies, and stars arranged in parallel lines on the union, one for each State as it was admitted. The War Department now determines the order in which the stars will be placed, and the revised flag comes into official use the Fourth of July following the admission of the State bringing the star.

MR. NILES' NEW POSITION.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Niles and daughters, of West Eighth street, will leave next Sunday for Alfred, N. Y., where they will visit for a short time previous to proceeding to Niles, Ohio, where Mr. Niles has secured a position as chief mechanical engineer with Harris Company of that city. He will begin his new duties on July 1. Mr. Niles has recently been employed as draughtsman by the R. Hoe Company, of New York, and previous to that held a similar position with the Potter Printing Press Company. His work with the Harris Company is a very desirable advance and his many friends in Plainfield wish him success in his new field.

BAPTISTS IN EXTRA SESSION ARGUMENT

First Baptist Combination Defeated Parks, 4 to 3 in the Eleventh Round.

The First Baptist and Park Avenue Baptist baseball teams fought for eleven innings on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, the First Baptist nine winning by a score of 4 to 3. After the Front street aggregation had obtained a two-run lead in the eleventh, the home team made a great effort to tie up again, but could get only one tally across.

The game was close throughout and the Parks lost several chances to score by erratic base running. "Hub" Rose did the backstop work for the First Baptist team and nailed several stealers. The "First" team scored one run in the first and second innings, while the Parks were blanked until the sixth when they tied the count with a pair of runs. Patterson and Morley did the twirling for the winners while Fred Mills was the losing slabman.

The score:

"TUSH" JAEGAR MEETS WITH A MOTORCYCLE MISHAP

Albert Jaeger, of Lee place, who is better known to his friends and associates on the Saurer baseball team, with which he plays shortstop, as "Tush," met with a painful accident while riding his motorcycle on South Second street, near Manson place, early Saturday afternoon. He was jogging along at an easy gait when a wagon directly in front of him turned suddenly to the right. Thinking he could pass it by, also turning to the right, he put on second speed, but collided with the horse's head, causing him to lose his balance. He was thrown headlong from the machine, sustaining a broken collar-bone and numerous bad cuts and bruises. The motorcycle was badly wrecked.

Friends assisted Jaeger to the office of Dr. Raphael Yood, where he received treatment, after which he was taken to his home. He will be kept from his work for several weeks and the season will be well advanced before he will again be able to play baseball. Jaeger only recently recovered from another accident met with while riding his motorcycle, in which he received a badly lacerated leg, due to his being struck by a whirling pedal.

RAIN ENDS GAME.

Rain stopped the Saurer-St. Peter's baseball game at New Brunswick, yesterday afternoon, after the first inning had been played and the local team was in the lead, 3 to 0. Just as the third Saurer man was putout in the second round there was a downpour and the contest was called. Saurer scored three in the initial session, Johnny Dixon hitting the first ball pitched for a triple.

GETS NEW PITCHER.

Brooklyn, June 14.—President Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn National League baseball club, announced today that he had purchased Pitcher Phil Douglass from the Cincinnati team, and that Twirler Jack Coombs had been placed on the disabled list, because of an injury to his wrist. Douglass will report to Manager Robinson in St. Louis tomorrow.

MATCH BOWLING.

There will be a two-man match rolled on the Somerset street alleys, tonight, between George Robins and Jim McKenzie and Richard Clemens and Charles Robins.

SECOND BIG AUDIENCE SEES "INDIAN LEGEND"

Another large audience witnessed the closing production of the "Indian Legend," presented in the natural amphi-theatre on the slope of the Watchung Mountains, Saturday night, the production being given in a style similar to that of the opening night. The novel lighting effects and the smoothness of the portrayal of the various and numerous roles were significant features.

The cast was an unusually large one and although this is the fifth year that practically the same plot has been resorted to, the interest on the part of the public was keen and the audiences were appricative ones. The legend was written by William de La R. Anderson, township judge in Watchung, and was taken from a story handed down by one of the oldest settlers. Residents of that section appeared as Indians and squaws.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

The Nonquit Circle, of Temple Baptist church, will hold a ice cream and strawberry festival at the church on Thursday evening of this week.

One hundred and forty boys and girls received their first holy communion at the 7:30 mass at St. Mary's church, yesterday morning. In the afternoon they were enrolled in the various church societies.

The annual excursion of the First Baptist church and Sunday-school to Asbury Park will occur on Thursday, July 29.

Following the evening sermon at the First Baptist church, yesterday, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong baptized several young people.

BOROUGH COURT NOTES.

William Hudson, of Road Ending, was arraigned before Recorder Hand in the borough court, this morning, for driving without a light Saturday night. Sentence was suspended. Morris Shapin, of 521 West Third street, also received a suspended sentence for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk. Jule Codington, of Warrenville, was told to appear this morning, for driving without a light, but failed to show up.

Horace C. Huff, of Codington avenue, has resumed his duties with Hahn & Co. of Newark, after enjoying a week's vacation.

Press advs. are wonder workers.

FRANK APPEAL MAY CONTINUE ALL NIGHT

Atlanta, June 14.—The hearing on Leo M. Frank's application for a commutation of sentence was adjourned at 1 o'clock, after four hours had been consumed. It will be continued this afternoon, and an all-night session seems probable.

PRESIDENT PAYS GREAT TRIBUTE TO THE FLAG

Washington, June 14.—Paying a tribute to the American flag President Wilson in a speech at the Flag Day celebration at the Treasury Department today, declared that the "heart of America shall interpret the heart of the world." Casting aside any reflection on the European crisis, the President said that the emblem of America was fashioned by the lives and experiences of great men and the citizenry of the country, not by swashbucklers but through the sober and effective voice of the great multitude.

VETERANS RAISED NEW FLAG AT LEVGAR AND GARRIGUES

Delegates from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, visited the plant of the Levgar Structural Iron Company, in Dunellen, this morning, and hoisted a handsome new flag which the concern had purchased to be used on the big flag-pole recently erected. The veterans present were Commander T. O. Doane, Past Commander William Hand, Adjutant H. Craig Smith, Past Commander McVoy, Trustee John Worth Coddington and Officer of the Day Edward Vanderweg.

The Dunellen firm selected today for the raising of the flag in view of the fact that it is known as Flag Day, commemorating the 138th anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes by the Continental Congress.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN TOMBS.

New York, June 14—The Tombs prison was thrown into an uproar this morning when Hyman Liebman, a prisoner, attempted suicide. In company with forty other men he was waiting his turn to cross the bridge of sighs from the prison to the courthouse, but managed to slip away from the crowd. Climbing the iron work in front of the cells he ascended from the first to the fourth tier almost reaching the latter tier before being discovered. He then plunged head downward toward the cement floor beneath. Liebman is charged with murder and was to have been arraigned before Judge Wadhams in General Sessions today.

GAVE A LAWN PARTY.

Seventy-five members of the primary department of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday-school attended the lawn party given by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Murray at their home on West Ninth street, Saturday afternoon. The young people enjoyed sleight-of-hand feats performed by an out-of-town master of the art. Various outdoor games were features of the afternoon. Refreshments were served.

FIREMEN ON VACATION.

Edward Mosher, the first of the local firemen to enjoy the summer vacation, returned to duty at East Second street headquarters Friday. Chief's driver, Daniel Keiderling, and Hoseman Matthias Hefti began their vacations Saturday. They will enjoy them at various points of interest. The other members of the department will have their time off at intervals of ten days through the summer and part of the fall.

FOUR NEW MEMBERS.

Communion was celebrated last evening at Hope Chapel, when four were received into full membership, two on confession of faith and two by letter from other churches. At the morning service, one infant was baptized, while the pastor, Rev. Frederic L. Greene, gave the first of a series of talks to children, his subject being in keeping with Flag Day.

PRIZE FOR LOCAL GIRL.

Elsie Emery Bird, who was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1911, is one of those who will receive diplomas from Smith College, at Northampton, Mass., this year. She has been awarded the Clara French prize for the greatest progress in the study of the English language and literature. The prize consists of the income on $5,000.

NEW ASTOR MANAGER.

It was announced this afternoon that D. J. Sheppard has been appointed manager of the U. S. Astor Theatre in this city, Harry Hall, the former manager, being transferred to Orange. The change takes effect today.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 68 degrees; 11 a. m., 80 degrees; 7 p. m., 87 degrees.

SINK ANOTHER TRAWLER.

Dundee, Scotland, June 14.—The British trawler Queen Alexandra has been sunk in the North Sea by a German submarine. Her crew was landed today.

FLAG DAY EXERCISES AT MT. ST. MARY COLLEGE

Flag Day exercises were held at Mt. St. Mary's College today, appropriate addresses, recitations and songs occupying the main portion of the program which was as follows: March, college orchestra; standard bearer, Jack Gannon; drummer, C. A. Reynolds, salute and pledge to flag, entire school; song, "America," entire school; readings, "The National Flag," Charles Summer, by C. A. Reynolds; "The American Flag," Henry Ward Beecher by George Boylan; "The National Ensign," P. A. Putnam, by Charles King; song, "You're a Grand Old Flag," entire school; quotations for Flag Day, Edward Everett Hale, by Edward Hearn, Henry F. Howard, Edmund Noonan, W. T. Sherman, Robert Boehmn, Charles R. Skinner by George Delaney; Benjamin Harrison, by Jack Gannon; John Quincy Adams, by Daniel Medvezky; Andrew S. Draper, by Robert LeFort; Benjamin Franklin, by William Oakes; national airs by orchestra; selection from Washington's address to Roman Catholics after the Revolution, Catherine French; song, "My Own United States, entire school; history of two patriotic songs, "America," Mary Connolly; "The Star Spangled Banner," Catherine Cleary; address, George F. Reynolds; song, "The Star Spangled Banner," entire school; march, school orchestra.

A large American flag was donated to the college, George F. Reynolds, the donor, making a stirring address on presenting it.

STRIKE TIES UP CHICAGO.

Chicago, June 14.—Service on the surface and elevated lines of this city was paralyzed today, following the ordering of a strike of the employes at midnight Sunday. About 14,500 men are affected. They demand better working conditions and increased wages. No disorders were reported during the early hours.

AUTO RAN AMUCK.

John Nichols, of 303 Grant avenue, this city, met with an accident in Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, while driving an automobile and narrowly escaped injury. He attempted to bring the machine up alongside of the curb when it skidded and went up on the sidewalk, being badly damaged.

Grocers as Fighting Men.

In olden times in England the grocers' trade played a useful part in national defense. The Grocers' company was commanded in 1557 to furnish sixty men for "the resistance of such iniquitous attempts as may be made by foreign enemies." Further demands of the same kind were satisfied in successive years, and in 1588 the company supplied 500 men to resist the Spanish armada. Authority was granted to press men into this service, and apprentices and journeymen were called upon to leave the counter for the battlefield. Sir John Philpot, an early master of the Grocers' company, cleared the North sea of a horde of Scottish pirates by means of a fleet equipped entirely at his own cost. — London Chronicle.

Men In Petticoats.

It will probably be a matter of surprise to the general reader to learn that the petticoat was first worn exclusively by men. In the reign of King Henry VII. the dress of the English was so fantastic and absurd that it was difficult to distinguish one sex from the other. In the inventory of Henry V. appears a "petticoat of red damask, with open sleeves." There is no mention of a woman's petticoat before the Tudor period.

Early Submarines.

One of the earliest references to under water craft is in connection with piracy. Olaus Magnus, bishop of Upsala, writing in 1555, makes mention of "skiffs and vessels constructed of leather," two of which he had seen, in which the pirates of Greenland "go wherever they wish, either above or below water, and by their means pierce and make great holes in passing merchant ships."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Unhappy Endings.

"You say all the stories he writes have unhappy endings?"

"Every one of them."

"But he can't sell stories with unhappy endings."

"He never does sell any. That's their unhappy ending."—Houston Post.

There never lived a man who was not injured by perpetual compliments. —Newell D. Hillis.

No Sympathy.

He—Do you like your new doctor? She—No, I detest him. Why, the horrid thing had the effrontery to say there would be nothing the matter with me if I just stopped moping over imaginary ailments.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Not Catching.

"Was your husband's a protracted illness, Mrs. Nurich?"

"Well, he suffered a lot, but I don't know as it was catchin'."—Buffalo Express.

Opportunities approach only those who use them.—Emerson.

LOCATION OF PUMPING STATION CAUSES TROUBLE

The contractors who have been engaged in installing a pumping station on West End avenue, near Green brook in the borough, were obliged to stop operations for a few days as the constant pumping of water from the deep excavation had a tendency to cause the earth to settle along the bridge wing wall and considerable damage was feared. As fast as the water was pumped out the hole would fill up gain.

Just what the contractors propose to do is not known. A committee of freeholders visited the place Saturday and inspected the work. It was the opinion that the contractors would have to be responsible for any damage done to the county line bridge.

MEETING FOLLOWED BY SOCIAL.

The regular meeting of the Daughters of Scotia will be held tonight in their rooms on Park avenue after which a social time will be enjoyed. Members of Clan Mackenzie will be present and the committee has arranged a delightful entertainment for all who attend. Refreshments will be served.

FREEHOLDERS CHANGE LINE FOR NEW BRIDGE

The bridge committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders visited the Grove street bridge Saturday for the purpose of changing the lines of the proposed new steel and concrete structure which is to take the place of the present wooden bridge.

One of the affected property-owners was seeking a large remuneration for the use of land in connection with the work, but the freeholders found that by making a little change it would not be necessary to use the land in question. It is expected that the contract for the bridge work will soon be awarded to Arthur E. Smith, the lowest bidder.

Keep posted on building news. See Saturday's Press.

PLEASING MUSICAL AT SWEDISH LUTHERAN CHURCH

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

It seems to us that there has been a lot of unnecessary stir over the ordinance which has been introduced providing for the licensing of newsboys. With the single exception of the fact that the boys will be required to wear badges, there is not a provision in it which is not already covered by the state law, which now says that boys under sixteen shall not handle papers prior to six o'clock in the morning, or after seven in the evening. Mayor Calkins drafted the ordinance which is causing so much discussion in this city, and he did it in response to a request from the Board of Education.

Some of those who have declared their opposition to the ordinance say that they see no need for it, as boys under sixteen are never on the streets after seven o'clock in the evening. This is contrary to the experience of the Mayor and of scores of other citizens. Mr. Calkins investigated on several different evenings, extending over a period of three months, and he repeatedly saw boys under ten years of age on the street between ten and eleven o'clock in the evening. He quotes one instance where he was accosted on Sunday night by a child, who said that "he thought he was nine years old," with a request that papers be purchased. The Mayor asked the youngster what he was doing out at that hour, and was told his parents would not let him come home until he had disposed of all the papers! That shows clearly the necessity for some regulation which will compel such inhuman parents to keep their children off the streets.

The Daily Press would be compelled to license it's carriers under sixteen if the ordinance passed. While there is no apparent reason for such action where papers are merely delivered, we believe that if the Board of Education feels it must enforce a law of which some people doubt the need, this newspaper, with all others, should co-operate in aiding the authorities.

There is also strong merit in the contention that the boys will be helped, rather than hurt by the passage of the act, because it will prevent a lot of other youngsters soliciting business when unusual news events happen. It would be much better, if such a thing were possible, to require a license from every person, regardless of age, who handles newspapers on the streets, and make no license necessary for delivery. That would keep a lot of the hoodlums out of town who are sent here on Sundays from New York with extras, and who disturb the peace of mind of a great many of our citizens.

But in all the argument against the ordinance, the opponents must bear in mind that every condition contained therein is now in the state law, except that requiring the wearing of badges, and that if the the ordinance is not passed the school authorities say they are going to enforce the state act.

OUR COUNTRY'S BIRTHDAY.

July Fourth, 1915, will be a memorable one to middle aged America. But what of Young America? Juvenile minds may not grasp the true significance of the menacing times through which we are now passing. They are, however, impressionistic and is it not a plain duty of our city to indelibly impress this anniversary of our nation's birth upon the minds of our future citizens? Unfortunately, the charter under which Plainfield is financed prevents the Council from making a definite, stated appropriation for civic celebrations, and so the duty confronts our citizens to supply the necessary funds.

The time left in which this celebration can be arranged with any hope of having a first class exhibition is exceedingly short. If the necessary $300 is underwritten by tomorrow night the celebration can be obtained. There are fifty times the number of patriotic citizens in Plainfield willing to subscribe to a fund necessary to make this celebration a success, but it takes time to reach them in order to lay the purpose of the appeal before them. Who are the 275 citizens who are willing to give a dollar or more each to instill the spirit of home pride and national patriotism in the minds of Plainfield's people? Sign that check now.

MUSIC FEATURES CHILDREN'S DAY

Attractive Programs Presented in Sunday Schools of City and Borough.

PLEASING ADDRESSES

Recitations and Singing of Carols Add Interest to the Observance—Elaborate Floral Decorations Marks the Occasion.

Elaborate Children's Day programs were presented yesterday by Sunday-schools of the city and borough, comprising recitations, singing of carols and other special numbers. The floral decorations were also attractive and each service was marked by an address. The programs not previously published are as follows:

FIRST METHODIST.

The Sunday-school met at 10:30 in Vincent chapel and at 11 o'clock marched into the church following the American flag which was guarded by the local troop of Boy Scouts, led by Carrol Dunavan. The little children carried silk flags of all nations. The platform was attractively decorated with a profusion of flowers. The program was as follows: Invocation, Rev. C. M. Anderson; chorus, "Summerland," song by quartet; Scripture reading; song, "Flow On;" recitations by Kenneth Dennick, Barbara Dunavan, Ruth Hedden, George Knight, Ursula Johansen, Alice Sutphen, Alfred Leland, Mary Bostwick, Eleanore Coward, Herbert Von-Dreele; duet, "Jesus Loves Me," Florence and Wilbur Bosterlie; children's chorus, "Jesus Loves the Children of the World;" chorus, "Sunshine;" recitations, "What the Flowers Say," Florence Goodenough; "A Summer Day," Harry Kliner; "Two Hands," Emily Goodenough; "June Beams," by Daisy Hite, Jessie Hinchcliffe, Elsie Hunter, Hazel McVoy, Wilma Evans and Evangeline Coward; in connection with the offering which was a loan fund to help Methodist boys and girls through college there was a college penant drill. Harold Huff spoke on "The College Pennant," while a chorus of juniors sang. Miss Helen Joy explained the object of the collection and Gladys Larrabee told "What the Pennants Stand For.' Benediction, Dr. Anderson. James R. Joy had charge of the exercises; C. A. Braider had charge of the music; J. A. Martin was chairman of the committee on decorations and Miss Gertrude Sharp was pianist for the occasion. William Judd Stewart was on the program committee.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

The program at the Grace M. E. church was as follows: "Greeting of the Sunbonnet Babies," Mary and Doris Nichols; recitation, "What We'd Like," Kenneth Lippincott; piano solo, Ruth Winchler; recitation, "It's Here," Helen DeCamp; recitation, "An Acorn and a Little Girl," Marion Trenbath; song, "Little Flower Girls," Edna Jones, Bessie Monck, Lucy Bodine, Madeline Uhrhahn, Doris Elliott; 'Mother's Little Rose," Betty Moore; recitation, "Rosebuds," Margaret and Cora Shortways; recitation, "What the Daisy Told," Madeline Uhrhahn; song, "Our Daily Bread," Elizabeth Wallace, Alice Conover and Myrtle Jones; recitation, "The Best Day," Ella Schuck; recitation, "The Difference," Bob Winckler; song, "Our Flag," Clifford Nelson, Irving Dodge, Adelaide Jones, Frances DeCamp, Ruth Nichols and George Apgar; recitation, "Buttercups," Edna Jones; recitation, "Your Part," Billy Schuck; "Closing," Myrtle Jones; story to the children by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Gillespie; babies baptized, Carolyn Meta Jones and Arthur Harold Steele. The church was beautifully decorated throughout with potted and cut flowers and each child that attended the exercises was given a potted plant.

NETHERWOOD REFORMED.

At the Netherwood Reformed church an audience that filled every corner of the building enjoyed the Children's Day exercises of the Sunday-school yesterday morning. Everywhere were flowers, vines and singing birds. The members of the school forming in procession out of doors marched in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." During the opening exercises there was the baptism of children. For the beginners' department, Harry Hanaford gave the greeting. This was followed by recitations by Margaret Mallinson, Ethel Jones, Roland Prudhon and Renee Scott. Next was a song by Margaret Burke, Jeanette Rush and Winifred Fike; then a recitation by Blanche Hughes and a song by Jeanette Rush, and a song by the department. A song by the school, "Plant Roses," followed. For the primary department the greeting was given by Grace Smith, Muriel Kennedy, Louise Peterson and Evelyn Johnston. Next was a solo by Grace Smith with chorus by the girls of the primary department; a recitation by Chauncey Dunn, "Children's Day Best;" by Edward Noel, "God Is Everywhere;" by John Broadbent, "Summer Every Day." Next was a solo by Horace J. Martin with chorus by the school; from the junior department there were recitations by Madeline Hansen, "Grace to Thee;" Alice Leacock, "What Summer Brings;" a song, "We Are Little Gleaners," by the girls of Miss Edith Adams and Miss Mary Cooper's classes, and an exercise, "We Are Sunshine Parcel Post Girls," by Della Dunn, Gertrude Steer, Edna York and Ethel Rhodes. For the intermediate department the boys of Mrs. Ralston's class sang "Our Captain." After a few words from the pastor and a closing song the exercises closed with prayer and the benediction.

BETHEL CHAPEL.

Children's Day exercises at Bethel chapel opened with an organ prelude followed by the following numbers: Singing, primary department, "Holy, Holy, Holy;" responses; hymn, "I Think When I Read that Sweet Story of Old," entire school; recitation, "What the Robin Said," Lillian Somerset; hymn, "Praise Him, Robin," primary department; hymn, "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us," school; recitation, primary department, "The Growth of a Lily," Mrs. Lewis; song, "Children's Day," primary department; hymn, "Thou Didst Leave the Throne;" benediction.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST.

Children's Day was observed by the Park Avenue Baptist school with a program of unusual interest including exercises by both the main school and elementary department as follows:

Recitations, "A Welcome," Walter May; "The First Children's Day," Alice Spangenberg; "A Free Concert," Nelson VanWinkle; "Serve Where You Stand," Ella Nora Ryan; "The Frog's Advice," Milton Runyon; "Let Us Be Glad," Emily VanWinkle; two songs by the elementary department, one of which was given by eight junior boys was unusually good; the singing of carols was an attractive feature of the program led by William N. Runyon and accompanied by Miss Iona Wood at the organ, Miss Mary Clark, piano, and an orchestra including the following: Violins, Arthur S. Mosher, Mrs. Willard M. Maxim, Mr. Tanham, Miss Evelyn Berg; cornet, T. S. Casner; 'cello, Dr. J. F. Berg; Misses Elizabeth Mills and Clara Hadley rendered a duet, "God Doth Keep His Children;" "Children of the Sun," was an exercise given by Marion Bigley, Gladys Hadley, Grace Mosher, Mary Hunt, Gladys Barrett and Violet Hunt. The following members of the school gave an exercise entitled "A Costly Bargain," which was a graphic illustration of the exchange of all that one should hold dear in life, for the possession of wealth: "Auctioneer," Karl Wilson; "Youth," Ruth Pratt; "Health," Esther Hellstrom; "Word of Honor," Eunice Waller; "Good Name," Mary Louise Casner; "Love," Iva Hadley; "Soul," Clara Hadley; the object of the exercise was faithfully carried out in the powerful lesson it taught to all who listened; solo, Mrs. Grace Robinson; presentation of potted plants to every member of beginners' department. The program closed with the singing of "America," during which the entire elementary department waved small American flags. Rev. Birnew S. Hudson, pastor of the church, gave a short talk in a happy strain that interested young and old alike. The decorations were pretty, consisting of quantities of daisies, ferns and other cut flowers. The program was in charge of the superintendent, Willard M. Maxim, and the committee of arrangements included David M. Runyon, chairman; Miss Elinore Stutsman and Miss F. G. Hawkins.

TEMPLE BAPTIST.

No church service was held at the church yesterday morning and the Children's Day session opened at 10:30 instead of 9:45. The complete program was as follows: Hymn, "King's Business;" salute to the flag; song, "My Country 'Tis of Thee;" hymn, "In the Glory Land;" class records marked; recitations, "The Way to Do It," Dorothy Smith; "The Frog's Advice," Melvin Conover; "The Robin's Song," Kenneth Bouton, Mildred Hafner; song, "The Little Birds Sweet Carols Sing," primary department; exercise, ten girls from primary and junior departments, Elizabeth Scott, Florence Bouton, Mary Moore, Mary Brady, Ruth Treat, Eva Cortright, Mildred Hafner, Dorothy Smith, Radiienne Noyes and Morgier Emmons; exercises, drill, "Four and Twenty Black Birds," "Hickory Dickory Dock," "See Saw," "Pussy in the Well," "Little Willie Winkle," "What Will Poor Robin Do When Winter Comes," exercise with each song; hymn, 'Sunshine in the Heart;" "The Trail Dwellers," Lucile Johnson and the junior boys, Melvin Conover, Kenneth Britton, Joseph Waldron, Robert Garretson and Wilbur Quint; "The Light of the World." intermediate girls, Brace Baker, Verna Stewart, Edna Smith, Mary Conway, Bessie Griffin, Esther Tygard; "The Peace Fleet," intermediate boys, Harold Gulberg, Harold Griffin, Wells Rase and Mansfield Vestergard; offer service, "The Wheel on the Trail," junior girls; prayer offered by the following ten girls: Cora Cornilious, Eva Cortright, Catherine Baker, Helen Waldron, Catherine Harper, Mary Moore, Mary Brady, Clara Moore, Florence Britton Elizabeth Hafner; collection taken up by Edna Stewart and Christina Vestergard; hymn, "When He Leads Me;" greeting, Arthur M. Harris, superintendent of the First Baptist Sunday-school; address; story, "The King Looking for Happiness;" hymn, "That Will be Glory;" benediction by pastor, Rev. E. C. Conover.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Processional; singing by the school, "In Bright Ranks Arrayed;' song, "With Loyal Hearts and True,' school; promotion of cradle roll; welcome exercise, "Pass Through the Gates;" song by beginners, "Wake Up Daisies;" song by primary department, "Hark to the Song of the Roses;" distribution of Roses; song by Sunday-school choir, "Festival of Flowers;" song by the junior department, "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations" (flag drill); song by intermediate department (Camp Fire Girls), "Look Up, Be Glad;" song, "Blossom Bells," school; address by Rev. Dr. Herring; song, "Answer Aye Aye."

CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH.

An attractive program was presented by the Sunday school of the Crescent Avenue church yesterday morning, a feature of which was the singing of a hymn entitled, "All Things Bright," by the primary department. The music for this was written by Mrs. Elizabeth Bowen Foster, of this city, and a member of the church. There was a selection by the choir, and other selections included "Happy Are the Meadows," "Children's Jubilee," and "Dost Thou Thank Him?" the last named an offertory, by the primary department. The main school sang "All is Bright and Cheerful 'Round Us." During the service there was baptism and the offering was for the Sunday school missionary work of the Presbyterian Board.

WARREN CHAPEL.

The Children's Day services of Warren chapel were held at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, made the address of welcome, and the speaker of the day was Mr. Estes, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The primary deparment, in charge of Miss Helen Burke, give their class songs. There were also recitations by Dolores Barnard, Joseph Finney and Harold Clark.

The beginners' department, in care of Miss Bolsterli, gave their class songs, also recitations by Marion Stites, Agnes Teeple, Margaret Gilcrist, Earle Magee and Elaine Leask. A duet was given by Doris Hoffman and Howard Winn. A four part song, by Ruth Wheeler, Helen Smalley, Helen Breem and Eleanor Keiderling. The attendance of this department was 73.

The singing was in charge of Samuel Carter, Jr., and Mrs. Robert DeForest was accompanist. A soprano solo by Mrs. H. V. Lewis was especially enjoyed by the school. Assistant Superintendent R. S. Louis awarded the prizes for attendance and securing new pupils. The exercises were in charge of J. W. Gavett, superintendent of the school.

EVONA CHAPEL ALSO RECEIVES $15 IN GOLD

In view of the splendid showing made by the officers and teachers of Evona chapel at the June meeting of the Superintendents' Association held last week, a prize of $15, similar to the one awarded the Temple Baptist school for having the largest percentage in attendance, was given to that school. The Temple Baptist school made a remarkable showing, having twenty-four officers and teachers out of twenty-five present. The one absentee being detained by illness.

The chairman of the executive committee of the association attended the Children's Day exercises at the Temple Baptist church yesterday and presented the school with $15 in gold. This amount will be used by the school in sending a delegate to the Summer School of Methods, Asbury Park. The roll call at the association meeting showed the following: Temple Baptist, roll, 25, number present, 24; Evona chapel, roll, 10, number present, 9; First M. E. roll, 38, number present, 30; Congregational roll, 27; number present, 17, Netherwood Reformed, roll, 16, number present, 10; First Baptist, roll, 56, number present, 20; Trinity Reformed, roll, 66, number present, 14.

EXPOSITION CROWDS TO SEE FUNNY MEN PLANT CHESTNUT TREE!!

CHESTNUT. A genus of plants allied to the beech. The common or Spanish chestnut is a st[illegible] tree with large handsom[illegible] [illegible]ated leaves. The fruit con[illegible] [illegible] two or more seeds enveloped in a prickly husk.

CHESTNUT: An old joke or wheeze.

Take your choice—either is correct. Anyho[illegible] the world is not to anguish for want of chestnuts after August 25, American Press Humorists Day at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. For on that day, their day, the newspaper jokewriters of the United States are going to plant and dedicate to posterity an official chestnut tree.

This unique ceremony is to be the crowning purpose of their holiday journey to San Francisco, their this year's outing, and is intended to make their thirteenth convention distinctive. As far as is known nobody has ever planted a chestnut tree for the benefit of the whole world before. But the humorists decided it was high time something were done, what with the visible supply of squirrel food becoming so depleted. The exposition landscape gardeners, John McLaren, the famous builder of Golden Gate Park, and his son Donald McLaren, have reserved a fine young tree for the planting. The site chosen is at the Press Building. But this is only temporary. The tree is to become a gift to San Francisco for a permanent place in one of its magnificent parks, where it can grow uninterruptedly and perpetuate a liberal harvest of chestnuts—both kinds.

The chestnut tree ceremony will be participated in by exposition officials and American Press Humorists jointly, aided, abetted and approved by members of the local press club which has several humorist members. Ted Robinson of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, president, wields the trusty spade, while Dixon Merritt of the Nashville Tennessean, vice president, steadies the precious sapling. George Fitch of Peoria, a past president, author of "Good Old Siwash", "Homeburg Memories" and "Vest Pocket Essays" holds Robinson's coat so that Secretary Fred Schaefer of San Francisco doesn't get it, Schaefer in the meantime to hold Fitch so he doesn't leave with the coat. Sufficient dignity will be lent the affair by Roy K. Moulton of Grand Rapids, the Central Press humorist, who doesn't say much, but writes a lot.

THE YAQUI INDIANS MENACE IN MEXICO

Warlike Tribe Have Ever Been Breeders of Trouble.

Every now and then the Yaqui Indians of Sonora, in Mexico, break out and go upon the warpath and so add to the troubles of Mexico. Only the other day they attacked an Amer. an colony in Sonora and several Americans were killed in the fight. Governor Maytorena of Sonora sent troops to the relief of the colonists and to escort them out of danger to the coast.

The American colonists are farmers whose lands in the Yaqui valley are irrigated from a big reclamation project in which John Hays Hammond of New York is interested. The Indians have been trying to take the valley by force. It was their tribal home before they were dispossessed by President Diaz. Until recently the Yaquis had been giving military support to Governor Maytorena under promise of regaining their lands, but they revolted when the promise was not fulfilled.

Many small villages in the valley have been looted and burned in the past few weeks, according to advices received at Nogales.

Refugees at Nogales from the interior report conditions in Sonora to be little short of appalling. The Yaquis and lawless elements of all sorts have taken to pillaging and to murder, they say. The Indians are reported to be butchering men, women and children indiscriminately. They have issued a proclamation declaring war upon Mexico.

The Yaquis are a warlike tribe of Piman stock and have numerous villages along the Yaqui river, in central Sonora. Each village has its own chief, and the Yaquis have the clan system and ceremonies resembling those of the Pueblo tribes. They make good soldiers, but their history has been almost one of constant revolt against the Mexican government. Continued warfare has greatly reduced their numbers, which are estimated at not more than 12,000.

PREACHING vs. PRACTICE.

"Well, well, well! I declare to goodness, John, did you ever hear of such a thing? Goodness gracious me! Law sakes, what's the country comin' to, anyhow? I wouldn't have believed such a thing could happen. It's pretty goings on they have now! Mercy on us, where will this thing end?

JEWELED CONSISTENCY.

"My way's the best by far," said Smith;
"No, mine's the best," said Jones
And then they argued long and loud
In high, persistent tones.

Smith said he could not be convinced
If Jones should talk all night;
And Jones insisted Smith was wrong
And only he was right.

And when they parted each proclaimed
The other was a fool;
And Jones adopted Smith's device,
And Smith tried Jones's rule.

"Want to git board here for the winter, hey?" said a rural resident to a fastidious young gentleman who had been engaged to teach the winter school in that district. Well, I guess we can 'commodate you if you're a mind to jist sort o' take things as they come. We don't put on no airs here, we don't. We're just plain everyday kind of folks, and——here, you Bill, keep your fingers out'n the teacher's pocket; and, Buck, you give him back his watch and chain, or I'll larrup you good!

"As I was a-sayin,' mister, the teacher gin'rally boards here, and——Mary Jane, git off the back of the teacher's chair; and, Jack, you better bring his hat back 'fore I give you a good warmin'!

"Yes, sir, mister, you'll find us plain sort o' folks, and——Tom, if you and Zed don't stop stickin' pins into the teacher, he'll not let you sleep with him when he comes here to board!

"You see, mister, the boys they take turn about, two at a time, a-sleepin' with the teachers that board here and——Bill! I see you pinnin' that old rag to the teacher's coat tail. Give him a rap over the head, teacher! Here you, Buck, you just go and tie that bull terrier up agin! You see, the boys they've got a little trick of settin' our old bull terrier onto all the teachers that board here. What'll you bet Buck can't down ye two times out'n three in a fair and square rassle? Bet he kin! Shed your coat and try him one. No? Got to be going? Well, you come along and we'll make you right to home!"

- Proctor's Theatre -

A pleasant surprise is in store for patrons of Proctor's Theatre Wednesday afternoon and evening. Manager Sanderson has arranged to serve delicious ice cream to every attendant, young or old, as a "treat" from the house. The cream will be served in the afternoon at 4:30 in order to care for the school children who cannot come early and in the evening at 8:30. The cream will be of the very best quality and in arranging for the distribution, Manager Sanderson did so with the idea that it would be fully appreciated and aid them in enjoying the regular program all the more, during the warm season.

Scene from the Thrilling Franco-Prussian War Picture, "The Ordeal," at Proctor's Theatre, Tomorrow Afternoon and Night.

A fine list of attractions has been booked for the present week, many of the photo-plays being direct from the New York houses where they have been playing at Broadway prices. Today's feature is the five-part film "When It Strikes Home," from the striking story by Charles K. Harris, author of many popular songs. It has been produced by the World Film Corporation Company and features Miss Grace Washburn, one of the company's most talented actresses. "When It Strikes Home" is based upon an incident that is apt to happen in any one's life and the manner in which Mr. Harris treats it makes the picture production one of the kind that lingers in the memory long after all others have been forgotten.

The offering tomorrow afternoon and evening is one in which the management takes especial pride in announcing. It is produced by the Life Photo Film Company and is entitled "The Ordeal." The incidents of the play are based on the Franco-Prussian War of 1870-1871 and because of the manner in which it portrays the horrors of international strife it was only recently that the government allowed it to be shown. Because of the resemblance of one of the characters to the present Kaiser William, the national censor committee believed it would create too much feeling just at his time and violate President Wilson's declaration of strict neutrality. It was afterward shown by the Life Photo Film Company that "The Ordeal" had been written and produced before the outbreak of the war raging in Europe today and the Supreme Court had the ban removed. The engagement is for tomorrow only at Proctor's, and it is recommended to those having a liking for a picture that has action, a love theme and scenes witnessed under no other than that of warring races.

LEW KELLEY-BEHMAN SHOW SCORES HIT AT COLUMBIA

The unparalled success of the big summer production of burlesque and vaudeville at the Columbia Theatre continues unabated although the show is now well into its sixth consecutive week. It was pretty generally believed that when the Shuberts produced their annual revue at the Winter Garden, which is within three blocks of the Columbia, the business at the latter house would show a decided falling off. But the Lew Kelly-Behman show, as the attraction at the Columbia is called, had made a hit so emphatic and had become so much the talk of the town, its business has kept up to capacity attendance in spite of the extraordinary opposition of the newer production. The daily newspapers are a unit in pronouncing this entertainment one of the very best that has ever been seen on Broadway.

In addition to an exhibition of superbly beautiful scenery and costumes, the spectators are provided with a program of entertainment that includes two intensely funny one act burlesques, fourteen novel vaudeville specialties and a dozen musical numbers of the kind that awaken unrestrained applause. Each week there is added a different special feature that is intended to keep up the interest. For the current week a foreign celebrity known as Mlle. La Bergere is appearing in a series of reproductions of famous marble statuary. She is clothed only in a coatig substance that resembles highly polished white marble and her posing, while daring in conception, is extremely artistic. In some of the reproductions, La Bergere is accompanied by two beautiful dogs whose motionless postures are really astonishing. The daily matinees at the Columbia are patronized almost exclusively by ladies and children which is the best evidence of the wholesome cleanliness of the performances.

FIVE JERSEY GRADUATES IN RECORD WEST POINT CLASS

West Point, June 14.—The United States Military Academy here graduated a record class Saturday. There were 164 cadets ready for diplomas when the ceremonies opened. Among them were Cadets Joseph May Swing, of Newark; E. C. Wallington, of Vineland; H. B. Anderson, of Dover; Metcalfe Reed, of Newfoundland, and Leland Standord Hobbs, all of New Jersey. So large is this year's class that fifty-nine of the graduates probably will have to be assigned to the supernumerary list of the army, for the present at least. This is the first time in years that a West Point class has outnumbered vacancies in second lieutenancies waiting to be filled.

Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison reviewed the corps of cadets Friday afternoon. The West Pointers passed twice in review before the head of the War Department and Major-General Hugh L. Scott, chief-of-staff of the army.

Another feature Friday was the final parade of the class of 1915. Its members were honored by the usual review, in which members of the three lower classes pass before the graduates. The graduation hop was held Friday night in the gymnasium. Earlier in the evening there was a reunion of the classes of '70, '75 and '95 in the officers' mess.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

The dramatic feature photo-play at the U. S. Astor Theatre today and tomorrow will be "The Island of Regeneration," a visualization by the Vitagraph Company of America, of Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady's absorbing book. This feature was released a few days ago on the V. L. S. E. program, for the showing of whose feature productions Manager Frank G. Hall of the U. S. Astor Theatre, has received exclusive rights in Plainfield. There was never a story written by anyone which offered greater possibilities for the screen.

A beautiful girl running away from the attentions of the owner of a yacht on which she is a guest, cast upon a tropical island, the sole inhabitant of which is a man who has lived there alone since abandoned as an infant twenty years before, forms the framework of this engrossing subject. Imagine what a story could be built upon an idea like this. And by such a master hand as Rev. Mr. Brady. Imagine how such a well-known producer as the Vitagraph Company can handle the fire at sea, the earthquake, the attempted rescue, the charming love scenes on a tropical island, the girl bathing in a sequestered pool, the arrival of a United States cruiser just at the crucial moment and finally the return of the two lovers to civilization. All hit and no misses would be the way to sum up a review of this splendid feature.

There will be other interesting films in view at the playhouse in company with "The Island of Regeneration." A corking lot of comedies and dramas will be shown this afternoon and tonight. Manager Hall aims to please discriminating theatregoers of Plainfield and the results of this policy have been gratifying.

You May Find a Worker Trained and Fit to do Your Work.

A worker whose salary you will voluntarily raise in a short time!

"Getting along" with half-competent help, in home, office, store or factory, is a poor plan—a poor business policy.

The quest for the Competent Worker is important enough to justify a real campaign of classified advertising in the Plainfield Daily Press—although it does not often require a very long campaign.

NEW CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE A HEALTHY INFANT AND SHOULD GET THE SUPPORT OF LOCAL FANS

More genuine baseball enthusiasm than has been in evidence here for five years past was placed on exhibition Saturday night when the representatives of the newly organized City Baseball League completed their arrangements for the opening games. The meeting, which was held in the Daily Press office, was presided over by President Walter C. Dobbins and a full quota of delegates was on hand. Keen interest was displayed on every hand and early appearances indicate that Plainfield fans will have the opportunity of their lives to revive interest in the national pastime hereabouts. While baseball has been practically a "dead" issue of late proper co-operation on the part of followers of the game will bring it back to its old time level of popularity.

Six teams cast ballots for the various issues and all matters pertinent to the opening date plans were disposed of. A schedule of games, the initial ones to be played next Saturday, was adopted and all teams will be ready to engage in conflict on that date. Corriell and Melanga were authorized to act as the official umpires with Harry Hansen and Hyman Abrams as alternates. Benjamin Rosenson was appointed assistant secretary to work in league with Daniel Randolph, the present secretary.

National League rules will govern the organization and Spalding balls will be used. The fields on which the six clubs are at present playing their home games will be used and it is possible that a lease will be obtained on Crescent Oval. The schedule includes dates up to Labor Day morning, but it is likely that a number of postponements will be played off after that date.

The schedule follows:

The league will be a strictly amateur affair, none of the players receiving any remuneration for their services. The Saurer club is the only one paying its performers at the present time, but Manager Martin intends to eliminate this feature prior to next Saturday. A fifteen-man player-limit has been adopted and this quota handed in at Saturday night's session will play throughout the season.

PLAINFIELD A. A. WINS.

The Plainfield A. A. baseball team defeated the Garwood A. A. in an eleven-inning contest, at Garwood, yesterday afternoon, 14 to 11. Renz pitched for the locals until the ninth inning and was relieved by Moulton. Miller did the backstop work. At the end of the eighth round the score was 9 to 6 in favor of the local team and the Garwood batters tied the score in the ninth. Both teams scored twice in the tenth and the Plainfield batters annexed the game with three in the eleventh.

"MARTY" A STARTER.

Marty J. O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club, will start in the national open championship tournament on the Baltusrol golf course Wednesday. He is the only local man entered. A. J. Conway, of Westfield, and William Goebel, of Somerville, will also be among the second day starters. Play will begin tomorrow.

INDIAN LEAGUERS HIKED.

HOPE CHAPEL BEATS ABSTAINERS IN TENTH

Hot Contest Waged on Clinton Avenue Grounds Saturday Afternoon.

One run in the tenth inning gave the Hope Chapel baseball team a well-earned victory over the T. A. B. nine on the Clinton avenue field, Saturday afternoon, the final count being 2 to 1. The "Tabs" put up a fine article of ball in the field, playing without error, while their opponents were guilty of four.

"Tone" Denny pitched for the "Tabs" and was hit hard at times, ten hits being credited to the Hope batters, one a double and one a triple. Dick Schott did the mound work for the Chapelites and held his opponents to six bingles, two of which went for extra bases. For five innings both teams were retired without a score and then the home team broke through with one tally, acounted for by clean hitting and speedy base running. The seventh inning yielded no rewards for either side, but in the eighth the Abstainers came through with a hit, which, aided by an error, tied the score. With two down in the tenth, Hope squeezed one over the splatter.

Bob Scott officiated for the team as umpire and established a "Hank" O'Day record for himself as an arbitrater. Scotty's successful debut may earn him a permanent job.

SAURER TEAM WINS FROM FLEMINGTON

City Champions Score 6 to 3 Victory With McLoughlin in the Box.

The Saurer baseball team scored a victory over the Flemington team at Flemington, Saturday afternoon, the final score being 6 to 3. The locals were never behind after the first inning when three runs were made as a starter. McLaughlin pitched a good game throughout and was opposed by Smith, who also twirled well, but was afforded poor support. Each team made six hits and the homesters were guilty of six misplays while Saurer made only three.

After Mullin had made the first out in the initial inning by fanning, Harriman made his base which started the bombardment, L. Dixon, Garretson and McLaughlin each singling. This netted two runs. Bergen drew the first pass of the game and then Alberts sacrificed, scoring Garretson. The home team was blanked for five innings and during that time the Saurer batters practically cinched the game by scoring three more in the fourth. Alberts and Wilson made their base through errors and Mullin came along with a pretty hit. Harriman clouted a hard one to the third baseman who fielded it poorly and "Chet" was safe. Dixon singled, scoring two more runs and "Garry" was passed up. "Warry" McLaughlin made the last out by hitting to the pitcher.

Three hits, two passes and one error in the sixth session gave the Flemington team some hope, but only three runs were scored and "Warry" kept them out of danger. McLaughlin wound up the game by fanning the last two Flemington batters in the ninth.

N. P. H. S. DEFEATS ITS ALUMNI TEAM AT LAST

Borough Schoolboys Get 5 to 4 Verdict After a Stiff Fight.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team turned the tables on the Alumni aggregation on Hyde Oval Saturday afternoon, taking a one-run verdict, the score being 5 to 4. The game was well-played after the first inning, when loose playing on the part of the graduates, and good hitting by the schoolboys, counted for a quartet of tallies for a starter. The High School team scored only one run in the eight innings that followed, but that lone run was enough to claim a victory.

Ernest Stahl was back in his old-time form and allowed his opponents but three hits. George Townley was hit for seven safeties, two of which were doubles, off Conroy's bat. With the bases full in the first inning, Hirsch, who played first base, slammed the ball into right field, scoring all three men. He was on second when the play was over.

The Alumni had a man on second in the ninth inning with only one down, but the last two batters were easy outs, Dilts getting the last ball on a pop fly by Newkirk.

PRICELESS RELIC of AMERICAN LIBERTY to be BROUGHT to the PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

The PENNSYLVANIA BUILDING PATTERNED after STATE HOUSE in PHILADELPHIA, WHENCE the BELL FIRST SENT MESSAGE of LIBERTY

THE LIBERTY BELL

CHARLES C. MOORE, PRESIDENT of the EXPOSITION

DR. FREDERICK J. V. SKIFF, DIRECTOR-in CHIEF of the EXPOSITION

MAYOR BLANKENBURG of PHILADELPHIA

The action of the common and select councils of Philadelphia in voting to send the Liberty Bell to the great Panama-Pacific International Exposition aroused a thrill of patriotism throughout the nation. Millions of exposition visitors will have the opportunity of seeing this priceless relic of American Liberty when it is installed in the magnificent Pennsylvania State Building. a reproduction of the famous State House in Philadelphia. The arrival of the Bell in San Francisco will be the occasion of one of the greatest celebrations in the history of the United States. Thousands of school children, many of whom signed the original petition to have the Bell brought to San Francisco, will join in the huge ceremonies. Every American who can, even at a sacrifice of what for the moment appears necessary, should be in San Francisco on July 4, during the exercises. This is America's year at home and the railroads are making cheaper rates than they ever have before.

"Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

SUCH is the historic message of the Liberty Bell. And in this year of grace, 1915, the reverberant bronze that pealed out the message of American freedom. As long as the nation endures the bell must remain the sacred emblem of patriotism. It is the one voice of romance, of tragedy and of gladness, to link the Continental congress of 1776 with the congress of 1915; to link the illustrious thirteen pioneer states of the eastern seaboard with the buoyant and younger states of the west.

Years before it rang in frenzied joyousness the signing of the Declaration of Independence that message had been cast into its graven lips—cast there by molders of the Mother country, for the bell was cast in London. By what influence that pregnant message was graven by monarchial artificers to sound the paeans of a new born republic, omniscience alone may say; the same omniscience that ages before, set the verse in Leviticus, whence the liberty message was taken.

PROCLAIM LIBERTY THROUGHOUT ALL THE LAND: That is the holy inheritance of the bell. And it is because, in these troublous times, with tribal loyalties to battling nations influencing in sympathies the sons and daughters of them of another fatherland, there needs a steadying herald to sound again the message of American patriotism and unity. Once again the bell will proclaim its message throughout all the land and unto all the inhabitants thereof. From the east that sired and has cherished it and known its voice, it will go forth to the great new west that its sounding peals made possible. It has spoken to the south; it has spoken to the north. To the third, the fourth and fifth generation the grandchildren are in the west of them who rallied to the voice of the bell, who signed the declaration and who followed the great immortal and shared in the fiery baptism of the new-born nation.

But age has touched that venerated relic. The clarion calls that rang from the old State house tower will be heard no more. Its tones now are muffled in sentiment, echoes only are yet reverberating down the ringing grooves of time—and will echo.

Just when the flaw first occurred in the bell is not definitely known. It is as well to say it came that July day in 1776 when it rang out the thrilling tidings that the Continental Congress had adopted the Declaration of Independence. Slowly the crack widened, but still the voice of the bell would not be stilled. It sounded its last message nearly a century ago. When Chief Justice Marshall died, the bell tolled the requiem for this inspired and noble patriot—and the break widened and the bell spoke no more, a dramatic and an historic time at which to still its lips.

WILL REMAIN ON VIEW AT SAN FRANCISCO UNTIL CLOSING OF THE EXPOSITION, DECEMBER 4.

But, though its tongue has long been silent, the lesson of its presence is even as profound in its eloquent message: a sermon in patriotic fervor, in rugged faith and high ideals, in courage against mighty odds, in the strength that comes from the right, in the combination of these things that gave to us, and continues to preserve to us, our independence.

At the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco—at the extreme westerly bounds of the United States—the Liberty Bell will be hung on July 16 and will remain on view until the close of the exposition, December 4th.

Millions of Americans, young, middle aged and old, who have cherished the bell and its memorable history, will thus be given an opportunity of beholding this palladium of our freedom. There are millions of westerners who have never seen the bell and who otherwise never would see it. To the east it is a shrine for pilgrimage. But to the numberless legions of loyal Americans who never may hope to cross the Rockies and view the bell in Independence hall, it will be the solemn opportunity of a lifetime, something that the school children of today will cherish in venerated memory to tell to their children in after years.

Word that the Philadelphia city council had finally granted permission for the Liberty Bell to cross the continent to the San Francisco exposition shot a thrill of gratitude and anticipation through all the west. Particularly was San Francisco profoundly stirred, a city that has been an integral part of the nation's life during the last generation and a half, and that has itself shown the conquering American spirit in reconstructing, after an epic holocaust, the United States' western gateway. In the very work of building a $50,000,000 exposition, San Francisco achieved the second unexampled accomplishment within a decade. It was right that such a city should be honored by the presence of the most precious historical relic that the east could bestow.

The history of the Liberty Bell is the early history of the United States. It goes back further than 1776. It had been a vital part of Pennsylvania's life before then. Each anniversary of the Penn charter, marking the establishment of what at that time was the most successful example of universal liberty in the world, was appropriately celebrated, but when the fiftieth anniversary was celebrated it was judged fitting that a bell of greater size and dignity should be secured for future celebrations. The tolling of bells had always been a feature of the day. This new bell was to be called the Anniversary bell.

Authority was given to the three superintendents of the State house (Independence hall), Isaac Norris, Thomas Leach and Edward Warner, to procure a bell in England.

Norris was chairman of the committee. A student of the Bible, the verse from Leviticus impressed him, the tenth verse of the twenty-fifth chapter, as containing the thought suited to the bell. The verse is:

"And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof; and ye shall return every man unto his possession and ye shall return every man unto his family."

FIRST CASTING OF BELL SUPERINTENDED IN LONDON BY AGENT OF PROVINCE OF PENNSYLVANIA

From this verse the line was selected: "Proclaim Liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

As a matter of fact it was not until the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876 that the name "Liberty Bell" came to be applied generally.

Of historical interest is the order for the casting of the bell sent by the committee of three to Robert Charles, who acted as the agent for the Province of Pennsylvania at London. This quaint document was in wording as follows:

"Respected Friend, Robert Charles—The Assembly having ordered us to procure a bell in England, to be purchased for their use, we take the liberty to apply ourselves to thee to get a good bell, and about 2000 pounds weight, the cost of which we presume may amount to about 100 pounds sterling, or, perhaps with the charges, a little more.

"We hope and rely on thy care and assistance in this affair, and that thou wilt procure and forward it by the first good opportunity, as our workmen inform us it will be much less trouble to hang the bell before their scaffolds are struck from the building where we intend to place it. Let the bell be cast by the best workmen and examined carefully before it is shipped, with the following words well shaped in large letters around it:

"'By order of the Assembly for the Province of Pennsylvania for the State House in the city of Philadelphia, 1752,' and underneath:

"'Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof.—Levit. XXV, 10.'

"As we have experienced thy readiness to serve the province on all occasions we desire it may be our excuse for this additional trouble from thy assured friends, ISSAC NORRIS, THOMAS LEACH, EDWARD WARNER."

Charles in due course gave the order for the casting of the bell to Lester Cist of White Chapel, London, and it arrived safely in Philadelphia in August of 1752. But then its troubles began. It seemed the bell was destined for an eventful career. While being tested in the State house yard "it was cracked by the clapper, though by no very unusual stroke," as Mr. Norris, the chronicler of the early history of the bell, tells us. This was but the first of the bell's misfortunes. It was twice recast before it assumed its present identity.

After the first cracking "by no unusual stroke" it was decided to send the bell back to England for repairs, but a Philadelphia firm of molders, John Pass and Charles Stow, Jr., requested the work and it was given them. They were recommended to the committee as "ingenious workmen." Mixing an ounce and a half of copper to each pound of the old bell metal they melted it down and made a new casting. But even this failed to cure the bell. When it was hung and tested in 1753 it was found to have lost its resonance. Too much copper had been put into the metal by the casters, who became the objects of much chaffing from the citizens.

But they were anxious to make another casting and permission was given them, the third and present Liberty Bell being the result. They were paid for this casting, 60 pounds, 13 shillings and 5 pence.

The bell was tested with elaborate ceremonies and raised in the State house steeple June 1, 1753, where it remained until 1781, when the steeple was torn down, the bell being removed to the State house tower where it hung until 1846. Since that time it has remained in the State house, better known throughout the country as Independence hall, to the present time.

The bell has made seven trips in all, the journey to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition making the eighth. It has been to Allentown, 1777; New Orleans, 1885; Chicago, 1893; Buffalo, 1901; Charleston, 1902; Boston, 1903, and St. Louis, 1904.

SOLEMNLY TOLLED WHEN ROYAL SHIP ARRIVES AT PHILADELPHIA WITH TAX STAMPS FOR COLONISTS.

On August 27, 1753, the bell first sounded officially when it called together the meeting of the Assembly. After that it rang on numberless occasions and for numerous purposes. For more than eighty years it rang, calling the courts and the Assembly together, announcing the arrival or the departure of notables, the accession of kings, proclamations of war and treaties of peace.

"Its reverberations," writes Wilfred Jordan, curator of Independence Hall, "were often fraught with sounds of prophecy, war and woe, as for example when it was muffled for a funeral dirge and solemnly tolled when the ship Royal Charlotte, bearing stamps for Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, reached Philadelphia. Its ringing inspired a gathering of citizens in their protest against the Stamp act and the day the measure was put into operation the bell was again muffled and tolled, mourning the death of Liberty, thought some months later, freed of its impediments, its joyful cadence resounded through the city bespeaking the decree of the King and Parliament which repealed this act of tyranny. ——Thus did the bell proclaim and herald almost every important step towards the goal of liberty, reverberating with pugnacious violent peals the cry of determined citizens in the largest political meeting held, up to that time, in the State house yard, that "none of the ship Polly's detestable tea" that had just been brought into port should be "funneled down people's throats with Parliament's duty mixed with it."

"As the conflict with England approached," continues Jordan, "the bell was rung more and more; its use became a matter of course; its appeals more inspirational, as when, on April 25, 1775, just after the reports came to Philadelphia of the battle of Lexington it rang wildly to assemble eight thousand people in the State house and to inspire their souls to a resolution pledging their all to the cause of Liberty. Possibly 'the times that try men's souls' was the strain upon its spirit that began to increase the original flaw in its being.

"It rang also to assemble the Continental Congress to its daily sessions, both at Carpenter's hall and later at Independence hall, and finally its crowning achievement, which more than anything else gives it the name of the Liberty bell, occurred on July 8, 1776, and not on the Fourth as so often incorrectly stated, when Philadelphia listened breathlessly to the proclamation of the Declaration of Independence as first introduced by Richard Henry Lee on June 7, 1776, in his memorous resolution."

TAKEN TO ALLENTOWN WHEN CITY OF QUAKERS IS EVACUATED BY FORCES OF THE REVOLUTION

It was not the largest of the meetings the bell had summoned to that historic State house yard. Not over three hundred intrepid souls gathered to pledge their lives and fortunes to independence and "hang together or all hang separately."

One of the first prominent persons for whom the bell was rung was Benjamin Franklin, when he was sent to England in February, 1757, to ask redress for the grievances of the colonies.

When, during the Revolution, the American army was forced to evacuate Philadelphia, the Liberty Bell was taken, together with the chimes of Christ Church and St. Peter's, to Allentown where it rested in Zion Church from September, 1777, until June 1778, and then was returned to the State house. This is sometimes called the first trip of the bell in the schedule of places that the bell has been taken to.

Two dates of historic interest were celebrated by the bell shortly after its return, for one of its first public duties was to ring out the surrender of Cornwallis, in October, 1781, and in the following month it pealed a welcome for George Washington to the city. It proclaimed the Treaty of Peace with Great Britain in December, 1799, and was muffled for the funeral solemnities of Washington. Lafayette was welcomed to Philadelphia by its music in 1824, and it tolled in the Jubilee week of the fiftieth anniversary of American Independence on July fourth, 1826. Three weeks later it gave the message of the death of John Adams and Thomas Jefferson; on February 22, 1832, it heralded the centennial anniversary of the birth of George Washington; on July 21, 1834 its solemn cadences tolled the death of Lafayette. And July, 1835 it tolled for the obsequies of John Marshall.

The Home of the Liberty Bell This Year; What Noted Men Have to Say of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition

"Every good American citizen should visit the Panama-Pacific International Exposition for many reasons.—

"In its architecture and in its setting by the Golden Gate, this is the most charming of all the many world expositions.

"The exhibits themselves are worth crossing the continent to see. Our next neighbor, Japan, has especially outdone herself for our friendly consideration."—DAVID STARR JORDAN, Chancellor of Leland Stanford University.

* * * *

"Despite the war in Europe more nations are participating in this International Exposition than any exposition that has been held."—SETH LOW, Former Mayor of New York.

* * * *

"Knowledge is the one precipitant of racial and national prejudice. The Panama-Pacific Exposition affords the means of knowledge of the art, science and progress of the peoples of the world. It affords an opportunity to make an honest estimate of our neighbors.

"In a land where the individual is in reality the arbiter of his country's destiny, he should, wherever and whenever possible, avail himself of the opportunity to enlarge his horizon. Here is his opening. Most knowledge is acquired with great labor. Here is knowledge served to the melody of vacation and in the play-grounds of the world.

"It is a feast for the gods. It is being served to all who have the godlike wish to know.

"It is sure to promote not only individual happiness, which is worth much, but universal peace, which is worth more."—THOMAS R. MARSHALL, Vice President of the United States.

* * * *

"The American who does not attend the Exposition will have to explain why all the rest of his life."—BENJAMIN IDE WHEELER, President of the University of California.

* * * *

"The Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco surpasses any exposition which has been held in either America or Europe. Nothing has been left undone to make it a thorough success. It is quite probable that no other really great exposition will be seen in our day.

"The great palaces devoted to the Fine Arts, Manufacturing, Transportation, Agriculture, Mining and the like; the numerous and imposing State buildings; the stately pavilions of the nations; the marvelous Electrical Illumination at night; the brilliant Tower of Jewels, but a few feet lower than Washington's monument at the National Capital; the general color scheme; the numerous and varied exhibits from every avenue of human endeavor, make the Exposition a veritable University, fascinating and vast.

"Every thoughtful person who beholds it is filled with admiration for the achievement. I wish it were possible for every American, particularly young Americans, to see it."—CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS, Former Vice President of the United States.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Two Families.

PENROD never missed a murder, a hanging or an electrocution in the newspapers. He knew almost as much about Rena Magsworth as her jurymen did, though they sat in a courtroom 200 miles away, and he had it in mind—so frank he was—to ask Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., if the murderess happened to be a relative.

The present encounter, being merely one of apathetic greeting, did not afford the opportunity. Penrod took off his cap, and Roderick, seated between his mother and one of his grownup sisters, nodded sluggishly, but neither Mrs. Magsworth Bitts nor her daughter acknowledged the salutation of the boy in the yard. They disapproved of him as a person of little consequence, and that little bad. Snubbed, Penrod thoughtfully restored his cap to his head. A boy can be cut as effectually as a man, and this one was chilled to a low temperature. He wondered if they despised him because they had seen a last fragment of doughnut in his hand; then he thought that perhaps it was Duke who had disgraced him. Duke was certainly no fashionable looking dog.

The resilient spirits of youth, however, presently revived, and, discovering a spider upon one knee and a beetle simultaneously upon the other, Penrod forgot Mrs. Roderick Magsworth Bitts in the course of some experiments infringing upon the domain of Dr. Carrel. Penrod's efforts, with the aid of a pin, to effect a transference of living organism were unsuccessful, but he convinced himself forever that a spider cannot walk with a beetle's legs. Della then enhanced zoological interest by depositing upon the back porch a large rat trap from the cellar, the prison of four live rats awaiting execution.

Penrod at once took possession, retiring to the empty stable, where he installed the rats in a small wooden box with a sheet of broken window glass, held down by a brickbat, over the top. Thus the symptoms of their agitation when the box was shaken or hammered upon could be studied at leisure. Altogether this Saturday was starting splendidly.

After a time the student's attention was withdrawn from his specimens by a peculiar smell, which, being followed up by a system of selective sniffing, proved to be an emnation leaking into the stable from the alley. He opened the back door.

Across the alley was a cottage which a thrifty neighbor had built on the rear line of his lot and rented to negroes, and the fact that a negro family was now in process of "moving in" was manifested by the presence of a thin mule and a ramshackle wagon, the latter laden with the semblance of a stove and a few other unpretentious household articles.

A very small darky boy stood near the mule. In his hand was a rusty chain, and at the end of the chain the delighted Penrod perceived the source of the special smell he was tracing—a large raccoon. Duke, who had shown not the slightest interest in the rats, set up a frantic barking and simulated a ravening assault upon the strange animal. It was only a bit of acting, however, for Duke was an old dog, had suffered much and desired no unnecessary sorrow, wherefore he confined his demonstrations to alarums and excursions and presently sat down at a distance and expressed himself by intermittent threatenings in a quavering falsetto.

"What's that coon's name?" asked Penrod, intending no discourtesy.

"Aim gommo mame," said the small darky.

"What?"

"Aim gommo mame."

"What?"

The small darky looked annoyed.

"Aim gommo mame, I hell you," he said impatiently.

Penrod conceived that insult was intended.

"What's the matter of you?" he demanded, advancing. "You get fresh with me and I'll"—

"Hyuh, white boy!" A colored youth of Penrod's own age appeared in the doorway of the cottage. "You let 'at brothuh mine alone. He ain' do nothin' to you."

"Well, why can't he answer?"

"He can't. He can't talk no better'n what he was talkin'. He tongue tie."

"Oh!" said Penrod, mollified; then, obeying an impulse so universally aroused in the human breast under like circumstances that it has become a quip, he turned to the afflicted one.

"Talk some more," he begged eagerly.

"I hoe you ackoom aim gommo mame," was the prompt response, in which a slight ostentation was manifest. Unmistakable tokens of vanity had appeared upon the small, swart countenance.

"You get fresh with me and I'll"—

"What's he mean?" asked Penrod, enchanted.

"He say he tole you 'at coon ain' got no name."

"What's your name?"

"I'm name Herman."

"What's his name?" Penrod pointed to the tongue tied boy.

"Verman. Was three us boys in ow fam'ly. Ol'est one name Sherman. 'N 'en come me; I'm Herman. 'N 'en come him; he Verman. Sherman dead. Verman, he de littles' one."

"You goin' to live here?"

"Umhugh. Done move in f'm way outen on a fahm."

He pointed to the north with his right hand, and Penrod's eyes opened wide as they followed the gesture. Herman had no forefinger on that hand.

"Look there!" exclaimed Penrod. "You haven't got any finger!"

"I mum map," said Verman, with egregious pride.

"He done 'at," interpreted Herman, chuckling. "Yessuh, done chop 'er spang off long 'go. He's a playin' wif a ax, an' I lay my finguh on de do' sill, an' I say, 'Verman, chop 'er off!' So Verman he chop 'er right spang off up to de roots! Yessuh."

"What for?"

"Jes' fo' nothin'."

"He hoe me hoo," remarked Verman.

"Yessuh, I tole him to," said Herman, "an' he chop 'er off, an' ey ain't airy oth' one evuh grow on wheres de ole one use to grow. 'Nosuh!"

"But what'd you tell him to do it for?"

"Nothin'. I jes' said it 'at way—an' he jes' chop 'er off!"

Both brothers looked pleased and proud. Penrod's profound interest was flatteringly visible, a tribute to their unusualness.

"Hem bow goy," suggested Verman eagerly.

"Aw ri'," said Herman. "Ow sistuh Queenie, she a growed up woman; she got a goituh."

"Got a what?"

"Goituh. Swellin' on her neck—grea' big swellin'. She heppin' mammy move in now. You look in de front room winduh wheres she sweepin'; you kin see it on her."

Penrod looked in the window and was rewarded by a fine view of Queenie's goiter. He had never before seen one, and only the lure of further conversation on the part of Verman brought him from the window.

"Verman say tell you 'bout pappy," explained Herman. "Mammy an' Queenie move in town an' go git de house all fix up befo' pappy git out."

"Out of where?"

"Jail. Pappy cut a man, an' de police done kep' him in jail evuh sense Chris-mus time, but dey goin' tahn him loose ag'in nex' week."

"What'd he cut the other man with?"

"Wif a pitchfawk."

Penrod began to feel that a lifetime spent with this fascinating family were all too short. The brothers, glowing with amiability, were as enraptured as he. For the first time in their lives they moved in the rich glamour of sensationalism. Herman was prodigal of gesture with his right hand, and Verman, chuckling with delight, talked fluently, though somewhat consciously. They cheerfully agreed to keep the raccoon—already beginning to be mentioned as "our 'coon" by Penrod—in Mr. Schofield's empty stable, and when the animal had been chained to the wall near the box of rats and supplied with a pan of fair water they assented to their new friend's suggestion (inspired by a fine sense of the artistic harmonies) that the heretofore nameless pet be christened Sherman, in honor of their deceased relative.

At this juncture was heard from the front yard the sound of that yodeling which is the peculiar accomplishment of those whose voices have not "changed." Penrod yodeled a response, and Samuel Williams appeared, a large bundle under his arm.

"Yay, Penrod!" was his greeting, casual enough from without; but, having entered, he stopped short and emitted a prodigious whistle. "Ya-a-ay!" he then shouted. "Look at the 'coon!"

"I guess you better say, 'Look at the 'coon!'" Penrod returned proudly. "They's a good deal more'n him to look at too. Talk some, Verman." Verman complied.

Sam was warmly interested. "What'd you say his name was?" he asked.

"Verman."

"How d'you spell it?"

"V-e-r-m-a-n," replied Penrod, having previously received this information from Herman.

"Oh!" said Sam.

"Point to sumpthing, Herman," Penrod commanded, and Sam's excitement, when Herman pointed was sufficient to the occasion.

Penrod, the discoverer, continued his exploitation of the manifold wonders of the Sherman, Herman and Verman collection. With the air of a proprietor he escorted Sam into the alley for a good look at Queenie (who seemed not to care for her increasing celebrity) and proceeded to a dramatic climax—the recital of the episode of the pitchfork and its consequences.

The cumulative effect was enormous, and could have but one possible result. The normal boy is always at least one half Barnum.

"Let's get up a SHOW!"

Penrod and Sam both claimed to have said it first, a question left unsettled in the ecstasies of hurried preparation. The bundle under Sam's arm, brought with no definite purpose, proved to have been an inspiration. It consisted of broad sheets of light yellow wrapping paper, discarded by Sam's mother in her spring housecleaning. There were half filled cans and buckets of paint in the storeroom adjoining the carriage house and presently the side wall of the stable flamed information upon the passerby from a great and spreading poster.

"Publicity," primal requisite of all theatrical and amphitheatrical enterprise thus provided, subsequent arrangements proceeded with a fury of energy which transformed the empty hayloft. True, it is impossible to say just what the hayloft was transformed into, but history warrantably clings to the statement that it was transformed. Duke and Sherman were secured to the rear wall at a considerable distance from each other after an exhibition of reluctance on the part of Duke, during which he displayed a nervous energy and agility almost miraculous in so small and middle aged a dog. Benches were improvised for spectators; the rats were brought up; finally the rafters, corncrib and hay chute were ornamented with flags and strips of bunting from Sam Williams' attic, Sam returning from the excursion wearing an old silk hat and accompanied (on account of a rope) by a fine dachshund encountered on the highway. In the matter of personal decoration paint was generously used; an interpretation of the spiral, inclining to whites and greens, becoming brilliantly effective upon the dark facial backgrounds of Herman and Verman, while the countenances of Sam and Penrod were each supplied with the black mustache and imperial, lacking which no professional showman can be esteemed conscientious.

It was regretfully decided in council that no attempt be made to add Queenie to the list of exhibits, her brothers warmly declining to act as ambassadors in that cause. They were certain Queenie would not like the idea, they said, and Herman picturesquely described her activity on occasions when she had been annoyed by too much attention to her appearance. However, Penrod's disappointment was alleviated by an inspiration which came to him in a moment of pondering upon the dachshund, and the entire party went forth to add an enriching line to the poster.

They found a group of seven, including two adults, already gathered in the street to read and admire this work.

A heated argument took place between Sam and Penrod, the point at issue being settled finally by the drawing of straws, whereupon Penrod, with pardonable self importance—in the presence of an audience now increased to nine—slowly painted the words inspired by the dachshund:

Daddy's Bedtime Story—What Became Of the Little White Cloud

And Saw Some Gulls Flying Over the Ocean.

"I TOLD you one night," said daddy to the children, "of a little white cloud that started on a journey for pleasure through the blue sky and how it passed over a lovely woodland and a green field and a town with houses and people in it and finally how it passed out over the ocean that was all green and swishy and swashy and tumbly.

"Well, when this little white cloud that sailed high up in the blue sky came to the shores of the green ocean it was charmed, I can tell you, for it certainly made a pretty sight. First it came to the shore that was all golden sand with headlands of sand, big mounds that are called dunes, looking out to the swishy, swashy waves, and the little cloud was very glad, and it said: 'Why, this is the prettiest sight I have seen yet. I will keep on sailing.'

"So it sailed, and it sailed, and the longer it kept sailing the more ocean there seemed to be, and it looked down at the ocean, and it saw waves rolling with white crests at their tops, and a soft wind was blowing, and it blew the spray high in the air, and the little cloud listened to the voice of the breeze and to the low growl of the waves breaking so far below it.

"So the little white cloud continued to sail and sail, for, in the words of the old song, 'it really had nothing else to do.' It was what the little cloud was for, and by and by it saw some gulls flying over the ocean.

"You know, children, gulls are sea birds. Some of them are gray, and some of them are white and some of them are a sort of white and black, and they can fly like the wind, and they feed on fish, for which they dive into the water, and they have a beautiful time. It must be very nice to have wings.

"The gulls swooped and circled and dived, and the little cloud watched them and said, 'I wish I had wings.' Then it thought again, and it said: 'Why, I don't need any wings, come to think of it. I seem to get along just as well without them. By the way, I see a to be a long way out to sea. I wonder what is going to become of me?'

"Then by and by it found out. A lot of other clouds came up to join it. Some of them were white, and some others were dark, and some others were streaked, and they swallowed the little cloud, and by and by there was just one big cloud over the face of the sea.

"And then it rained into the sea, and when the rain was gone the clouds were gone, and then the sun sucked up moisture from the sea to make other little white clouds to sail in the blue sky.

"So that's what became of the little white cloud."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Roses from the doctor," said Olive, in a pleased tone, opening the note in the box. "This is good," and she handed it to Nell to read.

"Dear Miss Olive: Roses should go with thorns, and I certainly have been the means of strewing your path with thorns recently. That these may cover the thorns is the wish of

"Max Ellson."

"What a trick of fate to turn such a man over to a fury," mused Olive.

"I hope there is a better fate ahead of him," ventured Nell significantly.

Olive looked at her, but did not reply.

"These roses can decorate the dinner table tonight for your farewell party," suggested Nell, inhaling the fragrance of a pink beauty.

"I'll put one in the tall vase on the mantle. I like single roses in a vase, and I'll wear one," added Olive.

"If it did not seem like tempting fate I would offer to drive you out to say goodby to the Scotts tomorrow morning," said the doctor that evening at dinner.

"I should like very much to say goodby to them, and having done all, there would remain nothing more for the enemy to do." Olive was looking into the pink depths of the rose she wore.

"Then you will go? I'll call for you at ten unless I am detained with a patient, in which case I'll phone."

"And tomorrow evening we'll all go to the train to see Miss Dunn off," said Jo Parsons. "We shall miss you terribly." She turned to Olive as she spoke.

"The Scotts and Frazees leave around Thanksgiving time. We shall soon be reduced to our lowest terms," said Dick ruefully.

"There will be a half dozen to stand by each other," laughed the doctor.

"And that's more than we numbered last winter," added Mr. Parsons.

Promptly at ten next morning the doctor's auto was at the door and Olive, warmly wrapped and wearing a becoming auto bonnet, stepped into the car. The day was cold but clear. A stiff wind blew the fallen leaves in eddying swirls along the roadside, flattened them against the hedges and harried them into corners and out of the way places. A few crows cawed raucously and sailed in black circles over the trees that bordered the river.

"I hope Kansas has impressed you favorably enough so that you will want to come again," said the doctor after a silence.

"I certainly shall," she replied.

"Perhaps you will get as far east as Detroit sometime. You must certainly look me up if you do," and she gave him her address.

"The medical convention will be held in Chicago in December. I might run over then," said the doctor hopefully.

"That will be fine. I am urging Nell to come east for the holidays and the only trouble would be about her traveling alone with the baby. Dick can't get away for any length of time, so she would have to go or come alone. Perhaps she could arrange her trip so as to go with you."

"That sounds good to me," said the doctor. "We'll try to arrange it."

Olive had a very pleasant call at the Scotts. Just as she was leaving Mrs. Scott said:

"I had a letter from Mr. Joplin yesterday; he is back in Ann Arbor. He asked if you were here and said he had written to your Detroit address, but had received no reply."

"The letter was probably held there, as I intended to return so soon. Now be sure to stop at Detroit on your way to New York," added Olive. "Goodby."

WESTFIELD ATHLETE LAID LOW BY COBBLESTONES

Thomas Cammon, a resident of Westfield, was received at Muhlenberg Hospital Friday suffering from a fractured jaw. With a number of friends Cammon started an impromptu athletic meet with shotput as the principal event. A convenient pile of cobble stones furnished the "shot" and all hands got to throwing them about promiscuously.

In the excitement of making a better thrown than anyone else, Cammon got in the range of a husky athlete's aim and the cobble struck him squarely in the face. He was treated by a Westfield physician after which he was sent to Muhlenberg Hospital for an X-ray examination and a possible operation to repair the fracture.

WILL OPEN FACTORY.

The building of the Century Rubber Company on North avenue, which was recently sold at auction, has been taken over by Leon Jaffess, of Harrison, who will open a business on July 1 for the making and retreading of automobile tires.

THE KIMONO COAT IS ALL THE RAGE.

No. 8929-8923.

Hardly a season passes that some distinctive style does not suddenly appear and sweep the country from coast to coast. This spring it is the clever kimono coat shown under number 8939. Following the example of the convertible wais., its collar is cut in one with the body-sections of the coat and may be worn close to the throat or turned back. This is worn with ladies' four-gored skirt No. 8923 which may be made with or without suspenders and belt as desired. This Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8939 cuts in sizes 32 to 44 inches bust measure and the skirt pattern in sizes 22 to 36 inches waist measure. Suit in medium size will require 4⅞ yards 54-inch material.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force and Company.

TANGO SLANG.

That There Is Nothing New Under the Sun Again Proved.

Cartoons of the fox trot, the tango and the cabaret were made by Greek artists as far back as the fifth century before Christ, said Dr. David M. Robinson, professor of classical archaeology at Johns Hopkins university, in a recent lecture at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Robinson referred to the pre-Hellenic versions of modern popular dances while he was elaborating upon love of the Greeks for caricaturing the life of their time upon vases and by means of terra cotta figures. Even the gods were not immune from the scorn of the artists, he said, and the representation of the gods as dancing upon tables to the music of the double flute and lyre and drinking heavily was a favorite device.

The equivalent of the slang phrase of today, "I should worry," Dr. Robinson said, may be found in the Greek expression, "What does Hippocrates care?" an allusion to the day when a Greek jumped upon a three legged table, danced the Attic and Laconian figure, then popular, and finally concluding his hilarious performance by standing upon his head and exclaiming the foregoing phrase when reproved by his father-in-law. This incident was pictured by a vase painter of the day.

According to Dr. Robinson, the oldest joke in history was perpetrated at the same time. The Athenian Joe Miller, who invented it, is unknown, but the witticism gained popular favor at the time and spread even to faroff Rome. It was as follows: "When is a woman happiest?" "Twice—When she is mated and when she is cremated."

"The vases and terra cotta figures of Greece and Rome are the ancestors of the newspaper cartoons and the comic supplements of today," said Dr. Robinson. "These ancients, who were the forerunners of our present humorous artists, knew that laughter lengthens life and that some of the greatest men were fond of the comic."

Household Hints

BAKED BASS OR PICKEREL.

Chop eight onions fine and mix with half that amount of fine breadcrumbs. Season well with pepper and salt and add two or three tablespoonfuls of finely chopped tomatoes—freed from juice and the soft pulp, with just the firm part chopped—to make the stuffing red. Add red pepper, and stuff the fish. Bake until tender.

JELLIED TROUT.

Add a whole clove, some salt, three tablespoons of good vinegar, a slice of onion to a saucepan half full of cold water and place the trout in it. Simmer gently, so that the fish are not broken. When tender, drain and dip in aspic jelly, and when the first coat of jelly has hardened, dip again. Repeat this until there is a good layer of jelly on each trout.

MOLASSES COOKIES.

Mix a cupful of molasses and a cupful of brown sugar, dissolve a teaspoonful of soda in a cupful of boiling water and add it to the other ingredients with half a cupful of shortening and five cupfuls of flour sifted with a tablespoonful each of ginger and cinnamon. Drop from a spoon on greased sheets and bake.

SUBSTITUTE FOR BRUSH

For Cleaning Radiators—A good substitute for a radiator brush, which is rather expensive, and which is most satisfactory, merely make a bag of outing flannel to fit your carpet beater and finish on the three sides with a narrow, full double ruffle; fasten with a draw string. This cleaner can be used through either the lengthwise or crosswise sections of any radiator.

TO WASH BEDDING

Woolen Blankets—Slice half a cake of any good laundry soap into two quarts of water. Set on stove and stir until dissolved. When dissolved add to cold water in a tub. To this soapy water add four tablespoons borax. Soak blankets in this over night or for several hours. Wash in this water. Rinse twice in cold water, wring and hang on the line. This recipe will wash four blankets. Be sure to use only cold water and they will come forth as soft and beautiful as when new. A teaspoonful of glycerine added to the rinse water will improve them.

Heavy Blankets — Very heavy blankets may sometimes be cleaned by hanging them on the line and turning the hose on them, spraying them all over. Stretch them full length and fasten a heavy weight at each hanging corner to prevent the wind from swaying and wrapping them into a roll upon the line. The weights hold them in shape and when spread out in this manner they dry quickly.

Cotton Blankets—Cotton blankets are washed differently from those made of wool. Soap them well with laundry soap, fold and allow them to soak in tepid water. Wash them in an hour or so and place in a boiler of hot suds to steam, not boil. Rinse in several waters, using a very little bluing. Dry them double in the line. Press dry on the wrong side.

Quilts—Quilts that are liable to fade, if washed, may be cleaned with gasoline. Allow it to remain over night. Drain and place in a second tub of gasoline. Strain the gasoline in the first tub and use it with a fresh supply for cleaning the second piece. When washing colored quilts avoid using alkali. It will run the colors and ruin the material. If quilts are badly soiled put kerosene in the first tub; it will cut the dirt.

Bedding washed early in the spring may be dried out of doors, but the pieces should afterward be thrown over a line in a room to dry thoroughly.

Ticking should be soaked in water containing borax. Iron the pieces dry. If thin, coat lightly with paraffin on the wrong side. This will prevent feathers from working through.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Bedbugs—Try a formaldehyde candle. One is used for every fourteen-foot square. Take all loose paper off, if any; turn everything where bugs are liable to gather. Light the candle, close the door, and fill up cracks around door. As soon as candle is done burning, sweep walls and floor, shake out everything, and be sure and burn all loose scraps you get. Full directions go with each candle.

Library Paste for the Home—For everyday use in the home we have found this paste both simple and economical. It is in constant demand for mailing papers, mending torn wallpaper, books and magazines, children's paper dolls and scrapbooks and mother's recipes and trading stamps. Get a nickel's worth each of clove oil and powdered alum. Moisten half teacup flour and one teaspoon alum with water till smooth. Blend with folk into one pint boiling water. Strain and add ten drops clove oil. Keep in covered jelly glasses.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between The Prudential Insurance Company of America, complainant, and Harold C. Durar, and others, defendants. Ff. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that certain tract or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union, in the State of New Jersey: Beginning at a point at the intersection of the westerly side of Berkeley avenue with the southwesterly side of Ravine road, as the same is now laid out and opened, thence running along the westerly side line of Berkeley avenue in a general southerly direction and following the curve of the same a distance of one hundred and thirty-eight (138) feet to an iron bar; thence running in a magnetic course of north sixty-one degrees thirty-three and one-half minutes west a distance of one hundred and one and eighty-five one-hundredths (101.85) feet to an iron bar; thence running north twenty-nine degrees thirty-one and one-half minutes east a distance of one hundred and seventy-three (173) feet to an iron bar in the southwesterly side line of Ravine road in a general southeasterly direction following the curve of the same a distance of eighty-four and sixty-one one-hundredths (84.61) feet to the place of beginning. Also all the right, title and interest of the party of the first part in and to the lands in front of said property to the centre of Ravine road and Berkeley avenue, subject to the rights of the public as a public highway.

GEORGE C. OTTO, Sheriff.
EDWARD D. DUFFIELD, Solr.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Louis Bevier, Jr., and Mrs. Louis Bevier, Jr.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein The Board of Trustees of the Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund is complainant, and you and Grace B. Kaufman, Albert G. Negley and Eleanor M. Negley are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of complainants, on or before the fourth day of August next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage against you, given by the said Albert G. Negley and wife to the complainant, dated July 8, 1907, on lands in the City of Plainfield, County of Union, and State of New Jersey, and you, the said Louis Bevier, Jr., are made a defendant because you are the record owner of said mortgaged premises, and you, the said Mrs. Louis Bevier, Jr., are made a defendant because you are the wife of said Louis Bevier, Jr., and may claim some interest therein by right of dower or otherwise.

Dated June 3, 1915.

WILLIAM M. STILLMAN,
Solicitor for Complainant,
212 West Front Street,
Plainfield, New Jersey.

RECIPROCITY

During the past several weeks and months the Business Men's Association has been educating the people to "trade at home." Now the PEOPLE of Plainfield have a chance to ask the Business Men's Association to "trade at home." In other words, they are asking local business men to employ the boys and girls who graduate this year from the Plainfield High School. These young people are well qualified for positions as stenographers, bookkeepers and other office assistants. They are a clean, wholesome and delightful group of young people to know. POLICE BOARD IN SECRET SESSION

Mystery Shrouds Meetings to Consider Men for Sergeancy Job.

TWO BEING CONSIDERED

It is Rumored That Two Have Been Eliminated for Some Unknown Reason—Need for Appointment Becoming Urgent.

Speculation is rife among those interested in the local police department concerning the appointment of a third sergeant to conform with the regulations of the new police ordinance passed at the June session of the Common Council. Taking departmental records into consideration, that is, the right to succession standardized by point of service, four men are open to consideration, viz: Patrolmen Arthur McGinley, Tobias Nolan, Dennis O'Keefe and John Kelly. Mystery shrouds the session of the Councilmanic Police Board held Sunday night, but it is a known fact that Kelly and O'Keefe appeared before the Board and were examined by the members. Why the Board did not care to scrutinize McGinley and Nolan is a matter of conjecture.

Councilman Juan A. Babcock, chairman of the councilmanic police committee, was not present at the meeting, but Mayor Calkins, President Clay and Councilmen Edgar and Claybrook were on hand. The meeting was a special one and the fact that it was called on Sunday night is considered unusual and significant by others interested in the matter.

It is rumored that the selection of sergeant has narrowed down to a choice between Kelly and O'Keefe and the exclusive session Sunday night tends to lend credence to this theory. The promotion of a patrolman to the ranking of sergeant means a yearly salary increase of $100 and it is being keenly sought for by all of the quartet of eligibles. Each has a substantial backing and friends are doing their utmost to bring the plum to certain candidates.

Now that vacations have started at police headquarters the need for a third sergeant has become more apparent than ever. The raising of Maurice Higgins from sergeant to lieutenant by the passage of the ordinance and the subsequent abolition of the ranking of roundsman and substitution of sergeant has resulted in Charles Flynn and Andrew Saffron bearing the bulk of the night work, Captain John Flynn having been put on day duty to work as a plainclothesman. It is essential that a third sergeant be selected in the very near future to do night desk duty in conjunction with Sergeants Flynn and Saffron.

A Daily Press reporter attempted to get information yesterday on what transpired at Sunday night's meeting, but Chief Kiely and the members of the Police Board were noncommittal. It is probable that no official information will be forthcoming until the Board arrives at a decision on the apointment of a third sergeant.

Sunday night, Kelly and O'Keeffe were individually before the Board and questioned by the members concerning their status in the police department, their term of service and their qualifications for promotion. Of the two Kelly has been on the force the longer, having been appointed one year before the other aspirant. The fact that Kelly was granted nearly a year's leave of absence, however, may be taken into consideration in making the appointment.

HOSTESS AND GUEST WERE SURPRISED BY FRIENDS

Miss Marian Avery, of Fairview avenue, and Miss Elsie Shean, of Springfield, Mass., who is visiting her, were given a pleasant surprise at Miss Avery's home, last evening, by about fifteen friends. The evening was spent in a general social way. Refreshments were served and festivities came to an end shortly before midnight.

Those present were Miss Edna Green, of New Brunswick; Miss Elsie Shean, of Springfield, Mass., and the Misses Lillian Spencer, Marjorie Burtis, Dorothy Martin, Ann Hull, Elizabeth Hilpot, Madeline and Marian Blair, Amelia and Margaret Brizzie, Elsie Debele, Marielle Dunham and Marian Avery, of the borough.

$100,000 HEIR NOW A $12 FACTORY CLERK

And Court Decides William Heath Must Pay $8 a Month Toward Claim.

Experimenting a sudden shift in scenery from that enjoyed by men of affluence and wealth in Plainfield's "400" to that indulged in by a $12-a-week factory clerk employed in the Hall Printing Press Company's plant at Dunellen, William L. Heath, of Truell Inn, was summoned before Supreme Court Commissioner Frederick C. Marsh, in Elizabeth, yesterday, for examination to ascertain why he could not be legally compelled to satisfy a judgment of $211.97 found against him in a Scotch Plains' justices's court May 27. Judge James C. Connolly decided that Heath could pay $8 out of his $60-a-month wages in installments until the judgment was satisfied. The first payment must be made July 15.

Heath, who is twenty-four years old and married, attracted considerable attention here early in March when it was discovered that he had spent the last cent of a $100,000 legacy left him by his grandmother. Shortly afterward his handsome home at Scotch Plains and his big touring cars went under the sheriff's hammer and Heath was forced to take up lodging in the Plainfield hostelry in which he now resides. Out of the amount remaining after the sheriff's claims had been satisfied, Heath said he intended to go to California and begin life anew in the Golden West, but the profit was decidedly less than he had anticipated and hence his acceptance of a proffered "job" in the Dunellen factory.

He is well-known in Plainfield and is generally recognized as a "hale-hearty-fellow-well met." Before falling heir to the big sum of money he was a telegraph operator.

MISS MABEL BENNETT RESIGNS AS A TEACHER

The resignation of Miss Mabel Bennett, of Dunellen, was presented at a meeting of the teachers' committee of the North Plainfield Board of Education held in the Somerset School last night. Miss Bennett was selected to teach the Eighth grade next year. The several vacancies that still remain in the teachers' list were not filled last night.

Those present at the meeting were President J. H. Cooley, Trustees R. C. Campbell and T. E. Currin, Jr., and Supervising Principal D. Fred Aungst.

ALUMNI ASS'N TO GIVE DANCE TO GRADUATES

Final preparations for the annual reception and dance of the North Plainfieldd Alumni Association, given in honor of the graduating class of the High School, nave been made and it promises to be a successful affair. The dance will take place in the reception hall of the Park Club at 10 o'clock Thursday night, June 24, immediately following the graduation exercises at the Plainfield Theatre.

Excellent music has been provided through the commencement committee of the Board of Education and there will be five pieces. Thec haperones will be provided by the borough Parent-Teacher Association. Dancing will be held until 2 o'clock.

The officers of the class of 1914 form the committee in charge and tickets can be secured from them. They are Ashley Burner, E. Franklin Lowe and F. O. Dunning, Jr.

TO STOP IMPORTATION OF STRIKE BREAKERS

Chicago, June 15—The tie-up of transportation lines of the city continued today. It is feared that the trainmen employed on the Gary and Interurban Line will enter the strike. The City Council under a suspension of rules voted to prohibit the importation of strike breakers, provided for a committee headed by Mayor Thompson to try to effect an immediate settlement and refused to grant an appropriation to employ 1,000 extra policemen. Continuous service on the elevated from Jackson Park on the south to Wilson avenue on the north side was promised today.

BUSY SESSION OF SCOUT COUNCIL

Scoutmasters Resign to Give More Time to the Executive Work.

PLAN FOR BIG RALLY

Commissioner Allen E. Beals and Others to Speak at Meeting in Netherwood Reformed Church—Plans for Independence Day.

The Plainfield Boy Scouts through their Scoutmasters volunteered to serve as escorts and fireworks guards at Parker Field on the night of July 5. Two boys, David Carmichael, of Troop 14, and William Dixon, of Troop 7, applied for promotion to the rank of first-class Scout, and Scoutmaster Unattached F. L. Bach wac advanced to the rank of the third deputy Scout commissioner to succeed J. W. Aughiltree, who has moved out of the city, at the meeting of the Boy Scout Council, in the Y. M. C. A. parlors last night.

Despite the extreme hot weather it was the largest meeting of the council held in many months, the first vice-president, T. G. Davis, being in the chair, and in the absence of Secretary Dr. George T. Moore, Howard W. Satterfield served pro tem.

Two Scoutmasters resigned in order to give more time to the executive work of the rapidly growing Scout movement. A. V. Searing's resignation from the Scoutmastership of Troop 5 was reluctantly accepted and the appointment of John Richards as his successor was approved. E. A. Sprowl, Scoutmaster of Troop 11, resigned in favor of Raymond Manley, one of the original Boy

LEWIS K. CLARK GIVEN A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Friends to the number of forty gathered at the home of Mrs. L. K. Clark, on Jackson avenue, Netherwood, last night, to offer their congratulations to Lewis K. Clark, who observed his nineteenth natal day yesterday. The young man was completely surprised by the delegation.

The attendants were entertained by vocal and instrumental selections, the following members rendering their respective selections in a pleasing manner: Angelo Sorbo, violin; Patrick Hawley and Thomas Comuno, guitar; Lewis K. Clark, piano; vocal selections, Misses Helen and Marion Thompson, Miss Helen Parsons. At a late hour refreshments were served by the host's mother, and games and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour.

Those present were: Misses Carrie Forbes, Ellen Sebring, Anna Wesp, Julia Hallard, Helen Thompson, Marion Thompson, Helen Parson, Carrie Hafford, Millie Dunn, Cora Apgar, Inga Fox, Bertha Perrine, Nettie Perrine, Amanda Kisner, Agnes Griffin, Ira Kinnbell, Ethel Rhodes, Mary Bicknell, Mrs. Edward Apgar, Mrs. Charles Thompson, Mrs. Parson, Mrs. Edward Boardman, Mrs. George Staats, Miss Edna York, Mrs. Maltis, Mrs. Charles Holstein, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. George York, Mr. and Mrs. Warbeck and daughter, Mrs. Agnes K. Clark, Charles Meyer, Dick Lawson, Thomas Comuno, Patrick Hawley, Anglo Sorbo, Lewis Clark, Samuel Hofner and Norman Rhodes.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR RECEPTION TO GRADUATES

Final plans for the commencement dance at the Plainfield High School on Thursday night, June 24, were completed at a meeting of the executive committee of the Alumni Association, last night. The following dance committee was appointed: Charles B. Morse, chairman; Miss Pauline Gates, Miss Jessie Stewart, Elston Hoagland and Burnett Doane.

This is the first year that the dance to the graduating class has been given by the Alumni association and the arrangements tend to make the affair a big event.

ASSEMBLYMAN RUNYON SPEAKS AT RAHWAY

Assemblyman William N. Runyon was one of the principal speakers at the annual exhibit and closing exercises of the School of Letters of the New Jersey Reformatory, Rahway, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The other speaker was Richard F. Stockton.

Several Plainfielders accompanied Mr. Runyon to Rahway and after the exercises they inspected the exhibit of work by the inmates of the institution.

Elaborate Patriotic Program Enjoyed Under Auspices of Plainfield Lodge of Elks—Jas. Coleman and Jos. O'Keefe Among Speakers.

One of the most stirring and timely patriotic addreses that has been heard in this city since the present crisis has been overshadowing the nation was given at the Elks' clubhouse on Watchung avenue, last night, in the course of Flag Day exercises. Assemblyman William N. Runyon was the speaker and with the main thought that all eyes are now turned upon America's Stars and Stripes to see exactly what they stand for he made many statements that produced prolonged applause from his audience of 150 men. The order of Elks has given official recognition to Flag Day and every lodge in the country is called upon to conduct an appropriate program on June 14.

The ritual of the B. B. O. E. contains among other statements, the reference to the American flag as "that audacious piece of bunting." Assemblyman Runyon stated at the outset of his remarks that while in days gone by Old Glory had been looked upon as an audacious piece of bunting it did not stand entirely for that at the present time. It has passed numerous critical ordeals without presuming to be pugnacious or belligerent, but at the same time has accomplished more good than if

MME. RAPPOLD TO SING IN THIS CITY

Prima Donna Soprano and Other Artists to Give Concert Here in November.

The executive committee of the Musical Club of Plainfield, at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. J. K. Myers, on East Seventh street, yesterday, made arrangements for a concert to be given in Plainfield early in November under the auspices of the club. The artists who will appear on that occasion will include Mme. Marie Rappold, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera House, who has taken the place of Emmy Destinn, and who will sing all the lyric soprano roles during the coming season with Caruso.

The other artists will be Miss Lucile Orrell, an eminent violincellist, and Hugh Allen, a young and pleasing baritone. R. E. Johnston, of New York, through whom the artists were engaged, will arrange a program of unusual interest which will be announced later and the concert promises to be the musical event of the coming season.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC REPORTS OVER 65,000 VISITORS

New York, June 15.—The Southern Pacific Company's New York office has received word from its officials in San Francisco that 65,102 visitors to the company's building at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition have been registered. The actual number was considerably larger as many visitors do not register their names. There is a sunset theatre in the Southern Pacific building where lectures and organ recitals are given. From March 10 to May 31 the attendance aggregated 76,707.

NEWSBOYS' BILL TREATED ROUGHLY

Citizens at Public Hearing Riddled Proposed Ordinance Full of Holes.

INTEREST IS DISPLAYED

Newsdealers Protest Strenuously Against Any Legislation to License Newsboys—State Laws Provide for Difficulties.

Armed with enough verbal resistance to convince even the "fathers" of the proposed newsboy ordinance that there was two sides to the question, a delegation of local citizens who would be indirectly affected by such a set of newspaper-selling regu*lations appearing in the Mayor's of*fice, last night, in response to what Councilman Thomas Hylan referred to as a "Press call" for a public hearing. Despite the fact that the councilman laid all responsibility for such a hearing to the Press, which he said had taken the initiative without authority, it was without a doubt one of the most successful public hearings ever held in Plainfield; exceeding in attendance and enthusiasm any recently authorized by the Common Council as a body. Twenty-six individuals, a majority of them interested in newspaper selling in Plainfield, listened intently to a volume of argument against the proposed piece of municipal legislation, but when Chairman Hylan asked if there was anyone in the room who wished to speak in favor of the proposition, no response was forthcoming. This put a finale on the session and it closed with the balance of expressed sentiment weighing heavily in favor of

SEVERELY INJURED WHEN HE ALIGHTS FROM AUTO

Jumping from an automobile while in motion led to Benjamin Bati, of Piscataway, becoming a patient at St. Peters' Hospital, New Brunswick. Bati, with Lawrence Weber and several other friends, were having a congenial time in town Saturday evening, and shortly after midnight, decided to go home by auto. They secured a big Packard machine from the Middlesex Garage, which was driven by Fritz Bauries.

Bati lives at Piscataway, and a quick trip was made to the borough. Bati sat in the rear seat and when the machine approached his home, he alighted and was tossed into the air and rolled down an embankment. Bauries found his passenger unconscious.

He was revived and taken to St. Peter's Hospital. He is suffering from severe lacerations about the face and hands. He won't be able to leave the hospital for several days.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY TO GIVE TWO PLAYS

The final dress rehearsal for the two plays which will be presented by the Young People's Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church in Debele Hall, Thursday night, will be held tomorrow night. The names of the plays are "Aunt Sally from California," in which there are six girls, and "Wanted, A Male Cook," the cast of this being composed of four boys. Dr. Charles Moldenke is coaching the cast of the last named play while Mrs. Bachelor, of this city, is directing the girls production.

Between the plays Miss Gross will entertain with monologues. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the church.

UNKNOWN MAN ENDS LIFE IN CENTRAL PARK

New York, June 15—Policeman Downie, doing patrol duty on Fifth avenue, heard a shot early today and sprang over the low stone wall separating the avenue from Central Park at 96th street. He was in time to see a well-dressed young man totter and fall dropping a pistol from his right hand. The policeman found that a bullet from the weapon had gone clean through his head at the temple. He died at Flower Hospital one hour later. The only clue was a money order receipt made out to Teresa Magliosso, of Tormino, Italy. The sender being Ernesto Stagasso, of No. 533, West 133d street.

SECURITY LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS

Plainfield Branch Perfects Organization at Meeting of Executive Committee.

The Plainfield New Jersey Branch of the National Security League, Inc., perfected a permanent organization last night, when the executive committee met at the Park Club and elected officers. Leslie M. Daniel, who was chosen temporary chairman at the first meeting last week, was made a permanent officer with Daniel Runkle as vice-chairman and C. L. Slocum as secretary and treasurer. E. M. Daniel, 2d, was elected a member of the executive committee to succeed Howard Lapsley.

The committee on membership comprises J. Whitney Baker, Fred V. V. Shaw and E. M. Daniel, 2d, and the committee on information and publicity comprises Edward C. Pearson, E. F. Feickert and C. L. Slocum. The executive committee is as follows:

H. M. Fisher, Daniel Runkle, Edward C. Pearson, Leslie M. Daniel, C. E. Aaron, T. O. Doane, L. J. Ellis, E. F. Feickert, Dr. Guy H. Hillman, J. Whitney Baker, Alexander Milne, Philip S. Suffern, Evarts Tracy, W. L. Smalley, Charles A. Peterson, S. W. Rushmore, William Newcorn, E. M. Daniel, 2d, Fred V. V. Shaw and Percy H. Stewart. The local branch will meet subject to the call of the chairman.

PLAY FOR BENEFIT OF OPEN-AIR SCHOOL

Under the direction of Miss Katherine Borden, of Hillside avenue, and the auspices of a number of young women, an attractive open-air play entitled "The Queen of Flowers" will be given on the spacious lawn of Walter L. Righter's home on West Seventh street at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The affair will be given for the benefit of Plainfield's open-air school.

There will be twenty-two young women in the play, all in fancy costume appropriate to the season of flowers, and the natural amphitheatre affords a fine place for the presentation of the play. The proceeds will be devoted entirely to the open-air school.

G. A. R.'S AND W. R. C.'S TO ATTEND STATE CONVENTION

A combined delegation of fifty Plainfielders will attend the joint State encampment and convention of the G. A. R. and Women's Relief Corps, to be held at Asbury Park, Thursday and Friday of this week. The encampment of the veterans will be held in the Asbury Park Casino, while the women will hold forth in the Auditorium. A large amount of business is to be transacted by both organizations, but time has been allowed in preparing the program to permit the delegates to do some sightseeing. Many men prominent in State affairs will address the gathering and Asbury Park officials are doing all possible to aid in the success of the encampment and convention.

Winfield Scott Post will send a quota of delegates and attendants and the following will represent the Winfield Scott Relief Corps: Mrs. Sarah Manley, department president; Mrs. Sarah O. Struthers, department secretary; Mrs. Jessie B. Smith, past department president; Mrs. Emma K. Frazee, past president; Mrs. Jennie Bergman, department chaplain; Miss Evelyn Manley, assistant secretary; Mrs. George Summers, first delegate, Mrs. Annie Brewin, second delegate; Mrs. Mary Randolph, past president Winfield Scott Relief Corps and press correspondent.

Miss Clara Barton Smith, of the Winfield Scott Relief Corps, was delegate-at-large to the National Relief Corps convention at Detroit last year and beside being one of Plainfield's delegates will recount the happenings at the national gathering.

Many of the Plainfielders will leave for the shore tomorrow afternoon, in order to be present when the convention is open early Thursday morning.

ITALIANS BATTLE WAY TO TRIESTE

Reported That Austrians Have Been Repulsed With Big Loss of Life.

BRIGANDAGE CHARGED

Austrians Set Fire to Forests to Check the Oncoming Enemy—Extent of New Austro-German Victory in Doubt.

London, June 15.—Although press dispatches state the Italians who crossed the lower Isonzo are pushing forward toward Trieste and are at the gates of Nabresina, nine miles from Trieste, an official announcement from Rome today conceals any *details of the advance in this direc*tion. The situation along the Isonzo is dismissed with references to minor engagements and the statement that the Austrian losses have been serious.

Elsewhere along the front Italian victories are claimed. The Italian War office charges Austria with the encouragement of brigandage in the territory occupied by Italy.

The extent of the new Austro-German victory in Galicia is in doubt. Although Berlin and Vienna assert the whole Russian line over a 43-mile front north and east of Przemysl was broken down, it is said officially at Petrograd that the Russians recaptured on Sunday almost all the advanced trenches north of Przemysl lost on Saturday. Further south, in the region of the Wisznia River, successes for the Teutonic forces are acknowledged.

An announcement from the Turkish War office claims a victory over the Russians in the Transcaucasus. The Turks, it is said, occupied Russian positions in the direction of Olti, near the Russian border.

Official denial was made today of the report circulated in United States that the British battleship Agamennon had been sent down in the Dardanelles by a German submarine. It was further announced no other fighting unit not officially reported had been lost at the Dardanelles.

The steam trawler Argyll has been torpedoed and sung by a German submarine. Seven members of her crew were lost.

Rome, June 15.—The following statement regarding the progress of military operations was issued today at the headquarters of the Italian general staff:

"There have been no important developments along the Tyrol-Trentino frontier. The enemy persistently attacked Montepiano at night after an all-day bombardment from Forts Platz and Wiese, but was repulsed each time.

"Our artillery caused the explosion of ammunition depots toward Corte, in the Cortevole valley, and seriously damaged the enemy's works at Cessassi.

"Our bombardment of Marlborgetto in Carnia resulted in an explosion in the lower part of the fortress.

"Further reports of the night attack of Italian Alpinists in the difficult region of the Alps of Volla give details of considerable booty taken there, besides a number of prisoners terrorized by the impetus of our troops.

"Our batteries dispersed a camp of the enemy in the region of Monte Nero.

"All prisoners taken near Plava, in the Isonzo region, agree the Austrian losses up to this time have been serious. Most of the prisoners belonged to regiments heretofore operating against the Servians.

"The Austrians tried yesterday to set the forest of Monfalcone afire, but our troops drove back the enemy and extinguished the flames."

Paris, June 15.—The French War office gave out the following official statement this afternoon:

"In the district of Quennevieres Farm, after an artillery duel that lasted all day, the Germans attacked during the night in an effort to retake trenches which the French had previously won on June 8. The Germans were put to rout. A German long-range gun has thrown several projectiles upon Compiegne. There was no loss of life and no damage to property."

Constantinople, June 15.—The Turkish War statement says:

"On the Caucasian front we occupied enemy positions near Olti on the Russian border in Transcaucassia. On May 24 an aviator who went up from an English cruiser near Endian Khuzistan Province, Persia, was shot down."

The want ad way of tenant-finding is the accepted way—and means small expense and delay.

NEW MARKET SCHOOL GETS AMERICAN FLAG

Presented by Lodge Members With Appropriate Ceremonies Yesterday.

With a fitting program of exercises Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of New Market, presented the Board of Education of Piscataway township with a handsome American flag for the New Market School Saturday afternoon.

The program included a parade through the principal streets of New Market by the uniformed guard of the order, numbering 30, and other members of the lodge in citizen clothes accompanied by the Public Service Band. The parade was led by W. F. Metz, supervising principal of the Piscataway schools.

Upon the arrival of the parade at the school a large gathering of school children assembled on the green and sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

Music by the band followed the singing of the national anthem and next came the flag presentation speech delivered by William B. LaRue, the State treasurer of the Jr. O. U. A. M. Mr. LaRue was introduced by W. F. Metz.

When Mr. LaRue arose to deliver his speech he faced a gathering of fully 500. The speaker suggested a change in the observance of Independence Day by the citizens devoting a portion of the time of that day to extending the right hand of welcome to those naturalized during the year, giving them to understand what it means to be a citizen of the United States.

District Clerk Everett Marshall received the flag for the Board of Education and made a short speech of thanks, during which he complimented the Juniors on the work they have done for years in the interest of the schools.

The flag was then raised. Three salutes were fired by the guards as it mounted heavenward. As the flag completed its ascent a string was pulled unfurling it to the breeze and releasing myriads of small flags which were wafted hither and thither downward. The Board then led in singing "America," which was joined in by the entire assemblage.

The committee of Juniors in charge of the program was made up of William VanNuis, chairman; E. Lester Rule and W. T. Piddington, Jr.

The Rev. J. Madison Hare was the host of the Baptist ministers of this section of the State at a picnic in the 'Plains, yesterday. At noon the Lend-a-Hand Society, of the Baptist church, served a delightful luncheon in the Parish House. About twenty-five pastors spent an enjoyable day and several interesting talks were listened to.

A meeting of the executive board of the Fanwood Township Sunday-school Association was held in the lecture room of the Baptist church, last night, for the purpose of making arrangements for the holding of a community picnic, in which all of the township Sunday-schools would take part. Several hours were passed in a thorough discussion of the matter and it ended by a committee being appointed to further look into the advisability of the holding of the picnic and making a report at a meeting in the near future. With the band and other features proposed, the venture would be rather expensive, but, if possible, it is intended to have the picnic early in July and prior to the "Big Eight" excursion to Asbury Park, which comes on July 20.

The young people of the Baptist church have discontinued for the summer the weekly Friday night socials in the lecture room of the church and will meet no more until September.

Work is nearly finished on the foundation for School No. 3, being built in the Graceland section of the township, and Anthony Albert will start on his carpenter contract in another week.

The Plainfield-Union Water Company is piping water to the Borough Hall, as was authorized at the last meeting of the Council. The company is also piping water along Martine avenue, from about one thousand feet this side of King street, at the expense of Frank C. Mannkin, who has recently built a new residence in that section of town. There was considerable trouble several months ago concerning the way he was to get water, as the water company wanted the Council to have a number of hydrants installed if they were to stand the expense of putting in water. The Council refused to comply and Mannkin would have gone without water unless he took it upon himself to have the water installed.

High Bridge-Califon.

A son was born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Yensch, of Main street, Califon.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Hoffman, of High Bridge, last week, a variety shower was given Miss Dela Kohl by the members of the local council of the Daughters of Liberty. Miss Kohl will be married the last of the month.

MEYER GERHARDT NEARING GERMANY

Von Bernstorff's Special Envoy Reaches Norway With Note to Kaiser.

Christiansand, Norway (via London), June 15.—The Scandinavian-American liner United States arrived here yesterday from New York.

Among her passengers is Meyer Gerhardt, attache of the German colonial office, who is on his way to Berlin at the instance of Count von Bernstorf, German ambassador at Washington, to present the Aemrican political situation to the German authorities.

Herr Gerhardt has been in the United States for several months representing the German Red Cross. He was selected by Count von Bernstorff to go to Berlin as his envoy on the ground that the ambassador found it virtually impossible to communicate with his government on American feeling over the Lusitania incident and other incidents of international relations. A guarantee of safe conduct was granted him by the allies.

From Christiansand the United States goes to Copenhagen, where Herr Gerhardt will disembark and thence proceed for Berlin.

TRIBUTE TO OLD GLORY

its upholders and defenders had plunged the country into a hasty war.

"To my way of thinking," said the speaker, "the American flag stands for all that is good, holy and right. In these troublous times when more than half of the European nations are hacking at each other with all the hatred and venom that individuals are capable of, it is to our credit that we have acted calmly and deliberately. President Wilson has decreed that we should be neutral and while there is a tendency on the part of some who are not born upon our great free soil to take sides with native lands, in the main the chief executive's mandates have been obeyed. Our flag is still floating proudly over a peaceful country and it is for every American, whether of the hyphenated variety or not, to lend his moral and physical support to President Wilson and his cabinet. There are some of us who believe that war should have been declared on several occasions within the past year, but first thoughts are not always the best and when we realize after calm reflection what the first man of the nation has done we cannot help but applaud him to the echo. That 'audacious piece of bunting' which is our emblem floats just as proudly at the present moment as though we had ordered our warships and men for some fancied insult or grievance and I entertain the belief that every other nation on the globe, big or little, has absolute respect for it. Most of them can still see hidden within its folds the old pine tree emblem of Revolutionary times which bore the picture of a rattlesnake and inscription 'don't tread on me.' Nobody is going to tread on Old Glory and if we are projected into any kind of undesirable action it will only come after President Wilson and his colleagues can see no other course clear in maintaining the dignity of the great American nation. The flag stands for peace equally as much as it stands for war and it is for each and every one of us to aid the executive in deciding which it is going to be."

In the course of the exercises James Coleman delivered a stirring eulogy on the Stars and Stripes and Joseph O'Keefe recited its history. The audience sang patriotic songs accompanied on the piano by William Smith, the lodge organist. Many of those present were friends of the Elks who had been invited for the occasion.

The program for the evening was arranged by a committee composed of V. W. Nash, Jr., Chauncey F. Stout and Francis J. Blatz.

FUND FOR RECREATION HALL IS INCREASING

The fund for the Recreation Hall which is being raised by the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association, is steadily increasing and buttons, which are given out on receipt of one dollar, are being earned every day. The pupils of the schools from the lowest to the highest grades, are still as enthusiastic as at the start and when the general campaign begins next year, there will be a large sum already in the treasury.

The graduates, from the '97 class to the '14, can also be button wearers, which has become the fad in the borough. Bob Hand, of one of the early classes, is the first alumnus to receive a button. Donations may be sent to Mrs. W. O. Taylor, president, or any member of the association.

NOONDAY MEETING.

The men's noonday Gospel meeting to be held tomorrow from 12:30 to 1 o'clock will be led by Horace J. Martin. Mr. Martin will also conduct the singing and a very profitable half hour is promised all who attend. The meeting will be held in the Rescue Mission Hall, 10 Madison avenue.

WILSON NOT SATISFIED WITH MEXICAN AFFAIRS

Washington, June 15.—It was apparent to visitors at the White House today that President Wilson was not at all satisfied with the manner in which conditions in Mexico were shaping themselves. The President declined to indicate what the next move of this government would be.

FOURTEEN BIDS RECEIVED FOR SUBWAY EXTENSION

New York, June 15—The Public Service Commission today opened bids for the construction of section of route 29, which is a part of the Nostrand avenue branch of the eastern parkway subway in Brooklyn. This line is an extension of the present subway and will, of course, be operated by the Interboro. This is known as section one. Fourteen bids were received and according to unofficial figures the lowest bid was that of the Underpinning and Foundation Company, $2,179,000.

MRS. BUCHANAN SURPRISED.

Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street, the borough, was pleasantly surprised yesterday afternoon, at her home, when the Thimble Club, of which she is a member, called to wish her many happy returns of the day, the occasion being the anniversary of her natal day. The party met on the corner of Front and Duer streets and then proceeded to the home of Mrs. Buchanan, who was entirely ignorant of the arrangements. Mrs. Robert L. Giddes delighted those present with several vocal selections, while Dr. Buchanan accompanied her on the piano. Refreshments were served. The club presented Mrs. Buchanan with a set of bouillon spoons.

CHINESE EDIBLE DOGS.

They Are Fed Mainly Upon Daintily Prepared Vegetable Food.

English bon vivants have tested the merits of the Chinese edible dog, and they pronounce it very good dog indeed.

The dog is destined from the beginning for the table. Like the edible rat of the same country, it is fed mainly upon vegetable food, which is often delicately prepared and specially devised, in order to give the dog's flesh a peculiar flavor and aroma. The result is something quite different from the flesh of the ordinary dog of the western world.

The genuine Chinese edible dog is known by its bluish black tongue, which is a peculiar mark of its variety. In infancy and early youth the dog's tongue is red, and upon reaching maturity and the edible age it suddenly becomes black, sometimes within two weeks.

Another peculiarity of this dog is its lack of the barking faculty. It is said that the dog can bark, and on occasions does so, but these occasions are rare.

Many experiments, most of them unwilling, were made with the flesh of dogs during the Paris siege. Newfoundlands and St. Bernards were preferred, under the mistaken impression that they would prove more eatable than other varieties. They proved to be detestable in all cases.—Every Week.

CORK TREES OF SPAIN.

How They Are Stripped of Their Bark at Ten Year Intervals.

An important industry in Spain is the cultivation of cork trees. This tree is an oak which grows best in the poorest soil. It cannot endure frost and must have sea air and also some altitude. It is found all along the coast of Spain, the northern coast of Africa and the northern shores of the Mediterranean.

There are two barks, the outer of which is stripped for use. The cork is valuable according as it is soft and velvety. When the sapling has reached the age of ten years it is stripped of its outer bark for two feet from the ground. The tree will then be about five inches in diameter and about six feet up to the branches. This stripping is worthless. The inner bark appears blood red, and if it is split or injured the tree dies.

When eight or ten years more have elapsed the outer bark has again grown, and then the tree is stripped four feet from the roots. This stripping is very coarse and is used to make floats for fish nets. Every ten years thereafter the bark is stripped, each year two feet higher up, until the tree is forty or fifty years old, when it is in its prime, and may then be stripped every ten years from the ground to the branches.—Exchange.

Royal Kisses.

The kings and high officials of Europe when they meet always embrace and kiss each other, no matter what their relations have been in the past or may be in the immediate future. This is a kiss of respect. It may be given on the lips, the cheek, the brow or the beard and is nicely adjusted, according to the age and rank of the giver. From this close personal contact it passes through many forms—kissing the hand, parts of the clothing and even the ground trodden upon, according to the idea of respect or fear inspiring the one who performs the act. The nations of the west have not adopted this ancient custom as a form of salutation, but have reserved it for the more tender relationships of life.—Christian Herald.

LUSITANIA WAS UNARMED, HE SAYS

Sir Edward Carson Makes Complete Denial of German Report.

London, June 15—"The Lusitania was not armed and she never was fitted out as a transport," was one of the remarks made by Sir Edward Carson, attorney-general in the new cabinet, in addressing the court today at the opening of the Board of Trade inquiry into the loss of the Cunard liner.

Baron Mersey, president of the court of inquiry, to investigate the sinking of the Lusitania, is assisted by Admiral Sir Frederick Englefield and Lieut-Commander Hearn as naval assessors; Capt. Davies and Capt. Speeding, of the Mercantile Marine; Attorney-General Carson and Frederick E. Smith represented the Board of Trade, while the Cunard Company and the passengers of the Lusitania, including the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt, all were represented by counsel.

Spectators crowded the court. Simultaneously with the opening of the investigation news was received of the finding of two more bodies at sea near where the Lusitania sank. One was of a boy about fourteen and the other of a man. Neither was identified.

Sir Edward Carson, who opened for the Board of Trade, said he courted the fullest inquiry. He was able to give complete denial to the contention of the German government the Lusitania was an armed vessel carrying guns and serving as an auxiliary to the naval forces of Great Britain.

"In their note to Germany," the speaker said, "the United States already have officially denied this, and the evidence I propose to call will confirm and fully prove the remarks of the American government that the Lusitania was not armed and that she never had been fitted out as a transport."

ROUMANIA ACCEPTS TERMS OF ALLIES

Agree to Join in War, But Greece and Serbia Refuse Concessions.

Rome, June 15.—A Giornale d'Italia Sofia dispatch says:

"M. Filipescu, leader of the Roumanian Conservatives, declared today that the quadruple entente powers (Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy) have agreed to the demands of Roumania.

"Therefore, a definite conclusion of an understanding for the intervention of Roumania in the war is imminent.

"Greece and Serbia will send an identical note to the Bulgarian premier, M. Radoslavoff, and his cabinet, declining the proposals of the quadruple entente powers for the cession of Macedonian territory to Bulgaria."

The correspondent of the Giornale d'Italia adds:

"I am assured Greece and Servia are sending a note of protest to the great powers declaring that it is impossible to accept a Balkan understanding on such terms.

"M. Radoslavoff and his cabinet will use pressure on Serbia and Greece because in the end the conception of the quadruple entente is based on right, and a just consideration of national aspirations in the Balkans must prevail."

That Greece and Serbia will join in a protest indicates part of their eastern provinces has been alloted to their rival. This territory was kept from Bulgaria following her defeat by Greece and Serbia at the end of their joint war on Turkey.

BRYAN WILL PUBLISH HIS STATEMENT TOMORROW

Washington, June 15.—Ex-Secretary Bryan did not issue his promised statement today on "the causeless war and its lessons for us," but announced that he was preparing it in three parts. He said:

"Tomorrow I shall submit the first part dealing with the war as it is and the injury it does to neutral nations. The next day I shall consider the origin of the war and the influences which caused it. The third and concluding section will treat of the means which may be employed for restoring permanent peace.

"As the article will be furnished to all newspapers, without partiality or discrimination, it will not be my fault if any papers fail to lay it before their readers."

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will go to Miami, Fla., within a few days.

INJURED HIS LEG.

Andrew Brown, an employe of the Salvation Army Industrial Home, was received at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, suffering from a possible fracture of the leg. The injury was sustained through his tripping on a flight of steps.

SWAT 'EM AGAIN.

In these days of sweet girl graduates, June brides and other things which fill much of the available space in the newspapers, don't forget the humble little house fly. Swat one now, and you put out of business some million possible ancestors by the fall. Don't let the other June activities keep you so busy that you cannot take a few minutes every day to go about the house with a rolled up newspaper, or a fly swatter, or anything else that is handy, putting these pests "hors de combat" or whatever it is they say. Campaigns in the past have worked wonders in reducing the number of pests, but the legions appear again every spring, and they want to be put down.

The warfare against the fly must be just as relentless and just as vigorous as if it had only commenced. Premises should be carefully cleaned and every precaution taken to prevent the breeding of insect pests, and especially the house fly, a product of dirt and a spreader of disease. A little care right now will prevent a lot of trouble later on, for a fly killed in early summer removes the danger of billions later in the season. Swat the fly, and escape annoyance and danger.

William L. Dill, the new commissioner of motor vehicles, thinks that New Jersey has been putting on a little too much unnecessary style in requiring its great seal, in the form of an aluminum disc, to appear on every automobile registration tag, and he has saved the State about $8,000 by cutting out this ornament. The saving amounts to more than half the bill paid for this year's tags, and when fifty per cent can be cut off one little item of State expenditure there must be a multitude of other possible economies which, if practised in every State department, would in the aggregate mount up to hundreds of thousands of dollars. This particular luxury of the State on every motor car, as the Newark Star says, may have been one of the "fads and fancies" in the mind of Comptroller Edwards when he addressed an audience on the question of waste of the public money.

In the retirement of Dr. William G. Schauffler as president of the State Board of Education, New Jersey loses one of the most faithful and valuable public servants it has ever had. Dr. Schauffler declined reappointment from Governor Fielder although the Executive urged him to accept another term. He has been at the head of the Board since it was re-organized under the so-called Frelinghuysen law in 1911, and was a member of the old and cumbersome body prior to that time. Former Senator Frelinghuysen succeeds him to the presidency of the body, and the State is fortunate in having so able a man to fill Dr. Schauffler's chair. The former Senator has made the study of the schools one of his hobbies and he is better versed in the law probably than any person in New Jersey, since the death of J. Brognard Betts.

"There is entirely too much carelessness on the part of citizens as well as business men in regard to throwing waste paper and rubbish in the streets," says the Summit Herald, and what is true in Summit is equally true in Plainfield. As the Herald says, all citizens should cultivate the habit of picking up paper or other refuse from in front of their property, and thus help to create civic pride.

If William J. Bryan wished to find out what the American public thought of him; he could not have adopted a more effective method than he did last week, when he resigned as Secretary of State. It has been truthfully said that it was the most popular thing he has ever done, and we have yet to see a newspaper that upholds him in the stand he has taken.

"Is Colonel Roosevelt going to supinely permit William J. Bryan to assume the position of the Big Noise and Chief of Trouble Makers in this country?" asks the Paterson Press. Nix! When Teddy has something to say he never has the unanimous disapproval of the press of the country.

The establishment of direct Saturday half-holiday train service to Lake Hopatcong by the Central Railroad should prove popular with Plainfielders. There are hundreds who go from this city to that resort, and a train leaving at 1:32 will be a great convenience.

Congressman R. Wayne Parker, in an interview, carefully held up for release today, has discovered all of the things that were described months ago in articles published by authorities like former President William Howard Taft.

Just when we had begun to master the pronunciation of the towns in Russia, the Italians entered the war and added to the newspaperman's troubles with Girbicaria, Frieknopfel, Malborghetto and Balpiccolo.

The excursion season will be with us before we know it. Wonder who will be "the first to go" this year?

It's about time for some humorist to spring that old joke about doing your Christmas shopping early.

This may be truthfully said to be good growing weather. If you doubt it watch your garden.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

Talking to a man whose wife I knew to be an ardent suffragist, I was surprised to hear him say that he intended to vote against "Votes for Women."

"I'm disgusted," he said. "Look at the way those suffragists tried to force their way into the President's presence at the Naval Review banquet the other day!"

"But," I answered, "although I don't believe in woman suffrage one must be fair, and those women represent a small party who are repudiated by the regular suffragists."

"That's all right," he said, "but they are typical of the state of mind of the suffragists. Anything to get their own way. Women forcing their views on the public, in season and out of season. Talking through megaphones, addressing crowds on corners, making themselves conspicuous everywhere. Why, they even lower themselves to throwing mud at the reputations of sister women. I've no use for them."

Here is another illustration of how this "publicity" works. In the Times of Wednesday was an account of the "Silent Protest," made by a number of college women in the United States District Court, where a number of aliens were being made into American citizens.

Twenty women, good and true, lost a vote for suffrage yesterday morning because, arrayed in college caps and gowns, they visited the United States District Court in the old Postoffice Building to see how foreign-born men are transformed into citizens of the United States, and to silently protest that American women ought to have the same privilege.

It was on the street in front of the Postoffice Building, where the women in caps and gowns had been inveigled by various photographers and moving picture men, that they lost the vote. One of the men in the encircling throng was roused to red hot rebellion by the sight.

"I was going to vote for them," he said, in real angry tones, "but after they have acted in this way, never!"

An editorial in the same issue draws attention to the weakness of the "mute protest."

"The direct intent of the demonstration is to throw in contrast with the group of educated women the applicants for admission to citizenship, many of whom are poor and illiterate, contributing only the strength of their arms to the public welfare in return for their new privileges. 'See these uncouth men, to whom you give the ballot, and then look at us, from whom you withhold it,' is the lesson of the dumb show.

"When the court adjourns the women ride home over rails which the foreign applicants have laid and in cars which their muscles have built, without thought that their ancestors were foreign immigrants to this county. But it is not so much the pharisaical aspect of the case that interests us as its implication that educated women alone are deprived of a privilege accorded to ignorant men. Judge Hand put his finger on the fallacy of the case when he said:

"'I am still to be convinced that woman suffrage will better conditions, as it will permit ignorant women to vote as well as intelligent ones.'

"A truly representative band of suffragist silent mourners would not wear academic mortarboards. They would include the wives and daughters of ward politicians, dealers in liquors at retail, and women of foreign nationalities whose husbands may be admitted to citizenship."

As has been said before in this column this is one of the weak points in the suffragist argument. They ignore the fact that the great majority of American women are workers in the home, who have no opportunity to study or discuss political questions and consequently easy victims to corrupt politicians. The average woman has neither time nor inclination for the study of political situations.

T. S. ARMSTRONG WILL ATTEND STATE MEETING

The annual convention of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association will open tonight, at the new Essex and Sussex Hotel at Spring Lake. Matters of general interest to the pharmacists and the new federal anti-narcotic law especially, also State laws, will be discussed during the convention. A new constitution and by-laws are to be adopted and several scientific and commercial papers will be submitted by the query committee. The convention will end Friday. The women members of the visiting delegation are to be entertained by motor car rides and other outdoor amusements, dances and card parties.

Thomas S. Armstrong of the Plainfield Druggists' Association is the Plainfield representative at the convention.

Scouts in Plainfield. His retirement was accepted with regret. Both these officers will continue to serve, however, as first and second deputy Scout commissioners.

Provision was made last night for taking part of the borough of Fanwood into the local Scout Council's jurisdiction. Arrangements were made whereby Scouts from the vicinity of Terrill road will be received into membership of Troop 15 of the Netherwood Reformed church, of which Cedric Ostrom is Scoutmaster. A large number of boys living in sparsely settled farming districts in that borough have wanted to become Scouts and in view of the fact that Troop 15 was the nearest to their homes the plan to give them the benefit of Scoutcraft through an already established troop was approved.

Accordingly there will be a Scout rally at the Netherwood Reformed church on Friday evening, at which Commissioner Allen E. Beals and others will speak. A friend of this troop has offered to equip it with necessary paraphernalia.

Paul R. Collier, chairman of the field day committee, reported progress and said he expected to have the names of the committee in hand by the next council meeting with a tentative program. This year's field day already promises to be marked with keen contests among the ten local troops.

Brockholst Miller, J. W. Gavett, Jr., and Edward Harding were elected members of the council. The commissioner reported the principal Scout activities of the past month. He said that the application for life-saving medal made by Scout Harvey Keiderling of Troop 11, was now before the National Court of Honor for action.

Action in awarding the prizes offered by Mrs. Stephen G. VanHoesen, district agent for the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, for the best essays on "Kindness," was deferred until August 1 so as to give Scouts who were prevented from competing by reason of school studies for final examinations an opportunity to enter the competition. The prizes will be awarded at the August meeting of the local Scout council. The first prize is a complete Scout camp cooking kit. There is also a second prize offered.

The Public Service Railroad Company offered to give to the Boy Scouts of Plainfield a gratuitous illustrated lecture on "Safety First," as applied to street car service, showing what to do in panics, accidents, shock by electricity and similar emergencies. The lecture which will be given by A. J. VanBrunt, director of safety education, of the Public Service Railway Company, will be illustrated graphically.

Scoutmasters and councilmen present last night were First Vice-President T. G. Davis, Second Vice-President L. M. Leek, Secretary Pro Tem Howard W. Safferfield, First Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., Second Deputy Commissioner E. A. Sprowl, Third Deputy Commissioner F. E. Bach, Physical Drector Edwin Glaentzer, who is also Scoutmaster of Troop 8; F. K. Anderson, William Abbe, Fire Chief T. O. Doane, F. M. Genung, Cedric Ostrom, J. Clinton Berrien, H. D. Davis, F. W. Genung, Joseph Garner and the commissioner. The next meeting of the council will be held on Monday night, July 12.

PLAINFIELD ODD FELLOWS ASSIST AT DEDICATION

Rahway, June 15.—More than 500 Odd Fellows, Sunday afternoon, took part in the ceremonies of dedicating and unveiling the Odd Fellows' monument, in Rahway cemetery, by Essex County Lodge, No. 27.

The oration was made by Grand Representative William T. Robbins, of Hamilton Square. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. Edgar Washabaugh, an address was made by Grand Master George W. Bechtold, of Jersey City, and a double quartet sang.

Preceding the ceremonies at the cemetery, Essex County Lodge met at the Lyric Theatre and marched to the cemetery in the following order: Canton Essex, of Newark; Canton Hope, of Plainfield; Valhalla Lodge, No. 275, Perth Amboy; Hobert, No. 270, Woodbridge; Carteret, No. 247, Carteret; Queen City, No. 226, Plainfield; Westfield, No. 169, Westfield; Memorial, No. 165, Elizabeth; Hausa, No. 145, Elizabeth; Elizabethport, No. 116, Elizabeth; Franklin, No. 9, Elizabeth; Elizabeth Columbia Encampment, , Elizabeth; Noah's Dove Encampment, No. 29, Plainfield; Essex County, No. 27, Rahway; grand officers. The members of the four lodges of Rebekah in the district also attended.

NEW STEAMSHIP LINES.

Providence, R. I., June 15—A new transatlantic line is today inaugurated between this port and Manchester, England. The first cargo includes an immense shipment of steel. In order to facilitate the opening of the new route, the Interstate Commerce Commission has made a special ruling allowing the same interstate rates for export between Pennsylvania and Providence as those between Pennsylvania and Boston.

New Orleans, June 15—According to Count Guy de Fayolle, of the Transports Maritimes Company, a French company which operates four lines to South America, a new steamship service will be inaugurated this month between Marseilles, France, and Hampton Roads, Galveston and New Orleans. Three of the company's vessels were recently torpedoed, but these have been replaced by seven new steamers. The Count has announced in San Francisco that a line will soon be in operation between Marseilles and the Pacific by way of the Panama Canal.

BILL TREATED ROUGHLY

shelving the measure.

Among the speakers were Councilmen Hylan, Cose and Blatz, Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson, Mayor Calkins, William Olmstead, Alfred Zimmerman, Frank Wagner and Chauncey Stout.

The issue finally resolved itself down to a question of whether or not it would infringe on a High School boy's pride to make him wear a badge or other outward or visible symbol of properly authorized newspaper selling or delivering. Fathers present at the meeting strenuously objected to having their boys "tagged" with "tin badges" and several wanted to know just who it was that stirred up the Board of Education to a point where it was considered necessary to enact a new local ordinance to cover a phase of municipal welfare already cared for by the State laws of 1914. The answer to the latter query was vague and unqualified, it being explained that the Board of Education deemed it necessary to enforce every "educational law" to the letter.

Corporation Counsel Reed summed up the Board's legal requirements by addressing Dr. Maxson as follows: "None of us here will complain if you neglect to enforce this 'fool' State law to the letter and you need not fear for arraignment on malfeasance of office charges."

Taking the expressed sentiment as a whole it was the opinion of the majority that "Home-rule" should govern and that "ignoring it" would prove far more satisfactory than a municipal ordinance in satisfying the requirements of the State law. It was generally admitted that the State legislation was not necessary and the consensus of opinion favored entire or partial neglect of the statute in this city instead of stringent enforcement, such as a local ordinance would call for.

In introducing the subject to the audience, Dr. Maxson clearly defined the purposes of the proposed ordinance and cleared up a number of points that had previously been vague. Up to last night it was the accepted theory that each boy was to be charged an annual license fee of fifty cents for selling or delivering papers. This, however, was not proposed, according to Dr. Maxson. It was the intention of the fathers of the bill to levy a half dollar fee on the applicant when he got his license and to return this sum of money to him when he turned back the badge. Therefore, his only loss would be the interest on fifty cents for the period of time he chose to keep the badge.

Dr. Maxson was assailed with a volley of questions and for a few minutes the hearing waxed warm. One of the points dwelt heavily upon by the opposition was the apparent line of distinction that had been drawn between boys in the newspaper business and those working as grocery clerks, bootblacks or in like employments. This question was answered by Dr. Maxson, who stated that the "newsboy problem" was considered the biggest issue at the present time in Plainfield and there was need for some sort of regulation to control the sale of newspapers.

Corporation Counsel Reed brought out the fact that the 1914 laws had not placed the responsibility for the enforcement of the act up to the Board of Education or any other body. Dr. Maxson replied by saying that the educational authorities generally accepted the responsibility in such cases and took it upon themselves to see that the measure was enforced.

Mr. Zimmerman, who is connected with the circulation department of the New York "World," said that a law of this kind applies more to big cities, where there are newspapers printing several editions a day, rather than to cities of Plainfield's size.

Mr. Stout deplored the attempts to throw the carrier and street-boys into the same class, claiming that there was a distinct difference that ought to be taken into consideration in passing a license measure of this nature. He declared that if found to be a good thing and to be needed here the ordinance should be passed and if passed it should be enforced.

During the meeting it was brought out that the 1914 laws of New Jersey provide for every section of the proposed local ordinance with the exception of the one relating to "badging" the newsboys. This, the sponsers of the bill claim, would inject a feeling of importance and honor into the veins of the newsboys rather than cut their dignity.

BAYONNE FAVORS NEW NEWARK BAY BRIDGE

The Bayonne Chamber of Commerce will ask the City Commissioners at their meeting this afternoon to name a committee to try to obtain the construction of a bridge across Newark Bay, between Bayonne and Elizabeth.

The proposed span would extend from the foot of West Eighth street, Bayonne, to the Elizabeth meadows, 6,000 feet upstream from the Jersey Central Railroad bridge, which is used for train traffic only. The cost, according to Augustus Smith, one of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, would be $600,000. This is about half the estimated cost of the bridge originally proposed. Mr. Smith favors having a private corporation operate the bridge, which would cost $80,000 a year to maintain, and would have a daily revenue from tolls of about $325. Trolley cars and vehicles, as well as foot passengers, would be provided on the bridge, which would have a twenty-foot roadway.

DAUGHTERS OF SCOTIA OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

A social event marking the third anniversary of Craig-a-Lea Lodge Daughters of Scotia, of this city, was held in Coward Hall, last night, and was a great success. There was a large delegation present from Kearny, including Mrs. Kathleen Mitchell, grand chief daughter of the order, and her staff. A delegation from Clan McKenzie was also present.

Mrs. John Robertson, chief daughter of the local lodge, presided and made an opening speech, welcoming the visitors to the celebration. Mrs. Mitchell made appropriate remarks and stated that since she has held her present office she has organized twenty-one lodges. Robert Murray spoke in behalf of Clan McKenzie. The remainder of the program consisted of violin and piano selections and recitations. Peter MacKennon entertained on the bagpipe and singing was enjoyed by all present. Refreshments were served during the evening.

"Q" CLUB GUEST OF LOCAL PASTOR

Members of Baptist Social Organization Spend Delightful Day at Scotch Plains.

Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, is a charter member of the "Q" Club, which is composed of Baptist ministers belonging to the New York Baptist Ministers' Conference, formed two years ago for the primary purpose of mutual sociability and study. At the invitation of Mr. Hare, eleven of the sixteen members, most of them accompanied by their wives, visited Scotch Plains yesterday for the purpose of holding what will hereafter be known as "Ladies' Day." The visitors came in the morning and returned home late in the afternoon, loud in their praises of welcome accorded them by both the entertaining clergyman and his wife.

On arriving at Scotch Plains, the delegation first visited the parsonage after which they were escorted to the parish house. A short business session was held during which Rev. Dr. Cornelius Wolfkin, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, New York, read an instructive paper on "The History of the Development of Modern Surgery and Medicine." Although Dr. Wolfkin's is not a surgeon himself, his father was a very eminent practitioner and the son has absorbed some of the parental knowledge. He has also made a recreative study of it and because of his superior kniwledge, none of his listeners attempted to contradict his statements. Instead, the article was followed by an hour of social discourse on general topics.

Dinner was served at noon and the serving of the last course was a signal for the customary after-dinner speeches to be made. There were several excellent addresses, although no set subject had been assigned. The formation of the "Q" Club was touched upon in various ways for the enlightenment of the gentler sex, all of the women being deeply interested in its success. The membership is limited to sixteen. It was decided to hold the next meeting in the Hotel Bristol, New York, in October. The dinner itself was a very sumptuous affair, with chicken as the piece de resistance furnished by the women of the Scotch Plains church. Bowling was enjoyed after adjournment and before returning home the visitors were served with ice cream, a most acceptable dish on account of the extremely hot weather.

Among those present were Rev. Dr. Arbuckle, of Yonkers; Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, of Plainfield; Dev. Dr. Simmons, of Elizabeth; Rev. Dr Bauden, of Perth Amboy; Rev. Dr. Morris, of Jersey City; Rev. Frank Smith, of Elizabeth; Rev. Dr. Goodall, of Roselle; Rev. Ivan Flood and Rev. Dr. R. N. West.

SEEK TO ABOLISH GRADE CROSSINGS

Residents of Dunellen Will Try to Have Danger Points Removed.

The question of eliminating grade crossings has again become a paramount issue in Dunellen, and citizens are beginning to wonder if existing conditions at Washington and Lincoln avenues are ever to be rectified. At these two points vehicle and pedestrian traffic is continually on the increase, and the ceaseless running forward and backward of the drill engines from the Dunellen roundhouse is a continued source of danger, thus giving rise to an aggressive agitation against the present crossings on these two thoroughfares in Plainfield's most promising suburb.

The fact that the New Market and Samptown sections of Piscataway township are at present undergoing what may at first glance appear to be abnormal growth because of the erection of two factories, which will ultimately give employment to nearly 600 men, also means that traffic at these two crossings will be increased to a greater or less extent within the course of a comparatively short time, and residents of Dunellen fear the worst.

Just what action is to be taken by the citizens of the borough is still an open question, although a movement is now underway to secure some sort of definite action on the part of the Board of Trade of that place. A number of the merchants have expressed a willingness to back up any action that may be taken by the civic body, and push the matter to some solution that will alleviate the present conditions. Those who have expressed themselves in favor of a speedy abolition of the crossings have not expressed any opinion as to whether the streets are to be depressed or bridges built over the tracks of the Central Railroad, preferring to leave that part of the trouble to engineers who make a specialty of solving such questions. However, public opinion is being worked up, and steps will undoubtedly be taken in some form or other before fall.

Another point which has been raised by prominent residents who are deeply interested in the growth and welfare of the borough, is the present rapid development of the town on the south side of the Central tracks as a result of the opening up of two residential parks, thus creating an increased number of pedestrians who are to utilize the crossings in going to and from the business section. This point, it is expected, will have considerable bearing on the final doing away with the crossings.

TAKES ANOTHER POSITION.

Miss Agnes Boxold, teacher of English in the High School at Bernardsville, has accepted the position of teacher of English in the High School at Millburn for the coming year at an advanced salary. Miss Boxold was secretary and substitute teacher in the North Plainfield schools in 1913-1914.

ANNUAL PICNIC THURSDAY.

The annual picnic of the Plainfield Graded Union of Sunday-school Teachers will be held Thursday at the Park Golf Club grounds. The members and their friends will take the trolley car leaving the Watchung avenue stand at 9:45 o'clock in the morning, rain or shine.

Scattered Sport Gleanings

Although North Plainfield couldn't muster together enough steam to annex the Interscholastic League title this season the high schoolers garnered some little satisfaction through the trimming they administered to the graduates Saturday afternoon. Stahl appears to be getting better as a twirler now that the season is closed as evidenced in his stunt of letting the old-timers down with three bingles.

Appearing as a witness in a police court case yesterday morning a North Plainfield lad admitted on the witness stand that he was a ballplayer. However, there's a time and place for everything and his hasty acknowledgment shouldn't be taken too seriously. We once knew a man who admitted he was a murderer after he had been half-way convinced of the fact.

It's been so long since the Plainfield High School youngsters have won a double title in the Interscholastic League that they're having a little time all by themselves trying to get accustomed to being dubbed champions. Cheer up, it may all wash out, ere another year rolls 'round.

If enthusiasm counts for anything fans may expect to see that City Baseball League giving the Feds a run for the third league monopoly before long. Plenty of the old-time ginger is in evidence and we've a right to anticipate first-class pastiming from all quarters.

They tell us the baseball umpires have formed a Union. Wonder if the arbitrators will favor the Saurer club's opponents. Local Unionists have tabooed the champions because Britt Martin is not a welcome guest at union meetings any more.

Because the Columbus Club athletes have neglected to get busy in baseball certain prominent members have taken to raising roses and "pedestrianism" for exercise.

Haven't heard a thing from that feminine baseball nine of late. It might prove a drawing card as a contender in the City League this year. We can always find a place for the fair sex, even though it be in a minor role.

Plainfield coppers have been invited to send a representative to Elizabeth tomorrow to assist in organizing a State baseball circuit. Let's hope this invitation will be enough to get the bluecoats around this burg started.

ROD AND REEL

The black bass season opens today and there are a large number of places in this vicinity where they can be caught and fishermen are taking advantage of the good weather. Among the places where good fishing is reported are Greenwood Lake, Lake Hopatcong, Delaware River, White Pond, Hackensack River and Weequahic and Branch Brook Park Lakes.

Oswego bass, pickerel and catfish are biting well at Beaver Lake.

Newark's two lakes, Weequahic and Branch Brook, are popular places for bass anglers. Other fish are also caught in large numbers.

The Delaware River will have a banner season this year. Men who should know claim that many large bass will be taken from the stream close to the Jersey shore.

Lake Hopatcong has turned out a considerable number of trout and some reports have been received that bass have been taken, but at no particular point. Fishing is good in all parts.

NATIONAL TOURNEY STARTS.

Play in the national open golf championship tourney started this morning on the Baltusrol course at Short Hills. A second lot will begin tomorrow morning, among them being M. J. O'Loughlin, of this city. Ouimet and Travers play today.

ELKS' BOWLING TONIGHT.

Three matches are scheduled to be played in the Elks' Bowling Tourney tonight. The Leonard-Blimm and Stout-Bank teams, Nash-Zink and Laing-Weiss teams, and Leonard-Blimm and Laing-Weiss teams getting into action.

N. P. H. S. LONE CONQUEROR OF ORANGE COMBINATION

The victory of the North Plainfield High School tennis team over the West Orange High School racquet wielders on the Park Club courts on May 12, stands alone in the defeat column of the Orange School team, every other match being a win for that combination. Yesterday the West Orange team defeated the South Side team, making a record of seven victories and one defeat. Although the match was not finished with the borough team, West Orange conceded their opponents the victory as they already had annexed two singles matches and had one set on the third when rain interfered and stopped play.

The North Plainfield team was scheduled to go to West Orange today, for a return match, but it was postponed by the Orange manager, probably because of the hard match yesterday.

PLAINFIELD COUNTRY CLUB WILL ENTERTAIN GOLFERS

A women's one-day golf tournament, under the auspices of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, will be held on the course of the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow. The association has held several successful one-day tourneys this season and a large list of entries is expected for this one.

There will be a number of local women playing, including Mrs. H. R. Stockton, who has won several medals already this year. Play will start tomorrow morning.

MRS. L. H. CONRAD ANNEXES TENNIS TITLE AT P. C. C.

Mrs. L. H. Conrod won the final round of the women's singles tennis championship for the title of the Plainfield Country Club, on the club courts yesterday afternoon, by defeating Mrs. Morris Dumont in straight sets, the scores being 6-4 and 6-3. The winner was the master at all times and played better than her opponent both on the attack and defence.

The women's doubles tournament will begin next Monday and entries will close with Mrs. R. Story Rowland, 444 Stelle avenue (tel. 981), on Sunday night.

CHURCH PEOPLE PROTEST AGAINST SUNDAY BALL

New Brunswick, June 15—Resolutions were adopted at the First Methodist, Pitman Methodist, First Presbyterian and First Reformed churches Sunday, protesting against Sunday baseball being played in Buccleuch Park. Commissioner James Mershon announced recently that he would permit a game there Sunday as an experiment, claiming that it would stop the city's young men from gambling.

Upon hearing of the protest, the commissioner directed that the game arranged by the Knights of St. Peter with a Plainfield team be called off. The two park policemen stood guard at the home plate to arrest the first man playing. Upon arriving at the park, and seeing nearly 1,000 people there, however, Mr. Mershon told the teams to play ball. Several city officials were on the field as spectators. The score was 4 to 0 in favor of the local team when rain stopped the game.

The ministers say they will appear before the commissioners tomorrow to renew their protest.

SPORT BRIEFS

Open championship golf tournament starts today.

Boston Braves release Otto Hess, the veteran left-handed pitcher.

Big card at Sheepshead Velodrome tonight. Fifteen professional sprints, motor-paced and amateur events, to be run off.

Sam Robideau and Walter Mohr boxed ten rounds to a draw at Albany last night.

Perfect weather conditions bring all the crews out at Poughkeepsie for speedy workouts.

Jockey Dreyer breaks leg at Jamaica, yesterday, when his mount, Variety, goes to her knees in a scramble for position.

Basil Maclear, international football player, killed in action in Northern France.

Yale and Princeton play deciding game this afternoon at Polo Grounds.

Brooklyn Nationals buy Pitcher Douglass from Cincinnati Reds.

John Madden sells three-year-old Sam McMeekin to Sam Hildreth. McMeekin well engaged in stakes, will run in new owner's colors this afternoon.

Vanderbilt B. Ward, State tennis champion, favored for Metropolitan title.

International wrestling at Manhattan Opera House tonight.

RUTGERS BEAT STEVENS.

Harry Jennings pitched winning ball for Rutgers against Stevens Institute at New Brunswick, yesterday afternoon. The final score was 5 to 2. Jennings was opposed to Beiloff at the start but he sprained his ankle and was forced to retire. Struppman took his place but was unsteady. The Rutgers' twirler allowed but five hits and his teammates made only one misplay behind him. This was the second game of the season, the Hoboken aggregation having taken the first one.

CARLSTROM HITS WELL.

Albin Carlstrom, playing third base for the Buffalo team, of the International League, had a big day at the bat yesterday, against the Montreal team at Montreal, getting three hits out of five trips to the plate and scoring one run The game was a comedy throughout, the Bisons winning by a score of 17 to 1.

ELKS' BOWLING RESULTS.

Only one match was played in the Elks' two-man tourney, last night, the Blimm-Leonard team taking the odd roll from the Hill-Waldorf combination. The others scheduled for last night will be played at a later date.

TYRUS COBB IS GREATEST PLAYER

Detroit Star Is Head and Shoulders Over Other Cracks.

HIS SECRET OF SUCCESS.

Rise Is Result of Close Application to His Profession—Other Players as Fast and Brainy, but They Do Not Equal "Georgia Peach."

There can be no question that Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers is the most talked of man in sports today, which is just another way of saying that he is the most interesting. Almost any day one can pick up a newspaper and read that Cobb has again pulled something new and unexpected or has pulled an old trick in a new way in the game in which he has become such a great figure.

It is a tribute to a man's resourcefulness that he can continue to break into the news of the day so prominently in spite of the competition of his fellow players and the important news of these stirring wartimes. But Cobb is never stopped and apparently never at the end of his resources. He goes on proving from day to day that he is the greatest player in the game and undoubtedly the greatest player of any time. Old time ball players with a natural prejudice in favor of the era in which they played are unanimous in the opinion that Cobb's equal never lived in the game.

What makes Cobb so great a player is a question that is frequently asked whenever he bobs into the limelight. The answer is his natural gifts, not only his speed and eye, but his brain. There are many players as fast as Cobb, and some who have as good an eye, or nearly as good an eye for hitting, but they lack some of the things Cobb combines in his collection of assets. Cobb thinks faster than most ball players; thinks further ahead and has absolute confidence in his convictions. In other words, he depends but little on mechanical baseball. A lot of other players depend almost entirely on it and that is where he has the advantage of them.

But Cobb has not become so great a ball player simply through his natural gifts. His rise is the result also of careful application to his work. He has always studied baseball, and when he had been recognized as the best player in the game he did not stop studying his line of business. That is why he has been better year after year, and this season he has come to realize that his frequent absence from the game has not only injured the chances of his club, but also has interfered with his own success, and he is attending to business more carefully than ever. He has not been out of the game this season.

Ball players long ago gave up trying to figure Cobb. When he was new in the league old timers used to get together at night after a game and plan how they would catch that young sprout the next time he tried to pull something on them. The next time he came out he pulled something new or pulled an old one in a new way. He had them bewildered. It was not long until they quit trying to outguess him, and now they just trust to luck. The minute he gets on the bases he has a team guessing. He knows this and he takes advantage of it.

Cobb stands out in baseball like other unusual men stand out in other lines, because he seems to understand the possibilities of his own game better than the other men engaged in it. He is a baseball genius.

ELLIOTT THE WINNER.

The members of the Omaha and Sioux teams, of the Y. M. C. A. Indian League, took part in the running broad jump event, yesterday, Elliott, of the Omaha team, winning with a mark of 14 feet, 4 inches. In a baseball game Wawayanda defeated Iroquois 20 to 15. The results follow:

HOW TO DO THE CRAWL STROKE NOW ACCEPTED AS THE BEST BY WATER STARS

By LOUIS DE B. HANDLEY.

[Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.]

SOME ten years ago the crawl swimming stroke came from Australia to revolutionize the art of natation in this country, and it is interesting to recall that, although we unwittingly departed at the very first from the original type, we undoubtedly owe to this unconscious change our present international supremacy in sprint swimming.

In fact, the only data we had at the start upon the new stroke were hazy descriptions written for the Australian newspapers by men not versed in the subject, and it was simply blind luck which enabled us in attempting the reconstruction of the crawl from these descriptions to stumble without knowing it upon a somewhat different leg drive superior to that used across the seas.

In the decade since elapsed many varieties of the crawl have appeared. Its American devotees showed such immediate and remarkable increase of speed that both competitors and instructors began to devote to it close study, and presently new theories were evolved and various innovations introduced. Then we heard in turn of the Australian true type, the legless, the amble, the composite, the American and the trudgeon crawl.

Experiments, however, eventually led to the conclusion that most of these variations were practically worthless, and today only the American and trudgeon crawl have survived, at least in the United States. The former is universally recognized as the best for short distance swimming and has the world's sprinting records to its credit. The latter is generally advocated for the longer courses and has been used effectively even in water Marathon races.

In this article we will confine ourselves to the American crawl and speak separately later of the trudgeon crawl.

A great many swimmers, and not a few racing men among them, believe that in using the crawl a shorter arm drive than in the trudgeon should be sought and more rapid action. This is hardly the case, and the belief probably comes from the fact that the stroke has been the standard one for sprinting, while the trudgeon is shown at present chiefly by distance swimmers.

But even in sprinting it is not advisable to cut the reach and flay the water wildly. Indeed, the world's greatest 100 yarders—Charles Daniels, Duke Kahanamoku, Arthur Raithel, Harry Hebner and Perry McGillivray—always take full, complete strokes, and their action is comparatively very slow.

The leading authorities on swimming are now unanimous in stating that the identical arm movements should feature all the modern strokes—trudgeon, crawl and trudgeon-crawl—and as these were given space in a previous article on the trudgeon we will pass on without further ado to the leg drive of the crawl.

This drive is a continuous, alternate, up and down thrash of narrow scope, performed entirely under water. The legs are held outstretched, but not rigid, and though the thighs move a little, the bulk of the work is done from the knees down. Walk on tiptoe, with mincing steps, and you will obtain a clear idea of the wanted action.

The original Australian kick was made by lifting the feet high above water and beating them down just once to every arm stroke, each striking the surface in time with the pull of the opposite arm. Our experts, however, realized that waving the feet in the air added nothing to the propelling force, yet increased the effort and caused the lower body to sink. They advocated therefore a submerged thrash, the heels at most to show over the water, and the Australians themselves have now become convinced of the superiority of the method.

As to the number of downward beats, it was here that we branched off from the original stroke from the very first. Not knowing of the synchronous timing of arms and legs we let the individual decide for himself how many beats he could perform to each drive of the two arms, and thereby discovered what is now called the American crawl.

The advantage derived from the change will be realized. In using the old kick it was necessary either to leave the legs drag idly and lose momentum between arm drives, or so speed up the movements of both arms and legs as to make the stroke exhausting and untenable.

With the continuous thrash instead the swimmer is able to make the arm movements as slow as he pleases and still utilize all the power in his legs by increasing the number of beats at will.

The prevalent belief that there is no co-ordination between the arm and leg movements of the American crawl, however, is unwarranted. True, our best coaches tell their pupils not to pay any attention to relative timing, but this is because they know that as a swimmer gains proficiency he falls naturally and unconsciously into the rhythmic action made essential by the correlation of the muscular system.

Thus, any one taking the trouble to dissect the leg drives of our successful racing men will find them to conform with one of three distinct types, namely, the two beat, in which each leg is lowered sharply as the opposite arm pulls; the four beat, in which each leg whips down twice to the stroke of the arms, and the six beat, in which the legs go left, right, left during the sweep of the right arm and right, left, right with the sweep of the left arm.

This marking of the time or rhythm is quite noticeable in all good swimmers and, when lacking, indicates that there is some fault in the stroke.

It is the opinion of competent judges that the six beat thrash is the most effective not only because of its rapid action, but also because it establishes a better balance of power. Obviously, though, it requires unusual strength and suppleness of leg, and the average individual will get best results from the four beat, which is less tiring.

One of the errors often incurred by crawl swimmers is to bury the head between the shoulders. Nothing is gained by it. On the contrary, strain is placed on the muscles of the neck, greater resistance is offered to the water in boring through it, and an unnecessary move is made to breathe.

In learning the crawl no difficulty will be experienced by the pupil who has been taught to swim by means of the side stroke or elementary crawl, for the action is practically the same. Those, however, having served their novitiate in the breast stroke school should drop the frog kick altogether and devote their every effort to the leg thrash before even attempting to master the arm movements. When the whole stroke is attacked it is impossible to pay the wanted attention to the radical change of kick and the swimmer hardly ever succeeds in getting away from the lateral opening of the knees and the bringing up of the thighs, which are prescribed features of the breast stroke and bad faults in the crawl.

The easiest way to practice the crawl thrash is either by stretching out on the water and hanging on to something or to assuming the same position after donning floating device, and hold the arms motionless. It is well at first to not bend the knees at all, working the legs from the hips, as the natural inclination of a breast stroker is to draw up the legs, instead of whipping them up and down.

Only after a correct leg drive has been developed should the arms be brought into play.

"FIRST AID" CLASS TO GET DIPLOMAS

Twenty-six Members Have Completed Course at Y. W. C. A.

Twenty-six members of the "First Aid to the Injured Class" will receive their diplomas for satisfactory completion of the course at the Y. W. C. A., on Tuesday night, June 29. Miss Mildred Caleen, who received 100% in her examination, will be the valedictorian for the occasion, and Miss Matilda Coddington, with 99%, will be the salutatorian. Both young women will deliver a short address. The class poem will be written by Miss Gertrude Mair and the class prophecy by Miss Alice Smith. A feature of the commencement will be a question bee, during which the members will participate in an oral test. The alumnae of former "First Aid Classes" will be present.

The "First Aid to the Injured" course has been most successful at the association during the two terms it has been introduced into the regular curriculum, the class this term numbering forty-five members. The lessons consisted of a practical course of lectures and demonstrations on what to do in case of injury or illness and were given by prominent local doctors who contributed their services. The final examination was held at the association two months ago, Doctors Krans and Currie being the examiners. Beside passing the local examination the papers had to be sent to the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. in New York, also the American Red Cross Society, and the graduates receive a combined diploma-certificate from the latter.

The local young women who will receive the sheepskins are as follows: Miss Alice M. Benedict, Miss Katherine M. Browne, Miss N. L. Brown, Miss Matilda Coddington, Miss Margaret Eaton, Miss Winifred Eaton, Miss Princilla Baker, Mrs. I. W. Hawkins, Mrs. E. C. Johnson, Mrs. Olive B. Koons, Mrs. J. F. Lansdale, Mrs. Amy L. Lough, Miss Margaret Miller, Miss Emma Ryno, Miss Sarah M. Van Boskerck, Mrs. A. V. Searing, Mrs. Edward Suffern, Mrs. Charles H. Wetzel, Miss Alice H. Smith, Miss Dorothy Jewett, Miss Ella H. Benedict, Miss Mildred Caleen, Miss Ruth Hedenvall, Miss Gertrude Mair, Miss Marion Mair and Miss Elizabeth Wetherell.

TREMENDOUS COST OF CARRYING ON THE WAR

London, June 15.—From April 1 to June 12 it cost England $13,300,000 a day to carry on the war, Premier Asquith announced in Parliament today. In the future the Premier said it would cost England at least $15,000,000 a day and may be more. England is confronted with a situation unparalleled in the history of the kingdom and demands will be made upon the energies of the nation which cannot now be measured, said the Premier. After his speech Premier Asquith moved a vote of credit for a supplementary sum of $1,250,000,000 to carry on the war during the year ending next March.

REVENGE IS SWEET.

A desperate man stood on the bridge, looking down into the awful abyss below. His haggard face and bloodshot eyes showed that he had passed through a painful process. In the battle of life he had been Li Hung Changed by a large majority. "It is over," he muttered between teeth that he had clenched for the purpose; "it is over and I have lost. Beaten and broke, there is nothing left for me but the fatal plunge. It will be a poor revenge on the world, but here goes—"

A soft hand was placed on his shoulder, a benevolent looking man drew him back, and a mellow voice said:

"You were talking of taking your life."

"Yes."

"As a revenge upon man for his cruelty to you?"

"That was my—"

"Your intention, yes; but the world laughs at a man who commits suicide. Don't make away with yourself but let me point out the road to a nobler revenge."

"Tell me what it is, and I am your slave forever."

"I will give you the State agency for a patent collar-button."

The hard, drawn look faded from the eyes of the would-be suicide. He sank on one knee and murmured "My benefactor!"

DENIES THAT COL. HOUSE REPRESENTED GOVERNMENT

Washington, June 15.—President Wilson today set at rest reports that Col. E. M. House had been acting as personal representative of the White House in Europe and had discussed peace plans on behalf of the United States with the European governments. He flatly told callers that Col. House held no brief from the administration and had gone abroad in his capacity as a private American citizen so far as he knew. The Texan whom the President denominated as his personal friend was visiting a daughter, the President added, but probably would come to Washington later. The President declined to discuss the German situation, but it was evident to his visitors that he regarded the negotiations with Berlin optimistically.

SCHOOL TEACHER WILL NOT RESIGN POSITION

H. C. Krebs, superintendent of schools of Somerset county, is in Millstone this afternoon, trying to adjust a lively "school scrap" in which efforts are being made by two of the three members of the School Board to oust the teacher of the school, Miss Clara Gano, of Bound Brook.

The third member of the Board stands with the teacher, as does also a majority of the people of Millstone, who are interested in the school. Miss Gano has refused to get out, evidently being advised to resent the action of the two members of the Board whose only apparent reason for wanting the teacher to go is that she does not discipline the older boys sufficiently. This accusation is disputed by Miss Gano as well as her friends. Mr. Krebs is meeting with the Board this afternoon, in the hope of settling the trouble.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Members of the association will enjoy a "Sunrise Breakfast" tomorrow on the mountain side. All wishing to go are requsted to meet at the association at 6 a. m. Miss Elizabeth Wetherell will have charge of the outing.

CHAPTER IX.

The New Star.

SAM, Penrod, Herman and Verman withdrew in considerable state from nonpaying view and, repairing to the hay loft, declared the exhibition open to the public. Oral proclamation was made by Sam, and then the loitering multitude was enticed by the seductive strains of a band, the two partners performing upon combs and paper, Herman and Verman upon tin pans with sticks.

The effect was immediate. Visitors appeared upon the stairway and sought admission. Herman and Verman took position among the exhibits, near the wall; Sam stood at the entrance officiating as barker and ticket seller, while Penrod, with debonair suavity, acted as curator, master of ceremonies and lecturer. He greeted the first to enter with a courtly bow. They consisted of Miss Rennsdale and her nursery governess, and they paid spot cash for their admission.

"Walk in, lay-deeze; walk right in. Pray do not obstruct the passageway," said Penrod in a remarkable voice. "Pray be seated. There is room for each and all."

Miss Rennsdale and governess were followed by Mr. Georgie Basset and baby sister (which proves the perfection of Georgie's character) and six or seven other neighborhood children, a most satisfactory audience, although, subsequent to Miss Rennsdale and governess, admission was wholly by pin.

"Gen-til-mun and lay-deeze," shouted Penrod, "I will first call your at-tain-shon to our genuine South American dog, part alligator!" He pointed to the dachshund, and added, in his ordinary tone, "That's him." Straightway resuming the character of showman, he bellowed: "Next, you see Duke, the genuine, full blooded Indian dog from the far western plains and Rocky mountains. Next, the trained Michigan rats, captured way up there and trained to jump and run all around the box at the—at the—at the slightest pre-text!" He paused, partly to take breath and partly to enjoy his own surprised discovery that this phrase was in his vocabulary.

"At the slightest pre-text!" he repeated, and continued, suiting the action to the word: "I will now hammer upon the box, and each and all may see these genuine full blooded Michigan rats perform at the slightest pre-text! There! (There's all they do now, but I and Sam are goin' to train 'em lots more before this afternoon.) Gen-til-mun and lay-deeze, I will kindly now call your at-tain-shon to Sherman, the wild animal from Africa, costing the lives of the wild trapper and many of his companions. Next let me kindly interodoos Herman and Verman. Their father got mad and stuck his pitchfork right inside of another man, exactly as promised upon the advertisements outside the big tent, and got put in jail. Look at them well, gen-til-mun and lay-deeze. There is no extra charge, and re-mem-bur you are each and all now looking at two wild tattooed men which the father of is in jail. Point, Herman. Each and all will have a chance to see. Point to sumpthing else, Herman. This is the only genuine one fingered tattooed wild man. Last on the program, gen-til-mun and lay-deeze, we have Verman, the savage tattooed wild boy, that can't speak only his native foreign languages. Talk some, Verman."

Verman obliged and made an instantaneous hit. He was encored rapturously again and again, and, thrilling with the unique pleasure of being appreciated and misunderstood at the same time, would have talked all day but too gladly. Sam Williams, however, with a true showman's foresight, whispered to Penrod, who rang down on the monologue.

"Gen-til-mun and lay-deeze, this closes our pufformance. Pray pass out quietly and with as little jostling as possible. As soon as you are all out there's goin' to be a new pufformance, and each and all are welcome at the same and simple price of admission. Pray pass out quietly and with as little jostling as possible. Re-mem-bur the price is only 1 cent, the tenth part of a dime, or twenty pins, no bent ones taken. Pray pass out quietly and with as little jostling as possible. The Schofield & Williams military band will play before each pufformance, and each and all are welcome for the same and simple price of admission. Pray pass out quietly and with as little jostling as possible."

Forthwith the Schofield & Williams military band began a second overture, in which something vaguely like a tune was at times distinguishable, and all of the first audience returned, most of them having occupied the interval in hasty excursions for more pins. Miss Rennsdale and governess, however, again paying coin of the republic and receiving deference and the best seats accordingly. And when a third performance found all of the same inveterate patrons once more crowding the auditorium and seven recruits added the pleasurable excitement of the partners in their venture will be understood by any one who has seen a metropolitan manager strolling about the foyer of his theater some evening during the earlier stages of an assured "phenomenal run."

From the first there was no question which feature of the entertainment was the attraction extraordinary. Ver-

"I want to listen to Verman—I want to—I want to"— man—Verman, the savage tattooed wild boy, speaking only his native foreign languages—Verman was a triumph! Beaming, wreathed in smiles, melodious, incredibly fluent, he had but to open his lips and a dead hush fell upon the audience. Breathless, they leaned forward, hanging upon his every semi-syllable, and, when Penrod checked the flow, burst into thunders of applause, which Verman received with happy laughter.

Alas, he delayed not o'er long to display all the egregiousness of a new star, but for a time there was no caprice of his too eccentric to be forgiven. During Penrod's lecture upon the other curios the tattooed wild boy continually stamped his foot, grinned and gesticulated, tapping his tiny chest and pointing to himself as it were to say, "Wait for me; I am the big show." So soon they learn; so soon they learn! And (again alas) this spoiled darling of public favor, like many another, was fated to know in good time the fickleness of that favor.

But during all the morning performances he was the idol of his audience and looked it. The climax of his popularity came during the fifth overture of the Schofield & Williams military band, when the music was quite drowned in the agitated clamors of Miss Rennsdale, who was endeavoring to ascend the stairs in spite of the physical dissuasion of her governess.

"I won't go home to lunch!" screamed Miss Rennsdale, her voice accompanied by a sound of ripping. "I will hear the tatooed wild boy talk some more! It's lovely—I will hear him talk! I will! I will! I want to listen to Verman—I want to—I want to"—

Wailing, she was borne away, of her sex not the first to be fascinated by obscurity nor the last to champion its eloquence.

Verman was almost unendurable after this, but, like many, many other managers, Schofield & Williams restrained their choler and even laughed fulsomely when their principal attraction essayed the role of a comedian in private and capered and squawked in sheer, fatuous vanity.

THE BUSINESS OF HOME.

(Extracts from Dr. Carolyn E. Geisel's Address.)

"It is a woman's business to raise men. The saloon interferes with her business. Has the Government the right to license the manufacture and sale of a poison that ruins this business?

"America doesn't neec more lands, more mines, more minerals or more money—she needs more men, and the American home can produce men when the business of the American mother is protected by the American Government.

"We can no more raise sound men in wet territory than you can raise sound swine in an unsanitary pig sty.

"Awake, ye careless women! The punch bowl and the alcoholic medicine bottle are feeders for the saloon, the devil's kindling wood. Shall we continue to destroy our own sons with our own hands?

"Alcohol is not necessary as medicine. The medical institution with which I have the honor to be connected treats an average of 800 patients a day, has an international reputation for curing incurables, and has never used one ounce of alcohol as medicine in the 48 years of its existence.

"Teach the sacredness of self; for if the body is reverenced as a vehicle of the Creator it will be kept free from shame.

"In the 20th century, with its much talked of 'rights,' shall the saloon be permitted to continue its ruin of babies' rights.

"Shall the mature, the masterful, be always permitted to trample upon the life of the immature, the unborn?

"At least fifty per cent. of all forms of race degeneracy in America will be wiped out by nation-wide prohibition.

"Prevention of the marriage of the unfit; a clean bill of health with the marriage license; better baby contests; child conservation studies; anti-child-labor laws—these and all other plans for combatting race degeneracy are but means for correcting the ruin wrought by rum.

"Sixty years since America began her partnership with alcohol and in that half century insanity, imbecility and crime have increased by 500 per cent. 62 out of every 100 persons in the penitentiaries of the United States are there on account of drink in the first, second and third generation.

"A child is product both of its inheritance and its environment. Blood will tell.

"You think a man pays for his galss of beer when he passes his nickel over the bar. He does not. His baby pays. The law of inheritance is inexorable. The baby is what the father was. If a man destroys his brain by alcohol, if his body wastes and degenerates through drink, his children and his children's children will have dwarfed minds and degenerate bodies. Kill the saloon and save the baby.

"Drink makes the lowest element of society, but it does not always begin there. It begins appallingly, frequently with the highest.

"We have reached the third stage of race degeneration. Out of every two persons born into the world, one dies before reaching maturity. Remove the cause and save the nation.

"Seventy-two out of every hundred babies born in Munich, the greatest beer-drinking city in the world, are unsound. America has far too many cities that are close seconds to Munich in the beer drinking question. In Prohibition Maine 71½ per cent. of the babies born are sound. 'Environment is Destiny.'

"The drunkard cannot get a 'job' even as a barkeeper to dispense to other men the goods that finished him.

"The drunkard cannot get his life insured even to keep his credit good at the saloon.

"40 per cent. of arterio sclerosis is produced by alcohol and is not curable. 62 per cent. of Bright's disease is produced by alcohol and is not curable. 92 per cent. of cancer of the stomach is produced by alcohol. Cancer of the stomach is not curable. Destroy the saloon and save the man!

"The saloon is defeating woman's business by cursing the unborn. The saloon is destroying the American home by defiling the American man. The American voter is called the defender of the American home. Only called that often. When he votes to license the saloon he is the destroyer of the home.

"The American home is threatened with destruction because the American is destroying himself.

"Alcohol is not a food; it is a drug.

It injures the blood.

It retards the digestion.

It is the worst enemy of the brain worker.

It hardens the liver.

It destroys the kidneys.

It furnishes no support to the body.

It is a depressor.

It is a most destructive agent of health.

It deadens the body and the senses.

It affects the mental and moral side of nature.

Alcohol users show death rate 20 per cent. greater than non-users."

David S. Rose, a former Mayor of Milwaukee, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in Federal Court at that city. He is the Rose who took the liquor side in the famous debates with President Samuel Dickie. Perhaps the practising of his theories has had something to do with his final breakdown.

"Heads of industries, by taking a united stand against the liquor evil," says a recent speaker, "can avail more than all the prohibition sermons that can be preached." But the prohibition sermons can move the heads of industry.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Story of the Inquisitive Squirrel.

The Squirrel Wasn't Timid Any More.

"A SQUIRREL is inquisitive," claimed daddy. "Under ordinary circumstances, too, he's timid. But the less timid he becomes the more inquisitive he is."

"What's 'inquisitive,' daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"I know," said Jack. "It's wanting to find out about things, isn't it?"

"Yes, Jack," replied daddy. "Little boys and girls are inquisitive, and grown people ought to be, but sometimes they get tired and don't seem to care any more, I'm sorry to say, for it is a very nice thing to be inquisitive in the right kind of way.

"But I was going to tell you about this squirrel. He lived out in a lonely piece of woodland, and he didn't meet many people. So he was not used to human beings. He was afraid of them. When he would see a man or a boy or a woman or a girl coming down the brown woodland path he would just scamper out of sight in the greenery and watch the intruders with his beady eyes till they had gone away.

"He was a red squirrel, a cunning little fellow with a twitchy nose and a bushy tail and with the softest, brightest dark eyes you can imagine. But he was awfully afraid of people because he wasn't used to them.

"One day a man came through the woods. He was an old man with gray whiskers and a very kind face, the nicest looking old man. He walked with a cane, and he loved animals and birds very much.

"He saw that little red squirrel, and the red squirrel saw him and scampered for cover just as fast as he could go.

"Now, the old man saw the red squirrel looking at him through the greenery with his little bright eyes, and the old man smiled. Then he took a seat upon a fallen log and drew from his pocket a book and began to read.

"By and by the old man's hand was placed in his pocket, and he drew out some nice cracked walnuts, and he tossed them over toward the squirrel, so that they fell very close to the greenery where the little fellow was hiding.

"The squirrel was badly frightened at first and hurried a little distance back. But the old man kept on reading, and before long the squirrel came timidly out and got those walnuts.

"And what do you think? Why, before the season was done that squirrel was just climbing all over that man for nuts and other goodies. He would take the nuts out of his pocket or even between his teeth. You see, the old man was so kind that the squirrel wasn't timid any more, and they were great friends."

EXCELLENT OUTING DRESS.

No. 8788.

With the approach of summer it behoves one to see that the wardrobe lacks none of the equipment necessary for the summer vacation. The dress shown above, Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8788, is most excellent for vacation use. It makes a good house dress, and is perfectly adapted to sports. The waist has a high neck, revers and turn-down collar, full length or shorter sleeves, and a skirt in four gores with raised waistline. Sizes 32 to 46, 36 requiring 5⅛ yards of 36-inch material.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

INAUGURATE COLLEGE PRES.

Washington, Pa., June 15—The inauguration of Dr. Frederick W. Hinitt as president of Washington and Jefferson College brought to this college many educators of note from the East. The ceremony took place at 11 o'clock this morning. The invocation was by Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, of Pittsburgh. Judge J. A. McIlvaine, of Washington, president of the board of trustees, delivered the charge to the new president. Judge W. H. S. Thompson, of Pittsburgh, administered the oath of office. Dr. Hinitt delivered his inaugural adddress as the concluding feature of the exercises. The commencement exercises will take place tomorrow, at which time 58 men from many States will receive their degrees.

LITERARY

THE REVIVALISTS.

"If the psychologists are right in believing that the primitive emotion of fear was the base of the early religious sentiments of humanity, the power of the doctrine of hell-fire in our latest religious revivals needs no great explaining. Whenever we get humanity in a mass, it seems to act according to its earliest instincts, and animal appeals that would scarcely move one person stir a mob electrically. A single person in a theatre, at a sudden cry of 'Fire!' mght be be startled, but he would not run, panic-stricken. A crowd stampedes in an unreasoning impulse of flight that is as old as the animal instinct of the herd from which it derives. And for stampeding the religious emotion in its lowest form the cry of 'Hell-fire!' seems to be about as potent.

"It does not need a man of eloquence, a man of mentality, to reach that flight-instinct of religion. All that is required is a dynamic personality and a loud voice. Any subdued air of holiness or meditation, any mild or cultivated manner of religious conviction, would be a handicap; and that, no doubt, is why the most successful of our present revivalists shakes his auditors with sudden transitions from numor to invective, and stampedes them with violent physical contortions, jumping in a frenzy from the platform to the floor of his 'tabernacle,' or throwing himself on his face on the platform as he makes, in the colloquial speech he affects, a baseball slide in a home-run to heaven."—From "Current Comment" in the July Century.

Household Hints

THE TABLE

Fig Pudding—Beat the whites of four eggs to a stiff froth and to this add one cup of white sugar and beat again, stirring in one-fourth pound of figs cooked soft and cut in pieces. Pour into baking dish and stand in a pan of boiling water. Bake forty-five minutes in a slow oven. Serve with a custard made from the yolks.

Au Gratin Potatoes—In individual granite side dishes slice potatoes thin, in which between each layer has been added a little butter, sprinkle over a little flour, a pinch of salt and pepper. Cover nearly with cream, over which bread or cracker crumbs have been sprinkled. Bake thirty minutes.

Vegetable Salad—Take one small bunch of celery, two tomatoes, one small onion, one small red pepper, and one small cabbage, chop all fine and mix with about four medium-sized cold potatoes, add a teaspoonful vinegar, a half a teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of pepper. Pour on salad dressing, stir well and decorate with cold boiled eggs and garnish with parsley.

Griddled Eggs—Heat the griddle almost as much as for baking cakes. Butter it lightly and arrange small muffin rings on it. Drop an egg in each and turn as soon as lightly browned. They resemble fried eggs but are far more digestible.

Fish Croquettes—Two cups cold boiled fish (a left-over), two cups hot mashed potatoes, one tablespoon butter, one-half cup hot milk, one egg, one teaspoon salt, a little pepper, one teaspoon chopped parsley. Pick the fish over carefully, remove the skin and bone, mince fine. Combine all, mix thoroughly and cool. When cold form into balls, dip in beaten egg, roll in bread crumbs, fry in hot fat. Drain on brown paper.

Velvet Soup—One quart of any good white stock, one cup cream, one-half cup milk. Season to taste and pour boiling hot on the beaten yolks of three eggs, diluted with one-half cup of milk. Reheat and serve in bouillon cups.

Jellied Chicken—Dress, clean and cut up a four-pound fowl. Place in a stew pan with boiling water and cook slowly until meat falls from bone. When half done, add one teaspoon salt. Remove chicken, pick meat from bones and skin. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and pack in a buttered mold. Reduce the stock to one cup, dissolve two teaspoons granulated gelatine in a little cold water. When thoroughly soaked pour over the stock, strained and skimmed of fat. Heat until gelatine is melted, and pour ever the meat in the mold. Keep in your refrigerator until formed.

Date Pudding—One-half pound of dates (stoned), one-quarter pound nuts. Chop dates and nuts. Add one beaten egg, one large teaspoon flour, three-quarters cup sugar. Bake in a moderate oven. Serve whipped cream as sauce.

Virginia Style Sweet Potatoes—Steam sweet potatoes until done. When cold slice in round pieces and put a layer in a buttered baking dish with sugar and butter. Fill up the dish and cover with milk or cream. Bake brown.

Chicken and Dumplings—Cut up chicken, season with salt, pepper and small piece of butter; add hot water enough to cover nicely; add quart of small potatoes. For dumplings, take cup of sweet milk, large spoon of butter, pinch of salt and teaspoon of baking powder. Knead until you can roll out as thick as a pencil; cut three inches long and one inch wide and drop in with chicken and potatoes. Cover and cook slowly ten minutes.

Montgomery Pie — Lower part: One lemon (grated), one egg, one cup corn syrup, one cup granulated sugar, two tablespoons flour, one pint cold water. Top part: Two eggs, two cups sugar (granulated), one cup sweet milk, one cup lard, two and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder. Method of lower part: Grate lemon, add egg, syrup and sugar. Mix flour and water. Then add all together. Method of top part: Mix eggs, sugar, lard, milk, flour and baking powder together like cake. Line a pie tin with pie dough, pour in part of lower part, then drop top part. Bake in moderate oven. This makes four pies.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"I received a letter from Olive today, Dick." Nell was pouring the tea. She wore a soft pink gown that lent a warm glow to her face. Dick sat thinking how young she was looking and did not reply.

"Don't you want to read it?" persisted Nell.

"Tell me what she says. Has she settled her father's fears about the moral standing of our friends?"

"Yes. She said they had a grand visit and her father is all curiosity to find out who is Mrs. Ellson's tool here, the one who sent the anonymous letter for her."

"Well, the postmaster says no one inquired for Olive's home address, and Mrs. Ash would have no other way of finding out. That seems to eliminate her."

Dick stopped talking suddenly and listened.

"What was that noise?" he asked.

"What noise? I didn't hear anything. What was it like?" asked Nell.

"It sounded like someone quietly leaving the dining room door. It occurred to me the maid might be eavesdropping."

"Oh, surely not," said Nell. "She may have been listening to see if we were through eating. She is going out tonight and is in a hurry. We must be careful, though."

"Did Olive write any news?" Dick was returning to the subject of conversation.

"Yes. Young Joplin has been down to see her; he took her to the opera and he has invited her to Ann Arbor to see the big football game with Pennsy this fall. She's delighted about that. He's a pleasant chap and rich. I'm afraid she will like him."

"Why, isn't he all right?" inquired Dick, pausing with a biscuit half way to his mouth to look at Nell.

"Oh, yes, but—— You'll laugh at me, but I have my heart set on her marrying the doctor," added Nell in low tones, turning her head on one side to observe the effect of her words.

"You little match-maker," laughed Dick. "I'm afraid you're doomed to disappointment. There are few girls who would care to marry a divorced man, especially if the former wife is bent on mischief.

"It would certainly be fine for you to have your best friend here, but she would never be contented in a tiny town like this. I imagine you would have hesitated about marrying me if you had known I was going to drag you away to the wilderness."

"Dick!" exclaimed Nell in a shocked voice, "how can you talk so? But I see the chances are all in favor of her liking Mr. Joplin," she continued after a pause, "and he is crazy about her, Mrs. Scott says."

"I wonder if the doctor writes to her," mused Dick, helping himself to more honey.

"I don't think so. She asks about him in the letter."

"She might do that for effect," said Dick, passing his cup for more tea.

"There's absolutely nothing of that in Olive. She is the frankest person I ever knew. She is very different from most girls in that respect," said Nell.

"Even frank girls will try to throw dust in such matters," said Dick, chuckling.

"Do you remember how you used to try to make people think there was nothing between us?"

"I never was frank like Olive," said Nell, reddening.

"As far as Olive's matrimonial prospects are concerned, we can only wait developments." Dick rose from the table and lit a cigar.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — FATE WAS VERY UNKIND TO THIS JUNE BRIDE — BY "HOP"

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

The feature offering at the Plainfield Airdome was John Emerson in "A Bachelor's Romance." It is filled with wholesome humor and tells a story that is contagious with all who have experienced the grand passion. It will be repeated tonight, together with several other high class attractions.

For tomorrow and Thursday, Manager Shannon will offer "The Warrens of Virginia," the play produced by David Belasco a few years ago and which ran at one of the New York theatres for two full seasons, featuring Charlotte Walker and Frank Keenan. In the screen version of the drama Miss Blanche Sweet will portray the leading feminine role and she will be supported by a company of unusual merit. "The Warrens of Virginia" is based upon a southern theme and every one of its parts is filled to overflowing with that delightful old atmosphere of the Old Dominion.

Gaby Deslys, the actress who is said to have cost a ruler his throne through his infatuation and who created a great sensation when she made her first American tour a short while back, is coming to the Airdome, Friday and Saturday, in her original stellar vehicle, "Her Triumph." Miss Deslys has never been seen in person at any Plainfield theatre and the opportunity of watching her art by way of the camera will undoubtedly be appreciated by the local amusement public. Wednesday, Friday and Saturday are always observed as Chaplin days at the Airdome, Charlie Chaplin comedies being features on the program. Manager Shannon has been fortunate in booking the very latest Chaplin outputs and the funny fellow will put across some new ones this week. Weather such as the city has had the past three days is the kind that turns the people to the Airdome and hundreds who have already enjoyed its comforts declare it has no equal for affording innocent amusement in defiance of atmospheric conditions.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Tomorrow will be the big day at Proctor's Theatre, the day when every patron, young or old, will be served with a dish of Ritz's famous ice cream while the performance is in progress. The novelty of enjoying refreshment of this kind within the theatre during a regular theatre program is one that has taken Plainfield by storm and indications point to capacity audiences. Nevertheless every attendant will receive his or her portion as an evidence of the liberality and good will of the Proctor manager. The cream will be served in the afternoon at 4:30 and in the evening at 7:30.

The big scenic spectacle, "The Ordeal," only recently permitted by the government to be shown, is the headliner of today's program at the theatre. When first produced, the National Board of Censors believed "The Ordeal" would have a tendency to break down the strict neutrality of Americans as suggested by President Wilson, but this has now been overcome and the film is attracting great attention throughout the country. The serial picture, "The Diamond from the Sky," and several short comedies and dramas will supplement "The Ordeal."

H. B. Warner, the famous English actor, who made one of the greatest hits ever achieved on the legitimate stage when he starred in "Drink" a few years ago, will be seen at Proctor's tomorrow in the five-part feature, "The Ghost Breakers." It is from the pen of Paul Dickey and Charles W. Goddard and is a story of a Spanish princess, a missing treasure, an American hero and "ghosts" that are not phantoms. The mention that Jesse L. Laskey produced it is all that is necessary to convince the most skeptical that no expense has been spared in its preparation. Tomorrow's program will also include a one-reel Keystone comedy and a one-reel Mutual comedy entitled, "Truly Rural Types," as wholesome as the characters it typifies.

Among the big features booked for the remainder of this week are the following: Thursday, John Emerson, in the five-part comedy drama, "The Conspiracy;" Mutual company's "Shorty's Trouble Sleep," two reels; Friday, Nance O'Neil, in the five-reel photo-play, "Princess Romanoff;" Keystone comedy, "Daughter of Kings," "Exploits of Elaine;" Saturday, five reels, "Where Cowboy Is King;" "The Goddess," "The Golden Rainbow," "The Cliff Girl," Paramount Travel pictures.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

A yacht ablaze at sea, with passengers drowning, an earthquake depicted in all its gruesome reality, charming love scenes on a tropical island, the arrival of a United States cruiser steaming to the rescue at the crucial moment, and finally the return of the lovers to civilization, combined last night, to make "The Island of Regeneration," the Vitagraph's big film on view at the U. S. Astor Theatre, one of the best dramatic films shown in Plainfield this season.

"The Island of Regeneration," which is based on Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady's famous novel and produced by Vitagraph along the same elaborate lines as "The Juggernaut" and "The Goddess," is truly a remarkable film and worthy the patronage of every discriminating theatregoer in Plainfield.

A beautiful girl running away from the unwelcome attentions of the owner of a yacht on which she is a guest, cast upon a tropical island in the South Pacific, the sole inhabitant besides herself being a young man who cannot talk, forms the framework of this engrossing drama. And Rev. Dr. Brady has woven these potent facts into a powerful narrative, one in which the interest of the spectator is never permitted to lag for a moment.

Miss Valli Valli, in "The High Road," will be the dramatic feature tomorrow afternoon and evening, at the Astor Theatre, together with a splendid lot of dramas and comedies.

AT 102 BRITTON IS STILL YOUNG

Prominent West End Man Celebrating His Birthday Anniversary Today.

ON THE RETIRED LIST

Veteran of the Civil War in Which He Enlisted at 48—One of New York's Oldest Volunteer Firemen—Of Old Holland Stock.

"How's the old 'vet' this morning?"

Such was the greeting extended to Bennett Britton by a comrade on his old familiar camping ground at Clinton avenue and West Front street this morning.

"At fit as a fiddle," was Britton's reply. "I'm 102 years old today; old in years, but young in spirit."

For nearly a quarter of a century Britton has been the guiding light for all who seek this particular street juncture in Plainfield and few there are who have not shaken the grizzled Civil War veteran's big hand of friendship.

His claim that he is "as fit as a fiddle" is borne out by his personality. Tall, stalwart and full of youthful litheness and zest, Britton is probably the most active "middle-agers" in the city and his snow-white hair and beard are the only characteristics that belie his century sojourn on earth. He is herculean in appearance and looks as though he might be good for another hundred years' activity around this little spot on the earth's surface.

In the West End he cherishes the title of "King of the kids," and the younger generation all respect him and look to him as a kindly old fellow always interested in their games and pranks. He has taken an active interest in promoting baseball and other recreative sports among the youngsters and is without a doubt the best known figure in that section.

Early last month Mr. Britton gave up active business interests when he sold his cigar store and chattels at West Front street and Clinton avenue and intends to enjoy the remainder of his earthly existence in recreation. His retirement brought to a close the career of Plainfield's oldest business man, and was the result of the rush and scramble of twentieth century business methods rather than to advancing age.

He was born in Paterson, June 16, 1813, of old Holland stock, and with the exception of the time he spent in the Civil War he has been engaged in the cigar business. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was conducting a hotel at Firty-first street and Sixth avenue, New York city. He entered in Company B, First New York Cavalry. He was then forty-eight years of age. He is one of the oldest members of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association of New York city.

"LADIES' NIGHT" FEATURE DISCONTINUED FOR SUMMER

It was decided by the members of the Columbus Club at their monthly meeting, last night, to discontinue the weekly "Ladies' Night" observance until fall, it being deemed unadvisable to conduct the feature during the hot months. The members favored widening the scope of the policy governing the weekly affairs and when they are resumed once more the members will be allowed to bring their male friends as well as their lady friends for an evening's entertainment at the club.

Other matters of importance came before the session, a majority of which were of a routine nature. Several new club features were discussed and will probably be put in practice in the near future.

MISS JANET VAN VLIET IS TOURING THE WEST

Miss Janet Van Vliet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Van Vliet, of Washington avenue, is taking an extended trip through the West. Visiting the Canadian Rockies en route to Seattle, Washington, she will remain some days in that city, visiting at the home of a Dana Hall, Wellesley, class-mate.

Later, she will accompany the family of her friend to San Francisco, where they will visit the Expositions and tour for a month through California, taking in the Yosemite and Yellowstone Park before her return home.

MISS HUTCHCROFT IS A JUNE BRIDE

Becomes the Wife of Harold Kanengieser at Attractive Home Ceremony.

Miss Dorothy Eleanor Hutchcroft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hutchcroft, of 221 Clinton avenue, and Harold Kanengieser, formerly of Princess Bay, but now of this city, were married at the home of the bride's parents at 8 o'clock last night. Rev. C. H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, officiated at the ceremony which was performed under an arch of honeysuckles and roses arranged in a pretty fashion. The rooms throughout the house were attractively decorated with cut flowers and palms.

Miss Hutchcroft wore a gown of white crepe de chine trimmed with Oriental lace and carried a bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by her sister, Miss Hazel Hutchcroft, who wore a charming dress of pink chiffon and carried pink roses. Mr. Kanengieser was attended by George Leighs as best man. Mr. Hutchcroft, father of the bride, gave her in marriage. The bride is a teacher in the Sunday-school of the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Following the ceremony a reception and supper were held at the bride's home during which the young couple were showered with congratulations and best wishes. Both received numerous handsome and useful gifts. The couple will reside in this city, where each has a host of friends. Mr. Kanengieser is employed at the International Motor Company plant in this city.

DUKE-BIDDLE WEDDING AT SOMERVILLE TODAY

Niece of Tobacco King Becomes Bride of Son of Noted Philadelphia Family.

Somerville, June 16.—A brilliant event of the social season in the East is the wedding of Miss Mary Lillian Duke, niece of the tobacco magnate, to A. J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., of Philadelphia, which takes place at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Duke country mansion in Somerville. A special train brought to town today the notable guests from many cities. Mrs. Angier B. Duke, who was Miss Cordelia Biddle, will be matron-of-honor, and the bridesmaids will be the Misses Ellen Yuille, Florence Gilbert, Caroline Fuller and Lucie Stokes, of New York; Yvonne Townsend, Washington, and Anna Branson, of North Carolina. Angier B. Duke, brother of the bride, will be the best man and the ushers include young society men from New York, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Miss Duke has received some of the most costly presents ever given an American bride, more than $300,000 worth of gifts having been received. A dozen detectives have been employed to guard them.

In accordance with the bride's wishes, the wedding will be a "pink one." The ceremony wil be performed in the large conservatory of the Duke mansion, and the chief decorations will be pink peonies and pink ramblers.

The bride will wear a dress of white satin, which will be covered by a cloud of white tulle. In her hair she will wear the conventional orange blossoms, picked in her uncle's conservatory. The train will be of silver satin.

The conservatory has been made into a "chapel of flowers" for the marriage. As the bridal pair enter this pretty chapel the organ will play the wedding march from "Lohengrin." After the ceremony they will walk through a flower-strewn aisle to a room where the reception is to take place. Dancing will follow the reception, and then, while the gayety is at its height, the bridal couple will try to slip away unnoticed to start on their honeymoon.

The party was astir early today for a final rehearsal of the ceremony, which will be performed by Bishop James Henry Darlington, of the Episcopal diocese of Harrisburg, Pa.

Some of the bride's presents are: Pearl necklace, worth $75,000, from Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin N. Duke; diamond bracelet, worth $30,000, from the bridegroom; corsage piece of diamonds, worth $75,000, from Mr. and Mrs. James B. Duke.

JUNIOR PICNIC.

The junior department of the First Baptist Bible school will hold a picnic on the church lawn Friday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. If the weather is bad the affair will take place in the Sunday-school room. All members of the department are urged to be present.

SMALLEY TO RUN FOR BORO OFFICE

Prominent Republican Will Be a Candidate for Mayoralty This Fall.

HAS MANY SUPPORTERS

Served Three Years in the Council—Friends Prepare for Campaign—Mayor Clark May Not Seek Office Again.

Although he would make no positive statement relative to his candidacy for the mayoralty of North Plainfield this fall, former Councilman William L. Smalley, of Greenbrook road, when approached by a Plainfield Daily Press reporter this morning, admitted that "he was seriously considering the proposition," and this fact is being construed as a good omen by his many friends. Constant pressure brought to bear on him by prominent and influential North Plainfield voters during the past two years is understood to have forced Mr. Smalley to arrive at a definite conclusion, which, for a personal reason, he is at present withholding from the public. Further inquiry, however, led to the unearthing of facts to substantiate the belief that he would run for office on the Republican side of the fall ticket is conceded by "those who know." Replying to queries directed at him by a reporter Mr. Smalley was reluctant to commit himself definitely, but gave the reporter to

COMMITTEE FAVORS RELIGIOUS REVIVAL

Recommendations Will Be Presented at Conference Tomorrow Night.

The special committee appointed at a recent conference of ministers and laymen in connection with the suggested union evangelistic campaign to be held next year, met at the Y. M. C. A., last night, and made the following recommendations:

"That a union evangelistic campaign be held for a period of from four to six weeks as soon after January 1, 1916, as practicable; that an experienced evangelist be called to lead in this movement; that a tabernacle be erected in which the services will be held; that cottage prayer meetings be held throughout the city several weeks in advance in preparation for the campaign; that the churches commit themselves either for or against the proposition and report at a meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A., on June 27."

These recommendations are signed by William D. Murray, chairman of the special committee, and will be submitted at the second conference of ministers and laymen to be held at the Y. M. C. A., tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Those who were in attendance at the last conference are urged to be present at tomorrow night's meeting.

HAS ANYONE A POOL TABLE THEY WANT TO GET RID OF?

If any one in Plainfield has an old pool table around the house that they don't want the Public Recreation Committee would like to put it to work in the Washington School in connection with the work they are doing there. It has been found that one of the worst temptations for the young men of the city is the poolrooms, and the Recreation Committee are extremely anxious to have a table where the boys can play the game under proper influences. At the present time the committee is hard pressed for funds, and is not able to buy the table, but it was thought by the members that some generous Plainfielder might have one that he or she was about to discard, or replace with a new one, and would take into their thoughts the need for one by the young men of the city. If such a table is available the president of the Committee, Henry C. White, would be very glad to be informed, and he will see to it that the table is promptly moved to the school.

GLOEKLER CORNER SALE CONFIRMED

United Cigar Stores Completing Arrangements for a Building.

STILL NON-COMMITTAL

Officials of New York Firm Refuse to Be Quoted But Every Intimation is Given That Facts Are Correct—Valuable Corner Involved.

Although repeated attempts to confirm rumors regarding the probable disposition of the Gloekler property at West Front and Somerset streets have proven futile, it was learned with a reasonable degree of certainty today that the site had been purchased by the United Cigar Stores Company, a concern which operates a branch in this city at the present time. From an authoritative source it was learned that the firm contemplates the erection of a two-story structure, the plans for which are now in the hands of an architect. A representative from the New York office of the company visited Plainfield this morning for the purpose of completing certain details in preparation for the starting of work by the contractor.

When a Plainfield Daily Press reporter interviewed Vice President Bader over the telephone at the New York office this afternoon, that official would not deny the fact that his company intended to erect a building on the Gloekler site and confirmed the rumor that the particular piece of property was being considered to the extent of referring the reporter to Christian Gloekler for all further information, Mr. Gloekler's name not having been previously bought into the conversation.

Representatives of the concern conducting the local branch, when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter, admitted that they "had heard of such negotiations" but that "the New York office would have to be consulted for details." It is apparent that the deal, whether it be for the purchase of the property or for a rental lease, is being kept "under cover" and efforts are being made to keep the matter away from the public.

Frequently, since the Common Council refused to renew Christian Gloekler's saloon license at this corner there have been rumors of sale but in each instance Mr. Gloekler has branded them as erroneous and without foundation. The site is one of the most valuable in the city and it is said that it has been sought for a store by the Riker-Hegeman Drug Company, a firm allied with the United Cigar Stores Company.

On this corner the first Masonic lodge in the city was organized in the second floor of the present building and for many years the structure was the home of the city's first newspapers, the Plainfield Union, founded and conducted by the late Milton F. Cushing, father of the late Mrs. William Hand.

It is understood that the plans being considered by the New York firm call for the raising of the present frame structure.

JUSTICE SNAPE MADE DEFENDANT IN SUIT

As the result of a decision handed down in the borough police court last month, Thomas N. Snape, the borough justice of the peace who sometime ago gained considerable notoriety for sending nineteen-year-old Oscar Phillipson to jail for shooting a rabbit out of season, has been made defendant in a suit in the Supreme Court brought by Mrs. Jennie Goldstein, of Duer street. The plaintiff claims that she was illegally convicted by Justice Snape of being a disorderly person, the charge having been preferred by Mrs. Catherine Judge, a neighbor. The police court squabble grew out of a childish fight between the Judge and Goldstein children.

In the borough court Mrs. Judge alleged that Mrs. Goldstein was a drunken woman and the defendant was convicted by Justice Snape and put under bonds to keep the peace. Justice Bergen has allowed a writ of certiorari to Mrs. Goldstein to review the conviction, she having claimed that Snape had no jurisdiction.

Snape gained country-wide notoriety several months ago in the Phillipson case and under pressure brought by sympathizers with the youth whom he had sent to jail for ninety days in default of a cash fine he finally lent his services to try to get the boy released.

Mrs. Mary E. Wallace, of Park avenue, has gone to Asbury Park, where she will spend the summer months.

Mr. Latimer, of Rockview avenue, the borough, has removed from this city.

YOUTH GREATEST ASSET TO MAN

Assemblyman Runyon Gives Wholesome Advice to Boys of Rahway Reformatory.

PRAISES THEIR WORK

Plainfielder is Given Great Ovation When It is Hinted that He May be Governor Some Day—George R. Wight Also a Speaker.

Assemblyman William N. Runyon was the principal speaker yesterday afternoon at the closing exercises of the School of Letters of the Rahway Reformatory. It is doubtful whether the Plainfield orator ever had a more sincere, attentive and enthusiastic audience as the group of young men who are temporarily placed in that institution because of youthful mistakes, at the same time being given an opportunity to learn a useful trade. The Plainfielder gave them some sound advice, and when he had finished the walls resounded for several minutes wth vigorous applause that would have done credit to a monster political convention. For the spectators present the meeting was a revelation, as it showed that a lot of healthy young Americans can be confined and yet hold their heads high and not be ashamed to look any man in the face.

At the conclusion of Mr. Runyon's remarks, Dr. Frank Moore, the head of the institution, who presided,

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR SIX YOUNG WOMEN

Pleasing Affair Given by St. Mary's Social Club Last Evening.

Six members of St. Mary's Social Club whose birthdays fall in the month of June were given a delightful social last night in T. A. B. Hall by their friends. About 100 members and their friends were present. Dancing, singing and games were enjoyed until a late hour when the guests of honor sat down at a specially prepared table on which rested a large birthday cake with six candles. Portions were distributed to the entire assemblage. A feature of the evening was the presentation of unique birthday presents to each of the six girls, and to the coach of the basketball team.

Michael D. O'Keeffe made the presentations and as the girls ascended the stage to receive the gift each made a speech. The young woman who received gifts were the Misses Mary Murray, Agnes Mahoney, Marion Harrington, Nort Regan, Mary Donnelly, Helen Bryniarski, and Florence McWade. Refreshments were served throughout the evening. Miss Jennie Higgins presided at the piano throughout the evening.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of the Misses Emma Sullivan, president of the club, Catherine Neylon, Annabel McAfee, Alice McAfee, Jennie Higgins and Kathryn McCauley.

LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY TRUCK HEAVILY LADEN WITH STONES

Flung helplessly under the trucks of a heavily laden automobile, Calogues Marricici, aged 35, had his life crushed out in a terrible manner on Harris lane, between Bound Brook and Lincoln, last night, the fatal and gruesome accident being witnessed only by several fellow laborers. In acordance with his nightly custom he boarded a big stone truck belonging to the contractors working on the Darling farm in Dunellen, by whom he was employed, and when the vehicle arrived at the outskirts of Lincoln, where he boarded, he attempted to leap off.

His clothes caught in the mechanism of the automobile, however, and he was dragged under the car to his death. The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Walter G. Runyon in Dunellen, where it will be viewed today by the Somerset county coroner.

CONDITION SERIOUS.

Augustus P. Hetfield, of Madison avenue, who has been ill for the past two weeks, is still in a serious condition and his recovery is doubtful. He is suffering from heart trouble and complications due to his advanced age, Mr. Hetfield being seventy-six years old. He is a veteran of the New Jersey Central Railroad, having been connected with the company in the passenger service for nearly fifty years.

EDWARD H. LADD, JR., CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Succeeds George P. Mellick as Head of Board of Governors of Hospital.

Officers were elected and Arthur M. Harris, H. C. Munger and Frank H. Smith were chosen governors at the annual meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital on Monday night. The officers for the ensuing year are as follows:

President, Edward H. Ladd, Jr.; first vice president, Frank J. Hubbard; second vice president, Charles W. McCutchen; secretary, C. M. Baker; treasurer, Arthur M. Collins.

The president appointed the usual standing committees and they were confirmed by the board. At this meeting George P. Mellick retired as president of the board after four years of active and eventful service. During his incumbency the hospital has grown from a comparatively small to a great institution, ranking as to equipment, facilities, etc., with the best hospitals of the State. While Mr. Mellick has always enjoyed the enthusiastic support and co-operation from the members of the board and its various committees, yet in the opinion of those closely identified with the institution say that the final attainment of the present high standard and efficiency of the hospital is due to his leadership in perfecting the progressive policy now in effect.

A member of the board in speaking of Mr. Mellick's retirement said: "As president he has rendered service to the institution and to the community at large and his retirement is one to be much regretted. However, Mr. Mellick still remains on the board and will lend his valuable assistance in the work of the institution."

Mrs. John Gray Foster, who has served the board for a long time as the representative of the Woman's Auxiliary, also retires, and her place will be taken by Mrs. C. E. Lipscomb.

PERMITS FATHER TO VISIT CHILD

Court Allows Arthur Murphy to Call Upon His Daughter Without Interference.

Vice-Chancellor Vivian M. Lewis sitting in the Chancery Chambers at Jersey City, this week, made an order which permits Arthur Murphy to go to the residence of his daughter, Lydia, aged six and a half years, to see and be with her alone and free from the interference in any manner of any nurse or servant. The vice-chancellor also ordered that the child shall be kept in New Jersey and can be taken out of the State, except for a day or two at a time, only upon special application to him upon two days' written notice to Mr. Murphy.

Mr. Murphy is also given permission by the court to apply for further direction regarding his rights to his child's society. This order was made by the vice-chancellor upon the motion of W. A. Coddington, solicitor of Mr. Murphy.

LOCAL EXEMPT ATTENDING STATE CONVENTION AT ASBURY

The annual convention of the Exempt Firemen's Association is being held at Asbury Park today and among the 700 members attending are a large number from this city. Practically the full membership of the Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association left for the shore resort early this morning, all life members of the State body going as the special guests of the local organization. The firemen will make their headquarters in the Coleman House and the business sessions are scheduled for the beach Casino. Among the Plainfielders at the convention are Fire Chief T. O. Doane, Councilmen Theodore Martin, John H. Cose and Charles C. Graves, who made the trip by auto; V. W. Nash, Jr., attorney for the State association; Horace G. Adams, secretary to the convention, and many others who have been prominent in exempt work.

W. C. T. U. ANNUAL MEETING.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will hold its annual meeting in the union rooms on Madison avenue tomorrow afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. There will be an election of officers and reports read by the superintendents of departments. At the close of the business session Mrs. Witmer, of the State Equal Suffrage League, will make an address beginning at 4 o'clock. All interested are invited.

FIFTEEN KILLED BY AIR RAIDERS

Northeast Coast of England Attacked by Fleet of Zeppelins.

ITALIANS ADVANCING

Gradually Occupying New and Dominating Heights—British Troops Take Trenches at La Bassee—French Torpedo Boat Sunk.

London, June 16.—The Admiralty issued the following statement to the Press Bureau today:

"Zeppelins visited the northeast coast of England last night, and dropped bombs. Some fires were started but these were soon extinguished. Fifteen dead have been reported and fifteen were wounded in the district."

Rome, June 16.—The Italian War Office statement of today says:

"On the Tyrol, Trent and Cadore frontiers we are gradually occupying new dominating heights. Our adversaries have been comparatively quiet, except for intermittent cannonades and a few vain attacks. On June 13 an attack of unusual severity was begun near Passe Di Sesis on the Carnia frontier. On the following day the Austrians counter attacked, but were repulsed.

"Long distance artillery duels are in progress in the zone of Monte Nero and along the valley of the upper Isonzo. The wounds of our men prove that the Austrians are using explosive bullets."

Paris, June 16.—The French War Office statement issued this afternoon says:

"British troops on Tuesday took a line of German trenches west of La Bassee. A German aircraft was obliged to come to ground within the French lines near Nordy Surourcq, east of Hafete Nilon. The occupants were made prisoners."

The French torpedo boat number 331 was rammed by the British steamship Arleya off Barfleau on Tuesday, and sunk while being towed into port. Six sailors were drowned.

Petrograd, June 16.—The Russian War statement issued today says:

"In Galicia the Germans are bringing up new forces which have been operating there for some time. We compelled the enemy to give ground on the right bank of the San. On the Dneister front on June 13 we captured 1,200 men, including 29 officers. The enemy on the 13th continued his attacks in the Neiziow region with considerable force. We repulsed them and captured 1,500 men."

Constantinople, June 16.—The Turkish War Office statement issued today says:

"On the Dardanelles front on Sunday our artillery destroyed positions which were defended with mine throwers and machine guns. Opposite Avi Burnu one of our aviators dropped bombs upon an enemy camp."

ELKS' FINAL RECEPTION TO BE ELABORATE AFFAIR

Interest is keen in the coming "white dance" to be given in the local Elks' club Friday night of this week, and indications point to a record attendance. This will be the final social event of the season and the committee has made special arrangements for the reception of guests. New music will furnish the dancing numbers which will be the principal source of entertainment. Favors will be distributed among the women and refreshments will be served during the dance intermissons.

LEAVES HIS ENTIRE ESTATE TO FAMILY

Mrs. Helen McCutchen is named as the executrix of the estate of her husband, Samuel St. John McCutchen, whose death occurred at Belmar, June 5. The will was filed at Somerville, yesterday morning. The personal property is valued at $25,000 and is bequeathed to Mrs. McCutchen and her heirs, her sons, William, of New York, and Roy, of North Plainfield.

The witnesses were James H. Richards, of Cranford, and Joseph F. Byrne, of Brooklyn.

RECORDER CAMPBELL HAS BUSY SESSION

Disposes of Several Troublesome Cases in Borough Court.

Recorder David S. Campbell had a busy court session yesterday, hearing three cases.

Charles Hill, arrested by Marshal Patrick Tarpey, yesterday, was arraigned before him for failing to pay a fine of $3 meted out to him on May 10 when he was found guilty of appropriating coal from the premises of the Central Railroad. Hill also faced charges of evading arrest, using unseemly language and threating the life of an officer. The court sentenced Hill to pay a fine of $20 or be sent to New Brunswick for 40 days. He was unable to pay the fine and he took the days.

The case of the borough vs. Mr. and Mrs. Newton Walker, of South avenue, arose out of the Charles Hill case. It seems that the local police got wind of the fact on Monday evening that Hill was at the Walker home and the police was sent there to arrest him. They surrounded the house and as they advanced upon it Hill made a break for liberty. Mrs. Walker assisted Hill in making a successful getaway by grabbing Marshal Tarpey, who had an opportunity of capturing him, by both arms just as the marshal was going to catch his man.

Hill is very fleet of foot and having a clear field ahead made good his escape. Later in the evening Marshal Tarpey returned to the Walker place and found that Hill had returned. He was prevented from arresting his man by Mrs. Walker again. This time she was assisted by her husband. The two were successful in holding the stalwart marshal just long enough for the fleet Hill to get a start and make his second getaway. The Walkers were eventually arrested and charged with interfering with an officer while in the performance of his duties. Mrs. Walker was fined $15, which was paid. The husband was fined $20 and had his sentence suspended. He had advanced as his reason for his interfering with Marshal Tarpey the statement that he thought the marshal was going to search his home and he didn't think he had any right to do this without a warrant. In dealing with this question to Walker, the court said: "An officer needs no warrant to search a place for a criminal; he only needs such a paper to institute a search for property. The trouble with you Walker is that you are not master in your own house. Your home has the name of being far from a reputable place all because, I am convinced, you are not the master of it and this trouble has arisen from that fact. For that reason I feel sorry for you and am going to suspend the fine of $20, which I have meted out to you."

James Hill was arraigned before the court and charged with participating in the crap game in the woods back of the Levgar Structural Works, Saturday afternoon, the outcome of which was the holdup in back of the Park Hotel, in which one colored man held up another and relieved him of his winnings. Hill pleaded not guilty. The court, however, thought otherwise and Hill was fined $5. The fine was suspended and the prisoner in being released was instructed to appear before the court at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

Mrs. Eugene Britton, wife of the colored man who relieved a pal of his winnings of Saturday's crap match, appeared before the court to pay the fine of $5 for failing to pay which her husband was sent to New Brunswick. Mrs. Britton said that her husband had a good job and she didn't want him to lose it.

The monthly meeting of the board of trustees of the Free Public Library will be held in the library building Friday evening.

Emanuel Appert and DeWitt Swackhamer enjoyed a canoe trip to Trenton over the week-end.

Mrs. William W. Giddes, of Lincoln avenue, spent yesterday in New York.

LeRoy Scandell, who with his wife and child have been visiting relatives at Jamaica, L. I., since a week ago Monday, made a flying trip to the borough last evening.

Dewey Vroom, the aggressive manager of the Park Hotel Stables, has resigned his position and will live in retirement for a while.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Barto, of Front street, have returned from Jamaica, L. I., where they spent several weeks as the guests of their daughter, Mrs. H. E. Woods.

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. George K. Post, on New Market road, at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Benjamin Bacon, of Plainfield, has accepted the position as manager of the Park Hotel Stables.

The residence of Charles Scribner on Madison avenue is being improved.

Somerville

Judge Daniel H. Beekman and Rev. Dr. W. S. Cranmer started Monday on a fishing trip in Canada.

Sheriff Charles P. Sebring has returned from a two weeks' trip through the Middle West.

BEEF AND BLUE SERGES.

The fact that all blue serge suits are made of blue serge does not mean that they are all alike.

A cow may be all beef, but it is equally true that all that's beef is not sirloin.

When you want a steak you must designate the cut, and when you want a blue serge you must do the same thing.

There is just as much difference between a Rothberg blue serge and the average as there is is between a sirloin steak and a beef bone.

The thing for you to remember about a blue serge is that the Rothberg cut is the choicest that discretion and dollars can buy.

And this is doubly important because blue serges are common in themselves and it is really the cut and the style that count.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Atkins Kyte were held from St. Paul's Episcopal church at Westfield, yesterday afternoon, and were attended by relatives and friends from this place. She was the widow of the late Arthur B. Kyte and their home had been in the borough until his death a number of years ago. Interment was made in Fairview cemetery.

A successful and largely attended strawberry festival was held in Excelsior Hall, last night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion and dainty little tables on the floor held vases of fresh cut flowers.

The monthly meeting of the Fanwood Fire Company for June was held in the firehouse, last night, when only routine business was transacted. The committee in charge is making considerable progress toward a celebration early in the fall in observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of it being an organization.

It is probable that the street committee of the borough and township will get together shortly to settle for once and all the dispute over the repairing of Westfield road. The boundary line runs along the gutter of that thoroughfare, leaving the road entirely in the township. It being out of the borough the committee of that place contends that it should not be responsible for half the upkeep of the road. The township contends that according to law a boundary line runs through the centre of a street and not along one side and that both towns should equally stand the expense of keeping it in repair. Not coming to any agreement nothing has been done and residents of that street are making strong protests.

Miss Margaret Scudder, of East Broad street, has returned from visiting her sister, Mrs. J. W. A. Lee, of Hackettstown.

A special program is being arranged at the Methodist church for Sunday night, in observance of Children's Day. The regular evening service will be omitted.

Mrs. Robert Thrane, of Paterson road, is now convalescing from an illness of several months.

Frank Hyde, of Brooklyn, has rented the J. H. Thompson residence on Martine avenue, for the summer months.

Edward C. Wardle, who is spending the summer at the "Homestead," on Martine avenue, is on a business trip to Wilmington, Delaware.

A number of local young girls will form a party that will go to Northfield, Mass., shortly, to attend the annual Young Women's Conferences, which started today. Miss Elizabeth Babcock, president of the local Junior League Society, always spends several weeks there, and is accompanied by several of the members of the society.

Mrs. F. W. Wescott, of Martine avenue, is rapidly recovering from a minor operation performed last week.

Mrs. John O'Halloren has returned to her home in New York, after visiting Mrs. Henry Marston, of Terrill road. Mr. and Mrs. O'Halloren expect to move into their new house on Russell road in a few weeks.

Dorothy Beeken, of North avenue, will arrive home from Vassar College the last of the week for her summer vacation, being the last of the local representatives at the higher institutions of learning to do so.

Samuel MacCauley, of Montague avenue, has joined the ranks of automobilists.

The members of the local Boy Scout patrol are sure of their summer camping trip this year as the advance sale of tickets for the annual entertainment to be given in the Parish House on July 1 has practically removed the financial problem from consideration.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The members of the "lower school" started today to take their final examinations. They will continue until Monday.

At the chapel exercises yesterday morning, Mr. Best urged every one of the "lower school" pupils to be present on the day after examinations, that is, Tuesday. For several reasons, he said, he wanted this request carried out.

The class day tickets are now in the hands of the seniors and may be bought from them.

Commencement invitations will be given out tomorrow to the seniors. Because of the very large class, one hundred and six in all, each senior will receive six, and possibly ten.

The annual alumni dance tickets are to be distributed to the seniors next [illegible] morning. Each graduate will receive two tickets.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

The annual strawberry festival of Warren chapel will be held on the church lawn on Taursday, July 1, in the afternoon and evening. If the weather is bad the affair will take place in the church. $249 IS NEEDED TO COMPLETE FUND

Contributions of Any Amount Will Be Acceptable for July 4th Celebration.

Contributions for the Independence Day community celebration continue to come in. So far they have been exclusively from individuals, leaving a large number of clubs, patriotic societies and merchants to be heard from. Contributions of any amount, no matter how small, will be welcomed as the time is now very short in which to arrange a proper display, and to procure music, as many bands have their engagements made for Independence Day far in advance.

"There is still $249 to be raised," said Commissioner Allen E. Beal this morning. "The time for closing with a fireworks company for a display elapsed last night, but it has been possible to extend the period for another week. The commission is so confident that the citizens of this city desire some sort of an official observance of the day that it has proceeded with its tentative plans in full confidence that small sum contributions will make the total pile up rapidly in the next week. The wonderful display of the American flag from the homes of Plainfield people on Flag Day shows the patriotic spirit of our citizens and leads the commission to believe that there are 249 people in the city who are willing to give one dollar each toward safely and sanely observing the country's birthday.

"This seems to be an excellent opportunity for the patriotic societies and clubs of the city to make a contribution on this cause. In so doing they not only do a philanthropic act, but they indirectly save many a child from being burned, for, according to statistics compiled by the Chicago Tribune, seven-tenths of the Fourth of July accidents occur while setting off private displays of night fireworks."

Checks may be sent to Commissioner Allen E. Beals, 634 East Second street, or to G. W. Wriston, secretary of the Plainfield Playground Commission, at 515 East Seventh street. Contributions so far received are as follows:

George P. Mellick	$10.00
The Misses Carvalho	10.00
Anonymous	5.00
Ernest R. Ackerman	5.00
Mrs. C. E. Ryder	5.00
R. F. R. Huntsman	5.00
L. V. F. Randolph	5.00
Mrs. Frederick G. Mead	5.00
George B. Wean	1.00

DEATH SUMMONS COMES TO ALEXANDER GALLOWAY

Alexander Isaac Galloway, a resident of either the city or the borough for the past 23 years, died this morning at his home on Netherwood avenue. He had been ailing for the past two years from heart trouble and complications and recently had been confined to his bed. Mr. Galloway was in his sixty-fourth year and came here from Brooklyn where he was employed for a long time as an expert monument worker. He worked at odd times for local monument men, being especially proficient in lettering and decorative designs. At one time he conducted a farm on Mountain avenue.

The deceased is survivid by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Young, of George street, and Mrs William H. DeMaris, of East Third street; also two sons, Alexander, of Bound Brook, and Chester, residing at the parental home. Another son, Archibald, died a few years ago from an attack of typhoid fever and complications. At the time the latter was stricken he was a valued employe of the Grand Union Tea Company. Mr. Galloway also leaves two sisters and two brothers living in Brooklyn.

The funeral will be held at the home Friday afternoon at 2:30 and will be in charge of Rev. E. C. Conover of the Temple Baptist church. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

NURSES ALUMNAE MEETS.

The Muhlenberg Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association held the final meeting of the seasen yesterday afternoon, but owing to a small attendance only routine business was transacted. The association has had a busy winter and is now in a more flourishing condition that it has been since its organization. Several important propositions are under consideration for the benefit of the members and will be disposed of when the regular meetings are resumed in October.

LAWN PARTY POSTPONED.

Owing to the unfavorable weather conditions, the lawn party to be given at the residence of N. H. Randolph, on Park avenue, this afternoon, under the auspices of the Seventh-day Baptist church Woman's Society for Christian Work, has been postponed until tomorrow. It will be held at the same location commencing about noon. The society has arranged an interesting program, including all the old features and many new ones.

DON'T EXPERIMENT.

You Will Make No Mistakes if You Follow This Plainfield Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are frequently symptoms of kidney trouble, and a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys should be taken in time.

Doan's Kidney Pills is a good remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has acted effectively in many cases in Plainfield. Follow the advice of a Plainfield citizen.

A. K. Mattis, 127 West Fourth street, Plainfield, says: "I confirm all that one of my family said in my favor in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's drug store, some years ago. The cure they gave me has lasted."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Mattis had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

A Galley o' Fun

FOR REVENUE ONLY.

"I don't take your paper, myself," began an irate skinflint, invading the office of the Hawville Clarion, "but I'm told that you published a lie about me in the last issue; an' I tell you right now, that it has got to be stopped, or—"

"And we tell you in return, sir," interrupted the able editor with dignity "that it was stopped before it began. Your name was not even mentioned nor will it be till you plank down the cash for a year's subscription. We have you understand, sir, that the Clarion will not lie about you nor any other man who is not a paid-up subscriber!"

And the irate old skinflint went out of the door with his tail between his legs, as it were.

OBSERVATIONS BY YOUTHFUL HORACE.

It ain't so much fun collectin postage-stamps any more since our teacher said we learnt geography that way.

I wouldn't mind so much about my face a-gettin' red if some girl didn't always call out that I was blushin'.

It's funny how most things a feller does don't seem wrong till somebody catches him at it.

I don't like cookies much at the table; but I tell you they taste good when you hook 'em out of the pantry.

I'd a good deal rather have Pa lick me than Ma. Ma, she don't hurt me much when she whips me, but she cries so; an' that always makes me feel kinder funny down in my stomach.

Pa won't get me no bicycle, but I don't care so much now, 'cause two kids what's got 'em has just moved here, an' I can lick both of 'em.

A feller don't have no better time than he does thinkin' about the good times he's going to have.

Little boys don't know much, do they? Eddie Brown came over to my house to dinner one day, an' Pa said a blessin'. An' when he got through eatin' Eddie asked me why Pa said his prayers at the table, and why he didn't wait till he went to bed, like other people? Eddie's folks ain't stylish like ours, so I had to tell him that we always did that way so's the soup would have time to cool off some.

I wonder why, when a girl has a new doll an' shows it to some other girls, that the first thing they do is to look at its underclothes to see if they got lace on them? I wouldn't dast.

I don't like funerals much. I had one with our cat, but you couldn't make all of her stay buried to once. She'd come out at her back feet while you was tryin' to get her head covered up. I tried to get her just to play dead, but cats hain't got no imagination, and they has got claws. A feller don't want to try to make-believe too much with cats.

—William Edgar Fisher.

The word "drink" may be used either a verb or a noun, but as the latter it is seldom declined.

Poverty brings strange bed-fellows but none so grim as the nightmare that squats on the chest of the high liver.

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER.

(The Choir-Boy Soliloquizes.)

Tripping softly down the aisle
With a brave religious air
And a sinful little smile,
Comes the Rector's daughter;
Kneels she in the fam'ly pew,
Bends her pretty head in prayer,
As her father tells her to,
And her mother taught her.

Eyes and hair as black as night,
Cheeks and lips like roses,
Little teeth, all pearly white,
Has the Rector's daughter;
Form as frail as cyclamen,
Tiniest of noses—
Who shall blame the many men
That have vainly sought her?

Sings she with a hundred charms
Holy hymns and olden,
Just as though an angel's arms,
Heaven-sent, had caught her;
Yet these ways of sanctity
One small soul embolden—
For to-day she winked at me,
Did the Rector's daughter!

TELLS OF THRILLING EXPERIENCE IN WAR

Joseph Akelacek Receives Interesting Letter From His Sister in Austria.

Although much has been read and said about the war in Germany, France and England, Plainfielders very seldom hear direct from the Eastern scene of hostilities. Joseph Akelacek, of West Second street, this city, formerly a resident of Lemberg, Austria, has received a communication from his sister who is at present residing at Hartberg, Austria. Mr. Akelacek had the peculiar adventure of embarking for America just one week previous to the official declaration of war by Germany last July. In letters received, three brothers of the local man were drafted into the war and of these three two have not been heard from since the beginning of the conflict, while the third had been in several fires, and was captured by the Russians but escaped from them. Nothing directly bearing on the nations involved is contained in the communication as each letter sent to this country has to go through a board of censors who are very strict that no word of the manouvres should go outside the country.

Mr. Akelacek's brother-in-law, who is a lieutenant in the army, is stationed at the supply base on the banks of the Dniester, directly on the line to Przemysl and Lemberg, his attachment having charge of the magazine transports. His sister writes of the anticipation to go back to Lemberg shortly, and she seems to be confident that the Austrians will drive the Russians out of the city within the near future.

Inquiry in a previous epistle as to whether or not she was in need of money, brought the response that she was well financed, the government paying her $80 a month during the period her husband is in the war zone. She also hears from her husband every day or two and also receives frequent sums from him, averaging about $100 a month for her own use. When the war was declared all the banks were closed and those who were not fortunate enough to apply immediately at the banks were refused any payments, thus being absolutely penniless. She states that although she is among strangers, every one is most solicitous for her comfort and each bears the others sorrows and realizes the calamities in the various families. Mr. Akelacek has not heard from his father or mother since the outbreak of the war and although he has written a number of times to various stations is unable to locate them.

Asked whether or not he would return to his native land, Mr. Akelacek affirmed that as soon as the present war was over he would return, at least for a short while to his native land, and if possible induce his relatives to come to this country. He was much impressed by America and thinks it is a wonderful place. Questioned as to whether the atrocities of the Germans were true, he said that it was war and much is forgotten in wartime, when you are fighting for your country. He expressed the sentimen tthat the rule under Franz Joseph was most satisfactory and kindly as was also that under Kaiser Wilhelm.

New York has seen other Piano Sales notable in quality of goods, tremendous in volume of business, but never such VALUES as are now being offered in the Great Alteration Sale of Pianos and Pianolas

at AEOLIAN HALL

Hundreds of fine Pianos and Pianolas at the most remarkably low prices ever quoted in New York City

Pianos of Celebrated Makes (exchanged and rebuilt), Prices from $95
Scores of Aeolian-Player Pianos and Genuine Pianolas, Prices from $285

First Payments as low as $5. Terms Suited to Your Convenience.

IMMEDIATE and urgent need for increased floor space to care for a business growing much more rapidly than our broadest expectations and plans accounted for, is the occasion for this great musical instrument merchandizing event.

Early in July we must turn over to builders and decorators the entire fourth floor at Aeolian Hall, for alterations which will add greatly to our available working space. All instruments now displayed on this floor must be cleared as soon as possible.

Since it would be neither feasible nor profitable to place this stock in storage during the alteration work, we have taken the only other method of moving this large number of exchanged and rebuilt instruments in the exceedingly short time at our disposal.

Price reductions, the most radical New York has ever seen, have made these standard value Pianos and Pianolas the most tempting bargains the public has yet found in any line.

The specimen values described at the right, give an inkling of the opportunities this Sale presents. But an entire newspaper page could not chronicle the excellencies of these scores of beautiful instruments—nor could it convey to you so full an appreciation of the simply tremendous values as ten minutes spent in looking over this great stock.

No one who has the slightest idea of purchasing a musical instrument within the year, can afford to miss this sale.

Such an exceptional opportunity will not offer again in many years.

These Instruments are Random Selections Indicative of the Wonderful Money-Saving Opportunities Here in Great Number.

Mason & Hamlin Piano. A handsome instrument of the musical excellence which has won public favor for the Mason & Hamlin name. Ebony case of quiet and very pleasing design. Action quick and with no looseness or rattle. Tone rich and full. This delightful piano sold for $500 when new. A thorough overhauling in our shops has made it almost like new, but the price is only $185

Chickering Grand Piano. In popular "parlor grand" size. Has a beautiful rosewood case of graceful line. Tone of remarkable quality—clear, brilliant, sonorous. Action like that of a new piano. Undoubtedly this instrument has been little used. The original price was $800. A new instrument of equal quality could not be purchased for a third more than the present price of $395

Technola Player-Piano Model 500-T, of Aeolian manufacture. Case, beautiful double-veneered mahogany. Tone, smooth, well-balanced, with a roundness and liquidity that denotes the highest skill of the artisan and fine material in the making. The player-action has the responsiveness and completeness of expression control for which Aeolian-built player-actions are notable. A few months ago this Technola sold at $450. None but an expert could find in it any indication of use, but the price is now $335

Steck Pianola Model 300-P. An instrument which cannot be duplicated in player excellence elsewhere at any price. It is a genuine Pianola—with an entirely new action. The famous name of Steck is sufficient guarantee of its piano quality. This instrument has all the advantages of a new instrument in durability and appearance. And you make a saving of $265 in purchasing it at the present price of $585

Weber Pianola Model 32-P. A big, beautiful instrument with a tone of such volume and 'cello-like richness as one rarely obtains in an upright piano. The Pianola action has been newly installed. In every detail this instrument is virtually new. Price was $1100. It is one of the most magnificent bargains we have ever offered at the present sale price of $710

NINETEEN GIRLS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Exercises for Housekeeping Centre Graduates Held at Y. W. C. A. Today.

The graduation exercises of the Housekeeping Centre at 206 East Front street were held this afternoon, at which time nineteen girls received diplomas for satisfactory completion of the two year course and fifteen girls, certificates in the first year classes. The house was attractively decorated throughout for the event, daisies, palms and cut flowers being used in profusion. Parents and friends of the young housekeepers were present in large numbers to view the exercises which were unusually interesting. Mrs. Frederick G. Mead presided at the exercises in the absence of Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, who is chairman of the department. Mrs. Mead gave a short address of welcome and spoke of the practical methods of housekeeping the young girls learn under the able direction of Miss Beatrice B. Gardner, who has been with the department since its institution two years ago. Following her talk twenty minutes was devoted to an oral test in which the pupils showed marked ability answering each question without hesitation.

Mrs. Mead presented the following with diplomas: the Misses Elida Townley, Evelyn Tennyson, Helen Duchesne, Gladys Barrett, Edna Barrett, Nano Spring, Grace Mosher, Alice Bohren, Marjorie Berry, Marion Stryker, Evelyn Bacon, Elizabeth Voorhees, Elsie Kurzhals, Ruth Compton, Mary Clark, Dorothy Jacot, Nora McDonough, Rosanna McDonough and Anna Johnson. The following received first year certificates: the Misses Anna Duchesne, Nettie Lusardi, Ethel Stryker, Dorothy Coon, Dorothy Ross, Madeline Spring, Miriam Howe, Adelaide Hull, Helen Willett, Irene Daly, Alleyne Macnab, Jean Macnab, Estelle Homan, Viola Mullen and Gladys Bye.

Prizes of one dollar were awarded nineteen girls for perfect attendance throughout the year. These were awarded to the Misses Anna Johnson, Ruth Compton, Elsie Kurzhals, Elizabeth Voorhees, Marjorie Barry, Grace Mosher, Nano Spring, Edna Barrett, Helen Duchesne, Evelyn Thompson, Elida Townley, Gladys Bye, Viola Mullen, Jean Macnab, Estelle Homann, Irene Daily, Miriam Howe and Anna Duchesne.

Announcement was made this afternoon that the center would conduct a summer school for girls from nine to fifteen years old and those who wish to join were requested to register their names as soon as possible. The course will commence July 6 and will be under the direction of Miss Gardner. It will include house decorations, mountain trips and story hours. The class is limited to a certain number.

CLASS OF TEN WILL BE GRADUATED AT WATCHUNG

The 1915 class of the Watchung grammar school will be graduated this evening when appropriate exercises will be held, and five boys and five girls will receive diplomas.

The invocation will be pronounced by Rev. Mebane Ramsey, who will also deliver an address. H. C. Krebs, Somerset county superintendent of schools, is included in the program as a speaker. Three songs appropriate to the occasion will be sung by a chorus of girls, while essays will be presented by Emile Perret, Miss Miriam Neier, Miss Augusta and Miss Beatrice Bodin. The salutatory address will be delivered by Charles Snoden, while the valedictorian address will be given by Miss Beatrice Bodin. The benediction wil be pronounced by Rev. Mr. Ramsey.

The graduates are as follows: The Misses Beatrice Elizabeth Bodin, Max Gertrude Titus, Helen Henrietta Mobus, Miriam Neier, Augusta Stella Probst, and Charles Lewis Snoden, John Holtzclau Fetherston, Emile Ulysses Perret, Max Horriot Underhill and Elston Charles Wakefield.

A GREAT INSTITUTION.

When Assemblyman William N. Runyon told nearly seven hundred young men at the Rahway Reformatory yesterday that they would go forth to the world better than they possibly could have been had they not gone there, he made a statement which every person who has ever visited the institution knows to be true. The work being done there under the careful and efficient supervision of Dr. Frank Moore is not only a credit to the State, but a revelation as to what can be done with young men who have "gone wrong."

Within the walls of the Reformatory are splendidly equipped shops for teaching carpentering, cabinetmaking, wood-turning, joinery, painting, frescoing, tinsmithing, electrical work, moulding, laundering, bricklaying, plastering, stone-cutting, stone masonry, baking, cooking, tailoring, shoemaking, foundering, patternmaking, blacksmithing, printing, job ruling, music, farming, dairying and floriculture. And the work in all these branches which the inmates are turning out is not of the rough amateur type, but a finished product of such excellence that it is now being sold to the other State institutions as regular equipment. Four substantial brick buildings to house some of these trades have been built by the boys, even including the iron work, at a cost for the four of only a little more than one would have cost had the job been done by outside contractors.

New Jersey may well be proud of the manner in which she is taking care of these young men, ranging in age from sixteen to thirty years. Any person who had the privilege of looking into the faces of the clean-cut, straightforward youths who took part in yesterday's exercises, realized that Dr. Moore's greatest ambition, to make them forget they are in a correctional institution, has been accomplished. There was no restraint in the enjoyment of the exercises, and every point in the program provided was appreciated only as vigorous, healthy, clean-minded young Americans can appreciate it. The military drill, using "Quaker guns," was a revelation to scores who were familiar with the work of National Guard and Regular Army organizations, and the band has few superiors outside the famous musical organizations in the country.

The institution is well worth visiting. We wish that every reader of the Press could go over to Rahway and see what New Jersey is doing there. Visitors are welcomed every Thursday.

TREATING THE ROADS.

There are few Plainfielders who have not at one time or another discussed, and perhaps occasionally cussed, the thick oil that is being put on the streets to keep down the dust. When the street department begins the work in the spring some people protest vigorously, on account of the dirt which is tracked into offices and houses. A few weeks afterward those same people bless the authorities for putting the oil on the roads, because of the absence of dust.

There are numerous ways of using oil or asphaltum products in the work on the streets. Here in Plainfield, Mr. Gavett has made a careful study of all the methods in vogue in other cities, and he has used the knowledge thus gained to good advantage. There are a lot of people who kick about the condition of the roads in this city, but it is beyond contradiction that such people have not had an opportunity to inspect conditions in other cities nearby. Any person who drove to the Yale-Princeton game at Princeton last Saturday in an auto can testify as to the comparatively splendid condition of Plainfield's streets.

In a recent issue Engineering News, recognized as an authority by road and civil engineers throughout the country, stated that water or calcium chloride "is a thousand times to be preferred to the 'lubricating' oil for laying dust," and if oil of any kind is to be used it should be applied under the direction of a person who has enough "technical knowledge to be able to distinguish between lubricating and road oil."

Oiling roads was begun in Los Angeles county, California. The California crude petroleums, the Engineering News says, "have an asphaltic base, and after the lighter oils have evaporated leave the dust and earth or gravel cemented into a compact crust. Most of the crude petroleums of the East and their distillates have paraffin bases and are lubricants rather than road binders."

The oil used in this city is largely a tar product, the best kind of road oil possible. It not only keeps the dust down, but acts as a binder. Before it is applied all the holes are filled up with cracked stone, held together with an asphaltum binder. As a result a few days after the application of the generous coats which are given to the surface of the roads here, the thoroughfares are held together better than by any other method, except the patented pavements, such as are used on South avenue. The California plan is hence approximated in this city as nearly as is possible to do so in any city in the East. Until we have permanent pavements, the Plainfield roads are as good as can be expected in this age of automobiles.

YOUTH GREATEST ASSET

evoked a great round of applause, not only from the boys, but from the four or five hundred visitors, when he said that the judge's remarks "ring like the words of a man who may be Governor some day."

At the outset of his remarks Mr. Runyon complimented the young men on the work which they had done, and which he had seen in a previous inspection of the shops. He said that he supposed that not one of them had come to the institution "with joy in their hearts," but that he was sure that they all now realized what a blessing in disguise it had been to be sent there, because of the wonderful things they had learned to create. "The man who accomplishes useful things fills a place in the world, which means much. I am sure that every one of you fellows will go away from here better because of what you have done and learned, and with hope renewed in the fact that you are useful members of society. If we become self-centered we are useless to ourselves and to everyone else."

Judge Runyon then urged them to go forth to "do something decent. You do not leave this building disgraced, but as American citizens, with every opportunity America offers to you. You have that thing which so many of us wish we could have again—youth—the greatest asset to any man. Outside you will find glorious men and women to receive you with open hands. There is not one of you that is not going forth better than you could possibly have been if you had not come here. Live from day to day, and make each day count. The days will melt into weeks, and the weeks into months and you will go out strong as young Americans, square with the world.

"Experience is the greatest teacher, and experience with shadows is the best teacher. The man who is down before coming up to a position in the world is the strongest after he reaches the top, because of having been down. Do as you are told, and you will be strong, brave and virile fellow citizens."

In addition to Judge Runyon's address, former Commissioner of Cities and Corrections George B. Wight addressed the young men in the institution; two of their number recited, a trio played on the mandolin, violin and guitar, the band played a number of popular airs, and a group of a dozen inmates gave a play, "Valley Forge." After the exercises a splendid military drill was gone through with by 500 of the 800 inmates. Commissioner of Charities and Corrections Richard Stockton, of Trenton, was also to speak, but he did not arrive at the institution until after the exercises were over.

Splendid examples of the bakers' art, prepared by the boys, furnished refreshment for the visitors, and all were taken through the shops to view the handiwork of the institution. Plainfielders present aside from Mr. Runyon were David T. Kenney, who is a member of the board of managers of the institution, V. W. Nash, Jr., and Leslie R. Fort.

SMALLEY TO RUN FOR OEFICE

understand that there was a "possibility of his seeking office" and intimated that this "possibility" was as good as a reply in the affirmative.

In view of the fact that he is one of North Plainfield's best known and mast highly respected citizens Mr. Smalley is considered to be a strong and likely candidate for the office and his constituents are preparing to launch an active campaign in his behalf. His partial agreement to accept the nomination has been taken as a signal for action and the political "bees" started buzzing on the other side of the brook early this morning.

He is a native-born Plainfielder and although he has been active in Republican politics all his life he has held only one public office, that being three years spent in the Borough Council. During his regime he missed but one meeting of the Council, a record seldom equalled by councilmen who get no remuneration for their services. While he was in the Council the mayoralty seat was occupied by Samuel Townsend and his brother, Newton B. Smalley. Those councilmen at present serving the borough who were officeholders when Mr. Smalley was a councilman are Julius Stahl, now president of the Council, and Alexander Milne. Morris C. VanArsdale and L. B. Woolston also served with him.

A staunch Republican and an exponent of the highest ideals, Mr. Smalley is expected to make a strong run for the office now held by Robert Clark, Jr. He has always held the best interests of the borough at heart and one of his biggest "hobbies" has been the promotion of school activities in the North Plainfield High School.

It is not known whether or not Mayor Clark will be a candidate for re-election, but it was rumored in borough circles this morning that the present chief executive will seek re-election. No Democrat has as yet been suggested to oppose Mr. Smalley. Inasmuch as the Borough Council at the present time has but one Democrat in it, Frank Mobus, the support of this body will probably be with the Republican candidate, whoever he may be.

The terms of Edwin S. Boyer and Allan Cowperthwaite expire this fall and Mr. Boyer has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election. It is understood that Mr. Cowperthwaite will seek office again.

NEW TELEPHONE BOOK CONTAINS 126,000 NAMES

The Telephone Company today be*gan the distribution of the summer* issue of the New Jersey division telephone directory in Plainfield.

The new book contains 126,500 names, an increase of 6,500 listings since the last issue, and is made up of 448 pages instead of 428, as was the preceding issue. It will have a circulation of 164,000 copies, 7,000 more than the spring book.

In addition to the New Jersey division directory, the Telephone Company is distributing this month new telephone books in New York city, Long Island and Westchester, and will make the largest delivery in the history of the telephone business. The combined directory distribution, for what the Telephone Company designates as its Metropolitan territory, will total 1,750,500 copies. Of this total, the New York city directory takes 865,000 copies, the general suburban directory 617,000 copies, the New Jersey book 164,000 and the Long Island and Westchester books 47,500 and 57,000 copies respectively.

As usual, the Telephone Company is collelcting the old directories when they deliver the new books. This is done so that only the most up-to-date telephone information will be in circulation, thus lessening the possibility of subscribers calling for wrong numbers, which tends to affect the speed of the service.

DR. MAUD KINNAMAN TOLD OF HER WORK

Dr. Maud Kinnaman, of Washington, this State, made an impressive address before the Woman's Missionary Circle, of the First Baptist church, at the last meeting of the season, held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room. She preceded her talk with a sweet solo, "He Will Not Let Me Fall," accompanied by Mrs. J. H. Buchanan. Dr. Kinnaman's talk was an account of influences leading to the choice of her life profession—that of a medical missionary. In her internship at the General Hospital, Philadelphia, where her duties will begin July 1, she hoped to have many opportunities to do home missionary work among the 6,000 inmates, as she ministered to the needs of her patients. Her simple and earnest manner, with the evident spirituality of her life, won the hearts of her hearers.

A devotional service, led by Mrs. Frank Bach, preceded the address and reports from the various committees of the society. Tea was served at the conclusion of the service, Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins being in charge.

SHIRTWAIST RECEPTION.

At a meting of the committee of the Chi Gamma Chi, last night, arrangements were completed for the "shirtwaist reception" to be held Friday night in St. Joseph's Hall, and the members feel highly elated at the program of events scheduled for the evening, many novelties being introduced for the event. The committee is composed of the following young women: The Misses Mary McCullough, Florence Daly, Jaque Daly, Edith Daly, Janet Newell, Kathryn Newell, Frances Newman, Anna McGinnis and Margaret Moran.

STOPPED TRIAL OF LEE FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago today, General Robert E. Lee and many of his officers of the Confederacy were under indictment for treason. Northern politicians had proclaimed Grant's terms at Appomattox as too magnanimous, and with the incoming of Johnson's administration, the demand for the "punishment of traitors" was revived, resulting in the indictment of Lee and his fellow leaders by the grand jury at Norfolk.

Lincoln, who had stood by Grant in his generous dealings with Lee, was dead. Grant undertook alone the preservation of the public faith and the national honor in his letter to President Johnson, written June 16, 1865. His interposition was effective and General Lee was not put on trial. Grant recognized that the great Southern general had done and was doing his part in the work of healing the old sores and rewelding the nation. The two leaders in arms and in peace were seconded by the soldiers, for the men who fought through the war were not responsible for the differences that lingered. There were plenty of Southern politicians who advised that the Confederates turn "bushwhackers." Northern politicians called loudly for revenge against the leaders in secession. But the situation was saved by Grant and by Lee, who led in peace as in war. Grant's letter was in part as follows:

"In my opinion the officers and men paroled at Appomattox Court House, and since, upon the same terms given to Lee, cannot be tried for treason as long as they observe the terms of their parole. This is my understanding. Good faith, as well as true policy, dictates that we should observe the conditions of that convention. Bad faith on the part of the Government, or a construction of that convention subjecting the officers to trial for treason, would produce a feeling of insecurity in the minds of all the paroled officers and men. If so disposed, they might even regard such an infraction of terms by the Government as an entire release from all obligations on their part. I will state further, that the terms granted by me met with the hearty approval of the President at the time, and of the country generally. The action of Judge Underwood, in Norfolk, has already had an injurious effect, and I would ask that he be ordered to quash all indictments found against paroled prisoners of war, and to desist from further prosecution of them."

KNIGHTS OF KHORASSAN TO HAVE CONVENTION AT SHORE

Asbury Park, June 16—Arrangements for one of the most spectacular assemblies that will visit this city during the present season—the imperial palace session of the Dramatic Order, Knights of the Khorrassan, Knights of Pythias—have been nearly completed. The "Palace" will be at Asbury Park, July 12 to 17.

Mayor Clarence E. K. Ketrick, of this city, will make the opening address, and Grand Chancelor J. G. Baird, of North Carolina, will respond. The other speakers for the opening session will be Imperial Prince Charles E. Rice and Supreme Chancelor Brigham S. Young.

On the second day, July 13, the Imperial Palace will meet in the morning. On Wednesday, July 14, a rainbow parade will be held at night. Branches of the Pythian order from this and neighboring States will participate. It is expected that two trainloads of Pythians from Newark will arrive in the morning to take part in the day's events.

The prize drill for brigand bands of the order will be held Thursday, July 15. Ceremonial work will be done after sundown at a special conclave at the Casino. On Friday, July 16, a clambake will be given at Neptune Heights. The program for Saturday has not been completed.

NEW PROVIDENCE BOND DEAL FOR SCHOOL AGAIN DELAYED

New Providence, June 16.—Not having received any word from the trustees of the State school fund relative to the probability of it floating its $19,000 bond issue, the New Providence Borough Board of Education has again postponed definite action on plans for its addition of four rooms to the Lincoln School.

The matter has been pending for several weeks. William J. Kaufman was to have gone to Trenton to see the trustees and ascertain on what conditions the Board could get money from the State at four and one-half per cent., instead of at five per cent as E. L. McKirgan, the Board's counsel, advises it will probably have to pay. He was unable to go. A letter from the Morris County Savings Bank was received, offering to take the bonds if the interest rate were made five per cent. The bank would take them on a 4.75 per cent. basis. The Board, however, wants the money at four and one-half per cent., if it is at all possible to get it.

John D. Edwards, principal for the last year and re-engaged for the next, caused a surprise Monday night, by resigning. He has been engaged, it said, to teach in the Latin department of the Battin High School, of Elizabeth.

Another meeting will be held Monday night.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

The Plainfield Airdome, the popular East Front St. open-air photo auditorium, seems to be the favorite to many movie fans, who wish to enjoy their screen stars in various features in the cool breezes. Manager Shannon has spared no pains to meet the comforts of his patrons and all who have visited the auditorium pronounce it one of the necessities for the summer months.

Manager Shannon has arranged a decidedly attractive program for every week, there being a daily change of pictures, bringing to the Airdome leading movi[illegible]

On each bill are one or two exceptionally good dramas, together with just enough mirth-provoking comedies to make the shows well balanced and enjoyable. Today the feature photo-play is the five-part production, "The Warrens of Virginia," featuring Blanche Sweet in the leading role. Many will remember the legitimate presentation of this play when it ran for two seasons at the Belasco Theatre, New York, featuring Miss Charlotte Walker and Frank Keenan in the star roles. "The Warrens of Virginia" is a story of the South and the story deals with the conditions, customs and people of the days before the Civil War. The picture will be repeated tomorrow night.

Gaby Deslys, the world renown French actress, will be seen Friday and Saturday nights in her original scenario success, "Her Triumph." The picture is in five parts and portrays the versatile actress in various moods. Wednesday, Friday and Saturday are Charlie Chaplin days at the Airdome and the funny comedian is seen in all his latest releases on those days.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Jesse L. Lasky's production of H. B. Warner, in "The Ghost Breaker," the feature photo-play at Proctor's Theatre, this afternoon and tonight, was a decided hit at the initial performance, and the capacity audience of movie fans who witnessed the exhibition pronounced it the best ever. The fascination in "The Ghost Breaker," apart from the truly remarkable personality of Mr. Warner, and his splendid acting, is largely to be found in the clever manner in which the authors have contrived to make the most unlikely and improbable happenings seem quite plausible and convincing. The scenario is drama has literally an appeal all its own. The picture will be repeated tonight.

Movie fans who attended the presentation this afternoon were loud in their acclaims of the Proctor management. Each attendant at the matinee was served with a tempting dish of Ritz ice cream, a delicious delicacy which made the attractions doubly appreciated. The West Front street playhouse will be the rendezvous for the public tonight, at which time the management will again serve its patrons with the delightfully cooling cream.

Tomorrow's feature photo-play will be one of Broadway's most recent dramatic triumphs, Charles Frohman presenting John Emerson in the five part production, "The Conspiracy." In this delightful detective comedy-drama, John Emerson appears in the role originally created by him in the stage production of the drama, that of Winthrop Claverling, the eccentric old author of crime stories, and solver of mysteries, a unique and artistic portrayal that especially deserves screen immortality. The production also marks the first presentation of the late Charles Frohman to the motion picture public. Beside "The Conspiracy" tomorrow's program will include several one and two-reel comedies that will be sure to please both old and young.

The program for the remainder of the week will be as follows: Friday, Nance O'Neil in "Princes Romanoff," five reels; one reel Keystone comedy, two reels Mutual pictures; "Exploits of Elaine;" Saturday, "Where Cowboys Is King," five reels; "The Goddess;" two reels Mutual pictures, one reel Paramount Travel pictures.

The symphony orchestra, which is the best in the city, has secured a collection of musical numbers to be played during the afternoon and evening performances which alone is equal to the concerts given in the big music halls. Selections are rendered appropriate for the various feature photo-plays.

PUBLIC SERVICE GETS RIGHT TO LAY TRACKS IN RARITAN

Trenton, July 16—With one of the three members, former Judge John J. Treacy, dissenting, the Board of Public Utility Commissioners has sanctioned an ordinance of the borough of Highland Park (now Raritan township), passed last July, authorizing the Public Service Railway Company to lay a double track in Raritan avenue.

The Board has also handed down a final report sustaining the complaint of Lawton M. Burdick against the Finlern Manor Water Company, involving the action of the company in cutting off his supply for alleged failure to settle a water bill.

WATCHUNG-INTERHAVEN SERIES ON SATURDAY

Hyde Oval will be the scene of a good ball game Saturday afternoon, when the Interhaven A. C., under the managership of Clarence Smailey, will meet the strong Watchung combination. These teams have always been great rivals and play an interesting series every season.

Both clubs have the majority of old players back again and Bill Demler will probably do the mound work for the Valley boys. Last season Newt Spencer and George Conover pitched for the Interhavens and the latter will probably be seen in action Saturday. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock.

SPORT BRIEFS

Chicago 500-mile auto race postponed until Saturday, June 26, on account of the car strike.

Milburn Saylor vs. Benny Leonard bout scheduled for tonight at St. Nicholas A. C., called off.

Rain prevents bike races at Sheepshead Bay Velodrome.

Broadway Sporting Club bouts called off last night account of inclement weather.

Connie Mack, of Philadelphia Athletics, releases Thompson and Lear, and signs Crowell, Brown University pitcher under three-year contract.

Yale and Princeton meet in deciding baseball game at Polo Grounds this afternoon.

Account of illness, Ad Wolgast called off bout with Gilbert Gallant last night at Boston.

While qualifying for the 500-mile race at Chicago, Dario Resta breaks speed record. Averages 110.7 miles an hour.

Providence Internationals release Roy Bentley to Jersey City Club.

Wrestling at Manhattan Opera House tonight.

WHERE ARE THE QUAIL?

Whitings, June 16.—Agents of the State Game Farm are in this vicinity endeavoring to learn what has become of the quail that were brought from North Carolina each year for the last five years and turned out in the fields, but no trace of them can now be found. On the result of the investigation to discover if the birds migrated or perished will depend the question of whether any further attempts will be made to bring more of the birds from the South to this climate.

ELKS' SCHEDULE.

Only two matches will be rolled in the Elks' Two-man Tourney tomorrow night. The Vail-Nash, Sr., and Woolston-McCullough combinations will meet in the first tilt and then the Vail-Nash and Causbrook-McVoy, leaders of the tourney, will play. A match between the Luthman-Long and Causbrook-McVoy teams is also scheduled, but those teams have already met.

BALTUSROL GOLF "GALLERY" UNDER UNION SHERIFF GUARD

Elizabeth, June 16.—Sheriff Otto yesterday morning took a motor truck load of deputy sheriffs to the Baltusrol Golf Club grounds, near Springfield, where the national golf championship started yesterday.

A throng of wealthy and fashionable people attended the event, and the sheriff was requested to furnish officers to do police duty for the occasion. His men were also on the lookout for professional pickpockets and auto thieves, who usually ply their illegal trades at such times.

The salt-water fishermen are becoming anxious for a try at the weakfish, but they don't seem to come in right. One of the seines on Raritan Bay pulled in forty bushels of snapper bluefish recently and there were many weakfish among them.

Tomcods are very plentiful in Jamaica Bay and the fishermen are happy. Tomcod fishing is not exhilarating sport, but the results, if in a sufficient quantity, make a fine meal. The joy expressed by the fishermen arises from the fact that the Conservation Commission of New York, of which the fish and game department is a part, planted millions of tomcod fry in the bay a few years ago and they have been rewarded ten-fold by the number of mature fish now being caught. Experiments are being made with weakfish and everything looks bright toward the successful raising of fry from the eggs collected. Should the experiment prove satisfactory it will be a great blessing to mankind, as weakfish, once the most abundant of food fishes, are slipping backward until there is great danger of their being scarce in this section of the country.

Fishing at Green Pond on Sunday one angler boated sixteen pickerel that ran from ten to eighteen and a half inches in length. The fish were all caught on live bait by trolling. He also picked up three bass of medium size, all of which were put back into the water.

It was reported that the first weakfish of the season was caught in Raritan Bay on Saturday afternoon. It was taken near the black buoy off Keyport Cove. The heavy gale on Sunday kept the anglers off the bay or other catches would undoubtedly have been made.

Good fishing news spreads like wild-fire. The reports that have come up from the striped bass grounds in Maryland during the last few days have started many anglers hot-foot after these battlers. Both fresh and salt-water fish may be taken in the Susquehanna River, near Octoraro, and black bass, wall-eyed pike and large perch are almost as plentiful as the striped bass, which come up to the brackish water to spawn.

BASS SEASON OPENS.

The season for bass fishing opened yesterday in New Jersey. Through the rigid enforcement of wise conservation laws and the constant restocking work carried on under the direction of the Fish and Game Commission, bass fishing has been showing a steady improvement in this part of the State for several years, and anglers anticipate fine catches during the coming season, which extends to November 30.

The man or woman who have not the habit of "trying again" very often fail as want advertisers, wholly for that reason.

TRAVIS MARVEL AT FIFTY-FIVE

Victory of Veteran Is a Big Boost For Sport of Golf.

When Walter J. Travis sank a twenty foot putt and thereby cinched the metropolitan championship on the Apawamis links in Rye, N. Y., for 1915 he breathed a sigh of relief. No man was happier over a victory in this event than the veteran golfer. He has been the hero of a hundred hard fought battles in his career.

Winning championships is no novelty to the old man, but it has been some years since he won an important event of this sort, and winning is just a little bit sweeter to the man who has passed the fifty mile stone mark in his life than it is to the youth annexing his first title.

Travis' victory will do the game a lot of good inasmuch as it shows that golf is not all for the youth who can swat a terrific drive from the tee and go through round after round in a four day tournament without cracking under the enormous strain. It shows that there is something else to the game besides brute strength.

The safe and sure drive, the accurate iron shots and steady hand guiding the putter count for a great deal more sometimes than a flash of brilliancy now and then.

Travis had everything at his command in the championship. He was straighter and, as a rule, just as far off the tee as his opponent. He was far more accurate with his brassie and his irons, and he putted far better than any man he played. Taking him stroke for stroke or hole for hole, he outplayed any one in the tournament by long odds.

After the long siege was over he was asked when he had won the title last, but for a moment he couldn't tell. He remembered nothing but that he had won that day, and it outweighed any victory he had ever made in his life.

The field of golfers that the "old man" plowed through was the greatest one that ever played in a metropolitan championship. It included six ex-champions and a lot of youngsters who are thirsting for titles of this sort.

The meeting between Travis and Travers two days before the tourney ended was one of the greatest matches ever played around New York, considering the similarity in their names, which has confused golf readers for years, and the fact that both have been great champions in their day, and both have made golf history for America.

On one side was a player who had won countless titles at home, and was the only American golfer to cross the water and carry away a British championship, pitted against equally as great a golfer, who had four times won the national amateur championship, and who was considered the greatest match player the world has ever known. It was youth against old age and old age won.

BIG DOINGS ON GRAND CIRCUIT

1915 Season Should Be Best In Several Years.

ENTRY LIST IS LARGE.

Nominations For Big Trotting and Pacing Stakes Are Pleasing to Track Owners and Public—Larger Purses Offered—To Open In Cleveland.

BIG LINE PURSES TOTAL $425,000; STAGE MEETINGS IN TEN CITIES.

The grand circuit for 1915 consists of the following members, with dates as given:

Cleveland, O., July 19-24; Detroit, Mich., July 26-31; Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 2-7; Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 9-14; Montreal, Canada, Aug. 16-28, two weeks, three days racing each week; New York, Aug. 31-Sept. 4; Hartford, Conn., Sept. 6-11; Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 13-18; Columbus, O., Sept. 20-Oct. 2, two weeks; Lexington, Ky., Oct. 4-16, two weeks.

The grand total of stake and purse offerings for 1915 will be approximately $425,000.

Cleveland has opened the circuit for the past two years and will do so again this year.

Beyond all doubt the grand circuit for 1915 will enjoy greater prosperity than has been its portion for some years. This is said with full knowledge of the fact that the grand circuit, representing the very best in harness racing, has been uniformly prosperous through a long series of racing seasons.

The reason for making the above assertion is that the stake entries clear through the circuit have indicated that there is a more widespread interest in the trotter and the pacer than has been shown for some time. All the "regulars" are represented in the entry lists, as was to be expected, and in addition there is a score of owners and trainers who for some years have been giving most of their attention to racing on the half mile tracks, where the inducements have been most alluring.

Those inducements are just as great this year as they have ever been, but the horses owned or controlled by these men are too good for anything but the grand circuit; hence they will be on hand for the coming season.

The new rules and regulations are not so much rules and regulations as they are the evolution of ideas. For many years the big prizes on the grand circuit went to horses without reputation. In the parlance of the trotting turf they were "green" horses, by which is meant horses that had never done much in the way of racing.

This year Cleveland took the lead in its stake offering by providing one of its best classes for horses eligible to the 2:09 class. Then it went far in advance of all other tracks and provided an equally good offering for horses that had never won a heat faster than 2:13¼ in a race. The object of that offering was to give such horses the chances to race for a good stake without having to meet horses that had won heats in 2:06¾ to 2:12 without winning a race.

Under present rules no horse gets an eligibility record unless he wins a race.

The reception given this offering for horses that have never beaten 2:13¼ was highly gratifying. Thirty-seven entries have been received for it, which is by long odds the greatest entry list received for one stake by any member of the grand circuit this year. On the other hand, the 2:09 trotting stake was given twenty entries, more than enough to satisfy the most exacting track manager.

Following the example set by Cleveland, the Detroit Driving club made its chief trotting stake, the M. and M., for 2:08 class trotters and was nicely rewarded with twenty-eight entries. Other grand circuit tracks followed suit, and all secured satisfactory lists. The support accorded means that in future most of the rich stakes offered for trotters will be for the fast classes; 2:10 to 2:07, perhaps faster.

The Lexington meeting has gone further, perhaps, than any other member of the circuit in the way of catering to the horses with fast records by making the race for the Castleton cup for free for all trotters, the first time in the history of trotting that a fixture was offered for horses of that class.

AN ORDINANCE

AN ORDINANCE to Amend an Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to Further Amend an Ordinance entitled 'An Ordinance to Create and Define the Duties of the Board of Police and a Police Force,' Approved February 28th, 1882, as Amended," Approved December 5th, 1912.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 1 of the Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to further amend an ordinance entitled 'An Ordinance to create and define the duties of the Board of Police and a Police Force,' approved February 28th, 1882, as amended," approved December 5th, 1912, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 1. That Section 3 of the Ordinance to which this is an amendment, be further amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 3. The Police Force shall consist of such number of regular policemen and special policemen, each of whom shall be a resident and legally qualified voter of this city, as the Common Council shall from time to time deem necessary and by resolution order to be appointed. The regular policemen shall rank as follows: Chief of Police, Captain, Lieutenant, Sergeants and Patrolmen. Special police men shall not be ranked.

The duties of the several members and officers of the said Police Force shall be those prescribed by the laws of the State, the ordinances of the City and the rules and regulations that may from time to time be prescribed and established by resolution of the Common Council for the better government and discipline of the Police Department. The Patrolmen shall be divided into five (5) classes.

Class A—Fifth year of service and over.
Class B—Fourth year of service.
Class C—Third year of service.
Class D—Second year of service.
Class E—First year of service.

Provided, that the Common Council upon recommendation of the Police Board may advance a Patrolman from a lower to a higher class for especially good work or meritorious service, whether he shall have served his full time, specified above, or not.

The salaries of the members of the force who are regular policemen are hereby fixed at the following rates, that is to say:

LADIES' NIGHT.

Another of a series of "ladies' nights" has been planned by the Jr. O. U. A. M. Club to be held at the clubhouse on East Front street this evening. An elaborate program has been arranged for the occasion, and an enjoyable evening is expected. The committee of arrangements is in charge of William J. Firstbrook.

MANY LOCAL WOMEN IN ONE-DAY TOURNEY

Forty Cards Turned in up to 3 O'clock Indicate Some Good Scores.

Mrs. C. B. Tyler, of the Plainfield Country Club, turned in the lowest net score out of the first forty women to return scores in the one-day tourney of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association held today on the Plainfield Country Club course. There were about fifty entries and up to 3 o'clock ten had not yet turned in cards. Miss Marian Hollins, of Westbrook, metropolitan champion, was the lowest gross scorer with a 83. She had a handicap of 1. Mrs. Lawrence turned in a 103-22, 81.

Mrs. H. R. Stockton and Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, of the local club, each returned in a 97-1, 96. The results follow:

Mrs. J. B. Ketner, Cranford, 123-25, 98; Mrs. R. V. Wasson, Cranford, 132-25, 107; Mrs. J. L. Cuoking, Cranford, 127-25, 102; Mrs. F. N. Close, Cranford, 121-25, 96; Mrs. A. McDonald, Plainfield, 106-13, 93; Mrs. R. S. Galles, Westfield, 130-18, 112; Mrs. R. McIntosh, Baltusrol, 142-20, 122; Mrs. C. P. Worth, Westfield, 142-25, 117; Mrs. D. Smythe, Westfield, 142-25, 117; Mrs. A. Cowperthwaite, Plainfield, 117-25, 92; Mrs. C. B. Tyler, Plainfield, 126-20, 106; Mrs. H. R. Stockton, Plainfield, 97-1, 96; Mrs. H. L. Conrad, Plainfield, 117-16, 101; Mrs. A. M. Collens, Plainfield, 103-18, 85; Miss Edna Wildey, Plainfield, 123-22, 101; Miss F. Stewart, Plainfield, 116-25, 91; Mrs. A. E. LAST APPEAL TO GOVERNOR BEING MADE TO LEO FRANK

Atlanta, June 16.—The hearing before Governor John M. Slaton on the plea or Leo Frank for clemency was resumed at 9 o'clock this morning, continuing until 1 p. m., when recess was taken for an hour and a half. Attorney W. M. Howard, representing the condemned man, had the floor all morning and again took up the thread of his argument at the afternoon session.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

Class No. 2 of the Trinity Reformed Sunday-school, has arranged for a sale of home-made cake, candy and ice cream to be held tomorrow evening on the lawn of Mrs. A. K. Willett, of Craig place, the borough.

The annual festival to be held under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel is to take place on the evening of Thursday, July 1, at the church lawns. The Dutch Arms Band of Trinity Reformed church will furnish music for both of these occasions.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel, will present two comedy playlets Friday evening in the Sunday-school auditorium. The titles are announced as "A Cheerful Companion" and "Fuss and Feathers."

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Kohlweis, of Dunellen.

MORE LIGHTS FOR WARREN.

The light commissioners of Warren township held a meeting at Mt. Bethel a few nights ago and made arrangements to install a large number of additional electric lights in the township this year. A new contract has been signed by the Summit Electric Company, which fixes a charge of $15 for each incandescent globe as against $16 charged previously. It was voted to install seven new lights on the Warrenville boulevard between Warrenville and the North Plainfield township line near Pedeflous' Hotel, provided the property owners along the thoroughfare removed their objections to the erection of poles and stringing of wires. It is believed this will be done and the increased illumination will be highly appreciated by all using the road at night.

ARE NEW JERSEY LAWS FAIR TO WOME?

By Louise C. Morris.

An examination of the laws of New Jersey shows:

First—The father is sole guardian of the children. Upon his death the state allows the surviving mother to be sole guardian providing she remains a widow. New Jersey women are thus "generously" relieved of all legal right and responsibility in the children they bear—with one exception; the mothers of illegitimate children are vested with the sole guardianship of their offspring.

Second—According to New Jersey law a girl may legally consent to be ruined at the age of sixteen; at eighteen years she may legally consent to be married, but not until she is twenty-one years old may she legally consent to part with real estate.

Third—The Rathbun bill, recently passed by the New Jersey legislature and signed by Governor Fielder, takes away the dower and courtesy right.

Until this legislation the dower right gave the wife the use for life of one-third of the net income from whatever real estate her husband died possessed of, the husband being unable to deprive the wife of this dower right even by will. On the other hand the courtesy right gave to the husband the use for life of the whole of the deceased wife's real estate. Under the old law the husband could not make a good deed for any piece of property he owned unless his wife joined him in its execution. He may now dispose of his real estate without her signature. A companion bill (Senate No. 275) has since been passed to restore some semblance of rights to women who are robbed of their dower rights under the new law. This bill gives to married women of legal age the same right to acquire and dispose of real estate they would have were they single.

Pondering upon these matters one wonders if the "privileged class" does not consist of well-to-do spinsters and those fortunate married women to whom chance has given husbands who are not inclined to take advantage of their legal rights. Certainly it does not include that poor woman who killed herself in bitter revolt recently in Elizabeth, leaving the pathetic explanation, "I am sick and my feet are sore, and I am not able to find work to buy food for my children. My husband, who left me seven years ago, is a drunkard and will not support me. * * * So well do the police officials protect him that I cannot get him to support my children. * * * The law gives him rights and protects him."

So much for the law! Now for the question. I claim the prerogative of a Yankee, and simply ask: If woman possesses privileges now (?) how will she lose them by securing the ballot? Will the men take them away from her, or will she vote them away herself? And is it not likely that woman's interests will be more safeguarded when women have a hand or a direct voice in the safeguarding?

CHICAGO STRIKERS BACK AT WORK; UMPIRES NAMED

Chicago, June 16.—The strike of 14,000 motormen and conductors on the elevated and surface car lines here, which had been effective since midnight on Sunday, was settled at 5:30 o'clock this morning, and the men were ordered to return to work at once. The adjustment followed an all-night conference in the Mayor's office, in which the participants were Mayor Thompson, Aldermen Capitain, Lawley, Nance, Richert and Healy; representatives of the labor unions, Henry A. Blair, L. A. Busby, and B. I. Budd representing the traction companies. Mayor Thompson will be one of three umpires to frame a wage scale.

Officials of the companies will select an arbitrator on Saturday. W. D. Mahon, international president of the Street Car Men's Union, probably will be named to represent the men. The employes agreed to return to work at the old wage scale. Any change in pay that may be granted will date from June 1.

SCOVEL GETS JOB.

Trenton, June 16—Governor Fielder today, appointed former Prosecutor Harry S. Scovel, of Camden, to the State Water Supply Commission, to succeed H. R. Humphreys whose term has expired. His salary will be $2,500.

GRAND DUKE DEAD.

Petrograd, June 16.—The Grand Duke Constantine Constantinovitch died today from angina pectoris.

CLEAN FUEL MEANS CLEAN CYLINDERS

POOR fuel is as frequent a cause of carbonized cylinders as poor lubrication. You cannot be too careful what goes into your tank.

Standard Motor Gasoline is a straight-distilled refinery product—not a "blend" or a "mixture". Mixtures make trouble because they do not stay mixed. The light fraction goes off first, and the heavy residue necessitates carburetor adjustments and is a frequent cause of cylinder carbon.

Standard Motor Gasoline is absolutely homogeneous—every drop like every other drop. You get the same steady, dependable power-impulses, whether you are running on the top or the bottom of your tank.

Look for the "Standard Motor Gasoline" sign on garages and supply stations. Wherever you see it you can also get Polarine—the Standard Oil for All Motors—the oil that keeps your car in finest trim.

AUTOMOBILE RUNS DOWN TWO CYCLISTS; ONE INJURED

Thomas Monsell, of 704 West Fourth street, was badly hurt and Jacob Feldman, of West Front street, barely escaped injury at noon today when a Saxon automobile bearing the license number 54990, ran them down as they were riding their wheels on West Front street near Grant avenue. The two bicyclists were riding on the right hand side of the road, well toward the curb, when the automobile approaching from the rear without giving any warning.

Feldman jumped out of danger just as his mount was struck by the fender of the car, but Monsell was caught squarely and thrown beneath the machine. Both he and his wheel were dragged a distance of twenty feet. The driver of the Saxon took him aboard and hurried him to his home where he was attended by Doctors Yood and Brennan. The physicians found that he had been badly hurt and bruised and although he will be detained from work a week or more escaped without broken bones or internal hurts.

Monsell's wheel was wrecked and Feldman's was badly damaged. Feldman fell in his hasty jump and had the skin scraped off his hands and knees by sliding on the macadam. Both men are employed at the Saurer Motor Truck plant.

FUNERAL OF MISS SHANNON.

The funeral of Miss Annie Shannon, whose death occurred at her home on West Third street, Monday, was held in St. Mary's church this morning, where a high mass of requiem was said by Rev. Father Bogan. A large gathering of relatives and friends was in attendance and there were many handsome floral tributes. Father Bogan took occasion to speak in praiseworthy terms of the life of the deceased and offered words of consolation to those bereaved. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the pallbearers being Messrs. Patrick Mottley, Elias McCready, John Walden, William Cahill, John Lyons and Charles McCarthy.

RECOVERING RAPIDLY.

Copyright, 1914, by Doubleday, Page & Company

The first performance of the afternoon rivaled the successes of the morning, and, although Miss Rennsdale was detained at home, thus drying up the single source of cash income developed before lunch, Maurice Levy appeared, escorting Marjorie Jones, and paid coin for two admissions, dropping the money into Sam's hand with a careless—nay, a contemptuous—gesture. At sight of Marjorie, Penrod Schofield flushed under his new mustache (repainted since noon) and lectured as he had never lectured before. A new grace invested his every gesture, a new sonorousness rang in his voice, a simple and manly pomposity marked his very walk as he passed from curio to curio, and when he fearlessly handled the box of rats and hammered upon it with cool insouciance he beheld, for the first time in his life, a purl of admiration eddying in Marjorie's lovely eye, a certain softening of that eye. And then Verman spake—and Penrod was forgotten. Marjorie's eye rested upon him no more.

A heavily equipped chauffeur ascended the stairway, bearing the message that Mrs. Levy awaited her son and his lady. Thereupon, having devoured the last sound permitted (by the managers) to issue from Verman, Mr. Levy and Miss Jones departed to a real matinee at a real theater, the impaid eyes of Marjorie looking back softly over her shoulder—but only at the tattooed wild boy. Nearly always it is woman who puts the irony into life.

After this, perhaps because of sated curiosity, perhaps on account of a pin famine, the attendance began to languish. Only four responded to the next call of the band. The four dwindled to three; finally the entertainment was given for one blase auditor, and Schofield & Williams looked depressed. Then followed an interval when the band played in vain.

About 3 o'clock Schofield & Williams were gloomily discussing various unpromising devices for startling the public into a renewal of interest, when another patron unexpectedly appeared and paid a cent for his admission. News of the Big Show and Museum of Curiosities had at last penetrated the far, cold spaces of interstellar niceness, for this new patron consisted of no less than Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., escaped in a white "sailor suit" from the manor during a period of severe maternal and tutorial preoccupation.

He seated himself without parley, and the performance was offered for his entertainment with admirable conscientiousness. True to the Lady Clara caste and training, Roderick's pale, fat face expressed nothing except an impervious superiority and, as he sat, cold and unimpressed upon the front bench, like a large, white lump, it must be said that he made a discouraging audience "to play to." He was not, however, unresponsive far from it. He offered comment very chilling to the warm grandiloquence of the orator.

"That's my Uncle Ethelbert's dachshund," he remarked at the beginning of the lecture. "You better take him back if you don't want to get arrested." And when Penrod, rather uneasily ignoring the interruption, proceeded to the exploitation of the genuine, full blooded Indian dog, Duke, "Why don't you try to give that old dog away?" asked Roderick. "You couldn't sell him."

"My papa would buy me a lots better coon than that," was the information volunteered a little later, "only I wouldn't want the nasty old thing!"

Herman of the missing finger obtained no greater indulgence. "Pooh!" said Roderick. "We have two fox terriers in our stables that took prizes at the kennel show, and their tails were bit off. There's a man that always bites fox terriers' tails off."

"Oh, my gosh, what a lie!" exclaimed Sam Williams ignorantly. "Go on with the show, whether he likes it or not, Penrod. He's paid his money."

Verman, confident in his own singular powers, chuckled openly at the failure of the other attractions to charm the frosty visitor, and when his turn came poured forth a torrent of conversation which was straightway dammed.

"Rotten!" said Mr. Bitts languidly. "Anybody could talk like that. I could do it if I wanted to."

Verman paused suddenly.

"Yes, you could!" exclaimed Penrod, stung. "Let's hear you do it then."

"Yessir!" the other partner shouted. "Let's just hear you do it!"

"I said I could if I wanted to," responded Roderick. "I didn't say I would."

"Yay! Knows he can't!" sneered Sam.

"I can, too, if I try."

"Well, let's hear you try."

So challenged, the visitor did try, but in the absence of an impartial jury his effort was considered so pronounced a failure that he was howled down, derided and mocked with great clamors.

"Anyway," said Roderick when things had quieted down, "if I couldn't get up a better show than this I'd sell out and leave town."

Not having enough presence of mind to inquire what he would sell out, his adversaries replied with mere formless yells of scorn.

"I could get up a better show than this with my left hand," Roderick asserted.

"Well, what would you have in your ole show?" asked Penrod, condescending language.

"That's all right what I'd have. I'd have enough."

"You couldn't get Herman and Verman in your ole show."

"No, and I wouldn't want 'em, either."

"Well, what would you have?" insisted Penrod derisively. "You'd have to have sumpthing. You couldn't be a show yourself."

"How do you know?" This was but meandering while waiting for ideas and evoked another yell.

"You think you could be a show all by yourself?" demanded Penrod.

"How do you know I couldn't?"

Two white boys and two black boys shrieked their scorn of the boaster.

"I could too!" Roderick raised his voice to a sudden howl, obtaining a hearing.

"Well, why don't you tell us how?"

"Well, I know how, all right," said Roderick. "If anybody asks you you can just tell him I know how, all right."

"Why, you can't do anything," Sam began argumentatively. "You talk about being a show all by yourself. What could you try to do? Show us sumpthing you can do."

"I didn't say I was going to do anything," returned the badgered one, still evading.

"Well, then, how'd you be a show?" Penrod demanded. "We got a show here, even if Herman didn't point or Verman didn't talk. Their father stabbed a man with a pitchfork, I guess, didn't he?"

"How do I know?"

"Well, I guess he's in jail, ain't he?"

"Well, what if their father is in jail? I didn't say he wasn't, did I?"

"Well, your father ain't in jail, is he?"

"Well, I never said he was, did I?"

"Well, then," continued Penrod, "how could you be a"— He stopped abruptly, staring at Roderick, the birth of an idea plainly visible in his altered expression. He had suddenly remembered his intention to ask Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., about Rena Magsworth, and his recollection collided in his mind with the irritation produced by Roderick's claiming some mysterious attainment which would warrant his setting up as a show in his single person. Penrod's whole manner changed instantly.

"Roddy," he asked, almost overwhelmed by a prescience of something vast and magnificent, "Roddy, are you any relation of Rena Magsworth?"

Roderick had never heard of Rena Magsworth, although a concentration of the sentence yesterday pronounced upon her had burned, black and horrific, upon the face of every newspaper in the country. He was not allowed to read the journals of the day, and his family's indignation over the sacrilegious coincidence of the name had not been expressed in his presence. But he saw that it was an awesome name to Penrod Schofield and Samuel Williams. Even Herman and Verman, though lacking many educational advantages on account of a long residence in the country, were informed on the subject of Rena Magsworth through hearsay, and they joined in the portentous silence.

"Roddy," repeated Penrod, "honest, is Rena Magsworth some relation of yours?"

There is no obsession more dangerous to its victims than a conviction—especially an inherited one—of superiority; this world is so full of Missourians. And from his earliest years Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., had been trained to believe in the importance of the Magsworth family. At every meal he absorbed a sense of Magsworth greatness, and yet in his infrequent meetings with persons of his own age and sex he was treated as negligible. Now dimly he perceived that there was a Magsworth claim of some sort which was impressive, even to the boys. Magsworth blood was the essential of all true distinction in the world, he knew. Consequently, having been driven into a cul-de-sac as a result of flagrant and unfounded boasting, he was ready to take advantage of what appeared to be a triumphal way out.

"Roddy," said Penrod again, with solemnity, "is Rena Magsworth some relation of yours?"

"Is she, Roddy?" asked Sam, almost hoarsely.

"She's my aunt!" shouted Roddy.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

WHY NOT STICK TO FACTS?

Artemas Ward said there was one class of information that he hated. "I don't mind not knowing things," said he, "but I hate knowing so many things that ain't so." Every statement in the anti-suffrage column of the Press last week came within that class of information. To take them one by one, if the column will hold out:

Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing Prison, is quoted as saying that woman suffrage would increase crime. Mr. Osborne has sent a letter denying this. He says, "I wish to state that I never said anything of the kind. The whole story is imaginative and I am credited with all sorts of expressions and ideas which are absolutely contrary to my views. I am not a Suffragist, but as for suffrage increasing crime, I think that is nonsense."

Suffrage is going and coming, say the Antis. Forty-six years ago the first State, Wyoming, adopted equal suffrage, four years ago only four had done so. Today there are eleven States and the Territory of Alaska where women have the same political standing as men and in the State of Illinois they may vote for every officeholder, State, county and municipal, except the Governor and members of the State and National Legislatures. They vote for President of the United States, the most important office in the country. Only a week ago the papers announced that Parliament had passed and the King had signed the bill to give the vote to the women of Denmark. They have had muncipal electoral rights since 1906, and as woman suffrage is "going" in Denmark by the same unusual method of departure as it is taking in the United States, they have now been given full suffrage on exactly the same terms as men. Women now vote in all the Scandinavian countries—in Norway, Sweden, Iceland and Denmark, and Finland, where Scandinavian influence is strong, freed her women in 1905.

We are told that only three per cent. of the women of the country vote. There are in this country between twenty-one and twenty-two million women of voting age who would be qualified voters. Four million of these can vote for President, which is almost twenty per cent. of the whole, and two and one-half million have full suffrage, which is over ten per cent. of the whole. This is on a par with the statement that the women of New Jersey do not want to vote, when over sixty thousand of them, over twenty-one years of age, have enrolled as Suffragists, as against twelve thousand (the latest official figures issued by the Antis) enrolled as being against it. With equal opportunities for joining either side, the women who have not yet taken a stand on the matter cannot be counted as opposed any more than we should think of counting them as Suffragists.

"Not a single good law has been passed as a result of women's votes." Too bad that the Legislature of California is such an idiot! The stupid thing passed a bill unanimously three weeks ago, and the Governor signed it with alarcity, declaring that woman suffrage in California had been an unqualified success and that California has been much benefitted by the votes of its women. Every man of good standing in all of the twelve suffrage States is in favor of woman suffrage, and the only ones who have been found to oppose it are discredited politicians like J. B. Maling, of Colorado. Two newspaper women of Denver have sworn to affidavits saying that Mr. Maling advised them to come East and speak for the Antis because they could make more money in that way than they are getting now in their professional work. The only States having an eight-hour day for working women are four States where women vote. The four States at the head of the column in regard to the amount of money spent per capita upon education are equal suffrage States, and they have only taken their paces at the top since their women were enfranchised. Women's natural interests are the home, children and the raising of the moral standards of the community. That is the reason that the New Jersey Liquor Dealers Protective Association passed resolutions against suffrage, and that the Methodist and Baptist Conferences of the State, and the Society of Friends have endorsed it. All these organizations know how the women of New Jersey will use their votes when they get them, and it is more than likely that they will be given the right to use them on the nineteenth of next October, when the men of this State are to decide the question, decide it, that is, for 1915. If we don't win then we will go right on working until we win, and we know that we will win eventually because "Truth is mighty and will prevail."

LILLIAN F. FEICKERT.

A Consistent Mother to Her Son.

You're tweny-one today, Willie,
And a danger lurks at the door.
I've known about it always,
But I never spoke before.
When you were only a baby
It seemed so very remote,
But you're twenty-one today, Willie,
And old enough to vote.

You must not go to the polls, Willie,
Never go to the polls.
They're dark and dreadful places
Where many lose their souls;
They smirch, degrade and coarsen,
Terrible things they do
To quiet, elderly women—
What would they do to you?

If you've a boyish fancy
For any measure or man,
Tell me and I'll tell father.
He'll vote for it if he can.
He casts my vote, and Louisa's
And Sarah and dear Aunt Clo;
Wouldn't you let him vote for you?
Father, who loves you so?

I've guarded you always, Willie,
Body and soul from harm;
I'll guard your faith and honor,
Your innocence and charm
From the polls and their evil spirts.

Where I would not go myself

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Twins Who Didn't Look Alike.

They Were Always Together.

"I KNEW a pair of twins once who didn't look alike," said daddy, starting the evening story for Jack and Evelyn. "You hear much of twins who do look alike, but you don't hear so much about those who do not.

"They were brother and sister. The sister was such a pretty little mite, with golden hair and blue eyes. The brother had red hair and a pug nose and freckles.

"The twins, besides looking entirely different from each other, were also different in dispositions. I know another little boy and girl who are like that, but this story is not about them. It is about the twins.

"The little girl was a nice little tot who always minded her mamma, and the little boy was a nice little boy who minded his mamma sometimes, and when his papa called him in to see him sometimes he was apt to mind mamma for several days, maybe.

"The boy twin was always leading the girl twin into all kinds of trouble, or perhaps I should say mischief, for, while they didn't look alike, they were always together, as twins usually are.

"The girl twin was a little girl who would never take a dare, and I am not proud to say of the freckled face boy twin that he was always getting her to do things that he didn't dare to do himself. I think this was the funniest one:

"The twins' father owned a big black horse named Don. The twins were up in the haymow one day when Don was eating his dinner, and the boy twin said to his sister, 'I'll dare you to slide down that hay chute and surprise Don.'

"He didn't think she would do it, but no sooner did he say this than she just slid down that hay chute, and the boy twin heard a great stamping and snorting, and down the stairs he flew, thinking his little twin sister might be hurt. But there she sat in the manger, grinning at old Don, who was hauling back on his halter and snorting.

"'There,' said the little girl twin, 'don't you ever dare to tell me I'm afraid again. Don, Don, look at his face. He is just as scared as he can be.' And the little girl twin pointed her tiny finger at her brother's face, which, sure enough, was as white as a piece of white paper, and his little legs were trembling, and his little heart was going pit-a-pat under his blouse till it almost suffocated him.

"After that he was more careful of his little twin sister and never dared her to do foolish things."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Which bottle is it?" Dick opened the medicine chest door.

"I think it is on the second shelf. It's a small bottle nearly empty. It's labeled 'Cough Syrup.' I remember sticking the label back on it yesterday," said Nell in a voice husky from a cold.

"I guess you didn't stick it on so it stayed. What do you keep all this junk for anyway? Here's an empty bottle labeled 'Hand Lotion.'"

"I'm going to get that refilled——"

"And an empty aconite bottle," said Dick, continuing the arraignment.

"It's behind the blacking bottle, I think," suggested Nell.

"It isn't; that's peroxide, and here's ipecac. What are you doing with ipecac? Have you started opposition to Jones, the druggist?"

"Baby was croupy and Mrs. Brown said——"

"I wish Mrs. Brown would stay away from here. She's forever putting you up to try some experiment on the poor little chap," complained Dick.

"She's had experience and——"

"Bosh!" There was more rattling of glass, then a crash followed by a muffled exclamation.

"What broke, Dick?"

"I don't know. Some fool stuff on the top shelf. It smells like carbolic acid," snorted Dick.

"There was some there.

"You swore, Dick," she added reproachfully.

"No, I just uncorked a vial of wrath." The tone expressed comparative good nature.

"I don't believe you have any cough medicine," he remarked after more rattling of glass.

"Let me come and find it. You never could find anything." Nell was climbing out of bed.

"Now, you stay right where you are," he commanded. "It's cold here and you'll take more cold and bark all night. You didn't sleep half an hour last night."

"I slept today, dear."

"Well, I didn't," said Dick, crossly. "Oh, here the stuff is. It was way back in a corner behind everything else. Why don't you remember where you put things?"

"If it was in the corner you must have shoved it there. I used it this very afternoon."

Dick made no reply. He had returned with bottle and spoon.

"How much do you take?"

"Aren't the directions on the bottle? A teaspoonful every two hours, I think it says."

"Well, we aren't going to lie awake for many doses, it is to be hoped." Dick was pouring the medicine in the spoon.

"Be careful, Dick. You'll spill it on the spread, and it stains." Nell's tone was irritated.

"Here, take it. I want to get to bed some time tonight. It's cold and I am tired."

"Thank you, dear," said Nell, making a wry face as she swallowed the medicine and sank back on her pillow. "I hope I'll get to sleep before I begin to cough again."

"Don't talk and get cold air on your lungs through your mouth. This open window business is all right when you are in bed and can stay in, but it's anything but pleasant climbing out into a cold room to hunt medicine," said Dick, putting out the light and plunging under the covers. "I hope baby will sleep tonight; I am dog tired," he said drowsily as he dozed off to sleep.

Toward morning Nell had another coughing spell and after vainly waiting for it to subside, the sleepy Dick climbed out into the cold again. This time the bottle was at hand and the medicine was soon downed, but either Nell was partly rested so that she could not doze off easily, or her cold was worse. The coughing did not stop and neither of them got any more sleep until the gray daylight crept through the window. The baby waked them shortly after they had dropped asleep.

"It's no use," said Dick wearily, shutting the window and going out to rake the base burner in the dining room. "I'll have to give it up, but you stay in bed and sleep if the baby will let you."

SMART BATHING TOGS.

No. 8906-8862.

The water has taken on an inviting aspect within the last few weeks that it is hard to resist. And indeed, why resist the call when swimming is one of the most healthful and delightful of the seasonable sports! It is only a short time now before the beaches will again be thronged, and it is high time that the new bathing suit should be constructed. The two Ladies' Home Journal designs shown above are modish and will make up very easily. Pattern 8906 has a skirt in five gores, with an inverted box-plait at the center back. The princess panel is very charming. Pattern 8862 includes a cap. The skirt is made in four gores with a yoke and set-in sleeves. Size 20 to 16, 36 requiring 5¾ yards 36 inch material.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force and Company.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

St. Louis, Mo.—Midnight marketing is society's most profitable diversion in St. Louis, fashionably gowned women and men in evening dress driving their motor cars to the midnight market on their way home from theatres and dances, and selecting their fruit and vegetables for the following day. The idea is spreading, and other cities may take it up soon.

San Maeto, Cal.—Field Marshal Von Hendenberg, the great German fighter, is the grandunde of a baby girl born here a few weeks ago. The new arrival is the daughter of Baroness Eckhard von Scheck, wife of the vice-consul for Germany in San Francisco. The mother is a member of the family of German soldiers.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—A hearing will be given in Harrisburg today by the State Pardon Board on the petition for pardon asked by Helen Boyle, now serving a 25-year term in the penitentiary here in connection with the kidnapping of Bill Whitla, of Sharon, Pa., in 1905. Whether the father of the kidnapped boy will relent is not known. The boy will enter High School next year and his playmates have almost forgotten the thrilling incident. Mrs. Boyle is known as the "prison angel" and she promises to help toward the betterment of other girls if she is released.

Palmyra, Wis.—Miss Lura Dow, editor of the Palmyra Enterprise, has been elected secretary of the Wisconsin Press Association. She is the first woman to hold the position.

Jennings, Okla.—The example of Dick Croker in marrying an Indian girl has brought a demand for Indian brides. Many offers of marriage are coming to Katie Fixito, an 18-year-old Greek Indian girl, who owns forty acres of valuable oil field near this city. The land is estimated to be worth half a million.

Washington.—A movement is under way by the women of Washington under the inspiration of Mrs. Edwin Clark Gregory, to save the home of John Paul Jones, at Halifax, N. C., from threatened decay. Mrs. Gregory is the eldest daughter of Senator Lee Overman. According to her statement launching the movement, the splendid old home where Jones spent his happy days, the only home he ever knew or loved, is crumbling to decay. It is proposed to preserve it and care for it as the ladies of America care for Washington's home at Mount Vernon.

Atlanta, Ga.—Miss Alexa Stirling, who won the Southern woman's golf championship at Birmingham recently, is only 17 years old. She is the daughter of Dr. Alex W. Stirling, of this city. Her friends are hoping she will meet some of the other women champions this summer.

Washington.—After many exciting adventures in the dangerous regions of the Philippine Islands, where she sought solace following the death of her husband, the beautiful Mrs. T. B. McClintic, who before her marriage three years ago was prominent in Washington social circles, has returned to the United States. She is accompanied by her small daughter, Thomasia. She is the daughter of the late Charles F. Broad of Washington. Early in 1912 she married Dr. Thomas B. McClintic, of the U. S. health service, one of the foremost experts in the treatment of fevers in this country. Her married life was brief, for two months after the wedding, the doctor went to Montana to combat an epidemic of spotted fever and himself fell a victim to the malady and died. A year later Mrs. McClintic told her friends she would seek to forget in another country and left for the Philippines.

Chicago.—The Woman's Temple, erected as a memorial to Frances Willard, the temperance leader, has been sold under foreclosure to the Field Museum of Natural History, which held a mortgage on the building. Financial difficulties caused the sale of the building. A committee headed by Mrs. Matilda B. Carse worked hard to save the building from foreclosure, but her efforts failed by a narrow margin. The building was designed to represent womanhood. It is all curves, softness and beautiful lines, and is the most unique office building in the world.

Atlantic City.—At the recent meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Amelia Dufloss, of Bayonne, told of her interesting experiment in cutting the cost of living. She bought two bushels of whole wheat and a hand mill, and made her own breakfast food and flour. This resulted, she claimed, in a saving of fifty per cent., and she had fresh and wholesome flour and therefore better bread than she could buy.

Cincinnati, O.—The municipal health department's Better Babies' Show is being held today and tomorrow at Chester Park. A committee of prominent Cincinnati women are assisting in selecting the prize babies, and talks are being given to the mothers. Public school employes will give an outing on Friday and Saturday to 40,000 public school children.

Household Hints

USE NEW VEGETABLES AS THEY COME WITHIN REACH

Creamed Cabbage—Cut cabbage into four pieces and remove core, divide again, drop into boiling water, adding a teaspoon of salt, cook until tender.

White Sauce—One tablespoon butter, tablespoon flour, one cup sweet milk. Melt butter, stir in flour and when well creamed pour milk in slowly, when sufficiently thickened in cabbage.

Cabbage With Vinegar—Cook cabbage until tender in salt water, drain water and to one small head of cabbage add one cup vinegar, one-half teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon salt and butter the size of a walnut. Let this heat for fifteen minutes and serve.

Cold Slaw—Cut cabbage very fine, sprinkle with salt and let it stand for half an hour. Pour over it half a cup of vinegar, half teaspoon pepper, and when ready to serve add a half a cup of cream and mix well. Mayonnaise may also be used as a dressing.

Cabbage With Cornbeef—Cut cabbage in four parts, remove core and divide again. Put cabbage in kettle with potatoes and corned beef. Serve all together.

Carrots—Carrots just out of the ground are one of our finest vegetables. Wash, scrape and cut carrots in small pieces, boil in salt water until tender. Pour off water and serve in white sauce the same as creamed cabbage.

Carrots With Parsley—Scrape and cut carrots and cook until tender in salt water. Drain off water and add a lump of butter and five cents' worth of chopped parsley.

Beets—Wash beets and put on to boil with enough water to cover. When done peel and season with butter, pepper, salt, sugar and vinegar to taste. Serve hot.

Pickled Beets—Boil until tender. Mix vinegar and water (half and half) enough to cover. For each quart can add one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon sugar. Beets boiled and sliced cold with cucumbers make a pretty salad served on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing.

Peas and Beans—Shell peas, put on to boil with enough water to cover; boil until tender. Drain off water and add one level teaspoon salt, one of sugar and milk just level with peas. When ready to serve add a lump of butter the size of a walnut. Beans may be cooked the same way. Beans and peas just boiled and served with butter and chopped parsley are very good also.

Turnips—Wash and pare, cut in small pieces. Boil in salt water until tender. When done drain off water and drop into white sauce. Sauce: One tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one cup milk.

Mashed Turnips—Cut in small pieces and boil. When done, drain, season with salt and a lump of butter and mash.

Baked Turnips—Pack mashed turnips in baking dish, dot with butter and brown in oven.

THE TABLE

Meatless Dish—Select a small, firm tomato, cut out stem end, scoop out seeds and soft center. Sprinkle with salt and turn upside down to drain. Then sprinkle with pepper and finely chopped parsley. Break a raw egg into tomato and add salt and pepper. Arrange prepared tomatoes (not too close together) in buttered pan and place in hot oven for a few moments. Serve on slice of fried mush. Cover all with a spoonful of brown sauce.

Cocoanut Loaf Cake—One teaspoon each of butter and lard, one scant half cup sugar, one egg, one-cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, half cup milk, half cup grated cocoanut. Mix together and bake in small loaf cake pan. Twice the ingredients will make a good-sized cake. Bake with cocoanut strewn on top. Cheap as well as very good.

Cocoanut Pie—One-half cup shredded cocoanut soaked in milk for one hour or longer; two eggs, three tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons flour, one pint milk. Make custard; when nearly done, add cocoanut and whites of eggs well beaten. Have crust baked. When ready to serve, put on whipped cream sweetened.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — THERE ARE JUNE BRIDES AND JUNE BRIDES — BY "HOP"

JACK CARDIFF WILL SPEAK HERE SUNDAY

Another big Y. M. C. A. men's meeting will be held in the association building on Sunday afternoon, June 20, at 4 o'clock, when "Jack" Cardiff, physical trainer for "Billy" Sunday, will speak. "Jack," as he is familiarly known, was converted in one of Mr. Sunday's meetings in the Middle West while waiting to participate in a prize fight. After his conversion Cardiff quit the ring and has become the close associate of Mr. Sunday, whom he keeps in physical condition for his strenuous work.

Special music, both vocal and instrumental, will have a large place in the program.

S. S. SWACKHAMMER TO ADDRESS GRADUATES

S. S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, will make the address at the closing exercises of the Warren township schools to be held in the Baptist church at Mt. Bethel tonight. The exhibition of school work will be ehld at Mountain House Hall tomorrow afternoon and evening. The graduates will be as follows:

Marian Williams, Elma Sage, Ruth Conroy, Arthur Kloth, Reuben Nuse, Eleanor Haye, Alexander Mathews, Morris Arrighie, George Danjunas, Marie Anderson, Alice Danjunas, Edith Belcher, Helena Hahr, William Lang, Mary Tatum, Ana Budnik, Hazel Gregory and Adeline Mantz.

MISS LOVE MAY BE ENGLISH INSTRUCTOR

Besides the changes in the teachers' list of the North Plainfield High School for next year that have already been announced, there will probably be another after the meeting of the Borough Board of Education next Monday night. At a recent meeting of the teachers' board committee of the Board, Miss Roxana Love, of East Ninth street, who has taught in the Borough High School for a number of years, applied for the position of assistant English instructor. Miss Love is at present completing her fifth year as instructor of science, having chemistry, physics, biology and physiography in her schedule.

Miss Love's instruction in these important subjects, it is said, has been thorough and the records show that, during her connection with the school, not one graduate has been conditioned in science in college entrance examinations.

If the Board approves this change at the next meeting Miss Love will have four classes in English next year and will retain her one class in biology. She will have charge of two divisions of freshmen English and two of sophomore. The teachers' committee is now considering an application for the science position, which will be presented to the Board next week.

SOME KICKS ON CUMMINS LAW

Red-tape Necessary Under New Baggage Code Causes Much Inconvenience.

TIME MUST BE ALLOWED

Those Carrying Baggage on Trips Urged to Get to the Depot Before Train Time—Manufacturers Say Legislation is Foolish.

Plainfielders who have had occasion to travel since the Cummins baggage law went into effect have suffered considerable delay and no little amount of inconvenience in attempting to live up to the various restrictions. Baggagemaster George Springer and his corps of assistants at the Central Railroad depot have had additional work thrust upon them as the result of the passage of this act and it is essential that those contemplating trips with baggage get to the station a reasonable length of time before the hour set for the departure of the train. The "red tape" that has to be gone through in getting baggage ready for shipment has caused numerous railroad patrons to miss train connections recently and the only certain method of being ready to board the particular train is to get to the depot early.

Every individual sending baggage is compelled to give a true valuation on trunks and bags and this feature also has its humorous version. Several days ago a woman appeared at the eastbound depot with a long list of articles of wearing apparel with a ridiculous assignment of prices opposite each item. The law makes it a misdemeanor either to overestimate or underestimate the value of the contents of a trunk and travellers are therefore cautioned to take a careful inventory before visiting the baggagemaster.

Grumbling and dissatisfaction has been evident on every hand to the casual observer at the local depot and the law has been generally accepted as a piece of "fool" legislation. When the law was going through Congress delegations of persons with individual and corporative interests appeared at Washington and tried in every way to have some modifications made but without avail.

Local jewelers and merchants handling goods of great value are probably the most generally affected in Plainfield. Under the law, or rather as the railroads have interpreted the law, the tags on the valued trunks plainly state what this value has been made. In this way the manufacturers point out, their practice of years—to send out their samples in trunks that in no way indicate the value of their contents—has been knocked to smithereens. The danger of loss under the new system is magnified many fold, they say.

If the value is under $100 the railroad carries the baggage free, but if it is over that amount a charge of ten cents for each additional $100 is made. Thus the individual or firm whose baggage is valued at $50,000 would have to pay the railroad $49.90 as insurance against loss, and by this payment the company could recover to the full value of the trunk's contents.

TWO AUTOS AND BICYCLE FIGURED IN A COLLISION

Two automobiles and a bicycle figured in a collision on Somerset street, near the bridge, yesterday afternoon, and several persons had a narrow escape from serious injury. According to the report made at police headquarters by Patrolman Birmingham, John Booth, a driver of one of Bamberger's delivery autos, in making a quick stop to avoid hitting Samuel Taub, of 421 West Front street, who had turned his bicycle directly in front of the motor-car, blocked the road for another auto owned by W. H. Campbell, which crashed into the first machine.

Campbell's car was in charge of Oscar Karlsen and the latter could not apply the brakes in time to avoid the collision.

TO ATTEND RE-UNION.

Mayor Leighton Calkins will leave the forepart of next week for Cambridge, Mass., where he will attend the annual re-union of his class in Harvard University. While away Mr. Calkins will attend the commencement week functions at Harvard and the intercollegiate boat races at Poughkeepsie.

MISS BOWLBY THE BRIDE OF C. M. EOFF

Ceremony is Performed by Rev. F. L. West, of Stapleton, S. I.

Miss Gertrude Louise Bowlby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McPherson Bowlby, of Park avenue, and Charles Mortimer Eoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Eoff, of Crescent avenue, were married at 8:30 o'clock last night, at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. F. L. West, of Stapleton, S. I., an intimate friend of the couple, performed the ceremony in the presence of about one hundred relatives and friends.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white crepe de chine. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and rosebuds. Her matron-of-honor was Mrs. Wilbur Tietjen, of this city, who wore her wedding gown of white taffeta trimmed with lace and carried white sweet peas.

The other attendents were Mrs. George Bowlby, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. David Scott, both of this city. Their gowns were of white organdie and lace and they carried pink peonies. The best man was Wilbur Tietjen. An attractive feature of the decorative scheme, the principal colors of which were green and white, was a daisy chain which formed an aisle through which the bridal party proceeded to the rose covered canopy in the parlor where the ceremony was performed. As the bride and bridegroom and attendants descended the staircase through the hallway into the parlor, the wedding march was played by an orchestra.

Immediately following the ceremony there was a reception during which congratulations were offered and a wedding repast was served. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Eoff left on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in this city. The bride received a large number of gifts from relatives and friends.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Eoff are well-known here in the younger society set and they have a large circle of acquaintances.

KING'S DAUGHTERS MAKE AN APPEAL

Funds Are Needed to Carry On Work at The Day Nursery.

According to the annual custom on behalf of the City Union of the King's Daughters, The Daily Press makes an urgent appeal for contributions to the most laudable work of this organization, which includes the maintenance of The Day Nursery on West Front street. In the past the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield have been generous in support of this worthy charity and given valuable aid to the work, and the King's Daughters believe that this year will prove no exception to the rule. Any amount, no matter how small, will be gladly received by the organization and such contributions can be sent to The Daily Press as usual. They will be promptly acknowledged and the money will be forwarded to Mrs. Anna Most, treasurer of the City Union.

The demands upon the King's Daughters this summer have been greater than ever, there have been more children brought to The Day Nursery for care, treatment and feeding. A public milk station is constantly maintained at considerable expense, where pasteurized milk is obtainable for infants during the summer months as well as the winter. Physicians of the city make regular visits to the nursery, giving such aid as possible and in addition there is the expense of providing more substantial food for the children.

A general invitation is extended to the public to not only visit the nursery, but the playground adjoining as well and become acquainted with the extensive work being carried on. The King's Daughters feel sure that if the people of the city and borough were fully acquainted with what is being done through this charity they would quickly respond to their appeal. The need for funds is now urgent and he who gives promptly will have the satisfaction of knowing that he is aiding the most worthy charity in Plainfield.

CUT OFF THUMB.

Mary Terry, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Terry, of Race street, the borough, late yesterday afternoon cut off one of her thumbs while playing in the yard to the rear of her home with an axe. Dr. Albert Pittis was called to attend the young girl. No complications from bloodpoisoning is expected at this time.

DANCING IN "THE GOOD OLD DAYS"

Church Members Suspended Because They Showed No Signs of Repentance.

CONDUCT QUESTIONED

Original Minute-Book of Plainfield Presbyterian Church Gives Some Interesting Facts Regarding the Early Days in This City.

Under the caption "The Good Old Days," the current issue of The Messenger, the monthly publication of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, there appears an interesting story showing that even as far back as 1844 the question of dancing among church members was a troublesome one, so much so that members were suspended from the communion of the church because they gave no evidence of repentance. The story is as follows:

"The original minute-book of the church is an interesting document. It covers the period from 1844 to 1892, and bears on its front page this inscription: Records of the Session of the Plainfield Presbyterian Church, organized in Plainfield, Essex County, New Jersey, on Thursday afternoon, March 21, A. D., 1844, and consisting originally of eighty-six members.

"Scattered through the book are some minutes which tell a good deal about church life in the past. On January 28, 1848, it is recorded that

"QUEEN OF FLOWERS" ENJOYED BY MANY

Fifty Dollars Realized as Profit for the Open-air School.

As a result of the open-air play given yesterday afternoon on the spacious lawn at the home of Mrs. Walter L. Righter, on West Seventh street, fifty dollars was realized for the benefit of the Open-Air School. The event was largely attended and much enthusiasm was evinced in the clever thespian performances of the young participants. Much of the credit for the success of the affair is due to the efforts of Miss Kathryn Borden, under whose supervision twenty-two girls took part in the play in a finished style. The costumes were particularly beautiful, each gown being designed for the part interpreted. Those taking part in the play were the following:

Miss Katharyn Borden, "Spirit of Spring;" Miss Carolin Hyde, "May Queen;" Miss Katherine Woodburn, "Raindrop;" Miss Helen Thompson, "Sunbeam;" Miss Marian Cowperthwaite, "Grassblade;" Heywood Butler, "Leafbud;" Miss Margaret Tyler, "Rainbow;" Misses Stella Butler, Edith Tyler and Elizabeth Cook, "fairies;" Misses Louise Waring and Mollie Otterson, "butterflies;" Misses Elizabeth Tyler and Elizabeth Stewart, "violets;" Misses Westrie Kirk and Virginia Cook, "forget-me-nots," Miss Lucy Addison and Carol Renton, "Buttercups," and Miss Alice Butler and Brewster Ryder, "heralds."

MRS. GRETCHAM WINGES TO MARRY GEORGE AHNERT

Mrs. Gretcham Winges, widow of William J. Winges, and George Ahnert, both of Dunellen, announced their engagement yesterday, the fact being made known to a party of friends among whom were Mrs. Eliza Field, Mrs. Gustav and Mrs. Dora Victorson, who were invited to the Winges home on Lincoln avenue.

Further announcement was made in the evening to another invited party, the guests including Mr. and Mrs. William Liernan, Mr. and Mrs. Drinkham, of Brooklyn, and Miss Lulu Behrens, of Dunellen. The evening was enjoyed with games, instrumental music and songs of the Fatherland, after which refreshments were served. Mrs. Winges was the recipient of many gifts including glass and silverware. The wedding will probably take place in the fall.

WILL PRESENT TWO PLAYS.

Everything is ready for the entertainment to be presented in Debele Hall tonight at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Young People's Society, of St. Peter's Lutheran church. Two plays will be given, "Aunt Sally From California" and "Wanted, A Male Cook." Both casts have been working hard and earnestly and the affair will undoubtedly prove a big success.

NINE GRADUATED FROM ACADEMY

Mt. St. Mary's Pupils Received Diplomas Yesterday Afternoon.

ELABORATE EXERCISES

Certificates Awarded by Rev. John F. Baldwin—Miss Sarah Mary McKean and Miss Clare Isabel Hall Take Honors.

Nine young women received grammar school certificates, yesterday afternoon, for satisfactory completion of their course at Mt. St. Mary College. These were the Misses Claire Isabel Hall, Fanwood; Catherine Veronica Gannon, Perth Amboy; Sarah Mary McKean, Bernardsville; Hazel Gertrude McEnery, Erie, Pa.; Frances Claire Getzinger, Trenton; Anita Marie Maguire, South Bethlehem, Pa.; Estelle Agnes O'Brien, New York, N. Y.; Ida Adelaide Hernsheim, Asbourne, Pa., and Evelyn Blanche Stout, of this city.

The exercises opened with an overture by the school orchestra followed by a vocal chorus, "Happy Birds." Miss Sarah Mary McKean, salutatorian of the class, delivered the opening address, after which Rev. John F. Baldwin, of the college, awarded the diplomas. The order of exercise also included the following: Greeting to graduates, little ones; music, overture, school orchestra; patriotic song, boys; violin solo, "Simple Confession," from Thomas, by Miss Hazel Gertrude McEnery; morality play, "The Voices," "The Maiden," Miss Isabella Mullen; "Wisdom," Miss Mary Connolly; "Jeanne d'Arc," Miss Elizabeth Brown; "St. Catherine of Sienna," Miss Mary McCallion; "Dante's Beatrice," Miss Catherine Cleary; "Beauty," Miss Regina Birmingham; "Riches," Miss Jennie Bradley; "Fame," Miss Rose Birkel; "Pleasure," Miss Loretta Daly, and "Flower Maiden," Miss Dorothy Watts; attendants, "Heavenly Voices," "Earthly Voices;" aesthetic dances: (a) wood nymphs, (b) spirits of summer, (c) pompeian flower girls; music, "Gavotte," orchestra; valedictory address, Miss Claire Isabel Hall; address, Henry C. TO RETIRE FROM HOTEL BUSINESS

W. J. Kitchen Sells Out to John J. Sullivan, of Point Pleasant.

The fact that the business of the Hotel Kensington had changed hands became known today when William J. Kitchen, the present proprietor, announced that he had sold out to John J. Sullivan, of Point Pleasant. The change is effective July 1, at which time Mr. Sullivan will take charge. He is thoroughly experienced in the business having conducted a hotel at Point Pleasant for several years. He is well known throughout the State. There will be no change among the employes and the hotel will be continued in the same satisfactory manner that has characterized the present management.

Mr. Kitchen, who has been connected with the management of the hotel for four years, at first being associated with his late father, John H. Kitchen, expects to locate in St. Louis where he has large business interests to which he will devote his time and attention in the future. During his management of the local hotel Mr. Kitchen has made many friends, his hostelry being one of the most popular in the State. He has equipped the building throughout with all improvements, providing many comforts and conveniences for guests.

At the next meeting of the Common Council Mr. Sullivan will make application for the transfer of the hotel license and when this matter is settled upon he will take charge. Mr. Kitchen will probably remain in Plainfield for a short time to attend to some business matters before removing to St. Louis.

PURE FOOD SUPPER.

A pure food supper, under the auspices of the Epworth League of the Grace M. E. church, will be held in the church tomorrow night at 7 o'clock sharp. There will be good music.

TO SING AT FESTIVAL.

The singing section of the Gesang and Turn Verein Society will go to New Brunswick next Sunday and take part in a singing festival at that place.

PUBLIC BATHING IN SCHOOL POOL

Board of Education Declares "Open House" During July and August.

RESTRICTIONS FOR USE

Classing Announced—Tank May Be Chartered for Private Classes—Attendant Will Be in Charge Morning, Afternoon and Evening.

In response to numerous requests the Plainfield Board of Education has made arrangements to have the swimming pool in the High School open during the summer months to the public, morning, afternoon and evening, six days during the week in July and August. There will be open hours for general use when any person will be admitted on the payment of the prescribed fee and there will be class hours when a class or group of people may obtain exclusive use for their group for half an hour.

In order that the expense for opening the pool for public use may not cut into school funds, fees will be charged to cover the cost of instructors, attendants, etc. For open hours, afternoon or evening, the charge for each individual will be 15c, 12 tickets for $1.50. Forenoons are intended especially for the children, and the charge wil be only 5c. For the class hours, the charge will be $3, the hour covering a half hour exclusive use of the pool, preceded and followed by fifteen minutes' use of the dressing

CALKINS AN OFFICER IN MAYORS' LEAGUE

State Municipal Organization Formed in Trenton Yesterday Afternoon.

Permanent organization of the New Jersey League of Municipalities was effected in Trenton, yesterday afternoon, Mayor Leighton Calkins, the Plainfield delegate, being elected third vice president. Representatives of fifty municipalities were in attendance and the meeting was held in the Commission Chamber of the City Hall. Other officers chosen follow. President, Mayor Donnelly, of Trenton, first vice president, Mayor George Seger, Passaic; second vice president, Mayor Charles H. Ellis, Camden; secretary and treasurer, as interim, Tax-Receiver Swartz, Trenton; executive committee, the above named officers and the following:

Mayor Joseph Rabinowitz, Woodbine; Clarence E. S. Hetrick, Asbury Park; Commissioner George S. Brensinger, Jersey City; Corporation Counsel Spaulding Frazer, Newark; Mayor Daniel A. Garber, Ridgewood; Mayor George H. Packer, Bound Brook; Mayor William S. Dey, South Amboy; Mayor L. S. Page, Chatham; Mayor W. S. McAllister, Merchantville; Mayor C. G. Justice, Pitman.

The Plainfield Common Council at its May session gave Mayor Calkins authority to represent this city in such an organization and appropriated the annual membership fee of $46 to the league. In North Plainfield a resolution similar to that introduced here was offered by Mayor Clark but the Council voted it down and hence the borough is unrepresented. The membership fee for a delegate from a municipality of North Plainfield's size is about $14 a year. Bound Brook was the only other town in the immediate vicinity of Plainfield that was represented. It was reported that forty-five municipalities had affiliated themselves with the organization and it is anticipated that the work taken up will be of mutual benefit to all.

Mayor Donnelly, who, prior to the election of officers, served as temporary chairman of the meeting, opened the session with a brief address outlining the objects of the league and telling of the work that had already been accomplished.

ANNUAL CAMP FIRE.

The annual camp fire of the Conference Bible Class of the First Baptist church Sunday-school has been arranged for Thursday evening, June 24, at 6:30. The affair will be held at the grove on the mountainside at the corner of Interhaven avenue and Grove street. A special committee is in charge of the arrangements for the occasion.

CITY COUNCIL MAY REVOKE PRIVILEGE

Failure of Public Service to Install Switch Likely to Cost It the Right.

It is now considerably more than a year since the Common Council gave the Public Service Corporation permits to install a "Y" switch at West Front street and Grant avenue as well as the one at East Fifth and Richmond streets. One was placed at the latter point but the company has never taken any steps to install such a switch at Front street and Grant avenue. It will be recalled by those conversant with the matter that the company was very anxious to place a "Y" switch at both points named, but why they have failed to take advantage of the privilege in the West End is not known. Inquiry has failed to bring forth any reason and members of the present City Council have been unable to explain the matter. The councilmanic street committee has had its attention called to the failure of the company to build the switch as provided, and it is understood that a representative of the company was informed that if the latter did not want to avail itself of the privileges granted, the Council would revoke the right, whereupon the representative is said to have requested the councilman not to recommend such action and he would take the question up with the officials of the company.

It is the opinion of interested persons that for some reason the company is not anxious at present to make the improvement, but believe that the city should hold the company to the agreement. West Front street and Grant avenue is one of the busiest corners in the city. There is almost constant travel on Front street as well as through Grant and West End avenues and yet the condition of the street at the corner is always deplorable. Whenever there is a hard rain the entire corner is flooded making the thoroughfare impassable at the time and after the water runs off the mud is so thick that it is difficult for one to cross the street. This condition has been allowed to exist for several years without any relief.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF WATCHUNG SCHOOL

Class of Ten Boys and Girls Are Graduated With High Honors.

The closing exercises of the Watchung School last night attracted a capacity audience to the auditorium when the largest class in the history of the school comprising five girls and five boys were graduated. The stage was transformed into a bower of green boughs and white daisies, making an attractive background.

The girls' chorus was made up of former, present and undergraduates, including the Misses Adella Liebeman, Effie Fell, Helen MacDonald, Margaret Demler, Florence Luerssen, Dorothy Herrmann, Beatrice Bodin, Helen Mobus, Grace Titus, May Titus, Carol Hughes, Daisy Schmidt, Agnes Griffiths and Lucy Hughes.

The graduates were Beatrice Elizabeth Bodin, Helen Henrietta Mobus, May Gertrude Titus, Miriam Neier, Augusta Stella Probst, Emile Ulysses Perrett, Charles Lewis Snoden, John Holtzclau, Max Horriot Underhill and Elston Charles Wakefield.

Features of the exercises were two addresses, one on "Encouragement," by H. C. Krebs, superintendent of schools of Somerset county, and the other on the subject of "Be Prepared," by Rev. Mebane Ramsey, pastor of the Wilson Memorial Union church. The program as announced yesterday was followed throughout.

ANNUAL OUTING.

The women's society of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein left at about 9 o'clock this morning on the annual outing of the society. The party went to South Beach for the day and took the trip in a large auto-truck. There were about thirty in the party.

221 KILLED BY AIR MEN IN 48 HOURS

German and English Non-Combatants Are Victims of Bombs.

REVERSES FOR KAISER

Berlin Official Statement Admits French Assaults Have Been Effective—Italians Continue to Advance Along Whole Front.

London, June 17.—Two hundred and twenty-one persons, mainly non-combatants, have been killed and many mortally wounded in air raids during the past forty-eight hours, despatches from Amsterdam state that 200 persons were killed in the great air raid of the Allies over Karlsruhe, Germany, on Tuesday. A telegram from Paris said that five were killed at Nancy by bombs from German aeroplanes.

The British steamship Trafford, 2,150 tons, bound from Sydney, Australia, has been sunk by a German submarine off the Scotch coast. Her crew was saved. The steamship Turnwelf also was attacked, but managed to reach Milford.

Berlin, June 17 (By Wireless).—The Germans north of Arras have not been able to stem all the assaults of the French. The loss of ground is admitted in an official statement issued by the General German Staff today, but at the same time the recapture of some of the trenches lost to the enemy was announced.

On Tuesday the Germans abandoned to the French a trench near the Lorette Hills, which had been badly shattered by shell fire. South of Souchez the French penetrated the German positions a distance of 500 meters and obtained a foothold in the German trenches.

Paris, June 17.—The French War statement says:

"In the Vosges the progress made by us yesterday made us complete masters of the line of heights which dominate the valley of the Fecht River to north of Steinbruck and Metzerald. To the south also we gained ground between the two branches of the upper Fecht and along the heights which separate the valley of the Fecht from the valley of the Lauch. Regarding the rest of the front there is nothing to add to the announcement made yesterday."

Rome, June 17.—The Italian War statement issued today says:

"We have won skirmishes along the whole front. The enemy is reinforcing. Along the Isonzo River we have consolidated our new positions. The action of the Alpines chassuers in the Monte Nero zone was particularly important. Their task was to cut the enemy from points of support along the steep slopes rising from the northern ridges to the summit. The action began Tuesday night. At dawn a great assault was made and it resulted in victory for our arms."

Petrograd, June 17.—The Russian War statement says:

"German attacks during the last three days around village of Latzkow, near the Windau River, were unsuccessful. On Tuesday the fighting closed in our favor. On Tuesday night the enemy began another bombardment of Ossowiec, but by 2 o'clock Wednesday morning our batteries silenced the German guns. In western Galicia the battle of the San continues with increasing fierceness."

Constantinople, June 17.—The Turkish War statement issued today says:

"Near Avi Burnu our artillery bombarded the enemy effectively. It was easily observed that the Anglo-French Allies lost heavily. Our coast batteries fired upon enemy transports and the Allies' air headquarters near Sed El Bahr with good results. One of our airmen observed in Kofalo Bay an armored cruiser, apparently of the Agrememnon class almost entirely submerged and her rear funnel and masts were under water."

FLAMES CONSUME MONSTER SEVEN-PASSENGER BUICK

Backfire from the engine of a big seven-passenger touring car owned by Yesbrand DeDood, of Park avenue, set fire to the machine in the Warrenville road, Warrenville, last night at 11:30 o'clock, and it was burned beyond repair. When the accident happened it was being tested by Charles Norberg, a chauffeur, and the occupants escaped unhurt.

The only thing that remains of the big machine today is the steel portion of the engine and that was brought back to a local garage.

Dora Whitford is first honor pupil. For the position of second honor pupil a tie exists between George Hipp and Morris Stites.

The closing exercises of the grade will be held in the Presbyterian church, Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The reception will be held Wednesday evening in the Whittier School. It will be under the supervision of the Parent-Teacher Association and admission will be by ticket only. Tickets can be secured from the Eighth grade graduates or the members of the committee of the Parent-Teacher Association in charge. This committee is made up of Mrs. Mahlon R. Dayton, Mrs. Theodore Apgar, Mrs. F. J. Doyle, Mrs. T. H. Platt, Mrs. George T. Schenck and Mrs. Philip Eder.

The closing exercises of the Lincoln School will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, in the school, and the closing exercises of the Whittier School will be held in that school at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. The programs of these exercises will include recitations, songs and the awarding of prizes.

Elwood Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Gary, of First street, has accepted a position as clerk in the New York office of the Central Railroad.

Roger Cockburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Cockburn, of Penfield place, has pneumonia.

Ruth, the three-year-old daughter of Contractor and Mrs. Raymond Whitford, was brought home yesterday afternoon, from the Muhlenberg Hospital at Plainfield, where she underwent an operation for mastoids a week ago Friday.

Paul Rabeiun and Jack Richards are arranging a straw-ride for July 25 to Three Bridges, where a dance will be held on Fred Russell's farm. Twenty invitations will be issued. The trip will be made by auto-truck.

Mrs. Stanley V. Krom, of Penfield place, continues to improve slowly from her long and trying illness.

Former Councilman J. H. Schneidler, Richard Mann and Jack Wilmot made a trip to Newark by automobile the first of the week.

Mrs. Henry Kirchner, Sr., of Lincoln avenue, who has submitted to two operations in a short period, is doing very nicely and was able to leave her bed for the first today.

Mrs. A. F. Samson, of New Market road, spent today in New York.

INJURES HIS HAND.

Wilbur Hayes, of New Market road, while employed in new construction work at the Netherwood tower station of the Plainfield-Union Water Company a few days ago, ran a rusty nail through the palm of his left hand. The nail was sticking upright through a piece of board which lay on a scaffold. Mr. Hayes was climbing the scaffold and be brought his hand down on the nail. As quickly as he could Mr. Hayes hurried to the office of Dr. Carman in Plainfield, where he had the wound cauterized. The wound has caused him considerable pain and he has been unable to work.

Mrs. Fred Vail, of North street, submitted to a nasal operation at the office of Dr. Hubbard in Plainfield, this morning.

The new home of Elwood Gary on Dunellen avenue is nearing completion and Mr. Gary expects to be able to move in on July 4.

Emanuel Appert, of Dunellen avenue, is enjoying his annual two weeks' vacation.

Miss Florence Smalley, of Jackson avenue, resumed her duties as teacher in the Whittier School today, following a three weeks' illness with a heavy cold.

The parish house of St. John's church is being moved today from its old foundation on Washington avenue to First street.

Fred Tallamy, of North avenue, spent yesterday in New York.

William Taylor, of Lincoln avenue, has resigned his position in the bicycle repair shop of Harry Dreier at Plainfield.

Contractor Samuel M. Titus has been awarded the contract of erecting a house for the Standard Investment Company, a local concern, on Fourth street and Monroe avenue, Plainfield.

A number of local people witnessed the graduation exercises of the Eighth grade of the grammar department at Mt. St. Mary College yesterday afternoon. Miss Claire Hall, after spending two years at the college, was graduated with honors, being valedictorian of a large class. She will return next fall to enter the high school department.

Another thoroughfare that marks the boundary line of the borough and township is about due to receive extensive repairs. King street, connecting Terrill road and Martine avenue, is now one of the most traveled roads in either local town and the residents of that street feel that macadam and gutters should replace the dirt roadbed. The matter was taken up at the last Township Committee meeting and will probably be taken up with the borough at the same time as the Westfield road matter.

Now that the constitution and by-laws of the new Rifle Club are in printed form exception has been taken to several clauses contained therein and at the next meeting amendments will be proposed. The young girls of the borough have entered a strenuous protest to be allowed to join the club and it would not be strange to see the constitution so amended as to allow them to join.

Maurice Hall is spending a few days at his home in the borough, having obtained a leave of absence from his station at the Picatinny Arsenal, Dover.

Mrs. E. C. Wardle, who is spending the summer at the "Homestead," has been visiting relatives at Whitehouse.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Sewing Circle of the Willow Grove chapel was held in that edifice yesterday afternoon, at which time the election of officers for the ensuing year was held. It resulted in Mrs. William Sisserson being chosen as president for another term, while Mrs. Evan Evans was elected vice-president: Miss Anna Scudder, secretary; Mrs. Ernest Wilcox, treasurer; Mrs. Louis Garder, pianist, and Mrs. James Cardy as chairman of the entertainment committee. The yearly reports of the several officers were read and showed the circle to be in an extremely flourishing condition. A number of donations had been given and institutions added, including the Children's Country Home and the Westfield branch of the Needlework Guild of America. The annual strawberry festival was enjoyed on the lawns surrounding the chapel yesterday afternoon and extended into the evening. Japanese lanterns were strung among the trees and the tables set over the lawns were decorated with cut flowers. A considerable sum was realized from the affair and will be spent toward further beautifying the grounds around the chapel.

The weekly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of All Saints Episcopal church was held at the home of Mrs. Townsend, on Russell road, yesterday afternoon. There was a good attendance and much work was accomplished.

A meeting of the Lend-a-Hand Society will be held in the Baptist church parlors tomorrow afternoon.

With the increased activities around the Fanwood station of the New Jersey Central, Recorder Sheelen has issued orders to have the borough ordinance strictly observed. The curb is to be kept free of vehicles except for the purpose of allowing persons to alight. The taxicabs are lined up in the center of the driveway, leaving a space in front and in back of them for vehicles to pass.

Whitehouse

A change has been made for the summer in the hours of service in the Reformed church at Whitehouse Station. The Sunday-school session will be held Sunday mornings at 9:30 instead of in the afternoon, and the regular preaching service will be at 10:30.

Mrs. William M. Trumbower, of East Whitehouse, has left for Hackettstown to attend the commencement week exercises. Her daughter, Miss Helen Trumbower, is among the graduates.

The Alert baseball team of East Whitehouse will go to High Bridge Saturday afternoon to play a return game with the Tiscos. The Lebanon nine will play the Somerville team at Lebanon.

WILL BUILD MUNITION PLANTS AT KENILWORTH

Kenilworth, June 17.—The Borough Council has passed a resolution giving two of the largest concerns in the country, the American Locomotive Company and the Westinghouse Electric Company, the privilege of locating branches in Kenilworth to manufacture munitions to fill war orders for the Allies. The material will be made at Kenilworth, but the cartridges are to be finished abroad.

The factory in which they will locate is owned by John M. Kennedy, of Philadelphia, who was present at the meeting Tuesday night. The factory covers an acre of ground and is now occupied by the Texoleum Company, who will vacate shortly. The contract for the lease between Mr. Kennedy and the American Locomotive Company will be signed today. It was stated last night that the plant will be doubled in size and will employ from 500 to 1,000 hands.

Several land owners and heads of realty companies were present Tuesday night, also many residents of the town who made short addresses to the Council to allow the factory to come in. The Council voted unanimously on the proposition.

SCHOOL GRAFT TRIAL.

St. Louis, Mo., June 17.—August H. Kuhs, a real estate dealer and member of the Board of Education, will be put on trial today on an indictment charging that he had shared in a profit of $11,500 made through the transfer of a school site to the Board. Judge Calvin N. Miller, of the Court of Criminal Correction, has disqualified himself for the trial, because of the objection of Kuhs' friends that the committeeman could not get a fair trial in his court. The case goes before a judge of the Circuit bench. The trial will be closely watched and Committeeman Kuhs will make a bitter fight to clear his name, it is announced.

TO PASS DIVIDEND.

New York, June 17.—It is announced that the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad directors will recommend the deferring of the one per cent. dividend due this month, at the regular meeting today.

C. E. SOCIETY TAKES BIG STEP FORWARD

Reports Show That the Work is Making Marked Progress in State.

Christian Endeavor in New Jersey has taken a big step forward within the past month or so and it is evident that the work throughout the State is in a very prosperous and healthy condition, this being particularly manifest in the numerous conventions that have recently been held. Considerable attention has been given to the programs and on several occasions there have been eminent speakers whose experience well qualifies them for effectively presenting the various phases of Christian Endeavor activity.

Perhaps the most popular speaker during the past month, was Dr. William Shaw, of Boston, general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, who is a favorite with Endeavorers everywhere. Dr. Shaw spoke at the conventions of Union and Atlantic counties. State President John T. Sproull has been especially active this past month, having addressed many of the conventions.

The convention of the Union County C. E. Union was held in the Third Presbyterian church, of Elizabeth. There was an unusually large gathering of Endeavorers to welcome Dr. Shaw and his message was received with great interest and profit. J. Duer Randolph, of Elizabeth, was re-elected president. Rev. A. C. VanRaalte, of Linden, recently appointed district secretary for Union county, was formally introduced.

"Some Marks of a Christian," was the subject chosen by Rev. Stephen J. Herben, of East Orange, for his address to the members of the Middlesex County C. E. Local Union, at their spring rally held in the Presbyterian church, of Woodbridge. The various sections were well represented and an enjoyable program of speaking, music and refreshments was carried out. The county president, Rev. S. V. Robinson, of Stelton, presided and was assisted by Rev. R. W. Mark, vice-president of the union and pastor of the convention church.

The fourth annual spring convention of the Cumberland County C. E. Union was held in the Baptist church, of Cedarville. The afternoon period was featured by two very interesting talks—(a) "The Power House," by Rev. Erlo Sutton, S. D. B., of Shiloh, and (b) "How to Make the Connection," by Rev. Oscar Morton, of Bridgeton. Rev. D. E. Lewis, of Bridgeton, delighted all with a clever series of chalk talks. In the evening, Rev. W. D. Stultz, of Westville, a member of the State advisory board, delivered the principal address, speaking on "Worth-While Endeavorers." Miss Edna M. Horner, district secretary, presided over the afternoon session, while in the evening County President Roscoe Tulis was in charge. Cumberland is being divided into local unions, five of these branches having been organized and are developing into strong, active departments.

The Junior Endeavorers of Bergen county assembled in the Fairmount Union chapel for the celebration of their annual spring rally. The affair was a splendid success and was greatly enjoyed by the three hundred delegates present. A unique missionary exercise by the juniors featured the program. Mrs. J. W. Goldsworth, of Leonia, the county junior superintendent, presided. The juniors of Fairmount chapel were awarded the attendance banner, although many of the other societies were represented by large delegations.

Part two of the special "County Convention Number," will be issued about June 24 and will include accounts of conventions of Hudson, Mercer, Morris, Atlantic, Essex and others.

LEHIGH VALLEY ISSUES AN ATTRACTIVE BOOKLET

The "Land O' Lakes and Mountains" described in the handsome folder just issued by the Lehigh Valley Railroad is a land of good fishing, delightful boating, healthful high altitudes and summer hotels and boarding-houses for the person with a moderate purse seeking a quiet vacation. The booklet has been gotten up on new lines. Pictures of places, the hotels and boarding-houses there, the bungalows and camps to be rented, and the rates are its main features.

Numerous attractive places in the hills of New Jersey, the mountains, and along the beautiful Susquehanna River in Pennsylvania, and the lake regions in New York are listed in the booklet, as are some of the trips to be made on the great lakes from Buffalo. An interesting feature also is a complete list of the reduced fare excursions the railroad will operate during the summer to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Mauch Chunk, Glen Onoko, Bellewood Park and other places.

Mrs. A. C. Laurence and son, of Madison avenue, have gone West to make a visit at the former home of Mrs. Laurence. Later they will be joined by Mr. Laurence after which they will visit the Panama Exposition, returning home in the fall.

MISS CLARA GANO RESIGNS POSITION

School Squabble at Millstone Adjusted by County Superintendent of Schools.

Miss Clara Gano, of Bound Brook, who has been teaching in the public school at Millstone and who has been the cause of a division in the School Board of that place, has brought the "quarrel" to an abrupt termination by resigning her position, making it possible for the Board to engage her successor. A decision was reached at a conference which H. C. Krebs had with the School Board following its inability to settle the dispute.

Two members of the School Board sought the removal of Miss Gano on the grounds that she was lax in her discipline of the older boys, while the third member of the Board stood by the teacher and wanted her engaged for another year. At first Miss Gano refused to resign.

At the final conference when Miss Gano and her friends saw that it would be useless to hold out any longer, the teacher announced her intention of quitting. Mr. Krebs, it is understood, will find another equally as good a position for Miss Gano. In speaking of the matter, Mr. Krebs said: "I have no fault to find with Miss Gano's work, in fact I have approved of her teaching, but it seems that she and the School Board have been unable to get along harmoniously and from the first I advised the teacher to retire, at the same time offering to place her elsewhere where she will be able to get along better." It is not known at present who will succeed Miss Gano at Millstone.

TWO POEMS BY REV. DR. STRONG

Pastor of First Baptist Church a Contributor to Well Known Magazines.

Notwithstanding a very busy and active pastorate at the First Baptist church, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong occasionally finds time to again take up literary work which for personal reasons he was obliged to relinquish about six years ago. In two well-known publications of current issue, there appears poems from the pen of Dr. Strong which have attracted widespread attention from a literary standpoint.

One poem, entitled "America," appears in The People's Home Journal, and is as follows:

We honor all who love the land,
Wherever it be, that gave them birth;
Our patriot zeal we understand
And own their loyal ardor's worth.

But ah, for us who look today
On older East or newer West,
On South or North—our glad hearts say,
This is the Land of Lands the best!

Here freedom holds her rightful place,
And labor meets its full reward;
Here waits a hope for every race,
While promise breathes from tree and sward.

And here though wrong indeed is found,
And evil still in darkness hides,
The good doth more and more abound,
And truth increasingly abides.

And God shall make this land of ours—
Such is our confidence and prayer—
One that by all its growing powers
Shall lead the world to ends more fair.

The other poem of a different vein entitled "She Answered Yes," appears in the current issue of Judge, and is as follows:

She answered Yes—oh, thrilling word!
Word I shall nevermore forget!
What boon that sweet reply conferred,
When love with equal love was met!

Full many a circling sun hath set
Since that fond scene of youth occurred.
She answered Yes—oh, thrilling word!
Word I shall nevermore forget!

Ah, how my deepest soul was stirred,
When I—the memory moves me yet
(You smile? No wonder)—overheard
My rival win the fair Jeannette—
She answered Yes—oh, thrilling word!
Word I shall nevermore forget!

MANY PLAINFIELDERS ATTEND CONVENTION

New Jersey Exempt Firemen Convene at Asbury Park for Session.

A delegation of fifty Plainfielders attended the annual convention of the New Jersey State Exempt Firemen's Association at Asbury Park, yesterday. Many of the 700 representatives from all parts of the State made the trip in a special train from Newark, and because this was delayed it was noon before the convention opened. It listened to addresses by Mayor Hetrick, of Asbury Park; a debate between an exponent of suffrage for women and an anti-suffragist, and sent a resolution to President Wilson indorsing his administration.

The election developed but one contest, that for the vice presidency, where the race was between Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth, and Louis W. Weinthal, of Hoboken, the latter winning. Heretofore there have been twelve vice presidents, one from each district, all of these officers, however, but one being eliminated in the action taken yesterday. All other officers were re-elected practically without contest, as follows: John Kennel, of Passaic, president; Horace G. Adams, of Plainfield, secretary; Nicholas Snyder, of Trenton, treasurer, and John J. O'Brien, of Hoboken, statistician.

The executive committee elected comprised Cornelius F. Kane, of Elizabeth, chairman; Dr. S. Treadwell, of Englewood; George Kimkle, of Bridgeton; Howard DeHart, of New Brunswick, and Patrick W. Walsh, of Phillipsburg; Charles P. Field, of Trenton; Tony Frylinck, of Passaic; James McDonald, of Harrison; E. J. Doremus, of East Orange, William Seniro, of Montclair; Solomon Isaacs, of West Hoboken, and Joseph Startup, of Jersey City.

A choice of the meeting place for next year was left with the executive committee, but it is thought that Asbury Park will be selected again, although Newark and Jersey City had many supporters of the invitations they sent the association.

The appointive officers were not named yesterday, but when this is done by the president within a few days it is a certainty that two Plainfielders will be renamed, V. W. Nash, Jr., as attorney for the association and Councilman Charles C. Graves as a member of the finance committee. The Plainfield delegation, with the exception of Chief T. O. Doane, who remained over to attend the G. A. R. encampment today, returned home early last evening.

Dresses for Holidaying--of Taffeta, Silk, Cotton--in Great Lower-Price Offering

FOR WOMEN--1,758 Taffeta and Silk Dresses at $8.50

These dresses duplicate the style, material and workmanship of dresses we have been selling until now for $13.50 to $18.75. And women know how remarkably good Wanamaker dresses of taffeta and other silks have been this season at these higher prices.

Besides the lowness of price this great purchase brings the added advantage of desirability—for taffeta dresses are most in demand now—at a premium in fact.

Twelve Styles of Taffeta Dresses

in the purchase. Four of charmeuse, crepe de chine, striped jap silk and polka dotted silk pongee.

For variety this collection contains everything a woman could desire for city, country or seashore. A great variety of all colors—popular navy blue and black predominating; there are combinations of colors—stripes and plaids are combined, effectively with plain colors.

"The Styles are the most Paris-like of all the moderate-priced dresses I have seen this season," said an expert. Coatee and eton-jacket effects, scalloped skirts, triple-flounce skirts, new Quaker collars—these but hint at their newness and correctness of style.

There are practically all sizes in every style—sizes start as low as 33 for small women and range up to 44.

Extra selling space has been provided on the enlarged Subway Aisle, New Building, in addition to the spacious Lower-Price Section for Women on the Subway floor, Old Building.

FOR YOUNG WOMEN--More Than 1,000 Summer Dresses at the Low Price of $2.50, $4, $5

Every dress new, and marked at a lower price than we have sold dresses of equal quality for this season. Sizes 14 to 20.

As low as $2.50 are good-looking cotton dresses of striped and checked voile. Variety of colors in stripes and checks. Some are duplicates of dresses we have in stock today at $3.50 and $4.25.

At $4—265 new dresses that we would sell regularly for $6 and more. Voile in colored figures, stripes and polka dots.

At $5—nearly 500 new dresses in at least 25 new and attractive styles. These are dresses we would sell regularly for $7.50 and $9.75. Voile in polka dots, checks, flowered, stripes and plain colors in linen. Some have the new smocking on hips and shoulders—an indication of their newness.

Subway floor, Old Building.

New Wash Skirts $1, $1.50, $1.75

Nearly a thousand at these special prices. Cordeline, linen, cotton, gabardine, ratine, beach cloth, rep and khaki.
Subway Aisle, New Building, and Subway floor, Old Building.

TRINITY JUNIORS ENJOY A FINE ENTERTAINMENT

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity church held a business meeting and entertainment in the church parlors yesterday afternoon. There were about sixty present including members and friends. Devotional exercises, led by Miss Lucy Coriell, assistant superintendent, preceded the business meeting after which all went out in front of the church and posed for a group picture.

The entertainment consisted of musical selections, recitations and two presentations. Miss Marian Stryker gave two piano solos after Miss Edith Coriell had recited a verse of welcome. Miss Dorothy Seader rendered a solo on the cornet and Miss Ophelia Judson recited. Miss Mabel Bodine and Earl Wyman also entertained with a recitation.

During the afternoon Miss Coriell presented two pins for attendance and general helpfulness. They were awarded to Miss Mabel Bodine and Edgar Seader. Refreshments were. Miss Florence Martinis, superintendent, was present and she and Miss Coriell were assisted by the Misses Anna Zimmer and Elsie Dunavan.

GRAND CHAPTER HOLDS ANNUAL SESSION HERE

Following a two days' session of the Grand Chapter, Order Eastern Star, colored, the delegates from all parts of the State, returned to their homes last night. The session began on Tuesday and was generally occupied with business matters and the reception of reports from the various officers. Mrs. Louis Berry, of Jersey City, most worthy grand matron, who was re-elected, presided at all the meetings, which were held in the Masonic Hall on St. Mary's avenue. Members of the colored Masonic bodies of this city attended as guests.

The visiting delegates were given a reception on Tuesday evening and yesterday's session was marked by a memorial service for Mrs. Charles Hurling, of this city, who prior to her death was an active member of Rebecca Chapter, of this city, which entertained the visitors. The next meeting will be held at Cape May.

MISS SARA CURRY TELLS OF FRESH AIR WORK

Miss Sarah Curry, of New York, who is matron of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home every summer, made an interesting address at the midweek service at Trinity Reformed church last night. Miss Curry has a home for children in New York and every summer brings them to this city for a vacation. She spoke regarding her work both in the city and here.

Clifford A. Braider and J. D. Loizeaux, of this city, who are interested in the work, also spoke regarding it.

CHANGE IN TIME.

Next Sunday the Sunday-school service of the Grace M. E. church will be held in the morning at 9:15 o'clock, and will continue at that hour during the summer months. The morning preaching service will begin at 11 o'clock. The subject of the pastor for the evening service is "The Great Mastership."

GREAT-GREAT NIECE OF WASHINGTON AT EXHIBIT

Following the Jonas Lie exhibit of painting which was held at the "Rookery," on Sycamore street, Miss Edith VonBoskerck, of this city, has prepared a "garden show" which will be open to the public for a number of days. The exhibit contains Italian garden arrangements with sun dials, bird baths and fountains from Carolyn Peddel Ball and statuettes from Miss Eberle. The place is made additionally attractive by the reproduction of Greek and Italian seats and various garden ornaments. Clever examples of modern decorations are shown and prepared by Mrs. Lemuel W Serrell.

The show opened Tuesday and was well attended. During the exhibition, Mrs. Fannie Washington Piper, of Virginia, and great-great niece of George Washington, entertained the visitors with a recitation, "An Hour on the Plantation." She was accompanied by a banjo selection.

COMPLETED HER COLLEGE COURSE AFTER 27 YEARS

Swarthmore, Pa., June 17.—After 27 years, Mrs. Rebecca Webb Holmes, wife of Dr. Jesse Holmes, a Swarthmore College professor, completed her college course and was graduated yesterday. She first entered Swarthmore in 1885, but illness forced her to give up her studies. Mixing studies with household duties and the raising of two sons, Mrs. Holmes has persevered for the last two years. She spent hours in the classrooms with girls who had not been born when she gave up her studies. Many of her former classmates returned for the commencement, and in the reunion, Mrs. Holmes took her rightful place as a full-fledged graduate.

P. Duelos VanMater, of Myrtle avenue, is detained at his home for a few days suffering from an attack of laryngitis. He has been sick for the past three days but will probably be well enough to graduate with the North Plainfield High School senior class, of which he is a member, next Thursday night.

Plainfield, N. J., June 17, 1915.

LOOKING BACK A CENTURY.

In the ordinary course of events the newspapers of yesterday chronicled the fact that Bennett Brittin, Plainfield's most remarkable man, was celebrating his one hundred and second birthday.

Just think what it means in this age of hurry and competition to find a personage, still robust and actively watching human progress with its fads and fallacies, its turmoil and torment, its beliefs and mis-beliefs, linking us up with the dim and distant past that is now revealed to us only through history's pages. Remarkable hardly describes it. In reality it is a wonder, and by looking backward in a chronological glass the truth becomes fully known.

When Bennett Brittin first saw the light of day on June 16, 1813, at Paterson, the new nation was still struggling to gain a foothold against the onslaughts of Great Britain and his parents and friends had not ceased lamenting the death of the great Washington. Three months after he made his debut into the world Perry won his great victory on Lake Erie, elevating himself as a national hero and being lauded in song and story. Messengers on horseback brought the news to little old New York many days later, as there was no telegraph or telephone to flash the tidings brodcast over the land. In striking contrast with the slowness of transmission in those days in the manner in which the giant liner "Lusitania's" fate was given to the world on May 7 last. Because of facilities to get news to distant points, two years after baby Brittin's birth the battle of New Orleans was unnecessarily fought, peace having been declared weeks before. Think of such a thing occuring now!

When the little Brittin was only six years old the first steamship crossed the Atlantic Ocean in thirty days, a record which caused the staid old colonists to shake their heads and say the people were traveling too fast. The marine monsters of the present make the same journey in less than five days.

The Monroe Doctrine has been foremost in the minds of the American people many times in the past few years and what we know of it comes only through its perusal. Bennett Brittin, however, was ten years old when it was drafted and he can still tell you with a gleam in his eye and a lowering of his brows how his elders chuckled over it and jokingly announced that no body on the other side of the water was going to bother anybody on this side any more. At the age of fifteen, Bennett heard of the world's first railroad and the marvelous engines that were propelled by steam and hauled as many as fifty people at a time at the rate of ten miles an hour. The same old people who shook their heads dubiously when the first steamer crossed the Atlantic said they could not understand what the world was coming to but as far as they were concerned the stage coach and horses would supply all their traveling needs.

More wonders were in store for the youthful Brittin in 1835 when Samuel F. B. Morse announced to the world that he had invented the telegraph, and in 1846 when the first sewing machine came from the hands of the genius Howe. Young Brittin was playing "Hi Spy" and "Witch's Revenge" with his home-spun clad companions in 1819 when Victoria Guelph was born and was a dashing young swain when England's wonderful ruler acceeded to the throne in 1837.

In rapid succession the young Patersonian saw the annexation of Texas in 1845, the declaration of war against Mexico in 1846, the memorable gold rush to California in 1849, the first Atlantic cable message in 1857, and then the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861. He was then forty-eight years old and beyond the age of what is now considered fighting time but nevertheless he offered himself for service in the northern army and served with distinction. The dark days of the Rebellion are still clear and defined in the minds of many Plainfielders and the stirring events and wonderful discoveries that have come after them, but it remains for Bennett Brittin alone to take us back to the slow and methodical periods we have mentioned. The electric light, the telephone, the trolley car, the phonograph, the wireless, moving pictures, automobiles and aeroplanes are all things that have crowded themselves into his wonderful life and still he is with us waiting to see what will happen next.

Speaking in a retrospective vein he asserts that many things in the past have astonished him, but now that men are fighting in the skies and under the seas he is prepared to accept any innovation as a matter of course and refuses to be impressed. From 1915 to 1813 is a long way but Bennett Brittin takes us there and we say in conclusion that a secondary consideration of his wonderful years firmly convinces us that he is Plainfield's most remarkable man.

The Public Recreation Committee has made an appeal for a second hand billiard table for use in connection with its splendid work at the Washington School. Of course they would not object if some kind-hearted citizen buys a new one, but an old table will do. That the placing of such amusement devices in the public schools is not an unusual request is learned from a recent bulletin of the Bureau of Education of the Department of the Interior, which states that Milwaukee has installed twenty-five of the finest type of pool and billiard tables in its public school buildings.

The Camden Post Telegram disputes the statements of the Daily Press that Atlantic county is one which is notorious because of the way in which the laws are broken. Well if it has reformed in the last few months, it has been no fault of the Mayor, whose belief in a wide open city is well known. Certainly no city in New Jersey has been more disreputable in the recent past than has Atlantic City.

A Trenton firm building a number of houses and developing one section of that city, offers a prize to people who best keep up and beautify their yards. A similar offer by one of the local civic bodies might be effective in improving conditions in some parts of Plainfield.

No, gentle reader, you need not remain home from a seashore resort for fear of being bombarded by Zeppelins or warships, in case we get into difficulties with Germany. The Germans are too busy elsewhere to bother about attacking the United States.

Ideal principles for every day use are to be presented in the contributed editorial on Saturday. The writer is one of the well known younger men of the city, and he presents a most interesting story.

IN "THE GOOD OLD DAYS"

information was received that two of our members were engaged in dancing immediately after the dismissal of a singing school for sacred music, whereupon Ephraim Coriell and John Layton were appointed a committee to wait on those members.

"At the following meeting the committee reported: That they had visited the members referred to at the last meeting and reasoned with them on the impropriety of their conduct, but they gave no evidence of repentance. It appears that there were two offending members, so at this meeting four elders were appointed to deal with the young men, two to visit each one. The next meeting occurred on April 28, and the committee appointed at the previous meeting reported that they had attended to the duties assigned to them, and conversed freely and seriously with the young men of the injury of their conduct to the cause of Christ and their own growth in grace. They acknowledged the charge of dancing, but gave no evidence of repentance. They were thereupon cited to appear before the Session at the home of Mr. Layton to answer the charge preferred against them by common fame.

"A citation to appear was served upon the young men and they came before the Session to answer the charge of 'un-Christian conduct in attending a dancing school, and also of frequently dancing after the close of the singing school for sacred music.' The young men seem to have been impressed when confronted by the whole Session, but still gave no 'satisfactory evidence of repentance,' and in consequence it was voted to call another meeting before taking action. At this subsequent meeting one of the younger men appeared and confessed his error and promised amendment; the other also appeared but gave no evidence of repentance, and he was thereupon, after a solemn address by the pastor, suspended from the communion of the church.

"The question of dancing seems to have been more or less troublesome all through those days, as it has been at present, for in the minutes of a meeting of the Session in November, 1871, we find this entry: 'The attention of the Session was called by Elder Leeson to the subject of dancing as having a bad effect upon the minds of our young people. No action was taken, but the sense of the Session was against this as a practice for Christians.'

"It would seem also as if in those days the church was more zealous of its members. At a meeting July 28, 1852, a man and wife were cited to appear before the Session to answer 'in regard to their conduct in absenting themselves from the communion of the Lord's Supper and not attending the means of grace through the week.' They did not appear in response to the citation and later in the same year 'they were suspended from the communion of the church until they gave evidence of repentance.'"

SCHOOL POOL OPEN TO PUBLIC

rooms.

All that is necessary to obtain a reservation of a class hour is for a group of people to associate themselves together and appoint one member to act in their behalf, or one person may form a group of his friends. This person may then obtain reservation of a class hour on application to Ralph S. Patch, High School (telephone 2361), who will have charge of the pool during the summer. Reservations may be made for one period or for the same period for a succession of weeks, as may be desired by applicants. Payments must be made in advance.

Women will use suits similar to those used by the girls in the High School classes—a one-piece suit of very light weight. Suits will be obtained by Mr. Patch for those who desire, the cost being 93c for suit and rubber cap. Requests should be made a few days in advance and should be accompanied by the money and the size of suit desired. Men will follow the universal Y. M. C. A. custom and use no suits. Bathers will bring their own towels.

The plans for preserving the hygiene of the pool have been approved by high authorities as unusually good, while frequent inspection of the pool by the Board of Health and analysis of samples of the water by the State chemist show that the pool is absolutely safe hygienically. The water is constantly running through the filter and is emptied at regular intervals.

The pool will be constantly under the care of an attendant who is an expert swimmer, and while his purpose is to watch the bathers and secure their safety, at times when there are few persons in the pool he will give what assistance is possible in teaching beginners to swim.

The pool will open to the public July 6, but applications for reservation of class periods may be made at once. Reservations will be made for forenoon, afternoon or evening, and to suit the desires of applicants as far as circumstances will permit.

TAYLOR ESTATE WILL DISPOSE OF TWENTY LOTS

By order of the estate of George Taylor, deceased, there will be an auction sale of Plainfield lots Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. These lots, twenty in all, located on the east side of DeKalb avenue, running from Myrtle to Bradford avenues, the entire block front, will be sold by Bryan L. Kennelly for the estate.

The lots will be sold separately and it is announced that 60 per cent. of the purchase price may remain on mortgage. The sale will be held rain or shine.

MISS JEANETTE NEAL TO TEACH IN CRANFORD

At a meeting of the Cranford Board of Education, last night, Miss Jeannette Neal, of this city, was engaged to teach the Second grade of the Sherman School next year. Miss Neal is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Neal, of West Front street, and is a graduate of the Plainfield High School class of 1911. Following the completion of her High School course, the young woman took up teaching in the Montclair Normal School, receiving her diploma from that institution two years later. For the past two years Miss Neal has been teaching school.

PLAINFIELDERS COMPETE FOR ENTRANCE TO PRINCETON

Preliminary and final entrance examinations to Princeton University opened at the Newark Academy yesterday morning. Forty candidates from preparatory schools in that city and vicinity took the tests. The examinations will be continued for four days. Professor K. H. Condit and B. F. Howell, of Princeton, are in charge. Candidates taking the examination were present from Central High, Barringer High, South Side High, of Newark; East Orange High, Columbia High, of South Orange; Carteret Academy, of Montclair, and schools in Chatham, Summit and Plainfield.

Professor Howell said that Princeton will probably draw more new students from the examination district of which Newark is the centre, than any other except New York and Philadelphia. The examinations are being conducted in 112 cities throughout the country. The results will be announced later.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Camp and Conference Club will meet at the association tonight to complete plans for the Japanese lawn fete to be conducted on the rear lawn of the association on June 22.

The opening of the summer Bible season will be held tonight and all who wish to join the class are requested to register their names at once.

ATTENDED SISTER'S FUNERAL.

U. B. Crane, of East Second street, attended the funeral service of his sister, Mrs. Sarah Eagle, held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Mill Brook M. E. church, Dover. She was over seventy years of age and up to a short time ago enjoyed good health. Her last illness was caused by a stroke of paralysis.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

If you want to get away from your troubles and enjoy a hearty laugh as of course you do these hot days, the proper place for you to go is the Plainfield Airdome, at Front street and Watchung avenue. With nothing for the canopy but the heaven above and cool breezes circulating everywhere you can sit in comfort and enjoy the very latest and best motion picture productions of the day. The place is convenient to people in Plainfield and vicinity as all car lines pass the door. Refreshments are on sale on the premises and accommodations have also been made for those who enjoy a smoke.

David Belasco's masterpiece, "The Warrens of Virginia," was shown at the Airdome last night to the great satisfaction of a large audience. It will be repeated tonight with several other feature productions. For tomorrow night and also Saturday night Manager Shannon announces the first screen appearance in Plainfield of Miss Gaby Deslys, the great French actress in her original scenario "Her Triumph." Very few local theatregoers have had a chance to see this talented performer and the presentation at the airdome supplies the want. She is supported by a specially selected company and no expense has been spared in making the film one of those kind that the people want and never fail to appreciate. There is an absorbing and fascinating story in "Her Triumph" which will linger long in memories of those who see t.

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights are Chaplin nights at the Airdome and on these evenings the latest Charlie Chaplin comedies are displayed. Keep the dates in mind and bring the children.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Nance O'Neil, the stage's most versatile and accomplished emotional actress, is offered in the picturization of Victorian Sardou's tragic romance of Russian life, "Fedora," at Proctor's Theatre tomorrow, under the title of "The Princess Romanoff."

Great as was her success in the William Fox production "The Kreutzer Sonata," in "The Princess Romanoff" Miss O'Neill is said to have surpassed all previous records, and to have achieved a new standard in emotional characterization. The story of "Princess Romanoff" is one that grips and holds the interest from the very start. The typical Russian settings, the mid-winter atmosphere, and the brilliant costumings that mark the production all go to make it one of the most enthralling pictures ever produced.

Miss O'Neil is cast as Princess Fedora Romanoff, a wealthy and beautiful young widow of Petrograd. She is betrothed to Vladimir Boroff, a young man of high social position in the Russian capital and son of the Russian perfect of police. On the eve of their wedding Boroff is murdered by the husband of the woman he had betrayed. The Princess Fedora transformed by the tragedy from a gentle loving woman into a veritable tigress vows vengeance on the murderer and devotes her life to the punishment of the unknown slayer.

To accomplish this she follows Loris Ipanoff, upon whom suspicion has fallen, to America. In Washington she gains his friendship and confidence and wrings from him an admission of his guilt. Despite the fact that she has become in love with Ipanoff, she will not permit her vengeance to be altered and sends the fatal telegram to Petrograd which denounces him as the murderer. The wheels of "Russian justice" are set into operation and Ipanoff's mother and brother are arrested and condemned to Siberia while their property is confiscated. In the meantime Boroff has sent his emissaries to America with secret instructions to Princess Fedora for Ipanoff's execution. Having denied admission to her despite his repeated efforts to tell her the whole story of the duel and Boroff's perfidity, the princess suddenly summons him to her apartment, notifying at the same time the emissaries to be ready that night. Ipanoff tells her the whole story which completely alters her desire for vengeance. She saves him from the men sent to kill him and cables the Petrograd police that it was all a terrible mistake.

SPORTING NOTES

Charles White, the Chcago lightweight, who has been cleaning up all comers around Boston, is slated for a chance at Freddie Welsh.

A municipal ball park at Evansville, Ind., is being dedicated this week. It is the first of its kind in the professional circuits.

Despite the call of the war for horses and men, Canadian horsemen are making a great showing at Connaught Park, Ottawa, where racing began yesterday.

From the wilds of Chelsea comes the defi of Sandy Ferguson, who wants to get a come-back chance with Jim Coffey. Who'd take a chance?

For motorboat speeding, the coming regatta at Hannibal, Mo., should be a corker. Some of the fleetest are already entered for the river meet.

The Pacific coast tennis championships will begin at the Frisco Exposition on Saturday. Some of the notables from that section are entered.

The second qualifying round at Baltusrol in the national open golf championships is under way today, and the finals should be reached tomorrow.

William Webb, of Sydney, former world's champion sculler, is matched to row Pat Hannan in a three-mile race for $1,000 a side in September.

Norman Taber, the former Brown University sprinter, has begun training in England, where he is a Rhodes scholar, and will try to lower the mile mark of 4:14-2-5 made by John Paul Jones a few years ago, in the coming races at Frisco.

The South Atlantic League will close its season on July 20, on account of poor attendance. All the clubs are reported to be heavy losers, and the squads have been cut down to eleven men.

The Grand Circuit stakes and purses total $425,000 this year. Cleveland gets the opening meet, beginning July 19.

Lee Meadows, who pitches baseball for the Cardinals, cannot go on the mound without his eye-glasses. His specs are unique in the major leagues.

ELKS' ALLEY TOURNEY DRAWING TO A CLOSE

The final games of the Elks' two-man bowling tourney, which has been in action since the first part of May, are scheduled to be rolled tomorrow night, three series being on the list. There will probably be several postponed matches which will necessitate playing next week. The teams that are scheduled to roll tomorrow night are: Blatz-Firstbrook vs. Waldorf-Hill, Woolston-McCullough vs. Causbrook-McVoy, and Nash, Jr.-Zink vs. Woolston-McCullough.

The team composed of W. R. Causbrook and P. McVoy hold the top rung in the standing of the teams and stand a good chance of winning first honors. They have lost but three games to date with a dozen victories.

MARTY O'LOUGHLIN FAILS TO QUALIFY

Plainfield Country Club "Pro" Returned a Card of 84 in National Open.

Marty O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club, withdrew after the eighteenth hole in the qualifying round of the national open golf championship tourney which is being played on the Baltusrol course. In the first round, 18 holes, he returned a card of 84, going out in 38 and returning in 46. E. K. McCarthy, formerly of this city, but now of Jacksonville, Fla., returned a card of 157 and qualified for the first round. A. J. Conway, of Westfield, failed to qualify, with a card of 89, 86-185.

CLIFF RANDOLPH SIGNS WITH DOVER AGGREGATION

"Cliff" Randolph, of this city, has signed to play with the Dover club, of the Tri-County League, Saturday afternoons during the summer. Several former big league players have been signed up by the Dover manager, who is trying to get a team together that will make some sort of a showing in the league. There are three other teams in the circuit. Harry Smith, until recently manager of the Newark Indians, of the International League, will catch and will probably work with Randolph. "Cliff" pitches Sunday ball for the Perth Amboy club.

There are several other players well known in this city that play in the Tri-County League. They are "Bill" Stallings, "Red" Grimes, "Jimmy" Clinton and "Wally" Cosgrove, one time captain of the Plainfield team.

SPORT BRIEFS

Metropolitan title holder extended to limit to defeat Brassford and Graves in Metropolitan championship tennis singles at Bronxville.

Brooklyn Handicap to be run at Aqueduct June 26 to be mile and an eighth instead of the old distance of one mile and a quarter.

Repeated defeats by juniors causes shakeup in Pennsylvania varsity eight.

New Eastern Connecticut Baseball League to be formed. Meeting of organizers to be held tomorrow.

Wrestling at Manhattan Opera House tonight.

Boston Red Sox buy Pitcher McCabe from Lewiston, of the New England League.

Yale crews given light practice by Coach Nickalls.

Eastern crews may row University of Washington at Shriners convention at Seattle, July 15 to 17.

Al Reich, of New York, knocked out Al Norton, of Los Angeles, in two rounds, at Kansas City last night.

Alfred Goulet, of Australia, won one mile national championship sprint at Newark Velodrome last night. Kramer finished fourth.

Tournament play starts today for open golf championship title at Baltusrol.

LEAGUE SEEKS RANDOLPH TO TAKE TWO MEN'S PLACES

"Cliff" Randolph, of this city, has received offers from the Springfield (Mass.) team of the Colonial League, a new circuit recently launched, which is allied with the Federal League. The Springfield team is in last position in the league at the present time and is badly in need of pitchers. The manager released two twirlers yesterday and is now looking for one good man to take their place.

Randolph will talk it over with the Springfield manager and if there is enough money in the offer will probably join the club.

MISS EDNA WILDEY TAKES GOLF FEATURE

Local Woman First in Approaching and Putting Contest at P. C. C.

In the approaching and putting contest held at the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday afternoon, in connection with the women's one-day tourney under the auspices of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, won first honors with a score of 8. Miss Wildey made two beautiful twelve-foot putts which practically gave her the victory.

Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, of this city, was one of three to tie for second place with a 9. The others were Mrs. H. D. Drowns and Mrs. Strickland. There was no prize offered for second place so the tie was not played off.

From five to eight large seabass apiece were caught by a quintet of anglers at the Cholera Banks. Many small bass and ling were taken also.

Five black bass, weighing from two to three and a half pounds and all of them small-mouth, were caught at Longwood yesterday in one hour.

More goods news from Raritan Bay. One angler hooked and landed a good-sized weakfish and more than 300 more were taken in the nets yesterday. The fish was caught on shedder crab bait.

A host of fresh-water anglers were out on the lakes for the opening of the bass season Tuesday. Good catches were made, and in many instances the full quota of six bass was taken. Down at Weequahic Park the biggest crowd gathered in the afternoon, but were driven in early by the storm. Every boat was out at Branch Brook Park. The fish apparently were in biting mood, for they took worms, frogs, spinners and live bait. The biggest bass of the day was a three-and-a-half-pound Oswego, which was caught on a spoon.

NETHERWOODS ANNOUNCE ROSTER OF CITY LEAGUERS

Manager "Ed" Coughlin, of the Netherwood baseball team, has submitted a list of players who are to represent the East End club in the City Baseball League which starts Saturday afternoon. Those who will play are Marin Terry, Otto Frederickson, Moran, Stewart, W. Brick, Venizio, V. Terry, Smith, J. Frederckson, M. Couhglin, E. Coughlin, Monroe Terry, W. Clark, Anderson and W. Dodd.

Brit Martin, leader of the Saurer team, present holders of the city title, announced this morning that Tommy Mullin will be placed on his roster in place of Jack Martin. Mullin will probably play the shortstop position.

MANAGERS AND MOGULS ARE UNEASY; BASEBALL SEEMS IN POOR HEALTH

Club owners and moguls throughout the country are expressing displeasure at the present poor spirits of the national pastime. The game financially is in a very low state of vitality and the attendance this season so far has been poor. This is due largely to the many other interests the public has incident to the war in Europe. Some have hinted that should things grow worse the ball parks would be obliged to close.

PRESENCE OF MIND PREVENTED ACCIDENT

Auto Truck Driver Swings Vehicle Into Ditch to Save It From Destruction.

Presence of mind on the part of Charles Meyer, driver of a Castle ice cream auto truck, saved himself and vehicle from probable destruction at the Plainfield avenue crossing of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at South Plainfield, Tuesday night. He was about to cross the tracks on his way to this city and in the gathering dusk did not notice that the gates were down for an approaching express. He was unable to stop his truck and taking a desperate chance in preference to crashing through the wooden barrier and landing in front of the oncoming train he swung sharply to the right and plunged into a ditch. A companion who was riding with him jumped to safety as the turn was made.

The big truck sank deep into the soft ground and brought up with a jerk, throwing Meyer into the roadway. Witnesses who ran to his assistance found that he was unhurt and also that the auto had escaped damage. It was pulled back to the meadam by a team of horses looned by the Hand Storage Company, of this city. Meyer lives in Newark.

FATE OF FRANK IS IN HANDS OF GOVERNOR

Will Give Final Decision in Case Tomorrow or Saturday.

Atlanta, Ga., June 17—Whether Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary Pragan, shall die on the gallows or pass the remainder of his life in a Georgia convict camp now rests with Gov. Slaton, of Georgia.

Ex-Representative W. M. Howard closed his argument for commutation of the death sentence after having spoken more than a day and a half. Solicitor Hugh Dorsey said that he would not make an additional argument against commutation and Gov. Slaton announced the hearing closed.

The Governor said that he would announce his decision as specedily as possible. It is believed that he will make known his decision by Saturday morning at the latest and possibly tomorrow.

Frank is sentenced to be hanged next Tuesday. During the afternoon session several girls and young women appeared for the first time.

FORD NOW PLANS TO BUILD MODEL TOWN OF 1,000 ACRES

Detroit, June 17.—Vice President Couzens, of the Ford Motor Company, officially confirmed the report this afternoon that the company has taken options on 1,000 acres in the Detroit outskirts for the purpose of building a blast furnace and tractor factory, and also to provide sites for workmens homes. A model town is the ambition of Mr. Ford in connection with the mammoth venture, where it is proposed to house 20,000 men to whom the plant will give employment within two or three years, if the plan carries. The new works will have an annual capacity of one million tractor engines built to pull plows and do other farm work.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

The strawberry festival to be given tomorrow afternoon and night on the grounds of the Netherwood Reformed church promises to be a most enjoyable affair and the committee in charge has arranged some tempting delicacies to offer the patrons. The affair is in charge of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church.

SHOOTS WOMAN AND SELF.

New York, June 17.—A burglar entered the home of Mrs. Barbara Cornelius early today and when the dog gave the alarm he fired three bullets into the woman's body. Evidently becoming panic-stricken the intruder then turned the weapon on himself and committed suicide.

LIMIT ON BOOZE.

Montgomery, Ala., June 17.—The anti-liquor shipping law was held constitutional by the Alabama Supreme Court in a decision handed down today. The law restricts the amount of liquor which can be shipped to any one person.

ANOTHER CHICAGO STRIKE.

Chicago, June 17.—Mayor Thompson will attempt to adjust the strike in the building trades here as a result of which 150,000 men are idle.

W. W. Meyers, of Watchung avenue, has gone to Pennaquid Point, Maine, where he will spend the summer.

A Galley o' Fun!

HE LOVED HER.

He loved her. There was no doubt about that. Anyone could have told that by the way he looked at her. There was no doubt about the joy and pride which was his now that he had her for his own. He had sought her—O, how vigilantly he had sought her, and how long! The thought of parting with her was bitter to him—O, how bitter! She was good; there was no doubt about that. She was fair—What? At any rate she would pass, and that was all that was necessary. She was precious, she was worth her weight in gold. No wonder he adored her and cherished her—the Goddess of Liberty on an American Dollar.

THE THREE FISHERS.

Three fishers went tramping away to the west,
Away to the west as the sun went down.
Each thought of all fishermen he was the best,—
Each thought of the fish he'd bring back to the town.
For men will fish and women must wait,
Though the bait be good and they stay out late.
Then Ho for the calm waters lying!

Three fishers came wandering back to the town.
Back home to the town in the morning light.
Each one, disappointed, is wearing a frown,
For they haven't caught any though one had a bite;
And the few that they carry of boys have been bought;
But think of the big ones they almost might have caught,
And hark to the three fishers lying!

THOSE OLD LEGENDS.

"Beautiful view here from the veranda."

"Beautiful!"

"This is a most picturesque old resort."

"O, very!"

"And the fall foliage is beautiful."

"Beautiful."

"You have been here before, I presume?"

"We come up every year."

"There must be some legends connected with this delightfully quaint old place."

"There are."

"Won't you tell us the stories of some of them?"

"Well, that fat woman yonder says her husband is a rich broker; that tall woman says she comes here because she's tired of London and Paris; and that thin girl, the one with the undecided nose, says she's worried to death because her parents want her to marry a dissipated and impecunious duke."

THE INCUMBRANCE.

City Chap.—Own this place, clear Suburbanite. — There's a $2,000 automobile on it.

AND SHE COULDN'T.

She was a blonde, and he had always dreamed that the one woman would be a brunette. She was only eighteen, and he had always thought of his ideal as being about twenty three. She had told him that she knew nothing of cooking and he had always said that his bride-to-be must know this art. And yet, as they sat together in the hammock on that moonlit evening, he could not deny but that there was something about this little girl that drew her to him.

LITERATURE.

Willis.—Do you think our young people are losing their taste for literature?

Gillis.—Gracious, no! You ought to see those kids of mine fight for the comic supplement every Sunday.

THE HELPING HAND.

The Married Man.—I tell you, it's when a man falls into misfortune that he appreciates a woman.

The Single Man.—You bet! It must be a handy thing sometimes to put all your property in your wife's name.

HIS SENTIMENTS.

(Before buying a car.)

Great Scott! but they're reckless—these chauffeurs, you know.
It isn't, Lord knows, that we need laws;
But hanging a couple of dozen or so
Would teach 'em respect for the speed laws.

(After buying one.)

Hey, Hit 'er up, chauffeur; this pace is too slow.
It isn't the fashion to heed laws!
So pull 'er wide open and let the thing go.
What's that? O, the deuce with the speed laws!

OLD RESIDENTER'S WORDS COME TRUE

Told Harry DeMeza Snakes Travel in Pairs and Now He Knows It's So.

Somewhere in the bushes near the fifth tee of the Park Golf links there reposes a golf ball worth $1.25 that is going to stay there so far as William Taylor, the owner, is concerned. All the money in the world would not tempt him to delve into the underbrush as he did this morning, after he had driven the gutta-percha into a thicket in the course of a round with Harry G. DeMeza as his opponent.

The two players began looking for the ball after it had disappeared when Taylor suddenly noticed a big copperhead snake directly in front of him. Although badly startled he had the presence of mind to strike at the reptile with his brassie, crippling it so that a couple of more blows sufficed to kill it. DeMeza has an antipathy for snakes that is notorious and hesitated looking any further.

"You know, Bill," said he, "an old residenter up at Swartswood Lake told me that where there is one snake you will always find another."

The Front street haberdasher had hardly spoken when he emitted a yell and started striking frantically with his niblick. Taylor looked around and saw him battling with a three and a half foot copperhead, evidently the mate of the one just previously killed. He jumped to DeMeza's assistance and the second reptile was placed hors de combat. No sooner did they decide that life was extinct than both by mutual consent beat a hasty retreat to the open course, caring not whether the golf ball lived or died. DeMeza was badly unstrung by the ordeal and quit playing for the morning.

The fact that copperhead snakes have gotten so near to frequented places is a source of wonderment to many local people, this class of reptiles as a rule preferring a high mountain or rocky places. Several have been killed in North Plainfield within the past few weeks, indicating that something is driving them to grass fields and meadows.

MISS JULIA V. ROWLEY HAS A UNIQUE RECORD

One of the members of the graduating class of North Plainfield High School has made a record during her school career that has seldom been equalled. Miss Julia V. Rowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowley, of Grove street, has not missed one day of school and has not been late once during the last eleven years of her schooldays. Going back that number of years, provided she was advanced regularly every year, would take Miss Rowley to the Second grade where she hopefully started to make this record which is now almost a realization as there are only five more days of school in this year.

From the second grade to her senior year in High School, Miss Rowley has taken her place daily at her desk and answered present to the roll call, never having had to ask her parents for a single excuse for absence or tardiness. Although she lives only a short distance from the school building the record is a unique one nevertheless.

From the lowest grades Miss Rowley has been enthusiastic about her school work and has also become a talented pianist. She has presided at the piano at High School functions, including chapel every morning and singing practice once a week, for the past two years, which may partly account for her lack of tardy marks during that time.

Next week, Thursday, Miss Rowley will be graduated from the borough institution in the classical course and during her four years there, as well as in the grades, her work has always been entirely satisfactory. She is one of the most popular young women of the borough. In September she will enter Syracuse University where she will take a course in music.

ROYAL COUNCIL ELECTS.

Royal Council, No. 77, O. U. A. M., elected the following officers at its meeting last night: Senior Ex-Councilor, Arthur T. Stryker; councilor, I. N. Wyckoff; vice-councilor, Fred Welsh; recording secretary, John G. Bicknell; financial secretary, Guy Thomas; treasurer, L. C. R. Dunham; inside protector, Edward Rowland; outside protector, Fred L. Soper; inductor, Fred Knights; trustee for three years, Fred Welsh; representatives to State Council, Guy Thomas and Fred Welsh. The installation ceremonies will be held on July 7 at which time a special program will be given.

CHANGE ON WESTFIELD LINKS.

The trustees of the Westfield Golf Club have announced to the membership that there will be something definite to say later about the new holes to be put in. The financial problems which the club has had to face for some time are being disposed of in a promising way. Only a few vacancies remain on the membership list.

ANCHOR LODGE F. AND A. M. MAY LAY CORNERSTONE

Efforts are being made by Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., to secure permission to lay the cornerstone of the new postoffice building on Watchung avenue, when the proper time arrives for this ceremony. Through Charles Gilpin, the contractor in charge of the construction work, the local lodge has communicated with the Treasury Department at Washington, and a reply has just been received from H. G. Sherwood, acting executive officer.

The Federal authorities have requested the officers of Anchor Lodge to forward a written application for such authorization, which will be considered by the Department. A copy of the regulations governing such an observance have been submitted to the lodge and should the permission be forthcoming these will be followed.

BATTLESHIP LEAVES TO GUARD CITIZENS IN MEXICO

Washington, June 17.—The battleship Colorado, with an expeditionary force of marines and bluejackets on board, will leave San Diego today for Tobari Bay, to be prepared to protect Americans in danger of attacks from Yaqui Indians, in the Yaqui Valley of Mexico.

"Intervention" or "invasion" in Mexico is not contemplated, and cannot be constructed from the orders given to Admiral Howard to take 600 marines and bluejackets into Mexico near Guaymas to rescue the American colony threatened by the uprising, it was officially declared today.

High officials stated that the orders to Howard could not be regarded as being a change in the Administration's "hands off" Mexican policy, not even as a step toward armed intervention.

It was pointed out that similar orders were given three weeks ago, when the Yaquis went on the warpath against the same colony of American and other foreign ranchers, but that revolt was subdued by Mexican soldiers without the aid of American naval forces. At that time Gen. Maytorena, Villista's commander, welcomed co-operation of the American forces and promised to work with any marines who should be landed.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

Many accessions in membership are reported at the First Baptist church where a quiet, but quite remarkable work is in progress. A number are being received by letter and by baptism. The service last evening was marked by earnestness and at the close four persons presented themselves for baptism. One of the features of this work is the fact that among those uniting with the church are a number of boys and the activity they are displaying in bringing other boys into the church.

SERVED ICE CREAM.

Two thousand patrons of Proctor's Theatre, who attended the performances yesterday afternoon and night, enjoyed one of the most pleasing and unique treats ever given to local theatregoers. Each and every one was presented with a heaping plate of Ritz's ice cream, the delicacy being served by the young women ushers while the audiences were listening to a musical program provided by the Proctor Symphony Orchestra. The treat was absolutely a gratuitous one from the management and that it was fully appreciated was evidenced by the scores of complimentary remarks made to Manager H. S. Sanderson.

MRS. M. M. SCUDDER DEAD.

Westfield, June 17.—Mrs. Julia Scudder, wife of former County Tax Commissioner Mulford H. Scudder, died yesterday at her home here in her forty-eighth year. She was a native of Boonton, but had resided in Westfield over twenty years. Beside her husband she leaves a daughter Mrs. Frank Irving, of Prospect street, and a son, George Davis, by her first marriage. He is in the United States navy.

PLAN EXTENSIVE REPAIRS.

Owing to extensive repairs to be made in the art gallery of the Public Library, the former will be closed during the summer months. The board of directors of the institution have made plans to combine two large rooms for the various articles, instead of three as at present. All the paintings will be in one room while the curios will occupy the other.

DEATH OF CATHOLIC SISTER.

Sister Anselm Kiernan, who was connected with the sisterhood of the Trenton diocese for twenty-four years, died in the convent at Perth Amboy, yesterday. She had many friends in Plainfield, having frequently visited at Mt. St. Mary College. The funeral will be held at Perth Amboy tomorrow morning and the body will be brought to Plainfield for burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

WHAT CAUSES POVERTY? CHARITY DIRECTOR THOUGHT HE KNEW, BUT "WRONG" ANSWER COSTS HIM HIS POSITION

A VIEW of FAMOUS WARRENSVILLE COLONY

Name the causes of poverty.

Give a comprehensive plan for dealing with vagrancy in a city such as Cleveland.

For his "failure" to answer these two questions satisfactorily, James B. Vining has lost his job as head of Cleveland's model charity and correction project at Warrensville and Cleveland's forces of uplift are split into two contending camps.

Warrensville, with its thousands of acres, its infirmary cottages, its hospitals, its reformatory and workhouse, its honor system and its fresh air cure for human wrecks has constituted one of Cleveland's chief claims as an up-to-date city. Another claim was its municipal charter with civil service system. Now these two evidences of uplift have come into conflict.

Vining had been engaged in charity and correction work for eleven years. His work was satisfactory to his superior, Harris R. Cooley, director of welfare. But the new charter made it necessary for him to take an examination to hold his job.

"The fundamental cause of poverty is land monopoly," wrote Vining. "Other incidental causes can be traced back to this. As free access to the soil is denied, poverty increases."

With regard to vagrancy, Vining answered that no comprehensive local remedy was possible, for vagrancy, he said, is a national disease. It increases as general employment diminishes.

These answers are in harmony with the belief of Dr. Cooley and of Tom L. Johnson, who founded Warrensville farms, but they failed to please the non-partisan committee that conducted the examination. So Vining is out.

"He is the man for the place just the same," says Cooley.

PENROD

CHAPTER X.

Retiring From the Show Business.

SILENCE followed. Sam and Penrod, spellbound, gazed upon Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr. So did Herman and Verman. Roddy's staggering lie had changed the face of things utterly. No one questioned it; no one realized that it was much too good to be true.

"Roddy," said Penrod in a voice tremulous with hope, "Roddy, will you join our show?"

Roddy joined.

Even he could see that the offer implied his being starred as the paramount attraction of a new order of things. It was obvious that he had swelled out suddenly, in the estimation of the other boys, to that importance which he had been taught to believe his native gift and natural right. The sensation was pleasant. He had often been treated with effusion by grownup callers and by acquaintances of his mother and sisters. He had heard ladies speak of him as "charming" and "that delightful child," and little girls had sometimes shown him deference, but until this moment no boy had ever allowed him for one moment to presume even to equality. Now, in a trice he was not only admitted to comradeship, but patently valued as something rare and sacred, to be acclaimed and pedestaled. In fact, the very first thing that Schofield & Williams did was to find a box for him to stand upon.

The misgivings roused in Roderick's bosom by the subsequent activities of the firm were not bothersome enough to make him forego his prominence as Exhibit A. He was not a "quick minded" boy, and it was long and much happened before he thoroughly comprehended the causes of his new celebrity. He had a shadowy feeling that if the affair came to be heard of at home it might not be liked, but, intoxicated by the glamour and bustle which surround a public character, he made no protest. On the contrary, he entered whole heartedly into the preparations for the new show. Assuming, with Sam's assistance, a blue mustache and "sideburns," he helped in the painting of a new poster, which, supplanting the old one on the wall of the stable facing the cross street, screamed bloody murder at the passers in that rather populous thoroughfare:

Megaphones were constructed out of heavy wrapping paper, and Penrod, Sam and Herman set out in different directions, delivering vocally the inflammatory proclamation of the poster to a large section of the residential quarter and leaving Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., with Verman in the loft, shielded from all deadhead eyes. Upon the return of the heralds the Schofield & Williams military band played deafeningly, and an awakened public once more thronged to fill the coffers of the firm.

Prosperity smiled again. The very first audience after the acquisition of Roderick was larger than the largest of the morning. Master Bitts, the only exhibit placed upon a box, was a supercurio. All eyes fastened upon him and remained, hungrily feasting, throughout Penrod's luminous oration.

But the glory of one light must ever be the dimming of another. We dwell in a vale of seesaws, and cobwebs spin fastest upon laurel. Verman, the tattooed wild boy, speaking only in his native foreign languages; Verman the gay, Verman the caperer, capered no more, he chuckled no more, he beckoned no more nor tapped his chest nor wreathed his idolatrous face in smiles. Gone, all gone, were his little artifices for attracting the general attention to himself. Gone was every engaging mannerism which had endeared him to the mercurial public. He squatted against the wall and glowered at the new sensation. It was the old story—the old, old story—of too much temperament. Verman was suffering from artistic jealousy.

The second audience contained a cash paying adult, a spectacled young man whose poignant attention was very flattering. He remained after the lecture and put a few questions to Roddy, which were answered rather confusedly upon promptings from Penrod. The young man went away without having stated the object of his interrogations, but it became quite plain later in the day. This same object caused the spectacled young man to make several brief but stimulating calls directly after leaving the Schofield & Williams Big Show, and the consequences thereof loitered not by the wayside.

The Big Show was at high tide. Not only was the auditorium filled and throbbing; there was an immense line, by no means wholly juvenile, waiting for admission to the next pufformance. A group stood in the street examining the poster earnestly as it glowed in the long, slanting rays of the westward sun, and people in automobiles and other vehicles had halted wheel in the street to read the message so piquantly given to the world. These were the conditions when a crested victoria arrived at a gallop, and a large, chastely magnificent and highly flushed woman descended and progressed across the yard with an air of violence.

At sight of her the adults of the waiting line hastily disappeared, and most of the pausing vehicles moved instantly on their way. She was followed by a stricken man in livery.

The stairs to the auditorium were narrow and steep. Mrs. Roderick Magsworth Bitts was of a stout favor, and the voice of Penrod was audible during the ascent.

"Re-mem-bur, gentilmun and laydeeze, each and all are now gazing upon Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., the only living nephew of the great Rena Magsworth. She stuck ars'nic in the milk of eight separate and distinck people to put in their coffee, and each and all of 'em died. The great ars'nic murderess, Rena Magsworth, gentilmun and laydeeze, and Roddy's her only living nephew. She's a relation of all the Bitts family, but he's her one and only living nephew. Re-mem-bur, next July she's goin' to be hung, and each and all you now see before you"—

Penrod paused abruptly, seeing something before himself—the august and awful presence which filled the entryway. And his words (it should be related) froze upon his lips.

Before herself Mrs. Roderick Magsworth Bitts saw her son—her scion—wearing a moustache and sideburns of blue, and perched upon a box flanked by Sherman and Verman, the Michigan rats, the Indian dog Duke, Herman, and the dog part alligator.

Roddy also saw something before himself. It needed no prophet to read the countenance of the dread apparition in the entryway. His mouth opened—remained open—then filled to capacity with a calamitous sound of grief not unmingled with apprehension.

Penrod's reason staggered under the crisis. For a horrible moment he saw Mrs. Roderick Magsworth Bitts approaching like some fatal mountain in avalanche. She seemed to grow larger and redder; lightnings played about her head. He had a vague consciousness of the audience spraying out in flight, of the squealings, tramplings and dispersals of a stricken field. The mountain was close upon him—

He stood by the open mouth of the hay chute which went through the floor to the manger below. Penrod also went through the floor. He propelled himself into the chute and shot down, but not quite to the manger, for Mr. Samuel Williams had thoughtfully stepped into the chute a moment in advance of his partner. Penrod lit upon Sam.

Catastrophic noises resounded in the loft; volcanoes seemed to romp upon the stairway.

There ensued a period when only a shrill keening marked the passing of Roderick as he was borne to the tumbril. Then all was silence.

Sunset striking through a western window rouged the walls of the Schofields' library, where gathered a joint family council and court martial of four—Mrs. Schofield, Mr. Schofield and Mr. and Mrs. Williams, parents of Samuel of that ilk. Mr. Williams read aloud a conspicuous passage from the last edition of the evening paper:

"Prominent people here believed close relations of woman sentenced to hang. Angry denial by Mrs. R. Magsworth Bitts. Relationship admitted by younger member of family. His statement confirmed by boy friends"—

"Don't!" said Mrs. Williams, addressing her husband vehemently. "We've all read it a dozen times. We've got plenty of trouble on our hands without hearing that again!"

Singularly enough, Mrs. Williams did not look troubled; she looked as if she were trying to look troubled. Mrs. Schofield wore a similar expression. So did Mr. Schofield. So did Mr. Williams.

"What did she say when she called you up?" Mrs. Schofield inquired breathlessly of Mrs. Williams.

"She could hardly speak at first, and then when she did talk she talked so fast I couldn't understand most of it, and"—

"It was just the same when she tried to talk to me," said Mrs. Schofield, nodding.

"I never did hear any one in such a state before," continued Mrs. Williams. "So furious"—

"Quite justly, of course," said Mrs. Schofield.

"Of course. And she said Penrod and Sam had enticed Roderick away from home—usually he's not allowed to go outside the yard except with his tutor or a servant—and had told him to say that horrible creature was his aunt"—

"How in the world do you suppose Sam and Penrod ever thought of such a thing as that?" exclaimed Mrs. Schofield. "It must have been made up just for their 'show.' Della says there were just streams going in and out all day. Of course it wouldn't have happened, but this was the day Margaret and I spend every month in the country with Aunt Sarah, and I didn't dream"—

"She said one thing I thought rather tactless," interrupted Mrs. Williams. "Of course we must allow for her being dreadfully excited and wrought up, but I do think it wasn't quite delicate in her, and she's usually the very soul of delicacy. She said that Roderick had never been allowed to associate with—with common boys"—

He Propelled Himself Into the Chute and Shot Down.

"Meaning Sam and Penrod," said Mrs. Schofield. "Yes, she said that to me too."

"She said that the most awful thing about it," Mrs. Williams went on, "was that, though she's going to prosecute the newspapers, many people would always believe the story, and"—

"Yes, I imagine they will," said Mrs. Schofield musingly. "Of course you and I and everybody who really knows the Bitts and Magsworth families understand the perfect absurdity of it. But I suppose there are ever so many who'll believe it, no matter what the Bittses and Magsworths say."

"Hundreds and hundreds!" said Mrs. Williams. "I'm afraid it will be a great comedown for them."

"I'm afraid so," said Mrs. Schofield gently. "A very great one—yes, a very, very great one."

"Well," observed Mrs. Williams after a thoughtful pause, "there's only one thing to be done, and I suppose it had better be done right away."

She glanced toward the two gentlemen.

"Certainly," Mr. Schofield agreed. "But where are they?"

"Have you looked in the stable?" asked his wife.

"I searched it. They've probably started for the far west."

"Did you look in the sawdust box?"

"No, I didn't."

"Then that's where they are."

Thus in the early twilight the now historic stable was approached by two fathers charged to do the only thing to be done. They entered the storeroom.

"Penrod!" said Mr. Schofield.

"Sam!" said Mr. Williams.

Nothing disturbed the twilight hush.

But by means of a ladder brought from the carriage house Mr. Schofield mounted to the top of the sawdust box. He looked within and discerned the dim outlines of three quiet figures, the third being that of a small dog.

The two boys rose upon command, descended the ladder after Mr. Schofield, bringing Duke with them, and stood before the authors of their being, who bent upon them sinister and threatening brows. With hanging heads and despondent countenances, each still ornamented with a mustache and an imperial, Penrod and Sam awaited sentence.

This is a boy's lot: Anything he does, anything whatever, may afterward turn out to have been a crime—he never knows.

And punishment and clemency are alike inexplicable.

Mr. Williams took his son by the ear.

"You march home!" he commanded.

Sam marched, not looking back, and his father followed the small figure implacably.

"You goin' to whip me?" quavered Penrod, alone with justice.

"Wash your face at that hydrant," said his father sternly.

About fifteen minutes later Penrod, hurriedly entering the corner drug store, two blocks distant, was astonished to perceive a familiar form at the soda counter.

"Yay, Penrod," said Sam Williams, "want some sody? Come on. He didn't lick me. He didn't do anything to me at all. He gave me a quarter."

"So'd mine," said Penrod.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

"Who is the topnotcher in bird opera?"

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Opera Which The War Does Not Affect.

"WELL, kiddies I think the opera season in this town is just about closed now," said daddy quizzically to Jack and Evelyn one evening.

"But, daddy, you know we haven't any opera in this little town! It's only the big cities that have opera!" cried Evelyn.

"No opera! What about the birds' symphony?" cried daddy, with much surprise. "You told me yourself that Mr. Jim Crow's voice was very much hoarser this year than it was last.

"Have you noticed, too, how gentle and timid little Mrs. Wren was this year, and how she could hardly muster up courage to ask for pay for her singing? She sang 'Cheep, cheep!' all the time until the managers thought they could get her services for nothing. Blustering Mr. Wren came around and took her place and sang, and then they both got their pay, which was some delicious crumbs that were thrown out of the kitchen window.

"Then, there was Mr. Veery, the tenor. As Mr. Browning, a great English poet, puts it, 'He sings each song twice over, lest you should think he never recapture the first fine careless rapture.'

"Why, that little bird never waited for his audience to clap their hands, but he'd come right out before the green curtain and begin his song all over again without any encouragement whatever, which is a splendid way for any artist to feel.

"You see, after all, kiddies, if one does his little part well and keeps on doing it well some one will see the beauty and fineness of it one day, and then one can fit beautifully into the grand chorus of the world, but this is entirely another matter. We must hasten back to the birdies.

"There is the brown thrasher, who is a topnotcher in bird opera circles. We do not have to import the European nightingale. Our home grown product, Mr. Brown Thrasher, gives us all the finest songs at very popular prices. Do you know that the aisles are not crowded at all, and when I heard bird opera the last time I was the only person there?

"But, now the great season is over, we will have little select drawing room performances, it may be, but the mamma birds are sitting on their nests and the papa birds are digging for worms. You see, the opera season is so short that they must do other work to help eke out their income.

"And pretty soon little beaks will break through the pretty shells, little wings will flutter out of the confining darkness, and the singers for next year will step out upon the stage ready for engagements."

POCKETS ARE FEATURES OF THE NEW DRESSES.

No. 8908.

After having gone pocketless for years and having had to resort to carrying her handkerchief up her sleeve, in her shoetop and [illegible] of her hair the fashionable woman of today is wearing pockets and pockets, wherever she can find a plain piece of material big enough to sew one onto. The smart, new misses' dresses are showing many novelties in pockets. Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8908 having a somewhat crescent shaped one which extends into tabs that hold it to the belt. MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. J. L. Evans.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

DEAR.

(By Sara D. Ferris)

Not Beatrice—that's aggressive,
Not Susan—that sounds sad;
Not even Bess, or Sara Ann,
(Of that I'm rather glad).

Your eyes might make it Hazel;
Your red hair "Helen" spells;
It even might be Pearl
From your ears, like pink sea shells.

There's truly something Peg-ish
About your tilted nose,
And your softly tinted velvet cheeks—
Perhaps your name is Rose.

Yet, something tells me plainly,
It's none of these. 'Tis clear
The only name that fits you,
Really fits, is simply—Dear!

How to Take Care of Baby.

Air: Do not allow the baby to remain in a close room, or in a room where you are washing or cooking. Take the baby out of doors in the early morning. Do not let the sun shine in its eyes. Keep it out of doors on hot nights. Keep your house clean and well aired. In hot weather keep doors and windows open and screened day and night. Do not allow slops or soiled diapers to remain in the room.

Food: Give no food but mother's milk, milk from a bottle, or food directed by the doctor. From birth to 2½ months feed every two hours. Then until five months every two and one-half hours. Then until one year every three hours. Do not feed more [illegible] Keep the milk for bottle-fed babies covered and on ice. In case of no ice set the milk bottle in a shallow basin of water and wrap with a damp cloth which touches the water and place in a cool place. Keep the bottles and nipples clean and covered when not in use.

Clothing: Bathe the baby at a certain hour every morning. Do not use too much clothing during hot weather, but be watchful for changes of temperature, the baby feels heat and cold sooner than grown people. Be sure all the creases of baby's body are cleaned after each movement of the bowels and wash all diapers even when only wet.

Deceit.

There is a difference between imagination and deceit. If a child deliberately deceives, see whether fear is the cause and adopt a method which will encourage frankness.

Motives.

Few mothers realize as they should the priceless value of the early years of childhood. The habits formed then, the lessons instilled form the woof and warp of character. Only as mothers come into the child's life and gets his viewpoint is it possible to really understand him and to appreciate the motive of his acts. Many a child is punished for doing wrong who is utterly unconscious and guiltless of any other reason than that he has seen others do it.

Reading.

The habit of reading should be formed long before twelve years. As soon as a child learns to read he should have books suited to his age. The list of "one thousand book for children," graded according to age, can be secured for ten cents at National Congress of Mothers, 806 Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

WHAT MOTHERS WILL NEED TO KNOW IN JULY.

In the Better Babies department of the July Woman's Home Companion appears the following "Mother Calendar" for July:

I

"Keep the babies cool, inside and out. Have clothing loose and light. The child two years or more needs nothing but sandals and rompers, with a thin knitted shirt, low-necked and sleeveless, if there is a tendency to bowel trouble.

II

"Babies require only knitted belly bands, shirt and diaper, with a plain slip if desired. For cool naps and morning, add light-weight kimono, nightdress or sacque of Shaker or outing flannel.

III

"On very hot days give baby a cleansing bath in the morning, a cooling bath before bedtime. When baby is feverish eight ounces of alcohol may be added to one quart of warm water and used as a sponge bath.

IV

"When the baby suffers from prickly heat do not use soap, but put a cup of bran meal in a cheesecloth bag and stir this in the bath water until the water takes a milky hue.

V

"Never expose the baby to the sun in hot weather. If protected from the flies by mosquito netting the baby may take an outdoor nap in the shade of the porch or tree."

Because it has had some use, and is, therefore, "second-hand," may not greatly impair its usefulness to you. So watch the "For Sale" ads.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Oh, Dick, the Scotts have invited us to go on an automobile trip tomorrow. I'm so delighted. They leave so soon, we can't see much more of them, and it will be such a lark." Nell was in pleased excitement.

"Isn't it rather late in the season for autoing?" asked Dick. "The wind is sharp and it seems doubly cold when going at a good speed. You won't think of taking the baby, will you?"

"Mary says she will give up going home tomorrow and take care of him for me. She is so careful of him I believe it will be all right to leave him, don't you?"

"Certainly better than to try to take him," replied Dick. "Where are they going?"

"To Farlow. We will have a lunch to eat on the way. They will take their thermos bottles with hot coffee." Nell was so evidently intent on making the trip a pleasure that Dick responded: "If we can find a sheltered nook, out of the wind, where we can eat our lunch, it will be all right."

About ten o'clock the next day the party was off, with generous hampers of food.

"I brought Dorothy," said Mrs. Scott. "It is the nurse's day off, and besides she dearly loves to ride. This is her blanket; without it she can go nowhere," laughed the mother. The women and Dorothy were stowed away in the tonneau.

The women were chattering pleasantly, while the little girl played with her blanket, holding it up to see it flutter in the wind. Suddenly a scream rent the air.

"My banket!" wailed the small maid.

"Did it go out, Dorothy? Oh, Jack, Jack!" called Mrs. Scott. The wind carried her voice away from him, and the men were having an animated discussion. All this while the machine was putting a good stretch of road between the blanket and its sobbing owner. Finally both women called in chorus and the din reached the ears of the father of the wailing child.

"What did you let her drop it out for?" he asked. "Here I must walk back a long way to find the thing," and away he trudged.

When the blanket and its suffering owner were reunited they fared forth again, but an evil fate pursued them. At a sudden turn in the road the door of the tonneau flew open and the two thermos bottles rolled out and were broken, the coffee pouring over the road.

"Oh, I forgot to fasten the door," said Mrs. Scott.

"Couldn't you see that the door was coming open?" her husband asked.

"No, it was the lurch of the machine as we turned the corner that opened it."

"Now, we've no coffee and this cold day a picnic dinner with nothing warm to drink will not be very enjoyable," he continued.

"Let's go to the hotel at Barstow. It's only five miles further on," suggested his wife.

"I've an idea a certain maid of tender years will make that anything but a pleasant experience," he said, looking at Dorothy.

"You're a pessimist today," commented his wife, smiling brightly at Nell. "Have you anything better to suggest?"

It was evident that he was barren of ideas, so dinner was ordered at the hostlery, and they warmed themselves at a wood stove in a stuffy parlor while waiting for it to cook.

Mr. Scott's most gloomy forebodings could not have pictured anything so disagreeable as the baby's behavior at dinner. The entire quartet were in danger of becoming nervous wrecks before they left the dining room.

"Let's go home," said Mr. Scott. "I've stood all I can."

Household Hints

THE TABLE

Corn Meal Pudding—One quart sweet milk, bring to boil and stir in gradually enough corn meal to make as thick as cream. Boil ten minutes and cool; then add three eggs well beaten, one-half cup sugar, one-fourth cup butter (scant), flavor to taste. Beat thoroughly and bake in buttered dish in quick oven until it puffs and browns. Sauce: One cup sugar, two tablespoons flour, one-half cup rich milk, one-half cup boiling water, flavoring. Serve hot.

Dried Apricot Pie—A delicious pie may be made of dried apricots. Scald, soak and cook the cruit for one pie. Take a cup of the mashed apricots, yolks of two eggs well beaten, half cup sugar in which mix one tablespoon flour. Beat all together thoroughly; fill a baked crust. Take the whites of eggs, add pinch of cream of tartar and beat to a stiff froth, add two tablespoons sugar. Cover pie with frosting and return to oven to slightly brown. This is excellent. Prunes may also be used in this way. On account of the lye wash used in the curing of prunes, they should be scalded thoroughly before cooking.

Delicious Pancakes—Take two heaping cups stale bread crumbs crushed rather fine, three eggs well beaten, a teaspoon salt, small teaspoon baking powder, milk enough to make a batter. Bake slowly on hot griddle. Serve with sirup.

Nut Bread—One cup sugar and one egg creamed together; one-half teaspoon salt, one and one-half cups sweet milk, four cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one cup chopped nuts. Put in two pans, let raise fifteen minutes, bake in slow oven forty-five minutes.

Prune Whip—Stew one pound prunes until soft with one-half cup sugar. Beat whites of three eggs stiff. Stir prunes into whites of three eggs thoroughly. Set in pan of water and bake in slow oven about one hour. Serve with whipped cream. Chop prunes very fine. This will serve about eight people.

Mutton Cutlets—Get some cutlets and trim them. Mix equal quantities of grated parmesan cheese and finely chopped almond nuts with beaten yolk of egg, some chopped parsley and chives. Dip the cutlets into this mixture and fry them. Arrange in the center of a dish with some tomato sauce and sprinkle them with parmesan cheese.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Hemstitching By Machine—Now that hemstitching is used so much on waists, dresses, etc., here is an easy and quick way of doing it. Draw threads as for hand-hemstitching. Adjust sewing machine to small stitching and proceed to stitch over the drawn threads, as near to the edge where the hem is to be as possible. Turn up hem and hem by hand and the result will be so nearly like hand-hemstitching that it will surprise you. Double hemstitching can be done by stitching on the other side of the drawn threads.

If You Put Little Chickens on the cow lot, where the cows have been, they will not get the "gapes."

When Wearing Tie Shoes—Moisten strings where you tie the knot; will not come untied on street.

Ink Spots On Fingers—Wet the finger, then rub the phosphorus end of a match on the spot. Wipe the fingers and renew the action until the spot has disappeared, in a minute or two.

Pretty and Cheap Floor Stain—When the floors have become old looking, from scrubbing, use olive-green dye; apply with a broad brush, using the dye as hot as possible. This dries very quickly. Then melt one-fourth pound paraffin in one pint of turpentine, using a double boiler; leave it in hot water while using it, so as to keep the paraffin liquid. Paint this on the floor just as the dye was used. It hardens quickly and makes a pretty finish.

ECONOMICAL BAKING POWDER

One cup cream of tartar, one-half cup flour, one-half cup baking soda. Sift seven times; fill baking powder cans. This makes about one pound at a cost of about eighteen to twenty cents.

SAFETY FROM POISONS

It is advisable to put all bottles, boxes or envelopes containing poisons, medicines that must be kept away from the children, and substances subject to evaporation, in air-tight screw-top glass jars.

These are kept on a separate shelf and the labels can be easily read through the glass. Even in the dark there is no chance of one's taking a poison by mistake with this arrangement. The jars range from tiny ones, which originally contained candy sticks, up to large-sized fruit jars.

POULTRY RAISERS WILL VISIT NEW BRUNSWICK

The monthly meting of the New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement was held in the Exempt Firemen's Hall, Park avenue, last night. In the absence of the president, Thomas Lindsay, the vice-president was in charge of the business meeting. It was decided to hold the next monthly meeting at the Experimental Station at New Brunswick, on Saturday, July 17.

The monthly meeting is scheduled for the third Wednesday, but was changed to this date so it could be held in the afternoon. The business session will start at 3 o'clock after which the place will be inspected. The entire association will take the trip. Matters of routine nature were brought up and disposed of last night.

GRAND PRIZE AWARDED THE PRUDENTIAL COMPANY

Word has been received by President Forrest F. Dryden of The Prudential Insurance Company of America, that the Superior Jury of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition has conferred the highest possible award, the grand prize, upon The Prudential Insurance Company for its big life insurance exhibit at the San Francisco Fair.

This is one of the first of the grand prizes awarded, and the great care that is being taken by the Superior Jury in its bestowal of honors makes The Prudential's award all the more highly prized by the company.

The Superior Jury is an international jury composed of representatives from Europe, the Orient, South and North America.

The Prudential has received awards at all the great national and international expositions for many years. Its exhibit this year is attracting much attention at the Exposition from the general public, and professional and insurance men. Frederick L. Hoffman, statistician of the company, received honorable mention from the jury for his work in the preparation of the exhibit.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Kreutzer Sonata," a screen drama of tense situations throughout, will be the dramatic feature of today's meritorious program at the U. S. Astor Theatre, together with the usual quota of high-grade comedies and dramas. Tomorrow, "The Patriot and the Spy" will be screened, and Saturday will be shown "Up from the Depths," a vivid drama of modern American life.

"The Kreutzer Sonata" is based on Count Tolstoi's famous novel of that name. Tolstoi has woven in his inimitable fashion a wonderfully compelling and heart gripping story about the life of his heroine, Miriam, a young Russian girl. Through an unfortunate love affair, Miriam is threatened with disgrace. Her father induces Gregor Randor, a struggling musician, to marry her, for a money consideration, and the couple go to America where they are later followed by Miriam's family, including Celia, her sister. Between Celia and Gregor a clandestine love affair develops. Despite their secrecy the wife discovers the truth and torn between love and her little boy and outraged pride, she confronts her fickle husband and unnatural sister. Her revilings and the denunciations of her father are alike, unavailing and at last, driven to desperation, she takes vengeance into her own hands. The climax sends the audience home happy. All hits and no misses would be the proper way to sum up a review of this picture.

"The Patriot and the Spy," the feature attraction tomorrow afternoon and evening, is a military drama of engrossing interest from beginning to end. Scenically, it is one of the season's triumphs and is worthy the patronage of every discriminating theatregoer in Plainfield.

Saturday afternoon and evening, "Up from the Depths" will occupy the Astor screen. It is in line with the other splendid features Manager Frank G. Hall, of the Astor, is showing and should find a legion of admirers among folk who like the dramatic, the artistic and the natural in a photoplay.

APPROVE PLANS FOR BIG REVIVAL

Committee of Ministers and Laymen Will Now Submit Recommendations.

DISCUSS THE DETAILS

Rev. Dr. Anderson, of Scranton, Pa., May Be Secured to Conduct the Campaign—Many Favor Erection of a Large Tabernacle.

By a unanimous vote the ministers and laymen of the city at a conference in the Y. M. C. A., last night, accepted the recommendations of a special committee of which William D. Murray is chairman, approving the plan to hold union evangelistic services in this city early in January of next year. According to the recommendations the services will be conducted from four to six weeks, an experienced evangelist will be engaged, a tabernacle will be erected for the meetings and cottage prayer-meetings will be held in the city and borough for several weeks prior to the campaign.

Those in charge of the arrangements are hoping to secure the services of Rev. Dr. Anderson, formerly pastor of a Methodist church at Scranton, Pa., who assisted in the "Billy" Sunday meetings there, and who has since been a successful evangelist. He has so many engagements ahead that it may be well toward spring of next year before he can come to Plainfield. His methods are said to be somewhat like those of "Billy" Sunday.

The recommendations adopted last night further provide that the churches of the city and borough commit themselves either for or against the proposition and report at a meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on June 27. The committee which drafted the recommendations presented last night comprise W. D. Murray, chairman; Rev. Frank Fletcher, Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, Rev. Edward S. Ralston, J. H. Manning, G. M. Rittenhouse, Arthur M. Harris and Robert Butler.

Although no definite statements could be made last night regarding the sentiment of the various churches, several pastors present expressed the opinion that a majority seemed to be in favor of the campaign. A copy of the recommendations will be sent to every pastor. It was stated that the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. approve the plan and will lend its support.

Mr. Murray said that he thought it would be best to erect a tabernacle for the proposed services, his opinion being that it would be more attractive to non-churchgoers, the class of people it is hoped to reach. The site for the proposed building has not yet been selected, but no trouble is anticipated in securing one desirable for the revival. Rev. Frank Fletcher presided at last night's meeting. The attendance was small owing to the storm.

JOHN SANDERSON GOES TO THE PACIFIC COAST

John Sanderson, of 1022 South avenue, who for several years has held a responsible position with Haskins & Sells, public accountants, of New York, has just been transferred to the firm's office in San Francisco, being appointed assistant manager at that place. Mr. Sanderson left on Wednesday night for the Pacific Coast, where he will make his home in the future.

Mr. Sanderson is well-known in this city, where he has lived for a number of years. He is a brother of Harry Sanderson, also of this city, who has been in the employ of the New Jersey Central for several years.

P. S. C. WILL APPEAL GAS RATE DECISION

To Take the Matter up to the U. S. Court on Writ of Error.

Following a meeting of the directors of the Public Service Gas Company, in Newark, yesterday afternoon, at which the decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals in the 90-cent gas rate case was considered, President Thomas N. McCarter gave out the following statement: "A writ of error will be promptly taken by the company to carry the case to the Supreme Court of the United States."

It was announced last Monday that the Court of Errors and Appeals, sitting in Trenton, has reversed its former decision by a vote of 6 to 4, thus sustaining an order issued several months ago by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners fixing rate of ninety cents per thousand feet for gas in all sections of the State served by the Public Service Corporation, including Plainfield.

The original order was made after a hearing on rates asked by the city of Passaic, and the Public Service Company appealed to the courts. In a former decision the court decided that franchise values were not considered by the Utility Commission in determining the rates, and there was such a public demand for a rehearing that the court reopened the matter, with a victory for the people and the Utility Commission.

BOROUGH SCHOOLS CLOSE ON JUNE 24

Attractive Program Arranged for the Commencement Exercises.

An interesting program has been arranged for the annual commencement exercises of the North Plainfield High School, which will be held in the Plainfield Theatre, Thursday evening, June 24. The order of exercises will be as follows:

Overture, "Black Queen;" invocation, Rev. Charles H. Kues, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross; chorus, "Two Grenadiers," Schumann, High School Glee Club; salutatory address, "Stenography and Typewriting," Viola Hauser; Romanza, "To A Star," Henri Leonard, orchestra; essay, "Lady MacBeth," Katherine Giddings; chorus (a) "Serenade," Shubert, (b) "Over the Hills at Break of Day," Geibel, High School Glee Club; valedictory essay, "Chemistry Applied to Warfare," Russell Lee; awarding of diplomas, Dr. Justus H. Cooley, president of the Board of Education; concert valse, "Wedding of the Winds," John H. Hall, orchestra; address, D. Fred Aungst, supervising principal; awarding of Yale Cup, the Yale Club; chorus, "The Miller's Wooing," Fanning, High School Glee Club; benediction, Rev. Charles H. Kues; triumphal march from "Aida," Verdi, orchestra.

The following members of the High School will act as ushers for the occasion: Head usher, Sherman Chandler; orchestra, Warren Townley, Oscar Dilts, Harry Kirch, Martin McDonough, John Dawe and Alfred Seidel; balcony, LeRoy Adams, Lawrence Robinson, Clarence Roddy and Ernest Pruden.

Following the commencement the graduates will adjourn to the Park Club with their relatives and friends, where the annual graduates' dance will be given by the members of last year's graduating class.

ALEXANDER GROSSETT WEDS MRS. FRANCIS SPARKS HOOD

Announcements were received in this city this morning, by the many friends of Alexander Grossett, of Woodland avenue, and Mrs. Francis Sparks Hood, formerly of Stelle avenue, telling of their marriage yesterday at Philadelphia. The ceremony was performed at the Second Presbyterian church by the Rev. Charles Woods, in the presence of only the immediate members of the family. Mr. Grossett has been a resident of this city for nine years, and Mrs. Hood lived here for nearly that length of time. Upon their return from a brief honeymoon trip it is understood that they will take up their residence in Greenwich, Conn. The couple is well known in this city, and have taken an active part in social affairs ever since their residence here.

RECEPTION GIVEN MISS ANNA DAY

Retiring Principal of Plainfield Grammar School Honored by P. T. Association.

A PLEASING PROGRAM

Gift of Silver Mesh Bag With $35 In Gold to Represent the Years of Her Service—Addresses by Dr. Maxson and Archibald Cox.

After completing thirty-five years of service as teacher and principal in the Plainfield public schools, Miss Anna M. Day, head of the grammar and Whittier departments, will retire from duty next week, and as a fitting observance of the event she was accorded a hearty reception in the High School Auditorium, yesterday afternoon, from 4 to 6. It was given under the combined auspices of the Plainfield Grammar and Whittier Parent-Teacher Associations, and was attended by 150 friends and well-wishers. Although it had no place on the formal program, a feature of the gathering was the gift to Miss Day of a handsome silver mesh bag containing thirty-five dollars in gold to represent her length of service. The presentation was made by Mrs. Edward McCarthy, a member of one of the associations.

Mrs. Frank L. Holt is president of the Plainfield Grammar School's Parent-Teacher Association, but, owing to illness, was unable to be present, and in her place Mrs. A. B. Meredith, president of the Whittier Association, acted as chairman. Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the city schools, gave an address in which he

EDWIN GLAENTZER RESIGNS POSITION

Will Retire From Boys' Secretaryship of Y. M. C. A. on July 15.

Announcement is made of the resignation of Edwin Glaentzer, boys' secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., to take effect July 15. Mr. Glaentzer came to the local association in the early part of January to fill a vacancy made by the resignation of C. William Bingeman. He was connected with the Ridgewood association before coming to this city. He will leave the Y. M. C. A. field in order to take up his profession of mechanical engineering, for which he has educated himself.

Mr. Glaentzer is a graduate of Syracuse University., and for a number of years had been actively interested in work for boys. He has been closely identified with the boys' department of his home association at Ridgewood, and for nine consecutive years has attended the State Y. M. C. A. camp at Wawayanda. His work in Plainfield, although covering a short period of time, speaks for itself, and his many friends, including the boys, will undoubtedly wish him every success in his new line of work. He has several positions now under consideration.

An excellent photograph showing Mrs. James E. Martin, wife of the United States Senator from Plainfield, christening "Lulu," a baby puma, at Horsley Park, Los Angeles, has been received here by friends. The puma is one of the Bostock animals owned by David Horsley, the Bayonne film magnate and animal king. Senator Martine stands directly back of Mrs. Martine smiling his approval of the proceedings.

FESTIVAL POSTPONED.

The strawberry festival, which was scheduled for last night under the auspices of the Band of Workers, Class No. 2, of Trinity Reformed Bible School, was postponed because of the inclement weather and will be held tonight. The affair will be given at the home of Mrs. A. K. Willett, of Craig place.

ST. MARY'S CLOSES TODAY.

St. Mary's School closed this afternoon, with exercises by the pupils of the primary and grammar grades. Awards were made to pupils who were most efficient in their studies. AUTO PARTY HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Locomotive Sideswipes Car Carrying Three Well Known Plainfielders.

NONE SERIOUSLY HURT

State Road Supervisor Meeker, Dr. J. S. Zelie and the Latter's Son the Participants In Thrilling Affair at Belvidere.

State Road Supervisor Robert A. Meeker, of Belvidere avenue; Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and the latter's son, Jack Zelie, were the participants in a thrilling automobile accident at Belvidere, Warren county, yesterday afternoon, from which they emerged with only slight injuries after barely escaping death. Their car was side-swiped by a locomotive on the Lehigh and Hudson Railroad, and after being ripped to pieces on one side, was overturned and dragged with its occupants for nearly thirty feet. The application of emergency brakes brought the engine to a stop before either of the three persons were thrown beneath the wheels.

The locomotive crew and witnesses to the accident hurried to the assistance of the Plainfielders, but found them only slightly cut and bruised, although suffering badly for the time being from shock. The fact that Mr. Meeker kept his head and adopted every possible means to avoid a direct collision is probably all that prevented a fatality occurring. The automobile was put out of commission, but a friendly car owner assisted them aboard and carried them to Phillipsburg, from which place they took a New Jersey Central train to this city.

Mr. Meeker had gone to North Jersey early in the day to inspect a stretch of road that is being built in the new State highway running from Hackettstown to Delaware Water Gap. The particular piece lies between Buttzville and Danville. Dr. Zelie and his son accepted an invitation to make the trip. The party was just on the outskirts of Belvidere and was about to cross the railroad tracks at a point near the L. and H. depot. The crossing is protected only by an electric bell, and is a dangerous point from the fact that a high embankment hides approaching trains from view. Mr. Meeker was almost upon the tracks when he noticed the locomotive coming and attempted to stop. The road, however, had been freshly sprinkled with oil, and the wheels began to skid, threatening to bring the auto directly on the railroad in front of the approaching danger.

As a final resort, Mr. Meeker whirled his steering wheel to the right, causing his car to swing about sharply in the direction the locomotive was going. This move would in all probability have been successful but for a very small thing which happened, one of the wheels striking a high tie, which forced it to the left and brought the automobile in contact with the heavy engine. Although the lighter vehicle was pushed over on its right side, the occupants maintained their balance and clung to it until the danger was removed.

In speaking with a Daily Press reporter last night, Mr. Meeker said that the experience was one which he would not care to have repeaed, but at the same time he and his friends felt no worse than some men do after they have played a hard baseball game. All were stiff and sore, he said, but they would be absolutely all right in a day or two.

PLANS FOR GROVE STREET BRIDGE ARE ON EXHIBITION

Freeholder George Kirch, of the borough, has placed on exhibition in the barber shop of Lafayette Rosenstiehl, of Somerset street, a plan of the proposed new Grove street bridge, which has been approved by the freeholders of Union and Somerset counties. It will be an arch structure built of reinforced concrete, and will be the most beautiful bridge in this city.

There will be large electric lights on each side, giving plenty of light for approaching vehicles. The plans were drawn by J. Doughty, Somerset county engineer, and J. L. Bauer, Union county engineer.

Mrs. E. M. Perkins, of Mercer avenue, left for Windsor, Vt., where she will spend the summer months.

Miss Idabele Conover, who has been detained at her home for the past three weeks with illness, has returned to her position with the Daily Press.

NOTABLE EVENT IN LIVES OF COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Stevens Will Fittingly Commemorate Dual Anniversary.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

Also Mr. Stevens' Seventy-fifth Birthday—Both Widely Known and Highly Respected in Plainfield—Will Hold Reception Tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Stevens, of Clinton avenue, who are numbered among Plainfield's oldest and best known residents, will hold a double celebration at their home tomorrow. The date will mark the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding and the seventy-fifth anniversary of Mr. Stevens' birth. To properly commemorate the dual event a reception will be held in the afternoon for relatives and intimate friends and in the evening there will be a family dinner. Beside Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, those who will be present at the latter are their son and daughter, George O. Stevens and Miss Florence Stevens, both of this city; George Stevens, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., a brother to John O. Stevens, and four sisters of Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. P. W. Brakeley, of Dunellen, and the Misses Louise A., Ida W. and Cynthia F. Davis, of this city.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were born in New York city, but at the time of their marriage the former was living at Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Their wedding took place on June 19, 1865, at Mrs. Stevens' home in Brooklyn, her name then being Catherine A. Davis. The ceremony was

ADVANCED PUPILS GIVE A MUSICALE

Pleasing Affair in Miss May Vincent Whitney's Studio Largely Attended.

An enthusiastic gathering of music lovers attended the "Musicale" given by the pupils of Miss May Vincent Whitney, at the latter's studios, in the Babcock building, last night. The Misses Helen George, Marguerite Van Zandt, Julia Rowley and Elizabeth Martin, four advanced pupils, rendered the various numbers in a finished style. The program consisted of movements from Mendelssohn, Chopin and Greig concertos, with second piano acompaniments; also solos and two eight-hand numbers. Mrs. Noel Truell Evans was the violin accompanist for the occasion. The complete program was as follows:

Part I—Allegro Vivacissimo (from Scotch Symphony), Mendelssohn; Allegro Maestoso Assai, Mendelssohn, Misses George, Rowley, Van Zandt and Whitney; "Hark, Hark, the Lard," Shubert-Liszt; "Barcarolle" (by request), Rubenstein, Miss Rowley; "Canto Amoroso," Lammaritine-Elman, Mrs. Evans; "Grand Polonaise Brilliant," Chopin, Miss Van Zandt, orchestral accompaniment on second piano, Miss Whitney; ::Liebestoedt" (from Tristan and Isolde), Wagner-Liszt, Miss George; "Witches Dance," McDowell; "Liebestraum," Liszt, Miss Martin.

Part II—"Molto Allegro" (from concerto in G minor), "Andante," Mendelssohn, Miss Rowley; orchestral accompaniment on second piano, Miss Whitney "Ballad in Ab," Chopin, Miss Van Zandt; "In the Night," Torjussen, "Etude in C Minor," Chopin, Miss Martin; "La Preceuse," Couperin-Kreisler, Mrs. Evans; "Allegro Moderato" (from concerto in A Minor), Grieg, Miss George, orchestral accompaniment on second piano, Miss Whitney; "Hungarian Rhapsody, No. II," Liszt, Misses Whitney, Rowley, Van Zandt and George.

IT'S A GIRL.

A girl has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus W. Clark, of Stebbins place. Mrs. Clark was formerly Miss Mabel Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hunter, of West Fourth street. This is the second grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter's to be born in the past three weeks, the other being born to Mr. and Mrs. James Howard, of the Bronx. Mrs. Howard was formerly Miss Gertrude Hunter.

APPROPRIATION CUT; ALSO SPECIAL GRADES

Summer School Classes to Be Eliminated This Year.

The summer school for the grades will open July 6. Owing to the cut in the school appropriation, no classes in High School subjects will be given this year, but children will be received from fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Those who failed in getting promotion to the High School will be given an opportunity to make up their work so they can enter the freshman class in the fall.

Children who have moved into the city recently and have not had an opportunity to obtain a standing in the city schools, may go to the summer schools, if they wish, and take work that will determine their position, although this is not required.

Children from outside of the city limits who wish to do coaching work will also be received upon payment of tuition. This year the school will be held in the Whittier School building, instead of in the High School. The following teachers have been appointed: Mrs. S. L. Wardner, principal; the Misses Alys Trenbath, Mabel Trenbath, Alice Brick, Elsie Schmidt, Olive B. Griggs, Rita Pond and Nora M. Koons.

MRS. TOMLINSON IS CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Annual Meeting of W. C. T. U. is Marked by Many Interesting Features.

Reading of reports, election of officers and delegates were the features of the annual meeting of the W. C. T. U., which was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue, yesterday afternoon. The session opened with a Bible reading by Mrs. T. C. Bodine and was followed by reports from the corresponding secretary, treasurer and superintendents of departments. Each submitted unusually gratifying reports.

The following officers for the coming twelve months were elected: President, Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson; honorary vice president, Mrs. E. A. Parse; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. L. Bennett; recording secretary, Mrs. T. C. Bodine; treasurer, Mrs. A. G. Negley. The superintendents of departments and vice presidents of churches will retain their offices until the meeting in September. The delegates elected to the State convention, which will be held in Montclair in September, were Mrs. W. H. Hamilton, and Mrs. Colin, alternate.

Mrs. Benjamin Witmer, who has charge of the headquarters of the Equal Suffrage League on Depot avenue, gave an interesting address, her subject being "Suffrage."

TAX DELEGATES NAMED.

Delegates and alternates to represent New Jersey at the National Tax Association's annual convention, to be held in San Francisco from August 10 to 14, were appointed by Governor Fielder, Thursday afternoon. The delegates are John L. Carroll, Newark; William A. Coddington, Plainfield, and George T. Bouton, Jersey City. The alternates are William G. Bateman, Passaic; Richard W. Herbert, Wickatunk, and Andrew E. Kenny, North Plainfield.

BIBLE CLASS FESTIVAL.

On account of the weather conditions last night, the strawberry festival given by the Nonquit Bible Class, of Temple Baptist church, was held in the church rooms. A large number enjoyed the fruit which was prepared by the following members of the class; The Misses Verna and Edna Stewart, Bessie Carson, Lucy Johnson, Edna Smith, Christine Vestergard and Marion Smith.

FRENCH CONTINUE SOUCHEZ DRIVE

Striving to Add to Victories Yesterday on Waterloo Anniversary.

STEINBRUCK CAPTURED

Italians Said to Be In Sight of Trieste—Minor Encounters Favorable to Invaders—Terrific Fight For Lemberg.

Paris, June 18.—Further progress has been made by the French in their great drive in Alsace. The capture of Steinbruck was officially announced today.

The centennial of Waterloo finds the French battling furiously for Souchez on the road to Lens. It would appear that not only Souchez, north of Arras, but also Metzeral, in the Vosges, might fall to the French today. The heaviest fighting in many weeks continues on both sectors. Metzeral, set on fire by the Germans, is now burning.

An army of 200,000 Germans has been beaten back in the fighting between Souchez and Neuville. With strong supports they are making desperate efforts to regain the ground they lost yesterday. Repeated attacks were hurled back.

In the twenty-four hours ended last night the French fired 300,000 shells, according to the official communique, and the positions were eventually carried by bayonet charges and grenade throwing under violent fire. It is admitted that French losses have been serious, but it is asserted that the German casualties are greater. More than 1,000 German prisoners passed back of the French lines yesterday. No estimate is made of the dead and wounded.

The new positions won about Souchez give the French batteries a clean sweep of the German positions in and beyond the town. The gains were made by striking quickly while the Germans were in confusion following the upheaval caused by the French artillery. Advances were made on three sides of the town, where the Germans resisted between flooded moats. The Souchez cemetery was captured. The French also made progress on the slopes of Hill 119, southeast of Souchez.

A despatch from Udine, via Chiasso, says that Italian outposts have arrived in sight of Trieste.

A royal decree has been published at Rome, according to a news agency despatch, authorizing the issue of a national loan, the amount of which is not stated, redeemable in twenty-five years, with interest at 4½ per cent., free of all taxes, present or future. The issue price is fixed at 95 lire ($18.50) or 92 for holders of stock of the preceding national loan.

Rome, June 18.—The Italian War Office gave out the following official statement today:

"On the frontiers of Trent and Tyrol there have been a number of small encounters resulting in our favor. A detachment of Austrians advancing from Rovereto in the Adige Valley was attacked and defeated near Zugna. We have occupied Sasso and Albergo and Falzarego, in the Costena Valley, taking 30 prisoners.

"On the Carnia front the artillery duel is increasing in violence. We dismounted several Austrian guns with our fire and dispersed working parties that were strengthening the Austrian works. Columns of Austrians upon the march were broken up by our fire.

"Although a strong wind hampered aerial observations, we have been able to determine the destruction done by our guns at the fortress of Malborghetto. Our shells caused a fire in the passage way connecting the lower and upper works."

London, June 18.—The most sanguinary fighting of the Austro-German campaign in Galicia is now in progress at Grodek, sixteen miles from Lemberg, where it was expected the Russians would give decisive battle to the aggressive Von Mackensen. The Teutons have occupied part of the town of Grodek, according to an Austrian official statement, but a heavy engagement continues there.

Outside of the terrific hand to hand struggle at Grodek there is no indication of the Austro-German drive being checked.

An unofficial Russian statement, evidently issued before the Austrian report, said that Mosciska had been evacuated and that so far as could be foreseen a stand would be made at Grodek. The Russians had none the worse of the exchanges of Mosciska, according to the statement. Heavy losses were incurred by the enemy.

Petrograd, June 18.—The following official statement was given out at the War Office today:

"In the Shavli district and west of

AUSTRIA AND RUSSIA IN PITCHED BATTLE

Paul Adams Fined $15 for An Assault on Opposing Countryman.

The European war found its way into the plant of the Hall Printing Press Company yesterday afternoon, when Paul Adams, an Austrian, and Joseph Migskie, a Russian, fought with their fists over the rightful speed of an elevator at the plant. Adams, who is in charge of the elevator, did not run the machinery at as great a speed to suit Migskie, and the latter forcibly attempted to take a hand in increasing the ability of the lift to go at a speed which would have been far beyond the limit. Adams took exception to this, and immediately retaliated with his fist, and a hand-to-hand encounter of the style one reads of in books followed.

Marshal Tarpey, of the borough police force, was called in to the scene of battle, and after the white flag of truce had been raised, escorted Adams to the lock-up, entering a charge of assault against the prisoner when arraigned before Recorder Campbell, last night. A fine of $15 was imposed, which was paid by a brother of Adams. An exchange of glances as the spectators left the court room appeared to indicate that more trouble will follow, unless the interested parties keep some distance apart.

JULY 5 PICNIC.

Among the big occasions planned for Wayside Park this summer is the open-air picnic to be conducted under the auspices of the Ancient Order United Workmen lodges of Plainfield and Bound Brook. The affair has been planned for Monday, July 5, when the customary athletic contests appropriate to the day will be run. It is expected a flag raising will also be arranged.

Mrs. Margaret and Miss Anna Frantz, of Waynesboro, Pa., who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Treichler for a few days, have returned home.

Miss Margaret Dean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Dean, is confined to her home with an attack of scarlet fever.

Louis Watts, who underwent an operation last Sunday for an abscess on the back of the neck, is improving.

CELEBRATION PLANS.

The committee in charge of the annual Independence Day celebration has completed many of the details of the events of the day. The demonstrations will be opened with patriotic music furnished by a brass band at the Borough Hall at 10 o'clock, while the exercises at the park will be opened at 10:30 by the president of the Board of Trade. The speakers for this part of the day's program include Mayor E. B. Latham, Rev. Father Dunphy and Hon. George LaMonte, State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, of Bound Brook. A number of selections will be sung by the Dunellen Choral Society. Aside from Father Dunphy, two other local clergymen, Rev. Ernest R. Brown, of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. D. W. C. Ramsey, of the Methodist church, will take part.

PRESENTED PLAYLET.

The Mount Pleasant Dramatic Club last evening presented the comedy sketch, "Too Many Husbands," at the chapel of the Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Boy Scouts, Troop No. 1. The members of the cast took their various parts well, and scored a big success. A neat sum was realized by the Scouts.

EARLY CLOSING.

As has been the case in several previous years, the Dunellen merchants have shown their progressiveness by inaugurating the giving their clerks a half a day off once a week. The day set aside for this purpose is Wednesday, and will be continued throughout the summer.

A. G. Bishop, of this place, has resigned his position as station agent at the New Market depot of the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Master Edward Stillwagon, of New Market, who has been confined to his home with diphtheria, has recovered.

The annual commencement of the Piscataway township schools were held last night at the Baptist church of New Market. The regular reception to the graduates will be held tomorrow evening at the home of Mr and Mrs. Abram G. Nelson.

Mrs. Froman G. Neighbour, of Mountain View terrace, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, for some time undergoing two operations, has returned home, and is now rapidly regaining her health.

Miss Charlotte Stillman, of Providence, R. I., is spending a few days visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. Y. Wilson, of New Market road.

Washington Camp, P. O. S. of A., held its regular meeting last evening, at which time routine business was transacted.

Miss Alice Gooch is spending a few days visiting friends in Brooklyn.

Mayor Latham, who has been spending several days in Detroit on business, is expected home tomorrow.

Earl Victorson, a student in the New York University, has returned to his home here for his summer vacation.

South Plainfield.

Samuel Purnel, formerly of this place, but now of Lancaster, Pa., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Pickering for a few days.

The Plainfield Transit Company ran two buses to the commencement exercises in the New Market First Baptist church, last night.

Mrs. Emil Bittner has returned from a visit with friends in Perth Amboy.

Mrs. John Gordon and daughters, Lillian and Julia, have returned from a visit with Mrs. Frank Gregory, of Bound Brook.

Miss Louise Miller, who has been visiting friends in Perth Amboy and Tottenville, returned home yesterday.

Miss Marion Bigley, of Plainfield, is spending a few days with Miss Elma Randolph.

Miss Marjorie Voorhees, of Asbury Park, is spending a few days with her aunt, Miss Emma Manning.

Frank Gobrino, formerly of this place, has returned to Easton from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Everhardt.

'Plains & Fanwood.

After spending nearly a year in the borough, Mr. and Mrs. James Otto and son expect to leave today. Mrs. Otto and son will spend several weeks at Deal, and from there may proceed to Maine to stay the remainder of the summer. Mr. Otto, who was German consul to Kingston, Jamaica, until the outbreak of the European war, may go to Germany or possibly travel in this country in the interest of that government. Mr. Otto came to the borough from the island soon after his country entered the war and in the short sojourn here has gained a wide circle of friends. Mrs. Otto has been an ardent worker at the meetings of the local Belgian Relief Society and is a member of the Tuesday Afternoon Literary Club.

The fifteen members of the graduating class of School No. 1 spent an enjoyable afternoon yesterday on a picnic to the mountains. They were accompanied by several of the school instructors and a pleasant three-mile walk was made toward Berkeley Heights. A stop was made for refreshments and the return home was made late in the afternoon.

The local pupils attending the Westfield High School started their final examinations today. Their summer vacation starts on Friday, June 25, one day later than the closing date of the local schools.

Contractor William Linden has completed the macadamizing of Watson road, between the Fanwood firehouse and Russell road. He is now filling the ruts in all the local streets.

Miss Carrie Kent, of Greenville, is visiting her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Sheelen, of North avenue.

Miss Claire Hall, of South avenue is entertaining a schoolmate from Mt St. Mary College.

William H. Frick, who has been manager of the Hotel Maples, on the corner of South avenue and Terrill road, for several years, will apply to Judge Connolly, of the Court of the Common Pleas, in Elizabeth, today, for the transfer of the hostelry license to him. It was granted to James B. Guttridge last January. Mr Guttridge is the owner of the property and it is his intention to lease Mr. Frick the premises if his application is granted by the court.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Sands, of Fourth street, are spending the summer in New York in order that Mr. Sands may be near his place of business, as superintendent of the L. A. Thompson interests at Coney Island.

One of the honor pupils in the Plainfield High School is Miss Mariette McAnneny, of North avenue. Miss McAnneny entered the Plainfield institution last fall as a freshman, and on account of her exceptionally good record maintained throughout the year, she is exempt from taking any of the final "exams." On the whole the records made at the two neighboring institutions of learning by local pupils in the past year speaks well for their preparation in the Grammar School here, especially as there is no standard to be followed out. The first year of the sending of the graduates of the Grammar School to Westfield has nearly passed and has been successful in every way. The Board of Education will continue to send the products of School No. 1 to Westfield, as not only is the standard of teaching as high, but the tuition is considerably lower.

If present plans are carried out, the married and single men will engage in a tilt for local baseball honors on July 4. A. A. Storr, the local station agent, is getting the kinks out of his arm in order to go on the firing line for the matrimonial patrons, while several are willing to take up the burden for the single men.

The P. S. C. has practically completed the making of improvements to the trolley tracks along Westfield avenue, and that thoroughfare is considerably better for vehicles.

The Rifle Club will meet for its regular weekly meeting and shoot on the Westfield road range tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

LOCAL COLLEGE BOY DEFENDANT IN SUIT

Monroe Good and Three Others Sued for Part in Hazers' Escapade.

Because a crowd of Colgate University students clipped off his hair during "moving-up day" festivities, June 10, Walter Eddy, of Hamilton, N. Y., has brought collective suit in the Supreme Court against Monroe Good, a prominent Plainfield boy; Leads J. Gennessee, Ferris Edwards and Richard W. Devine, all members of the Colgate football eleven, for $5,000. Eddy insists that it took him four years to grow the crop of hair that was cut off.

Good is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Ezra Good, of Cameron avenue, and played right guard on the college football team last fall. During his career in the Plainfield High School, from which he was graduated in 1913, Good attained considerable prominence through his work in football, baseball and basketball, and at the conclusion of his High School course was awarded the Yale cup for efficiency in athletics, scholarship and leadership.

The offense of which he stands accused borders on the hazing idea, and is something that has been strictly tabooed and made a misdemeanor by college faculties. Years ago it was not uncommon to hear of escapades in which a college "freshie" had been deprived of his hair or tarred and feathered, but severe punishment has been meted out to organizers of such frolics of late, and the practice has been somewhat lessened.

As the result of a number of grievances and of long-standing bitterness between the manager of the Palace Theatre in the village of Hamilton and [illegible] the Colgate University student body, a reign of terror has existed in Hamilton during the past several nights, culminating in a display of firearms, serious damage to the theatre and the arrest yesterday of a number of students.

Manager Ansley and assistants with revolvers, prevented a crowd of students from entering the theatre. The latter drew off and proceeded to stone the theatre building, smashing many windows and causing other damage.

In the midst of the melee Manager Ansley appeared on the scene with a shotgun, which, it is stated, he discharged toward the students, but no one was injured. Ansley was arrested, but later was discharged. Students under arrest for attacking the theatre will be placed on trial today.

TERRIFIC STORM IN MIDDLE WEST DAMAGES CROPS

Kansas City, June 18.—No lives were lost in Kansas during the series of tornadoes, high winds and heavy rains which struck the entire State yesterday and last night, according to reports filtering into Kansas City today. At Great Bend more than 20,000 acres of wheat were destroyed. Rains ranging from 1 to 4½ inches were reported through Central Kansas. Near flood conditions prevail in Northern Oklahoma and along the Atchison Railway. Hail swept Northeastern Kansas.

EXTRA DIVIDEND CAUSES ESTATE INCOME DISPUTE

Beorge Judge Connblly, in the Orphan's Court at Elizabeth, this morning, the Plainfield Trust Company, as trustee of the estate of Dorothy S. Clark, petitioned for a ruling as to the distribution of certain income money. By the terms of the will, the income from the estate was bequeathed Mrs. Clark's husband, William Clark, during his life time, after which it was to revert to her brother, William Sparkman, of New York. The propery included a number of shares of Standard Oil stock, and after Mrs. Clark's death, the company declared an extra dividend that was not included in the regular channel and about which there is question as to whether it can be construed as legal income.

William D. Wolfskeil, representing Mr. Sparkman, claimed that the dividend money should not be paid to Mr. Clark and that if he was entitled to any of it at all it should only be fifty per cent. His full contention was that the money rightfully belonged to Sparkman. Only a short hearing was held after which Judge Connolly adjourned the matter for one week in order to give it full and complete consideration. The Trust Company was represented by William A. Coddington, and George W. Anderson, of Newark, appeared for Mr. Clark.

PROBASCO CLASS MEETS.

The Probasco Bible Class held its last monthly meeting of the season at the Y. M. C. A., last night. It was a particularly enjoyable evening, there being the largest attendance in several years. Helpful talks were heard from W. D. Murray, Alfred Estes, Dr. N. H. Probasco and J. Henry Crane. Howard Parry sang two delightful solos. Refreshments were served, after which a social time was greatly enjoyed by all present.

WANTS BLAME PUT WHERE IT BELONGS

Present Legislature Not Resonsible for Eliminating National Guard Feature.

Criticism in the public press directed at the 1915 Legislature for failing to appropriate sufficient funds to enable the National Guard to hold its annual encampment at Sea Girt, has been branded as "unwarranted and unjust" by Assemblyman Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, and he has made the following statement of explanation to the Daily Press:

"The appropriations for this year's encampment were made by last year's Legislature and are $12,000 more than the amount spent for last year's encampment. This year's Legislature appropriated $12,700 more for next year's encampment than was used last year; consequently, if there is no encampment at Sea Girt, this year, it must be for some cause other than the lack of sufficient appropriation to conduct such an encampment.

"If our soldier boys do not go to camp this year, it is up to the Governor, the Military Board, or the officers of the National Guard, to explain, and not to this year's or to last year's Legislature."

The expenditures for the 1914 encampment amounted to $75,227.93; the 1914 appropriation available for this year's encampment is $87,700, and the appropriation of the present Legislature for 1916 is $88,100. Thus, the State has $87,700 at its disposal should it decide to hold the encampment at Sea Girt next month in accordance with the annual custom. The fact that previous announcement has carried with it a statement to the effect that there will be no Sea Girt camp this summer and as a consequence the criticism has arisen.

This year's increase included a $600 item for the payment of a clerk for the instructor inspector; an $8,578.58 increase for the pay of officers and men; $2,024.90 for rifle practice expenses for men and officers; $2,071.33 for supplies; $958.27 horse allowance to officers; $6.91 traveling expenses for U. S. Army instruction inspectors $87.07 support of Field Hospital and Medical Corps. A deduction of $1,251.59 has been made in the item of maintenance of the camp ground, this being the only decrease.

CIVIL WAR VETS AT ASBURY PARK

The Election of Officers Will Be the Feature of Closing Session Today.

Four hundred veterans of the Civil War are gathered in Asbury Park attending the forty-eighth annual encampment of the Department of New Jersey, G. A. R., the opening session of which was held yesterday. The Women's Relief Corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R., are also holding their annual meetings at the shore. Last night there was a campfire at the Arcade, and today is being occupied with business sessions. The encampment will close tonight with another display of fireworks.

Under a suspension of nominations, Rev. William T. Abbott, of Asbury Park, was re-elected chaplain yesterday. There are many contests on for the other officers to be elected today. W. F. Washington, of Atlantic City, and Uriah Seeley, of Newark, have been nominated for commander.

There were 105 G. A. R. Posts in New Jersey in good standing on December 31 last, with a membership of 2,995. During the year there were 266 deaths, 22 members lost by honorable discharge, 18 by transfer, 121 by suspension and five by delinquent report. The total receipts for the year were $36,689.20. There was a balance of $14,490.38 in the relief fund and the total value of post property was $118,250.56. There are sixteen past commanders now living, and all are in fairly good health. The Women's Relief Corps and Ladies of the G. A. R. will also elect today.

WAR NEWS

the middle Niemen River there is nothing of special importance to report. On the Byura River front, north of Sochaczew, Poland, we repulsed a number of attacks by small German forces yesterday. The battle continues on the Galician front."

Constantinople, June 18.—Today's Turkish war statement says:

"Our batteries on the Dardanelles narrows bombarded the enemy's positions near Sed El Bahr again, throwing shells against the Allies' artillery emplacements, their infantry camps and their ammunition transports. On the other fronts there is nothing to report."

PREPARING FOR DEFENCE.

The publicity committee of the local branch of the National Security League makes an appeal for support in another column in today's Press. This organization, if it accomplishes what it has set out to do, will work untold benefit to the country. It is trying to bring about sensible preparation by the government for defence in case of war. The primary object of the movement is to make Congress realize that the people are thoroughly familiar with our unpreparedness. If there has been any doubt in the public mind about the matter, former President Taft's recent article in the Saturday Evening Post should be convincing. His broad experience as Secretary of War and President qualifies him to speak with more authority than any private citizen in the country at the present time.

Coming so soon after the great gathering held under the auspices of the league in New York city, where many well known men discussed the need of better armament, the appeal should receive a ready response from hundreds of Plainfielders. They can not but realize that our national position does not harmonize with the vastness of our national interests. figured, as the Pittsburgh Leader says, "either as a country to remain always at peace with the world, or as a nation of resource and treasure which may have its life threatened at any hour, in spite of our determined attitude for peace."

America and Americans have depended too much upon spontaneous defense when a crisis has rushed upon us, with a strong reliance upon Providence. Former President Taft's cutting shaft that "Providence watches over children, drunken men, and the United States" should be no longer true and a national reproach to Americans. We must cease to hang all our dependence upon Providence and the spontaneous defense of the American citizen hurriedly drilled into a fighting man. The American citizen makes a good soldier, and Providence will give us what is our due, but the American soldier cuts a sorry figure when compared to the trained military man of other nations.

The time has gone by when the United States can throw into the field a huge army of volunteers, imperfectly armed, improperly equipped, and expect it to hold its own, no matter how intense the patriotism that fires the souls of men in the field.

Our desire for peace should not blind us to the fact that we ought to provide reasonable protection for the country. Neither should our peaceful character blind us to the fact that we have none of those adequate defenses the country should have. Nor should our determination against war close our eyes to the fact that we may be called upon to make a defense which our helplessness would forbid if the demand should fall upon us suddenly.

Patersonians recently conducted a ten day campaign to raise $135,000 for the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. in that city. After strenuous efforts until the last minute, the total amount pledged was $37,000. Following a hard winter, with many industries partially or entirely shut down; the Sunday campaign which is reported to have gathered in $100,000 of Paterson money; the appeals which are being made for the Belgians and other European war sufferers, coupled with the demands for the people of the city themselves, it is not surprising that the campaign was a failure. The American people have gone the limit in giving during the last year. No other nation could have equalled what we have done under like conditions. Everybody has economized in their personal affairs, postponed improvements to their homes, and in other ways made sacrifices. Here in Plainfield the Y. M. C. A. directors wished to build a new building, the money for which they hoped to raise through a campaign similar to that held for the hospital over three years ago. But they saw the trend of the times, and have been content to do their work with what is generally known to be insufficient equipment. When times get normal again Paterson will undoubtedly make another effort to raise the money, and they will get it. So will the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. It is not a case of the people being tired of giving. The demands have been so great that they have found it impossible to do any more.

The retirement of George P. Mellick from the presidency of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital is, as a director said, "one to be much regretted." Mr. Mellick has given generously of his time and money, to the hospital during the last four years, and it was largely to his inspiration and whole-hearted support that the campaign three years ago resulted in successfully raising over $125,000. Practically all of the modern additions and improvements which have made that institution one of the best in the United States, have been added during his term as president. Edward H. Ladd, Jr. the new executive, will have the best wishes of all the friends of the hospital in succeeding to the office vacated by Mr. Mellick.

There are a lot of people in the city who wish that the matter of the Gloekler corner would be settled once and for all. Probably on a dozen different occasions during the last three years stories have appeared that the property has been taken over by a well known cigar company. The last report, published in the Press on Wednesday, and virtually confirmed by the vice president of the company, is now denied by Mr. Gloekler. Certainly the old building now "decorating" the best business corner in the city cannot be called an asset to the city, and it is to be hoped that the latest report on the matter is true.

"The Editorial Point of View Applied to the Individual," is the subject of tomorrow's editorial. It has been written by Francis K. Anderson, at one time employed on the Daily Press under the ownership of the late A. L. Force, and at present editor of the National 5, 10 and 25 Cent Magazine.

Dr. Frank Moore, head of the Rahway Reformatory, said after Assemblyman William N. Runyon had made a stirring speech to the boys there on Tuesday, that his talk "rang like the words of a man who may be governor some day." We hope that he is a prophet.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

In your issue of June 15, I read an article referring to W. L. Heath's financial affairs.

Will Heath's money was his own to spend whenever, wherever and however he chose to do, therefore it is not the public's business.

From this date the name of W. L. Heath or any member of his family is not to be printed in your paper unless duly signed and authorized by a direct member of his family, which is not likely to happen.

Trusting you may find something more elevating to fill your paper than private family affairs, I subscribe myself,

MARION L. HEATH,
Mother of Wm. L. Heath.

(Editor's Note.—The article regarding Mr. Heath told of a court order compelling him to pay a farmhand certain back wages. The order was issued by Judge Connolly, at Elizabeth, and was an item of news, in the strictest sense. In the work of publishing a newspaper there are many things which it is found necessary to print, which may give offense to the persons directly concerned. The Daily Press has no intention of deliberately offending anyone. If, however, Mr. Heath, or any other person does anything that is a matter of news the Daily Press will record that fact just as it has done in the past.)

MISS DAY GIVEN RECEPTION

congratulated Miss Day on her successful career as an instructor, and expressed the thanks of himself and all his subordinates for the great help she had given. Archibald Cox, president of the Board of Education, also spoke in a complimentary vein, and in conclusion read the following resolution passed by the School Board.

"Resolved: Whereas, Miss Anna M. Day, principal of the grammar school, has tendered her resignation after thirty-five years of service in the schools of Plainfield, therefore, be it resolved: that her resignation be accepted with regret, and, be it further resolved that the board expresses to Miss Day its appreciation of her work, and extends to her sincere thanks for the benefits she has given to the city of Plainfield through her long and efficient service to her children.

Musical numbers for the occasion were furnished by Mrs. Noel C. Evans and Mrs. Guy Bender. Mrs. Evans rendered several pleasing violin selections, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Bender, and Mrs. Bender sang two solos, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Evans. In conclusion, an informal reception took place, during which punch and refreshments were served. The latter part of the program was in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. Fred Butler, Mrs. Herbert Buxton, Mrs. Virginia Purcell, Mrs. C. A. Price and Mrs. Van Zandt.

Miss Day is a native of Shaftsbury, Vt., and prepared for teaching at the Albany, New York, Normal School. Her first charge was at Botsford, Conn., where she remained for one year, after which she taught for another year at Newton, Conn. A third year was spent at the school in Sprinterville, Greenfield County, N. Y., from which place she came to Plainfield. Miss Day has been a thorough and efficient instructor, and as a reward for her excellent services, was made principal of the Whittier School when it was first opened. In recent years she has been supervising principal of both the Whittier and Stillman schools, and is at present at the head of the Plainfield Grammar School located in the High School building.

Her retirement comes just at a time when she is at the height of her success and she retires to take a much-needed rest. She will travel extensively later on, but at present her plans are incomplete.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE GIVEN TO MISS AGNES DECAMP

The Five Hundred Club, of which Miss Agnes De Camp is a member, tendered her a birthday surprise at her home on Jackson avenue, last night. Twenty-five friends called to celebrate the young woman's natal day. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion, the parlor being in red, while the dining room was in pink and green. The table centre piece was a large birthday cake and pink carnations adorned each end of the table. The evening was pleasantly spent in singing, dancing and playing "500." Miss Helen Johnson won the honor prize for the playing. The guest of honor was the recipient of many handsome and useful gifts. At a late hour refreshments were served. Guests were present from New York, Netherwood and this city.

MISS CROFT, OF BURMAH, GIVES MISSIONARY TALK

Miss Julia Craft, who has been engaged in mission work in Burmah for a number of years, under the direction of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, gave an address at the Temple Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, before the missionary societies of the First and Temple Baptist churches.

Miss Craft gave an interesting account of her work in Burmah, telling of the progress being made there by the Baptist missionaries. She also made a strong plea for continued support of this work, which, she said, was most important at this time. It is expected that Miss Craft will return to Plainfield at some date in the near future and make another address concerning her work.

MISS JANE TOUCHON THE BRIDE OF E. E. JOHNSON

Miss Jane Touchon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Touchon, of 353 Bergen street, this city, and Elmer E. Johnson, son of Mrs. Elmer Johnson, of North Plainfield, were quietly married last night at the parsonage of the Temple Baptist church by Rev. Evarts C. Conover.

The couple was accompanied by Miss Marguerite Johnson, sister of the bridegroom, and Harry Stewart, also of this city, was the best man. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will reside in Newark, where the bridegroom is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

Melvin Musson, a returned missionary from Malaysia, will give a free lecture at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the W. C. T. U. rooms of the Babcock building. Mr. Musson sings the Malay songs in native costume. An interesting time is expected, and all are cordially invited.

The Light Bearers of the First Presbyterian church will hold an entertainment and sale in the church chapel tonight at 8 o'clock. A silver collection will be taken up.

THE TEMPERATURE.

Somerset Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M. will nominate officers at its session of this evening, while the semi-annual election will take place next week.

Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., will confer the Royal Arch Mason Degree upon two candidates at its session to be held next hursday evening. On the evening of Monday, June 28, a number of the brothers of the local chapter will visit Amboy Chapter, No. 41, at Perth Amboy, where "Past High Priests' Night" will be observed upon that occasion. After this month, Jerusalem Chapter will hold no further meetings until September.

Rent one of your rooms and reduce your own rent materially. It's a simple and sensible plan—and it works.

Flemington.

Crescent Lodge, Knights of Pythias, entertained a delegation from Lodge of the Castle, of Somerville, last night.

Norman Landis, John P. Bartles, Elias Vosseller, John L. Connet and Rev. A. W. Sonne, will attend the meeting of the Presbytery of New Brunswick in the Milford Presbyterian Church Tuesday.

The women of St. Mary's Catholic church will hold their annual lawn festival on the church grounds tonight and Saturday.

Somerville

Miss Clara Davis, of East Cliff street, is at Keansburg Beach.

The Misses Ruth and Dorothy Hutchinson, of the Centenary Collegiate Institute, Hackettstown, are home for the summer with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hutchinson, of Ross street.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

All seniors are expected to be on hand in the school auditorium next Monday for the final rehearsal of commencement week activities. Places on the rostrum will be assigned at that time, and it is essential that everyone be present.

The pupils of the seventh and eighth grades are occupying the school auditorium each afternoon rehearsing for their graduation exercises.

Two hundred class-day tickets have been issued by the senior class, and anyone not supplied may secure them by applying either to graduates or at the school.

Many High School pupils are taking advantage of the opportunity to take college entrance examinations this week. The college board of examiners is holding daily sessions from 9 until 6 o'clock.

Ralph Runyon, captain of the Plainfield High School track team, will make his first appearance in the metropolitan senior championships at Travers Island tomorrow afternoon. Should Runyon succeed in winning a place in the pole vault in this meet he will be named as one of those whose expenses will be paid to the Harvard stadium tryouts at Cambridge for the team that will go to the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Jack Fritts, the school athletic coach, will accompany Runyon, and will compete in the javelin throw.

PERSONAL.

James Casey, of Spruce street, this city, has accepted a position with the Central Railroad Company.

Miss Nellie Barry, of Elizabeth, is visiting friends on Central avenue.

Thomas Burke, of West Third street, and Elmer Bollard, both employed at Pond's Tool Works, have accepted positions with a Waterbury, Conn., firm.

Miss Margaret Whalen, of High Bridge, is visiting her sister, Mrs. William Edmondson, of New street.

Miss Vera Steiner, of Akron, Ohio, is spending two weeks with the Misses Florence and May Wyckoff, of Watchung avenue.

William Tier, of Westervelt avenue, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from his duties with the Ingersoll firm of New York.

Miss Florence Apgar, of Codington avenue, has left school to take a position with the New York Telephone Company.

Raymond Wyckoff, formerly of this city, but now of Akron, Ohio, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation spent at the home of his father on Watchung avenue, the borough.

FEAR INTRICATE TIE FOR NATIONAL TITLE

McCarthy, Former Plainfielder, Returned a Card of 82, 84-166 Yesterday.

E. K. McCarthy, formerly of this city, but now of Jacksonville, Fla., returned a card of 82, 84—166 in the first round of the national open golf championship, at Baltusrol, yesterday. Today he is scheduled to play George McLean.

The possibility of an intricate tie for the national championship was well brought forward yesterday, when the first thirty-six holes of medal play for this title were run off. In the first place, Louis Tellier, the Canoe Brook professional, who once held the open championship of France, and James M. Barnes, of Philadelphia, Western open champion, tied for the lead with totals of 146.

This was a stroke better than Michael J. Brady, of Wollaston, the Massachusetts open champion, and two strokes better than Jerome D. Travers, of Upper Montclair, the leading amateur.

Then again, no less than five times during the day was the best score ever made at Baltusrol equaled. It was a score of 71, and was accomplished by Tellier, Barnes, Charles E. Evans, Jr., of Chicago, Western amateur champion; Thomas L. McNamara, of Boston, former holder of the metropolitan open title, and Mike Brady.

RALPH RUNYON HAS THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME

Ralph Runyon has done his final practicing for the annual senior championships, which will be held at Travers Island tomorrow afternoon. The Pastime A. C., of which he is a member, expects great things of its boy athlete in the pole vault event, and although pitted against the best in the metropolitan district, Runyon will undoubtedly make a good showing.

The winners of the events tomorrow will have their expenses paid to the Harvard stadium in the near future, where the national tryouts will be held. The winners of that meet will go to the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco to take part in the monster meet there.

Reports from Lake Hopatcong state that bass and pickerel are biting in great shape.

Weakfish are being landed in Jamaica Bay. One man made a catch of thirty-six, but all of them gave him a stiff fight.

Many good catches of bass, catfish and pickerel are being made in Branch Brook Park Lake.

The change in the moon didn't change the weather, that can be noticed. Perhaps the first quarter, which is due next Sunday night, will reverse the east winds and nail them in the west for an extended period.

The black bass season opened in New York Wednesday, with the exception of Lake George.

The first channel bass to be brought ashore at the end of a fishing line at Corson's Inlet was landed Monday. It weighed thirty-two pounds and put up a great fight. Now that the first one has been caught others are sure to follow, as Corson's Inlet is one of the few good channel bass grounds along the Jersey coast. Like all other coast fish, the channel bass are late. What at first was thought to be an early season turned out to be a very late one, but it is hoped that it will not be a bad one. Water conditions are bad, as there is no continued warmth to it.

Now that the weakfish are being caught in Raritan Bay some good reports may be expected from this time on.

GAME AT HYDE OVAL.

Clarence Smalley's Interhaven ball-tossers are due to hook up with the Watchung delegation on Hyde Oval at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The game will undoubtedly be an interesting affair.

The Vail-Nash, Sr., combination of the Elks' two-man bowling tourney, regained possession of first place in the team standing, last night, by making a clean sweep over the Causbrook-McVoy pinners, the team that displaced them several weeks ago. Before their triple defeat Causbrook and McVoy had previously taken the odd game from the Crist-Cose duo and dropped to a triple tie for second place.

Vail, captain of his team, did some fine rolling in the last two games, getting score of 222 and 200. The Crist-Cose team retained twelfth place.

CITY AMATEUR BASEBALL LEAGUE OPENS TOMORROW

All is in readiness for that city championship race startoff tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, when six teams, occupying three diamonds in this city, will play the initial games. All of the teams have been playing for some time, and midseason performances are expected from the many fans who will follow the progress from the first ball in the opening game till the league is over or won by one of the contesting teams.

All six of the teams are about of the same calibre, with Saurer having a possible edge on her opponents.

SAURER VS. T. A. B.

Either the Saurer or T. A. B. aggregations will have to fall to the bottom of the list after the smoke is cleared away tomorrow, but a fight to the finish is predicted. The city champs are naturally the favorites, but the Abstainers may be there with a surprise. It is rumored that Warry McLoughlin, who did the bulk of the pitching for Saurer last year, will not perform in the game tomorrow, and the T. A. B. artillery will face Johnny Dixon, the port sider, who has a good variety of stuff. He will be opposed by either John or Tone Denny.

BAPTISTS VS. NETHERWOOD.

The First Baptist team will open the season on the Netherwood field, and feel confident of defeating the East Enders. Ungaretti will probably do the mound work for the Front street aggregation.

CLINTON A. C. AT HOPE.

Dick Schott will work for Hope Chapel against the Clinton A. C. on the Clinton avenue field, which is the home of the Hope team. These teams are very evenly matched, and some battle should result.

LOCALS AT DUNELLEN.

The Plainfield Juniors will cross bats with the fast Dunellen Boy Scouts on Maurer Oval tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The local team will line up as follows: Snyder, c; Butler, p; L. Davidson, 1b; R. Semer, 2b; V. Mullin, ss; Dealman, 3b; Jackson, lf; Kline, cf; Brandt, rf. The Plainfield Juniors would like to meet the K. O. K. A., of Somerville, some Saturday afternoon.

WESTFIELD G. C. TENNIS.

A mixed doubles tennis tourney will be held at the Westfield Golf Club tomorrow afternoon. A large number of teams have been entered.

NETHERWOODS IN ACTION.

The Netherwood ball team will play the Highland Park nine at Highland Park tomorrow afternoon.

HERE'S A FREAK PLAY.

A play that will be entered in the records as a freak came off in the Columbus-Indianapolis game at Columbus on April 19 when three runs scored on a strike out and won the game for Indianapolis. It was in the eighth inning, and the Indians seemed beaten, the score being 4 to 3 against them. After two were out Crandall got on with a pass, and he stopped at second on Reilly's single to center. Gossett then batted, and two strikes were called on him. He took a mighty heave at the third pitched ball and missed it. Coleman failed to catch the strike, and the ball rolled away from the plate about five feet. Gossett beat it for first, while Crandall and Reilly sprinted toward third and second respectively. Coleman recovered the ball and threw toward Miller at first base to catch Gossett. The throw was a poor one, and it went wide of the mark and rolled foul far out into right field.

Did the Indians beat it? Sure, Mike, they did beat it, and Boss Hendricks threw some kind of a fit in the coaching box off third base. Burch recovered the ball for the Senators and heaved it to the diamond, where Ferry tried to intercept it. In the meantime Crandall and Reilly flashed across the plate, while Gossett was beating it to third. Ferry made a mess of it while trying to intercept the ball, and when it rolled away again Gossett continued on and scored—three runs on a whim! A home run clout would not have got any more results. The fans groaned at the luckless Senators, who really had outplayed and outbatted the Indians.

IS MATTY'S ARM GONE?

Giants' Veteran Pitcher Having Trouble With His Salary Wing.

Christy Mathewson, the New York Giants' veteran pitcher, has been able to accomplish little for his team this season, and his prospects for doing anything at all in the immediate future are practically nothing. At the beginning of his sixteenth season as a Giant Matty acquired a sore arm, and now he has the doctors tinkering with him.

Matty's pitching arm is not affected. The trouble lies in his left arm and shoulder. Anybody who is familiar with his pitching motion can realize that he has been badly handicapped.

Probably there are some wiseacres who can shake their heads and say they knew that fellow would get a sore arm some day. Sixteen years is a long time to wait for it, though. Matty says the salary arm felt fine when he exercised recently, but the motion of raising his left arm was painful.

Every now and then Matty has a throbbing pain in his left shoulder and a stiff neck. Matty says this trouble began just after the season opened. He blamed cold weather for it and thought he would be able to lose it when warm weather set in. This accounts for some of the games he pitched and lost. Thinking it was only a cold, he never complained, but it is probable now that he may have to go home and take a rest.

Secretary Foster's theory is that a nerve or a set of nerves have slipped their trolley, and he is hopeful that expert massaging will quickly remedy the trouble. Whatever is the matter, Matty will not pitch for some time.

You May Find a Worker Trained and Fit to do Your Work.

A worker whose salary you will voluntarily raise in a short time!

"Getting along" with half-competent help, in home, office, store or factory, is a poor plan—a poor business policy.

The quest for the Competent Worker is important enough to justify a real campaign of classified advertising in the Plainfield Daily Press—although it does not often require a very long campaign.

A Galley o' Fun!

A LATE VACATION.

"Well, now, Mabel, we must map a route. How about the trip on the lakes?"

"O, Henry, I couldn't take that trip! You know Florence took that trip and I have borrowed two of Florence's gowns. I don't want the people at the hotels recognizing Florence's gowns."

"We might go through the Thousand Islands."

"It wouldn't do. Henrietta went through the Thousand Islands and I have all her shirtwaists and two of her hats."

"How about the Berkshires, Lenox, and all that? Pretty country, they say."

"I'd love to see it, but Genevieve spent a lot of time in the Berkshires and the evening wrap I borrowed from her is very conspicuous."

"Atlantic City, then, for a starter?"

"Horrors, no! Somebody would be sure to see me on the Boardwalk wearing Elizabeth's tan coat."

"Well, I guess we'll have to pass up the trip little girl. You have collected a nice outfit for yourself but we don't seem able to map a route that won't conflict with your clothes."

SATIRE.

Citizen. — What do you want money?

Outcast.—Why, if yer got a plate of hot soup in yer pocket it'll do as well!

THE WAY OF IT.

Mrs. Grogan.—Oi hear Kelly was in an automobeel accident.

Mrs. Dooley.—Yis. Little Timmy Riley across th' way threw a brick at wan, and it landed on Kelly's face!

THE SPELL OF THE SUMMER

I'm really in an awful state,
All power of thought I lack,
Peculiar feelings agitate
My region cardiac.
I can't keep still a minute. In-
Termittently I blush.
My friends all say I'm getting thin
I have another crush!

Much maudlin verse I daily pen,
As love-sick suitors do;
Her golden hair I sing, and then
Her eyes of shining blue.
A saner man, no doubt, would cal
My rimes inhoate mush.
I just can't help it—that is all;
I have another crush.

So sempiternally I sing
Of golden hair, blue eye.
Themes that inspire me to—By jing
Who was that just went by?
Those hazel eyes! What hair! Like jet!
A mantling, rose-pink flush!
By jove! My heart will kill me yet
I've got another crush!

N. Salsbury.

NO BUSINESS ABILITY.

Gloomy Poet.—Ah, that's always the way. Why is it that other men have opportunities and I don't. Now, if I were only a business man I could take advantage of that!

GREAT SCHEME.

"Mrs. Goodbody pays her four children a cent a dozen for swatting the flies that get into the house."

"How does the plan work?"

"Nobly! When their mother is away the little boy holds the screen door open and lets in the flies, while his sister slays them with neatness and dispatch. Sometimes when the good lady is absent for an hour or so the dear children manage to assassinate a sufficient number of the pestiferous insects to enable them to pay their way into the moving picture show that very blessed night."

SIMPLE SOLUTION.

Mrs. Gramercy.—I was days and days packing the trunks, and if those horrid customs inspectors toss the things about I'll never be able to get them in again.

Gramercy.—I guess there won't be any trouble, my dear, after they've seized all the things you're trying to smuggle in.

Your next new boarder is probably watching the classified ads just now—for "opportunity news."

MASTER PAUL POPE WAS GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

Master Paul Pope, of this city, was tendered a surprise party at the home of Frederick VanNest, of East Second street, last night. Mandolin and piano selections were rendered by Miss Jennie Gusterson and the young host. Games and dancing were enjoyed during the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Walters and Russell Feiring. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

BETHEL CHAPEL GIVE RECEPTION TO PASTOR

The members of Bethel chapel gave a reception last night in honor of their new pastor, Rev. William Lloyd Imes. A large number of members of the church and friends called to extend their best wishes for his success in his new undertaking. J. A. Williams made the invocation and Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church delivered the address of welcome.

James E. Kimball also spoke a few words of welcome. Mr. Imes responded heartily to the kindness of the people. Organ and piano solos were rendered by Charles Va[illegible] and Mr. Imes, respectively.

TWO PLAYS GIVEN AT YOUNG PEOPLE'S FESTIVAL

Notwithstanding the severe storm, the entertainment given by the Young People's Society, of St. Peter's Lutheran church at Debele's Hall, last night, was a success. The young women of the church presented a farce entitled, "Our Aunt from California." The characters were: "Their Sisters," the Misses H. Grotmann; Sisters," the Misses H. Grotmann, E. K. Kotte and A. Moldenke; "Their Mother," Miss E. Richter; "The Aunt from California," Miss L. Grotmann; "Their Dressmaker," Miss L. Faber; "Their Maid," Miss L. Burgess.

Miss H. Kroohs gave an amusing and well rendered monologue entitled: "The One Legged Goose." In conclusion the young men of the church presented a farce: "Wanted—A Male Cook." The characters were: "An Old Bachelor," T. Moldenke; "A Yankee from Greenville," O. Heinold; "A Native of Ireland," R. Moldenke, "A French Cook," E. Moldenke.

All the participants earned the well merited applause that was accorded them. During the first play the storm played some pranks with the electric lights, to the evident delight of the audience. A social hour with refreshments concluded the evening's program.

ANNUAL PICNIC.

The annual picnic and outing to be held under the auspices of Plainfield Lodge, No. 627, I. O. B. A., and J. H. Camp, No. 57, Order Sons of Zion, has been planned for Sunday, July 18. The affair will be held at Chimney Rock, on the mountains back of Bound Brook. Dancing during both the afternoon and evening, music and refreshments will feature the occasion. The proceeds will be for the benefit of Talmud Torah. Auto buses will meet the Main Line trolleys at Bound Brook and convey the picnickers to the grounds.

Rent one of your rooms and reduce your own rent materially. It's a simple and sensible plan—and it works.

DEACON OWNED ALL BUT THE RELIGION

"Reading Out" of Peter Robinson of Ebenezer Church Had Its Disadvantages.

Good and worthy brethren of the Ebenezer Baptist church, who, until this morning, held forth in a domicile on East Fourth street, owned by Nathan Meyers, are reflecting seriously on their action in "reading out of the faith" one, Peter Robinson, deacon and Sunday-school superintendent. It has since been learned that Peter owned the choir, Peter owned the organ, Peter's daughter played the organ, Peter owned the chairs—in fact, Peter had a monopoly on everything except the practiced creed. Ebenezer churchgoers are today willing to admit that Robinson's ostracism has awakened considerable consternation, and rumor has it that a petition is in circulation requesting Peter to return to the fold, and offering inducements such as restoration to the offices which he previously dominated over and the added responsibility of custodian of church funds.

Trouble began to brew on Sunday when Pastor Elliott anounced to the congregation that there would be no children's day exercises, an event for which Deacon Robinson had made elaborate preparations, but instead a Rahway minister would preach. According to the deacon, who is highly indignant over the action of the church council in "reading him out," Pastor Elliott put him in full charge of the arrangements of an appropriate program for children's day, and he was at a loss to understand just what reason the minister had for throwing cold water on his plans. To make his indignation all the more apparent to the other parishioners, Robinson announced that he would have the minister and his followers in the church arrested if they refused to observe Children's Day.

Children's Day came; Children's Day went; but the services were not held. The disappearance of Robinson's Sunday-go-to-meeting smile was noticeable. On this occasion his countenance was darkened and his smile had faded.

"Reading" Deacon Robinson out of the church had its results. The former deacon immediately laid claim to the organ and chairs and also to his daughter. But another "snag" halted his plans. Landlord Meyer appeared on the scene just as Robinson was removing the chattels with a $3 bill for arrears in rent. Subsequently Robinson visited his counsel, who sought the clerk of the District Court for the purpose of taking out a writ of replevin. After camping on that official's trail for several days he was discovered returning from a convention at Asbury Park and the writ was secured.

Furthermore, Robinson, accompanied by Constable George York, visited the East Fourth street premises and proceeded to lay claim to his property yesterday. Now the Ebenezer Baptists are looking for another philanthropic deacon to step into the shoes vacated by Robinson.

EVENT IN COUPLE'S LIVES

performed by the Rev. T. Stoffard Drowne, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Clinton place, Brooklyn. They made their home in Mt. Vernon for a time and thirty-five years ago removed to Plainfield.

Mr. Stevens was made secretary of the Postal Telegraph Company at the time it was organized and has held the office with every degree of success, much of the company's development being due to his business ability. When a young man he was connected with the old West Shore and Chicago Railroad, now known as the West Shore, but having a decided leaning toward the law, studied Blackstone in the office of the famous Coudert Brothers. He took his degree and was admitted to the bar but never practiced.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stevens have had a very active life in Plainfield, the former being interested in political circles as a Democrat, and the latter being a prominent worker in Holy Cross church. Hu[illegible] Plainfielders who cannot attend the reception tomorrow will be among those who will extend well wishes and congratulations in the spirit of the occasion.

IONA COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICERS

Iona Council, No. 14, Degree of Pocahontas, elected the following officers at its regular meeting, last night: Prophetess, Miss Carrie Forbes; pocahontas, Mrs. Corrinne Doyle; winona, Mrs. Nellie Dunn, powhatan, Lewis W. Clarke; representatives to the Great Council, Mrs. Julia Hallard; alternate, Miss Ella Sebring. The installation ceremonies will be held on July 15. The council received two propositions for membership and accepted an invitation from Tonalooka Council, of Cranford to attend a social gathering Monday, June 28.

FUND GETS ANOTHER BOOST.

Joseph Tate, of this city, gave a boost to the Independence Day celebration fund today by contributing $5, and it is hoped that many others will be encouraged to do likewise at the earliest possible date so as to insure the success of the affair.

BOROUGH SCHOOL BOYS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

While returning home by automobile from Nutley, where they had taken part in a tenis match with the Nutley High School racquet wielders, the members of the North Plainfield taken part in a tennis match with the in Elizabeth by the thunderstorm. Elmer French, manager of the team, took his companions to the home of a relative for shelter, and no sooner had the borough boys entered the house than an awful crash was heard on the roof, and the chimney fell, having been struck by lightning.

The roof was badly torn and each of the local boys picked up a piece of the wrecked chimney for a souvenir. They arrived home about 10 o'clock.

HENRY HANSEN MARRIES MISS INIS MALMSTROM

Miss Iris Justina Malmstrom, of Hansen, of South Plainfield, by the Rev. J. T. Lansdale, Wednesday night, at Mr. Lansdale's residence, on College place.

Mr. Hansen, formerly of Denmark, has been a machinist at Pond Tool Works for the past eight years. Miss Malmstrom is from Sweden, where her parents still reside. The couple will live at 211 Lee place.

ATTACKING TROOPS DESTROYED

Berlin, June 18 (by wireless).—The War statement today says:

"In western theatre our enemies continue their attempts to break through our lines to the north of La Basse Canal and have suffered a new defeat. Their attacking troops were destroyed, only a few men succeeded in retreating. East of Anares, south of Souchez and north of Scurie the French penetrated our outer positions at intervals. Due north of the Loette Hills we surrendered a section of trench situated within range of the enemy's fire, in accordance with our plans. Since June 15 we have captured on the battlefield north of Arras 17 officers and 647 men.

"Eastern theatre—An advancing Russian division was driven back by German cavalry across the Szmeza branch."

BOROUGH TENNIS TEAM LOST.

The North Plainfield High School tenis team lost to Nutley High School at Nutley, yesterday afternoon. The score was 3 to 0, two singles and one doubles matches being dropped. The scores follow: Singles, Shaw defeated Force (N. P. H. S.), 6-1, 1-6, 6-0; Woodward (Nutley) defeated Dunring (N. P. H. It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

NATIONAL SECURITY LEAGUE ASKS PLAINFIELD SUPPORT

The Plainfield Branch of the National Security League, which was organized here within the past week, has already been the means of arousing the interest of many Plainfielders. The purpose and aims of the league are clearly set forth in the following which is addressed to the citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield by Edward C. Pearson, Charles L. Slocum and Edward F. Feickert, comprising the committee on publicity and information:

"The purpose of The National Security League is to place the United States in such a condition of military and naval preparedness as to make any hostile power hesitate to attack us. That we are not now in such a condition is a matter of public knowledge. The experience of the countries involved in the present war in Europe shows very plainly the great importance of a navy and how it should be composed. It can be readily seen that with our great coast lines our navy should be strong enough to meet hostile fleets on both oceans at once. The Panama Canal would not be a safe reliance in case of war for the transfer of a fleet from one coast to the other, as it would itself be an object of attack, might be easily destroyed, and does not seem as yet to have reached a condition of freedom from slides.

"The annual report of the Secretary of the Navy for 1914 shows that the program established in 1903 has not been followed out, and that we are deficient ten battleships prescribed at that time. We have practically no scout cruisers, without whose aid battleships are helpless; of submarines, shown to be of such great importance, both for offense and defense, we have very few, and those of little value; of air craft, the eyes both of the army and navy, we have only a very poor beginning, the few we have being of an inferior type. To defend 100,000,000 people, we have an available army of a trifle over 30,000 men.

"It is urged by many that we are in no danger of attack. So far as immediate attack is concerned, that is probably so, but it must be remembered that in the efforts of our government to be strictly neutral as between the belligerents it has pleased no one of them, and that the act of our manufacturers in selling arms and ammunition to the one belligerent alliance which can obtain delivery, has greatly angered the other alliance, whose loss of control of the seas has prevented it also from resorting to our factories. These dissatisfactions are not going to be easily appeased after the termination of this war shall set free powerful navies and military equipments, and the immense financial burdens imposed upon the warring powers will lead them, or some of them at least, to cast longing and covetous eyes at the immense wealth of our very imperfectly defended cities on the shores of the two oceans.

"We have seen the contemptuous way in which solemn treaties have been set aside where they stood in the way of some immediate advantage, and we have seen proclaimed the policy that a nation is a law to itself, and that the heretofore conceived theories and views of the amenities that should exist between nations are but empty dreams. That the hour will strike for us if we maintain our present inability to defend ourselves, is certain,—whether a question shall be raised directly between some foreign State and our own, or whether the attack is indirect, as for example, a disregard and defiance of our Monroe doctrine respecting the undesirability to this country of permitting foreign powers to establish colonies on this continent, and to seize territory for such purpose.

"The league desires to enroll such large numbers in its branches that its influence on members of Congress will be efficient in prevailing upon that body to give the matter of defense the serious consideration which it requires. It also desires to bring home to every citizen the facts in the case and the danger which we face. The primary purpose of the league is to make it certain that peace shall continue to be our lot by putting ourself in a position first to discourage, and second to repel attack if it shall come. This movement is not antagonistic to a general peace propaganda—the organizers of the league are neither military men, nor are they subsidized by the manufactures of arms, as has been rather spitefully charged by some whose zeal for other causes seems to outrun their judgment.

"The league does not desire to make our army and navy an offensive weapon, but an effective defensive one. While it may be true that the immense armaments which have been maintained for many years by several of the European powers ostensibly for defense, have been largely responsible for the present war, it cannot be argued from their example that the moderate degree of defensive preparation which the league seeks will either invite attack upon us, or incite us to use it in attacking another power. As to the spectre of militarism which seems to haunt the minds of many, an army of a quarter of a million in a population of four hundred times that number can hardly bring about such a disastrous condition; besides, militarism is a condition of mind of the people of a nation, and does not arise merely from the existence of an army, no matter how large.

"When for thirty years editors, university professors, clergy and all classes contributing to the formation of public opinion, ceaselessly preach militarism, a nation becomes obsessed with the belief that war is necessary to secure a place in the Sun. No such condition exists here, and the fear of militarism is groundless. Again it may be said without fear of contradiction that had every European nation been equally effective in preparation for war, there would have been no war. The war came because one nation had made so much greater and more effective preparation than the others. Finally, there is no effort in the work of the league to discredit the administration. No attack is made or contemplated upon the administration or any of its members; the movement is non-political. It is not to be believed for an instant that the administration has not learned the lesson of the European conflict, and appreciated the danger in which we may find ourselves after its termination, or that it will hesitate to place our country intelligently in a condition to minimize that danger.

"The strength of the league will be in its members, hence the Plainfield branch urges upon all citizens of our country residing in this vicinity who place the interests of the United States before that of any other nation, and who recognize the necessity of making the United States independent of the toleration of more powerfully equipped nations, to join this branch. The fees of members are one dollar a year. While not a great sum of money will be necessary to carry on its propaganda, yet some funds will be necessary, as it is proposed to hold mass meetings, entailing the expenses of hall-hire and advertising, and to distribute pamphlets; those who do not care to take an active part in the work may aid by becoming contributory members by the payment of five dollars a year, or life members by the payment of a lump sum of twenty-five dollars. Blank applications for membership may be made either to Charles L. Slocum, 502 Central avenue; Edward F. Feickert, at The State Trust Company, or to any member of the executive committee. Pamphlets showing national condition and needs may be obtained from the same persons."

CHAPTER XI.

Music.

BOYHOOD is the longest time in life—for a boy. The last term of the school year is made of decades, not of weeks, and living through them is like waiting for the millennium. But they do pass somehow, and at last there came a day when Penrod was one of a group that capered out from the graveled yard of ward school No. 7, carrolling a leavetaking of the institution, of their instructress and not even forgetting Mr. Capps, the janitor.

"Good-bye, teacher! Good-bye, school!
Good-bye, Cappsie, dern old fool!"

Penrod sang the loudest. For every boy there is an age when he "finds his voice." Penrod's had not "changed," but he had found it. Inevitably that thing had come upon his family and the neighbors, and his father, a somewhat dyspeptic man, quoted frequently the expressive words of the "Lady of Shalott," but there were others whose sufferings were as poignant.

Vacation time warmed the young of the world to pleasant languor, and a morning came that was like a brightly colored picture in a child's fairy story. Miss Margaret Schofield, reclining in a hammock upon the front porch, was beautiful in the eyes of a newly made senior, well favored and in fair raiment, beside her. A guitar rested lightly upon his knee, and he was trying to play, a matter of some difficulty, as the floor of the porch also seemed inclined to be musical. From directly under his feet came a voice of song, shrill, loud, incredibly piercing and incredibly flat, dwelling upon each syllable with incomprehensible reluctance to leave it:

"I have lands and earthly pow-wur,
I'd give all for a now-wur,
Whi-list setting at my-y-y dear old mother's knee-ee,
So-o-o rem-mem-bur whilst you're young"—

Miss Schofield stamped heartily upon the musical floor.

"It's Penrod," she explained. "The lattice at the end of the porch is loose, and he crawls under and comes out all bugs. He's been having a dreadful singing fit lately—running away to picture shows and vaudeville, I suppose."

Mr. Robert Williams looked upon her yearningly. He touched a thrilling chord on his guitar and leaned nearer. "But you said you have missed me," he began. "I"—

The voice of Penrod drowned all other sounds.

"So-o-o rem-mem-bur, whi-i-list you're young,
That the da-a-ys to you will come
When you're o-o-old and only in the way,
Do not scoff at them bee-cause"—

"Penrod!" Miss Schofield stamped again.

"You did say you'd missed me," said Mr. Robert Williams, seizing hurriedly upon the silence. "Didn't you say"—

A liveller tune rose upward.

"Oh, you talk about your fascinating beauties,
Of your dem-o-zells, your belles,
But the littil dame I met, while in the -sity,
She's par excellaws the queen of all the swells,
She's sweeter far"—

Margaret rose and jumped up and down repeatedly in a well calculated area, whereupon the voice of Penrod cried chokedly, "Quit that!" and there were subterranean coughings and sneezings.

"You want to choke a person to death?" he inquired severely, appearing at the end of the porch, a cobweb upon his brow. And, continuing, he put into practice a newly acquired phrase, "You better learn to be more considerick of other people's comfort."

Slowly and grievedly he withdrew, passed to the sunny side of the house, reclined in the warm grass beside his wistful Duke and presently sang again.

"She's sweeter far than the flower I named her after,
And the memery of her smile it haunts me yet!
When in after years the moon is softly beamun'
And at eve I smell the smell of mignonette
I will re-CALL that"—

"Pen-rod!"

Mr. Schofield appeared at an open window upstairs, a book in his hand.

"Stop it!" he commanded. "Can't I stay home with a headache one morning from the office without having to listen to—I never did hear such squawking!" He retired from the window, having too impulsively called upon his maker. Penrod, shocked and injured, entered the house, but presently his voice was again audible as far as the front porch. He was holding converse with his mother, somewhere in the interior.

"Well, what of it? Sam Williams told me his mother said if Bob ever did think of getting married to Margaret, his mother said she'd like to know what in the name o' goodness they expect to"—

Bang! Margaret thought it better to close the front door.

The next minute Penrod opened it. "I suppose you want the whole family to get a sunstroke," he said reproving ly. "Keepin' every breath of air out o' the house on a day like this!"

And he sat down implacably in the doorway.

The serious poetry of all languages has omitted the little brother, and yet he is one of the great trials of love—the immemorial burden of courtship. Tragedy should have found place for him, but he has been left to the haphazard vignettist of Grub street. He is the grave and real menace of lovers. His head is sacred and terrible, his power illimitable. There is one way—only one—to deal with him, but Robert Williams, having a brother of Penrod's age, understood that way.

Robert had $1 in the world. He gave it to Penrod immediately.

Enslaved forever, the new Rockefeller rose and went forth upon the highway, an overflowing heart bursting the floodgates of song:

"In her eyes the light of love was soffly gleamun',
So sweatlay,
So neatlay.
On the banks the moon's soff light was brightly streamun',
Words of love I then spoke to her,
She was purest of the pew-er:
'Littil sweetheart, do not sigh,
Do not weep and do not cry.
I will build a littil cottige just for yew-ew-ew and I.'"

In fairness it must be called to mind that boys older than Penrod have these wellings of pent melody. A wife can never tell when she is to undergo a musical morning, and even the golden wedding brings her no security; a man of ninety is liable to bust loose in song any time.

Invalids murmured pitifully as Penrod came within hearing, and people trying to think cursed the day that they were born when he went shrilling by. His hands in his pockets, his shining face uplifted to the sky of June, he passed down the street, singing his way into the heart's deepest hatred of all who heard him.

"One evening I was sturow-ling
Midst the city of the Dead,
I viewed where all a-round me
Their peace-full graves was spread.
But that which touched me mostlay"—

He had reached his journey's end, a junk dealer's shop, wherein lay the long desired treasure of his soul—an accordion which might have possessed a high quality of interest for an antiquarian, being unquestionably a ruin, beautiful in decay and quite beyond the sacrilegious reach of the restorer. But it was still able to disgorge sounds, which could be heard for a remarkable distance in all directions, and it had one rich catlike tone that had gone to Penrod's heart. He obtained the instrument for 22 cents, a price long since agreed upon with the junk dealer, who falsely claimed a loss of profit. Shylock that he was! He had found the wreck in an alley.

With this purchase suspended from his shoulder by a faded green cord, Penrod set out in a somewhat homeward direction, but not by the route he had just traveled, though his motive for the change was not humanitarian. It was his desire to display himself thus troubadouring to the gaze of Marjorie Jones. Heralding his advance by continuous experiments in the music of the future, he pranced upon his blithesome way, the faithful Duke at his heels. (It was easier for Duke than it would have been for a younger dog, because with advancing age he had begun to grow a little deaf.)

Turning the corner nearest to the glamored mansion of the Joneses, the boy jongleur came suddenly face to face with Marjorie and, in the delicious surprise of the encounter, ceased to play, his hands, in agitation, falling from the instrument.

Bareheaded, the sunshine glorious upon her amber curls, Marjorie was strolling hand in hand with her baby brother, Mitchell, four years old. She wore pink that day—unforgettable pink, with a broad, black patent leather belt, shimmering reflections dancing upon its surface. How beautiful she was! How sacred the sweet little baby brother, whose privilege it was to cling to that small hand delicately powdered with freckles.

"Hello, Marjorie!" said Penrod, affecting carelessness.

"Hello!" said Marjorie, with unexpected cordiality. She bent over her baby brother with motherly affectations. "Say 'howdy' to the gentymuns, Mitchy-Mitch," she urged sweetly, turning him to face Penrod.

"Won't!" said Mitchy-Mitch, and to emphasize his refusal kicked the gentymuns upon the shin.

With this issue the Library Notes will be discontinued for the summer.

VACATION BOOKS.

During the summer every one feels that he is justified in reading books of a lighter character than during the rest of the year. There is no reason, however, that one's selection of books for summer reading should not include those, which, while as interesting as the lighter kind, still leave something with the reader after the book is finished. Why not put in your trunk when leaving home at least one of the works of Thackeray, or Kipling, or Irving, or one of Parkman's or Fiske's histories. They will prove at least as interesting as books of the more frothy type, and will give you something worth while.

Here are some books of travel that will prove interesting for summer reading:

Black Forest .....Hughes
Bridle Roads of Spain .....Cayley
Among French Inns .....Gilson
France of Today .....Wendell
English Woodlands and Their Story Townley
By the Ionian Sea .....Gissing
Days Spent on a Doge's Farm Symonds
Marken and Its People ....Edwards
The Passes of the Pyrenees..Freeston
Greek Land and Letters ....Allinson
Chinese at Home .....Ball
Awakening of India .....MacDonald
New Rivers of the North ..Footner
American Sketches .....Whibley
Trailing and Camping in Alaska Powell
Across South America .....Bingham
America in the Making ....Abbott
Yosemite .....Maier
My First Summer in the Sierra..Maier

Here are some essays:

How to Judge a Book ....Shuman
Literary Brevities .....Wight
Pardoner's Wallet .....Crothers
Gentle Reader .....Crothers
Paths of Distance .....Huneker
Maine Woods .....Thoreau
From a College Window ....Benson
What's Wrong With the World Chesterton
Letters of a Diplomat's Wife Waddington
Beside Still Waters .....Benson
Solitary Summer .....Arnim
Lore of Proserpine .....Hewlett

Here are some books which lend themselves to reading aloud:

Moods, Songs and Doggerels Galsworthy
Roads from Rome .....Allinson
Crowds .....Lee
Your United States .....Bennett
Village Life in America ..Richards
Early Memories .....Lodge
Cowboy Songs and Other Frontier Ballads .....Lomax
Tales of the Mermaid Tavern.Noyes
Literary Lapses .....Leacock
Wanderer in Holland .....Lucas
In the Courts of Memory.Hegermann

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little Robin That Was Always Hungry.

Just Yelling For Worms All the Time.

"THERE was a little robin that was always hungry," daddy told the children, "and he depended upon others to feed him, and they did for awhile, but I'll tell you the story.

"This little robin was a robin's egg at first, just as are all little robins. There were three little eggs that the mamma robin had laid in the nest which she and the papa robin had built in the branches of the tall elm tree in the yard when they had come up from the sunny southland.

"And the mamma robin sat on the three little eggs and kept them warm and comfy while the little robins grew inside of them, and the papa robin did what all papas have to do—he worked. He dug up little fat worms and big fat worms out of the ground with his bill and brought them to the mamma robin to eat, and she stayed on the nest and was not hungry till the little robins were hatched out of the eggs.

"And then that was only the beginning of the troubles of both the papa and the mamma robin, for that was some family to keep going.

"There was a brother, and there were two little sisters. The two little sisters were not so bad. They were quite reasonable. But the little brother—well, he was the greediest, most selfish, naughtiest little birdie you ever heard of.

"It took his mamma's hardest work just to keep him in the nest and to prevent him from tumbling out of it. He was a very strong and lusty young robin and was always pitching about, yelling for more worms, though he was full of food already and making his mamma all the trouble in the world for fear he would tumble out of the nest and be caught by some naughty cat, and the papa robin would come flying with another worm, and the young robin would yell for that. But mamma had to be fed and the two little sisters, but if the greedy young brother robin could have done so he would have had all their share and his own, too, until he just naturally burst himself.

"But the time came when he grew bigger and stronger, together with the two little sisters, and then the mamma robin took them out to teach them to fly, and they made hard work of it at first, but finally they had grown quite adept in the art.

"Then the mamma robin said to her young son: 'You've quite an appetite, haven't you? And I am glad of that, but hereafter, my boy, you must fly about and dig up your own worms. I'm tired.'

"So the little boy robin did so, and the next season, what do you think? Why, he had a family to support himself."

Household Hints

THE TABLE

Pineapple Pie—One large pineapple, one tablespoon butter, two cups sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, one-half cup water, five eggs. Cut pineapple in small pieces and put sugar on it, let stand two hours to drain out the juice. Drain off juice, add water to it and let come to boil; add butter and cornstarch and when it thickens add the eggs, beaten well. It will thicken about as stiff as custard. Add cut-up pineapple and cook only about five minutes. Bake in two crusts about half an hour. This makes two good pies, and is delicious.

Strawberry Shortcake—Cream one tablespoon butter with cup of sugar, add one well beaten egg, one cup milk, two cups flour mixed with four teaspoons baking powder. Stir until all lumps are out, then add flavor. This will make two layers the right size for shortcake. Clean strawberries well and put between layers, spreading sugar on them. Beat half pint cream stiff, adding sugar and flavor to taste, spread over top and sides with a few berries in center of top layer. This makes a good and cheap strawberry shortcake.

Strawberry Shortcake (very easily made and very good)—Take yolk of one egg, mix with three tablespoons sugar, add a very lettle milk to cream, sugar and eggs. Then sift four large tablespoons baking powder, stir into sugar and eggs with just enough milk or water to make cake batter. You will find this a very good shortcake for any kind of fruit. The white of the egg is used for the top.

CANNING AND PRESERVING

Strawberry-Pineapple Marmalade—Two quarts strawberries, two oranges, one pineapple. Crush berries slightly, grate rind off oranges and squeeze out juice. Grind pineapple in grinder, then add 3½ pints sugar. Cook down thick and put in jelly tumblers. This makes about eight glasses.

Elderberry Blossom Wine—One quart blossoms, one lemon sliced thin, four pounds of white sugar, one gallon boiling water; when it is lukewarm add one cake yeast and white of an egg beaten stiff. Cover with blanket or something to keep in the steam, and let stand three days. Then strain through cheesecloth and put in bottles or jugs to ferment. Keep filling with water as it evaporates and do not cork as long as it ferments. This will also do for dandelion or clover blossom wine. Also add juice of an orange.

Pineapple Delight—Mix one pint shredded pineapple, one pint crushed strawberries and two pints granulated sugar. Boil fifteen minutes. Pour into jelly glasses.

Prune Conserve—Mix one quart prunes (soaked twenty-four hours and seeded), one pound seeded raisins, two cups water and two pints sugar. Cook half hour. Remove from stove and stir in one pound English walnut meats. Pour into pint cans and seal.

Mold on Jelly—If the paper which is put over jelly be dipped in the white of an egg it will, when dry, be tight and firm, and keep the fruit from molding with much more certainty than if it is dipped in alcohol or brandy. The paper which is laid next the fruit is meant, not that which is tied or pasted over the glass.

To Pack Canned Goods—Pack canned fruits in sawdust. This material will certainly help to keep the cans cool in summer and prevent freezing in winter.

CLOSE PACKING BEST

Most people are afraid of crushing their clothes by packing them too tightly, yet this is the secret of successful packing. If they are allowed room to slide and slip, they will come forth wrinkled and mussed, whereas, if they are firmly held in place in a trunk which is not too large for its contents you will get far better results.

BREAD CRUMBS

Crumbs that are to be kept for any time should be put in glass jars. Jars with the tight screw tops used for preserves are excellent for the purpose. The crumbs will keep better if the bread is first dried in the stove, then grated and bottled when entirely cold. All scalloped dishes include crumbs in the mixture and a dry dust of them on top. With the addition of the crumbs, and proper seasoning, all fragments of fresh meat, fish and poultry may be used up.

Warrenville.

The commencement exercises of the Warren Township School were held at the Mt. Bethel Baptist church last night, and the exhibition of school work was at the Mountain House Hall, the following being the program:

Invocation, by Rev. W. H. Mount; salutation and essay, by Alice Danjunas; recitation, Ruth Conroy; song, Anna Badnik; essay, Arthur Kloth; class history, Marion Williams; selection, Adeline Mantz; essay, Alexander Mathews; class prophecy, Edith Belcher; song, by Warrenville School, consisting of Jessie Cooper, Myrtle Williams, Alice Zerzubel and Mildred Miller, Herman Nischwitz, Gerald Bowers, Ted Cooper, Graham Hauser, William Bornmann; address by S. S. Swackhamer; vocal duet, Elma Sage and Ruth Conroy; class presentation, Eleanore Hay; essay, Reuben Nuse; recitation, Mary Tatum; class poem, Morris Arrighie; song, Elma Sage; essay, William Lang; song, Mountain View School; essay, Helena Hahr; class will, Hazel Gregory; essay and valedictory address, Marie Anderson; presentation of prizes by Home School Association, Miss Mildred Miller being the winner of a $5 gold piece for the best essay of any pupil in the school, and John Scott being the winner of a $2.50 gold piece for the best in mathematics; presentation of diplomas by president of Board of Education. The 1915 class was the largest class ever graduated, being nineteen in all. After the exercises a dance was given at Mountain House Hall. Music by Schotts Brothers, of Gilette.

Grandview Council, No. 55, Daughters of America, will hold a special meeting at Fairview Hall on Tuesday evening, June 22.

Miss Clara Hahr, who has been confined to her home at Coontown by bronchial pneumonia, is able to be out again.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD.

The sharp ring of the electric bell wakened Nell and Dick from a sound sleep.

"Who can it be at this time of night?" said Nell, sitting up in bed. "Someone must be sick. I wonder if it is the Parsons. It's someone who knows the back door bell is nearer to the bedroom."

Dick climbed out of bed and put on his bathrobe and slippers.

Nell listened anxiously. It was bright moonlight and the upper part of the kitchen door was glass. When Dick reached it and looked out there was not a sign of anyone about. He looked at the clock; it was fifteen minutes past one. What could it mean? He stood there so long studying the situation that Nell became frightened. Had someone called him to the door to drag him out? She had heard of such things.

Frozen with terror, she had started to go in search of him when she saw him coming slowly back, pondering the matter.

"What was it?" she quavered, her teeth chattering with cold and nervousness.

"I can't find out; there isn't a thing to be seen and it's as light as day."

Nell was trembling violently.

"There, dear, let's get to sleep and think out the explanation in the morning by daylight," said the practical Dick, settling himself comfortably.

Nell was too nervous to sleep, and lay there imagining she heard steps, rattling doorknobs, clicking gates. She was just beginning to get sleepy when sharp and clear on the night air the bell rang out again.

Dick bounded out of bed and rushed to the kitchen. It was the back door bell, he was sure. The back porch was entirely empty; there was the garbage can, the clothes pole leaning against the house, and everything in the yard stood out distinct and motionless in the autumn moonlight. What could it mean? He shook his head in reply to Nell's inquiring look when he returned to the bedroom.

"Why, it's uncanny," said Nell in an awed whisper. "What time is it?"

Dick picked up the watch. "It's nearly three o'clock," he replied, and snuggled down under the warm covers.

"Whatever it is, it's to be hoped it will desist and let us have a little sleep. Confound it! If it isn't the baby, it's spooks that keep us awake. There's a fatality in it, I believe."

"It couldn't be anyone trying to frighten us, could it?" asked Nell, shuddering.

"No, there's absolutely not a living moving thing in sight. Let's get to sleep before it rings again," he mumbled.

But there was no sleep for Nell's eyes. She lay intently listening. The clock on the mantle boomed three, with a hollow, ghostly sound. She could tell by his regular breathing that Dick was asleep. Wide-eyed, she lay for what seemed hours. One, two, three, four tolled the clock, then the deadly silence again brooded over everything.

She was just deciding that if the bell rang again she would go to the door, when it shrilled out sharp and long on the stillness.

She leaped out of bed and ran to the kitchen door, arriving just in time to see Mrs. Brown's big black cat leap from the clothes pole to the ground. She laughed in sheer relief as Dick came running to the door.

"It's the cat! Mrs. Brown's cat!"

"How could she do it?" asked Dick incredulously.

"She jumped on that pole as she left the garbage can. It must be resting against the bell."

"Come on to bed," suggested Dick.

POSSESSES RELIC OF BATTLE OF WATERLOO

Silver Cup Which Saved Soldier's Life is Owned by Mrs. E. J. Olssen.

Mrs. Edward J. Olssen, of Summit avenue, the borough, is the proud possessor of a relic which played a part in the saving of a soldier's life on the battlefield of Waterloo, the one-hundredth anniversary of which is being celebrated today. The article is a crude silver cup given to Mrs. Olssen by her mother, Mrs. David Slater, who formerly lived in Washington Valley. The latter received it from Mrs. Sarah Thompson, an English woman, whose husband took an active part in the famous battle. The cup is being displayed today and tomorrow at the office of The Daily Press.

Mr. Thompson, who was in the English army, carried this cup, which was used for drinking purposes, on his back during the fighting. A bullet from the French side struck the bottom of the cup, smashing it. This stopped the progress of the bullet and undoubtedly saved the life of Mr. Thompson. After the smoke of the conflict had cleared away Mrs. Thompson went over the battlefield to see if her husband was among the injured or dead. In doing so, she selected a large number of French bullets which afterwards were used to form a new bottom for the drinking cup.

Shortly after the battle she immigrated to the United States. Her only child, a son, enlisted in the United States army and was killed in the Creole war of 1834-7. When the St. Luke's home for aged women was established in New York city, Mrs. Thompson, being 84 years old, became the first resident inmate. She died in 1860 in her 92nd year, retaining full possession of all her faculties until the end. She was buried in Trinity church cemetery, New York.

Mrs. Olssen treasures the antique and uses it in her home for a spoon holder. It bears the inscription "No. 6," which probably was the number of Sergeant Thompson.

SIXTEEN GRADUATES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Closing Exercises of Piscataway Township Schools Held Last Night.

The commencement exercises for the pupils of the Piscataway Township public schools was held last night in the First Baptist church, in New Market. The church was elaborately decorated for the occasion. The class motto was "Paddle Your Own Canoe;" class colors, orange and black; class flower, pansy. The following program was rendered:

March, "Arms of America," by Imperial Trio; invocation, Rev. J. J. Allen; salutatory and recitation, "A Tribute to Washington," by Miss Dorothy A. Rolando; recitation, "The World Wants Men," by Richard B. Manning; selection from "Tonight's the Night," by Imperial Trio; recitation, "Columbia's Banner," by Miss Elizabeth McGuire; recitation, "Plant a Tree," by Miss Evelyn Dix; melody, "Carissima," by Imperial Trio; recitation, "Ode to America," by Miss Esther Thornton; class song, valedictory and recitation, "The Ruby-Crowned Kinglet," by Adele C. Kroohs; 'cello solo, "A Perfect Day;" address, Rev. J. S. Hogan; intermezzo, "The Wedding of the Rose," by Imperial Trio; presentation of diplomas, by John Geary, president of the Board of Education; overture, "Morning, Noon and Night," by Imperial Trio; address to class, Rev. T. E. Vassar, Jr.; reverie, "The Chimes of St. Clement's," by Imperial Trio; singing, "America;" benediction, Rev. H. L. Polan.

The graduates received many floral tributes and other gifts. The following pupils received their diplomas: From New Market, Evelyn C. Dix, Adele C. Kroohs, Lillian G. Schomp, Charles Lawrence, Richard B. Manning, George M. Nelson, Clifford E. Schenck, Frank F. Streidle and Theodore E. Streidle. Of South Plainfield, Myrtle Bailey, Grace A. Boss, Nellie C. Harlow, Elizabeth McGuire, Dorothy A. Rolando, Esther M. Thornton and Arthur F. Geary.

P. H. S. SENIOR CLASS-DAY TO BE ELABORATE AFFAIR

Plans have been completed for the presentation of one of the most elaborate class day programs ever given by a Plainfield High School class, and the event will be held in the school Auditorium next Tuesday evening. Rehearsals for the production indicate that the program will be an unusually long one, and the numbers will be unique and varied.

Arrangements have been made for the appearance of an orchestra in the Auditorium at the close of the exercises, and dancing will be enjoyed for two hours.

QUALITY GASOLINE WHEREVER YOU GO

THE fuel question is an important one for the motorist. The veteran tourist makes sure of getting, not merely good fuel, but the same fuel, every time he has his tank filled.

Standard Motor Gasoline is the best motor fuel the Standard Oil Company, with its dependable sources of supply, its costly equipment, and its improved refinery methods, can produce. It is sold by the best garages and supply stations everywhere, and it is uniform wherever you buy it.

Standard Motor Gasoline is a straight-distilled product—not a "blend" or a "mixture." It is absolutely homogeneous—every drop like every other drop. It costs no more than others by the gallon, and less by the mile, because there are more miles in a gallon.

Remember this too. Good oil costs less than a worn out engine. Use Polarine—the Standard Oil for All Motors—obtainable wherever you see the "Standard Motor Gasoline" sign.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

For the first time since she came to America a few years and began the unprecedented dramatic tour which has crowned her with success, Miss Gaby Deslys, the great French actress, will come to Plainfield tomorrow. She will be seen at the Plainfield Airdome in the photographic reproduction of the vehicle that brought her fame and fortune, entitled "Her Triumph." It his been produced as a five-part feature photoplay, Miss Deslys being supported by a specialy selected company. Fully $100,000 was spent in preparing the piece for the screen theatres, but the crowds that have already flocked to the theatre indicate that the venture was a good one. Completely charming, Miss Deslys' portrayal of the leading character has a delightful frankness that will captivate the spectator with its appeal. In considering every point of the five reels, one wonders on whom to bestow rightful praise. Author, director, star, supporting cast and camera man have all contributed largely to the success of the visualized play. "Her Triumph" is one of the best bookings Manager Shannon has secured for the Airdome snce it opened, and he confidently believes it will be witnessed by almost capacity audiences. Charlie Chaplin has come to be a regular performer at the Aidrome, and is to be seen every Wednes and Friday and Saturday in his latest comedies. Charles hands out laughs every minute, his funnyisms always bringing out something no one ever thought of before. New people come to the Airdome every night, and before many days it will be hard to find any one in Plainfield who has not been numbered among its audiences. It is always cool and comfortable at the Airdome, no matter how warm the weather, and refreshments are to be had on the premises, served quietly by acommodating waiters. The men have found a real haven at Manager Shannon's resort, as he has made provision whereby those who like to smoke can enjoy their favorite weed while watching the silent dramas.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The program at Proctor's Theatre tomorrow will include a feature film which was shown at the house several weeks ago, and which made such a great impression that scores of patrons have asked that it be repeated. It is entitled "Where Cowboy is King," and is the series of pictures in the making of which eight men lost their lives performing hazardous feats before the camera. The gruesome parts, however, have been removed, and the spectator sees only the pictures as originally planned.

"Where Cowboy is King" depicts a portrayal of striking features of romantic life common to that great section of the country lying between the Pacific Ocean and the Missouri River. It deals in a big way with the daily pursuits of the cowboys and cowgirls out on the boundless prairie, where red blood is predominant. During the tense action of the photoplay the spectators are entertained with such gripping sights as the taming of the wild horses, ferocious steer and the buffalo, the stage coach races, cowgirls mastering the bucking bronchos, maverick races, Indian pony races, cowgirl races, Indian relay races, cowboys riding the pony express, squaws' races, roping and tying a steer in the world's record of 40 seconds, and many other feats of the most dangerous sort. This film pulsates with the spirit of the West, not the imaginery West, but the real West, which the pioneer seeker found, fought for and won. Other numbers on the bill at Proctor's include the interesting and instructive Paramount travel pictures, the continuation of the serial story, "The Goddess," and two one-reel Mutual pictures: "The Cliff Girls" and "The Golden Rainbow." Proctor's symphony orchestra is still a big feature at the theatre and furnishes new and delightful programs at every performance.

WINSTED, CONN., OUTDONE BY CLIMBING CHICKENS

The versatile correspondent at Winsted, Conn., has written of many freaks of nature, but it is doubtful if he ever discovered anything to outfreak a flock of chickens owned by Burt Rogers, son of Robert Rogers, of Berkeley Heights. They number fifty in all, and have been confined in a hennery protected by a five-foot wire fence. On numerous occasions Mr. Rogers found the fowls wandering about forbidden places, and was at a loss to know how they got out of the enclosure until he set a watch.

The hens are unable to fly over the fence, but have developed climbing tactics which get them over just the same. From his hiding place Mr. Rogers saw the knowing chickens deliberately stick their claws into the meshes of the wire, and in an almost unbelievable way walk to the top of the fence and then flop over. Something like twenty-five of them have gotten to be experts in the game, and climb up every piece of wire in sight in order to obtain some new morsel of food. One of them ascended to a height of twenty feet on a net work that had been arranged to carry honeysuckle vines, the sagacious fowl believing that something was being kept from it at the top. When the owner told neighbors what the chickens could do there were many scoffings until he invited them over and let them watch for themselves. The Rogers' climbing chickens are now the nine-day wonder of Berkeley Heights.

DEATH SUMMONS AUG. P. HETFIELD

Veteran Railroad Conductor Passes Away at Home on Madison Avenue.

WAS ILL A LONG TIME

Was in the Employ of New Jersey Central Forty-five Years—Had Charge of First Train on New York and Long Branch Railroad.

Following an illness which first became apparent last July, but which compelled him to take to his bed only two weeks ago, Augustus P. Hetfield, a well-known and highly respected resident of the city, died early today at his home on Madison avenue. The cause of his demise is ascribed as arteral sclerosis. Although Mr. Hetfield has been ailing so long he was able to be about until the first of the present month, sheer determination and grit holding back the advances of the disease. He had been in a semi-conscious condition for the past three days and failed to rally previous to the end at 2:30 this morning.

Mr. Hetfield was a native of Elizabeth where he was born seventy-six years ago last April. When a young man he entered the employ of the New Jersey Central and rapidly advanced to the position of conductor remaining in this capacity until his retirement from service in 1912. In the days when the present big system was only a small road, with several short branches, he was classed as one of its most efficient train masters with the company and was given the most important runs. He had charge of the first passenger train which ran on the New York and Long Branch Railroad at the time of its opening from Elizabethport to Long Branch. The division in those days was from Communipaw to the shore resort, then in the heydey of its popularity. The event was an auspicious one for the metropolitan section, as it afforded a direct trip from New York city, passengers having previously having to transfer at several points. Mr. Hetfield was conductor on various runs in after years, but at the time he retired from service he was again on the New York and Long Branch road. He resided in Dunellen for a time because of his work and twenty-six years ago removed from that borough to Plainfield.

Mr. Hetfield was always of a quiet, unassuming disposition, but he had the enviable facility of making and keeping friends. He came in contact with thousands of people in the course of his duties and it is safe to say he has acquaintances everywhere in New Jersey. His record as a railroad man covered a period of 45 years. He had a very retentive mind and in the sunset of his life it was one of his greatest pleasures to relate to the younger generation his fund of stories regarding railroading in its pioneer days. The only organization with which he was affiliated was the New Jersey Central Veterans Association.

Surviving Mr. Hetfield are his wife and one daughter, the latter being Mrs. Roger F. Murray, of Madison avenue; also one brother, Lynus Hetfield, of Westfield. The funeral service will be held at his late home Monday afternoon and will be private. Burial will be made in Fairview cemetery, Westfield.

AUCTION SALE OF LOTS ADJOURNED TO JULY 3

Announcement was made yesterday that the auction sale of Plainfield lots to be held by Bryan L. Kennelly today has been adjourned to July 3. This sale is held by order of the estate of George Taylor, deceased, and will take place on the premises at 2 p. m. Twenty lots will be offered. They are situated on the east side of DeKalb avenue, running from Myrtle avenue to Bradford avenue, the entire block front.

The lots will be sold separately and it is announced that 60% of the purchase price may remain on mortgage. The sale will be held rain or shine at 2 p. m.

FAVORS A REVISION OF NEWSBOYS' BILL

Mayor Calkins and Board of Education President Cox to Consider it.

Mayor Leighton Calkins, accompanied by Mrs. Calkins, left this morning for Cambridge, Mass., where he will attend the reunion of his class in Harvard University. He will also be present at the various events arranged for commencement week, including the intercollegiate boat races at Poughkeepsie.

Before leaving the Mayor made a statement to newspaper reporters dwelling on the newsboys' ordinance which met such strong opposition at a public hearing held last week. The Mayor is strongly in favor of eliminating the clause making it compulsory for newspaper delivery boys to take out licenses similar to those required for street sales and it is not improbable that the ordinance will be introduced again with this feature eliminated. It has been referred back to the Board of Education and all future action will be deferred until after that body has had an opportunity to act on it.

President Cox, of the Education Board, has taken the matter under personal advisement and is understood to be in favor of the bill in the form suggested by Mayor Calkins. The city executive declared that he did not intend to "force the ordinance down anyone's throat" and that he would act in accordance with opinion expressed at the hearing.

Indications point to considerable delay in the passage of the ordinance in any form, however, and it is not likely that it will be ready for introduction before fall.

FINE DISPLAY OF FIREWORKS FOR VETS

Annual Encampment of the G. A. R. in a Blaze of Glory.

The booming of giant crackers at the close of a display of fireworks on the ocean fishing pier at Asbury Park last night, was the parting salute for the few remaining veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic who are staying over at the end of the annual State convention of the order.

In the annual election of officers, the principal business accomplished yesterday, the following were elected for the coming twelve months: W. F. Washington, of Post 32, Atlantic City, department commander; Enos S. Hann, Post 32, Atlantic City, assistant adjutant-general; Dr. Van-Dyn, Post 23, Trenton, medical director; J. O. Allen, Post 110, Newark, senior vice-department commander; Alfred B. Cook, Post 27, Rahway, junior vice-department commander; Rev. W. T. Abbott, Post 31, Asbury Park, chaplain.

The following officers were elected by the ladies of the G. A. R. at their headquarters in Educational Hall: President, Mrs. Clara Fenelon, Jersey City; senior vice-president, Mrs. Mary E. Bates, Trenton; junior vice-president, Mrs. Susan Davis, Jersey City; chaplain, Mrs. Mary Crisp, Newark; treasurer, Mrs. Minnie Corb, Nutley; council of administration, Mrs. Elizabeth Morgan, of Belleville; Mrs. Alice Bull, of Camden, and Mrs. Isabelle Baldwin, of Newark.

The election of the Sons of Veterans resulted as follows: John A. Corcoran, of Camden, division commander; Henry Bender, of Union Hill, senior vice-commander; Arthur I. Vescelius, of Paterson, junior vice-commander; M. M. Mann, of Newark, division councillor, and members of the division council, J. William Hooper, of Paterson; John F. Martin, of Elizabeth; Tracy Mills, of Newark, and John F. Ryder, of Newark.

The Women's Relief Corps elected Mrs. Frank O. Cole, of Jersey City, president; Mrs. Margaret Short, of Atlantic City, senior vice-president; Mrs. Caroline Crese, of Union Hill, junior vice-president; Mrs. Sarah Miller, of Jersey City, secretary; Mrs. C. E. Scott, of Newark, treasurer; Miss Margaret Mathis, of Trenton, chaplain; Miss Wilda E. Vickery, of New Brunswick, inspector; Miss Lillian Bird, of Trenton, chief of staff, and Mrs. William C. Smith, of Plainfield, councilor.

Mrs. Clarence C. Smith was chosen delegate to the Washington convention with Miss Lydia M. Wright, alternate, and Miss Mary Stevens alternate-at-large. Miss Emma A. Southwick, of Vineland, was made instituting officer.

ALUMNI PLANS FOR ELABORATE RECEPTION

P. H. S. Graduates to Be Royally Entertained Following Commencement Exercises.

In accordance with the custom of previous years, a dance will be given in honor of the Plainfield High School 1915 graduating class after the commencement exercises next Thursday night, by the High School Alumni Association. Plans are well underway and tickets have already been issued to the graduates and alumni members.

The music will be furnished by a quintet from the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, which has been playing for a series of dances this winter at the Waldorf-Astoria.

At a meeting of the committee last evening, Burnet Doane, of the class of 1912, was appointed floor manager. Benjamin Evans, who has taken charge of the refreshments for a number of years, has been appointed to fill the position again this year.

The association has made very elaborate plans in the refreshment line. Tickets may still be had by the alumni by applying to Miss Carmen, of Crescent avenue.

Tickets for the dance are selling so rapidly that the demand threatens to exhaust the supply. Only a certain number will be allowed on the floor, and according to present indications that number is almost reached, making it impossible to sell many, if any, tickets at the door.

LOCAL CONVICTS APPLY TO COURT FOR PARDONS

Included in the list of 300 convicts who have made application for clemency to the State Court of Pardons for the June term are a number from Union county and several from Plainfield. Of the total number thirty-five were convicted of murder or manslaughter and are serving long sentences. Considerable local interest centers itself around the application of Daniel A. Dugan, son of Judge Daniel Dugan, of Orange, who was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to prison from five to ten years. Dugan, who was well known in Plainfield, was driving a motor-car on New Year's eve several years ago, which ran over and killed a small boy.

Frank Fucci, of Plainfield, convicted of a serious offense on June 20, 1913, who is serving from two to thirty years, has asked for clemency. Other Plainfielders are: Walter Smalley, convicted of embezzlemen, January 9, 1914, and sentenced to from one and a half to three years; James Spring, robbery, sentenced February 21, 1912, to from seven and one-half to fifteen years.

LEON R. THURLOW WEDS NEW YORK GIRL TODAY

There is considerable local interest in the announcement of the marriage of Leon Rhodes Thurlow, formerly health officer of Plainfield, and Miss Florence Tree, daughter of Mrs. Lamber Evans Tree, of New York, which takes place today in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's church, New York.

Mr. Thurlow lived in Plainfield for several years, serving as health officer under the administration of Mayor Charles J. Fisk. He was a member of the Park Golf Club, being an enthusiastic golfer and fond of all outdoor sports. He gave up his position here to take a responsible position with the Hudson Terminal Company, of New York, with which concern he is still connected.

ENTERTAINED SCHOOLMATES AT RECEPTION AND DANCE

Carleton Dunham entertained a number of his Plainfield High School friends at his home on West Front street, last evening. The spacious porch was elaborately decorated and was used for dancing throughout the evening. During the course of the evening refreshments were served and the happy party broke up at a late hour.

Among those present were the Misses Dorothy Simons, Helen Peacock, Elsa Palmer, Mary Simons, Florence Ryder, Juliet Chamberlain, Lois Getter, Natalie Getter, and William Peacock, William Wheelan, Daniel McNamee, Edward Ryder, Edward Crone, Chester Alpaugh, Fred Chamberlain, Sheldon Coudray, Herbert Peacock, Carleton Dunham, Albert Dealaman, and Miss Margaret Stranberg, of Newark.

HEROIC EFFORTS TO RESCUE SMALL BOY

Six Year Old Somerville Youth's Body Located and Pulmotor Tried.

Scores of men and boys, led by Rev. James Hoffman, dived time and again to the bottom of the water course which feeds James B. Duke's pumping plant at Raritan last night after the body of the six-year-old son of George R. Griffen, a superintendent of the Somerset Woolen Mills. The body was recovered at 9:30 o'clock last night and heroic efforts were introduced with a view to awakening any particle of life that might remain in the body after its long stay at the bottom of the lake.

Someone telephoned to the offices of the Public Service Gas Company in Plainfield with a request that the local concern's pulmotor be sent to Somerville. Fred Smith was dispatched to the scene in one of the company's automobiles and his sixy-mile-an-hour ride through West Front street caused no little amount of attention and also prompted two of the patrolmen to turn in reports from boxes along that thoroughfare. Thirty minutes after receiving the call in Plainfield Smith arrived at Somerville ready to use the apparatus.

The body had been too long in the water, however, to make the pulmotor of any use and the corpse was sent to the home of the boy's parents.

In order to find the body it became necessary to draw part of the water out of the canal by closing the gates four miles above the scene of the drowning. Hundreds of persons lined the banks of the stream watching the rescue work. The boy, with the younger brothers, was playing on the embankment of the wate course when he fell from a stone wall near the Duke filter house into the water.

DAVID B. THICKSTUN GETS DENTAL DEGREE

His Entrance Upon This Profession Upholds Third Generation's Part.

Opening its doors for the 159th time in its history the University of Pennsylvania sent out nine hundred young men and women Wednesday, among them being David Bryant Thickstun, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Thickstun, of 403 Central avenue, who received a degree of doctor of dental surgery. The commencement exercises were unusually brilliant this year and were conducted in the Metropolitan Opera House, Philadelphia.

Mr. Thickstun was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1909 and entered the university in 1911. Both in High School and college he was well-known and popular and took an active interest in academic affairs. Coincident with his graduation is the fact that his completion of a course in dentistry fulfills his part in the last three generations of the Thickstun family, his grandfather and father having practiced the same profession before him. The late Dr. Daniel H. Thickstun, his grandfather, was one of the first practicing teeth surgeons in Plainfield and had an office at 413 Central avenue. He was succeeded by William D. Thickstun, the father, who has since retired from the profession and is actively identified with the real estate business in Plainfield, having formed a partnership with John P. Emmons a number of years ago.

Dr. David B. Thickstun expects to open an office in Plainfield early in the fall. Anuother University of Pennsylvania Dental School graduate, Dr. Russell Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley S. Miller, of Union street, is preparing to open an office on Park avenue this summer. He was graduated from the Plainfield High School one year after Dr. Thickstun.

MRS. LUCY M. ROGERS.

Mrs. Lucy M. Rogers, widow of Joseph Rogers, died early this morning, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Caleb H. Mills, 219 East Fifth street. She was 87 years old and came to this city from Westfield, where she resided for a long time. She was a member of the Methodist church in the latter place. Beside her daughter, Mrs. Mills, she is survived by one sister, Mrs. John Slater, of Troy, New York, and six grandchildren. A private funeral service will be held at Mrs. Mills' home tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery, Westfield, Monday morning.

FOURTH OF JULY FUND TOTALS $81

$219 is Still Needed to Make the Independence Day Affair a Success.

The Independence Day community celebration fund is increasing gradually, $25 being added through contributions received today. S. S. Carvalho has contributed $20 and Wilbur Drake sent in $5 to help boost the proposition. This makes a total of $81 already subscribed toward the $300 required to make the affair an entire success. Those in charge of the plans for the celebration must know soon wheather the people of Plainfield are going to contribute the necessary amount and it is urged that those who have it in their heart to help the thing along will respond quickly.

As already stated there is an excellent opportunity for clubs or societies to join in the laudable enterprise and thus help to make the celebration worth while. Checks or contributions of money may be sent to Commissioner Allen E. Beals, of the Boy Scouts, 634 East Second street, or to George W. Wriston, secretary of the Plainfield Playground Commission, at 515 East Seventh street. These contributions have been received to date

ELKS' "WHITE" RECEPTION ATTRACTED MANY VISITORS

Another pleasing social event was enjoyed by members of the local Lodge of Elks and their friends in the Watchung avenue clubhouse, last night, the affair taking the form of a "white dance." A large attendance marked the reception, which was in charge of the club's committee, including Everett Mapelsden, Samuel Tavenor, Walter Hamilton, William Mulvey and Harry DeMeza.

Souvenirs of a unique nature were distributed among the women present last night, and refreshments were served during the dance intermissions. Music was furnished by a New York orchestra.

WILLIAM L. SAUNDERS MEMBER OF STATE BOARD

Trenton, June 19.—Heretofore the administrative functions of State departments, having to do with commerce and navigation have been vested in half a dozen commissions, but after July 1 all of this work will be centered in the new State Board of Commerce and Navigation, created by one of the efficiency and economy bills passed by the last Legislature.

This Board is made up of eighteen members, and five of them have been engaged in this branch of State work for a number of years. R. C. Jenkinson, of Newark; John M. Ward, of Paterson; William L. Saunders, of Plainfield, William T. Kirk, Beverly; J. Ward Richardson, Bridgeton; J. Spencer Smith, Tenafly; W. Parker Runyon, Perth Amboy, and Allan K. White, Atlantic City, are the members of the new Board.

"THERE IS NOTHING FOR PUBLICATION AS YET"

Although members of the Councilmanic Police Board, as well as Mayor Calkins, readily admitted that there was another "closed session" of the Board, Thursday night, all efforts to ascertain what transpired at the meeting have proven futile. The general admission that a gathering was held to consider police matters is made but in each instance it has been added that "there is nothing for publication yet." It is known that the Board is considering the appointment of a new sergeant in the department, but just what is causing the delay is a matter of conjecture.

GRANTED LICENSE.

During a short session held last night, the Common Council granted an auctioneers' license to Bryant Kennelly, of New York city, who will conduct an auction sale of lots in Plainfield next week.

CAPSTICK TALKS ON AMERICA'S STRENGTH

Says We Ought to Be Big Enough to Demand Respect.

Following an illness which has kept him from making his usual frequent rounds among his constituents in the Fifth Congressional district, Congressman John H. Capstick, accompanied by his secretary, John E. Nicol, of this city, visited Planfield yesterday. He has fully recovered from his illness and now expects to actively enter upon his Congressional duties.

Approached by a Plainfield Daily Press reporter, yesterday afternoon, concerning the exact status of the defense the United States would be able to call upon in case of war the Congressman was inclined to belittle the unrest apparent in some quarters, but admitted that it was expedient for a country "to be able to demand respect."

"I believe that a country should be big enough and powerful enough to force other countries to look upon it with something more than insignificance," said Mr. Capstick.

He admitted that America had nothing to "brag about" in the line of war material, but said that he did not believe in stirring up uneasiness by giving the matter publicity.

Congressman Capstick drew a parallel in describing his attitude on the war question by relating the story of a man who shook his fist in another man's face. "If the second man was possessed of a sufficient amount of self-defense and exhibited the goods, the man who did the fist shaking would not be inclined to repeat the threat and would at the same time be convinced that the individual he had selected as a victim was big enough to demand respect."

INTERESTING PROGRAM BY N. P. H. S. SENIORS

Class Day Exercises Held in Debele Hall Last Night Before Large Audience.

The class day exercises of the senior class of the North Plainfield High School was held in Debele Hall last night, and attracted a capacity audience of members of the borough schools and their friends, who were given a hearty welcome by Edson Day, president of the class. When the curtain went up the graduating class stood in a semi-circle, the girls being gowned in white, while the boys wore white flannel trousers with dark coats. The singing of the class song, the words of which were written by Miss Marian Doughty, and the music by Miss Julia Rowley, was well received.

With the scene, that of a gypsy camp, with a tent on one side of the stage, Elmer French, assisted by Miss Ann Hull, read the class history which was followed by the statistics given by Lester V. D. Chandler. The awarding of these was voted on by the entire class. Miss Ann Hull attempted to tell the future of all the members of the class and Miss Marian Doughty recited the class poem, an original composition. Miss Katherine Giddings read the last will and testament of the class, leaving the various members of the junior class something to remember them by. The class yell concluded the first part of the program.

The hall was decorated in the class colors, green and gold, crepe paper and buttercups being used. A large class banner was placed at the front of the hall over the stage. Following the program, dancing was enjoyed till 1 o'clock, excellent music being furnished by Paroubek.

The officers of the class of 1915 are: Edson Day, president; C. Hoyt Tomkinson, vice-president; Frank R. Fetherston, secretary, and Miss Ann B. Hull, treasurer. The class colors are green and gold, the flower is the buttercup, and the motto is "Conare Fieri Usui." The class day committee consisted of Frank F. Fetherston, chairman; W. M. Hughes, Halbert Hutchinson, Miss Lucy Douglas, Miss Lena Mobus and Miss Helen Meaney.

PURE FOOD SUPPER.

A large gathering attended the pure food supper which was given last night by the Epworth League of Grace M. E. church. The affair was arranged by a committee of which Miss Lillian Breakey was chairman. Through the kindness of E. F. Glover the guests were entertained with selections on an Edison phonograph. A good sum was realized.

PLANS ABOUT READY.

The plans for the new Netherwood Reformed church will be ready for the contractors in a few days. It is expected that work will be started on the building early in July.

RUSSIANS FALL BACK ON THE SAN

Great Struggle to Save Lemberg Continues—Strong Counter Offense.

BIG BATTLE DEVELOPES

Expected That Engagement of Large Proportions Will Occur on Isonzo River Between Italians and Austrians—Air Raid by Italians.

Petrograd, June 19—The Russian war office issued a statement today which says:

"In the region of Muravievo and Shavli and the Dubissa River, the fighting on Thursday produced little result. To the right of the San River our troops withdrew fighting across the Tanew River and to the line of the Grodek Lakes. Between the Pruth and Dniester Rivers the enemy who crossed the frontier into Bessarabia, Russia, recently, has been thrown back to Austrian soil."

Rome, June 19—The Italian war office statement today says:

"Our attacks on the Tyrol, Trent and Cadora fronts on day of June 17 proceeded successfully. On the Isonzo River front the action which began near Plava is developing into an engagement of large and important proportions. On night of June 17 an aeroplane attached to the air branch of the navy service destroyed the railway station at Divance."

London, June 19.—Behind the natural defences afforded by the River Taneff and the chain of lakes at Grodek, the Russians are making their last stand to prevent themselves being expelled from Galicia and to save Lemberg, their main supply for their troops in Galicia. In retiring to this line, less than sixteen miles west of the Galician capital, the Russians fought a rear guard action which is believed to have cost General von Mackensen's army heavily.

The Austrians report they have forced the Russian right back at Tarnograd, ocupying the town and seizing some heights in Russian territory. The great battle is before Grodek, however, on which the enemy is converging by the railroads from the west and northwest.

The Russians have developed a strong counter offensive in the region between the Pruth and the Dniester. Here they attacked the Austrian army, which had crossed the frontier, and drove it back over the border into Bukowina.

Italian aeroplanes and dirigibles flying together have made a raid along the Austrian front in the Isonzo valley, doing great damage, especially at Gradisca. Many bombs were dropped on the strong enemy entrenchments at Monte Sanco during the raid, and other damage was done to the railroads along the Austrian front.

The Italian operations about Palva, where the enemy has assembled strong forces, are developing favorably to the Italians.

At Cadore the Austrians have sought to drive back the Italians from their most advanced positions, employing long range guns of heavy calibre to this purpose, but the Italian artillery enabled the Italians to maintain their positions.

Rome newspapers declare that Italian troops now occupy twice as much territory as was offered Italy by Austria to continue her neutrality.

Warships of three nations, Great Britain, France and Italy, are now engaged in finding and destroying the oil depots on the Adriatic coast from which the Austrian submarines have been replenishing their fuel stores. That the Anglo-French fleet was cooperating with the Italian fleet in patrolling the Adriatic and keeping the Austrian fleet bottled up was made known by the French Minister of Marine. His announcement concerning the Adriatic operations also contained an intimation that the discovery and destruction of secret oil stations in the Dardanelles region will soon reduce to a minimum the activity of the German and Turkish submarines there.

The French campaign in Alsace has resulted in the Germans losing control of their communications between Metzeral and Munster. The French troops now on the outskirts of Metzeral have brought up their guns to a point where they can sweep the road leading to Munster with their fire. The advance along both banks of the Fecht has been accompanied by the capture of many Germans and a great quantity of war material, especially rifles and cartridges.

In support of the great French offensive movement of the French north of Arras, the British troops are developing much activity east of Ypres and east of Festubert. To the east of Ypres the British have held the

HIGH HONORS FOR RUSSELL FLEMING

Graduate of Rutgers Wins Many Prizes During Collegiate Career.

Among the seventy-eight graduates of Rutgers College this week, was Russell Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming, of Madison avenue, this city. He captured many of the envied prizes. He was one of the commencement speakers, Roy M. D. Richardson, of Bound Brook, being the other.

Mr. Fleming won the Theodore Frelinghuysen Vail prize for scholarship for the highest general average in all subjects; won the Elizabeth Appleton Memorial Prize in Moral Science, the Class 1876 Prize in Political Science and the Jacob Cooper Prize in Logic.

Throughout his High School career Mr. Fleming stood high in scholarship and was popular. He was honor pupil in the class of 1911 of the New Brunswick High School. The theme of his High School commencement address was "The Present Status of Universal Peace." He won the United States History Prize given by the D. A. R. to the pupil with the highest average in this subject, and was literary editor of the Advocate, secretary of the athletic association, class treasurer, historian of the glee club and president of the Clio Literary Society.

During his collegiate course at Rutgers he was on the honor roll. Last year he was one of the junior orators, delivering the address on "The Personality of Lincoln," and received honorable mention in English for special work outside of the course. Mr. Fleming was a member of the "Junior Prom" committee and elected to the Philoclean Honorary Society for high scholarship and was a member of the class track team. In his senior year he was voted class poet. The theme of Mr. Fleming's commencement address was "The United States as a World Power."

Mr. Fleming was one of the few winners of a "Phi Betta Kappa" key, which honor admits him to the Alpha of the New Jersey "Phi Betta Kappa Society." This he considers the most coveted of scholarship distinctions. Mr. Fleming received the degree of bachelor of letters.

WILL CONTINUE SERVICES DURING THE SUMMER

Baptism will be administered at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow evening, at which time the pastor, Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson will preach on the subject of "A Spiritual Exodus." In the morning the theme will be "Arrested for Divine Service." The young people will continue their meetings during the summer.

In August there will be special speakers each Sunday evening and the church service will be combined with this service. Ivan B. Flood, State secretary for Young People's work, will speak at the session of the Sunday-school at 9:45 o'clock tomorrow morning.

COUNSEL APPEALS CASE TO THE SUPREME COURT

Elizabeth, June 19—After a fine of $400 had been imposed on Dr. Israel Finkel, a Plainfield dentist, convicted of assaulting a colored woman in his office, by Judge Connolly, in the Court of Quarter Sessions, yesterday afternoon, William Newcorn, his counsel, served a writ of error on the Court, taking the case to the Supreme Court on appeal. Bail in the sum of $2,000 was then fixed and Finkel was released. During his arraignment his wife sobbed.

In pleading for leniency, Mr. Newcorn said that Finkel was the sole support of his father and mother, that he bore an excellent reputation, and that as a result of his conviction he would sacrifice his license to practise dentistry in this State.

Nathaniel Booth pleaded not guilty to a serious charge made by a Westfield girl and will be tried next Wednesday.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Battles, of Philadelphia, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Grace Battles, to George Burgess Yerkes, of this city.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Charles S. Runyon, Mrs. Charles S. Runyon, Katherine Hodgdon, Henry W. Hodgdon, William Sexson, Elizabeth Sexson, Mary Utter, Samuel Utter, Albert L. Runyon, Mrs. Albert L. Runyon, Smith Gibbons.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made June 15, 1915, in a cause wherein Samuel B. Woodruff and James F. Buckle, partners in trade as Woodruff & Buckle, are complainants, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainants, on or before the twelfth day of August next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you. The said bill is filed to foreclose two mortgages executed July 21, 1896, by John B. Mill, Anna B. Mills, his wife, and Francis S. Runyon, one to David A. Depew of the City of Newark, County of Essex, and State of New Jersey, the other to Eliza Stewart Depew, of the City of Newark, County of Essex, and State of New Jersey, on lands in the City of Plainfield, County of Union, and State of New Jersey, and you, Charles S. Runyon, Catherine Hodgdon, Henry W. Hodgdon, William Sexson, Elizabeth Sexson, Mary Utter, Albert L. Runyon, are made parties defendant because you are next of kin and heirs-at-law of Francis S. Runyon, one of the mortgagors, who executed the said mortgages, and you, Mrs. Charles S. Runyon, are made a party defendant because you are the wife of said Charles S. Runyon, and you, Samuel Utter, are made a party defendant because you are the husband of the said Mary Utter, and you, Mrs. Albert L. Runyon, are made a party defendant because you are the wife of the said Albert L. Runyon, and you, Smith Gibbons, are made a party defendant because you are the husband of Hattie L. Gibbons, and failed to join in a conveyance of said property to the said Frederick J. Huff.

SAFFORD WILL BE WITNESS IN CASE AGAINST SLADES

Martin W. Littleton will defend Maxwell and David Slade, counsel for Rae Tanzer in her breach of promise suit against James W. Osborne, when their trial on a conspiracy charge resulting from the Tanzer case begins Monday in the United States District Court in New York city.

Franklin D. Safford, formerly employed in the Hotel Kensington as a clerk, and who identified James W. Osborne as the companion of Rae Tanzer in Hotel Kensington last October, and who is now out on bail pending his appeal from the sentence for perjury, will be a witness for the Slades. James W. Osborne, Jr., a nephew of the defendant in Rae Tanzer's case, has been subpoenaed for the defense and the subpoena calls for the production of all books and papers obtained from William Kitchen, proprietor of Hotel Kensington.

LIGHTBEARERS HOLD A SALE AND ENTERTINMENT

The Lightbearers of the First Presbyterian church held an entertainment and sale in the church parlors last night. Two playlets were presented, one by the girls and one by the boys. The former gave "A Junior's Dream" and those who took part were the Misses Constance Selbey, Marjorie Searing, Elizabeth Burroughs, Edith Shotwell, Charlotte Fowler, Ruth Hammond and Hannah Stiglitz.

The boys presented "How Boys Play," and the cast consisted of Paul Duttenhoffer, Norman Hummer, Nester Alberts, Alvin Dunn and Ted Britton. After the entertainment ice cream and candy were sold. The proceeds will go for the support of a missionary.

BAND OF WORKERS GIVE A SUCCESSFUL FESTIVAL

Class No. 2, Band of Workers, of the Trinity Reformed church Bible school, held a successful strawberry festival, yesterday afternoon and evening, on the lawn at the home of Mrs A. K. Willett, of Craig place, the borough. This affair was originally planned for Thursday night, and the Dutch Arms Band was to play, but weather conditions forced those in charge to postpone it until last night. The Dutch Arms Band could not be present, having another engagement, but a large crowd attended and a good sum was realized. This will go into the one-hundred-dollar-fund pledged by the class to the church. This sum will be the fourth one hundred dollars given to the church.

The lawn was decorated with lanterns and bunting. Mrs. Charles Mehlenbeck, chairman of the social committee of the class, and Mrs. L. Pangborn, chairman of the financial committee, had general charge of the affair and were assisted by every member of the class. The following women were at the various tables: Mrs. Albert Davis and Mrs. William Shafer, candy; Mrs. John Wagner and Mrs. George Speir, cake; Mrs. Edward Weaver and Mrs. John Welsh, punch; Mrs. James Neal and Mrs. John Hoffman, ice cream cones, and Mrs. L. VanNest, strawberries. Mrs. Wagner is president of the class and Philip Vroom teacher.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The visitors of the home department of Trinity Reformed church will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The Junior Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a picnic on July 1.

Rev. F. J. Hubach, district superintendent, will conduct the first quarterly conference at the First M. E. church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Rev. Edward S. Ralston, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, will preach tomorrow morning on the subject, "Rights and Right." The second illustrated service in the series "Great Nations of the Orient," will be given at 7:45 o'clock in the evening. The subject will be "China." Many beautiful slides will show interesting features of the country and the life of the people.

RIVAL CLAIMANTS FOR SCHOOL RELICS

Squabble in New Providence Township Awaits Adjustmen by Board.

Disputed ownership of a number of articles in the old Diamond Hill schoolhouse, which has just been closed by order of the New Providence authorities, has resulted in a squabble which is at present engaging the attention of most of the township's residents. It reached such proportions yesterday that Constable William Lutz was placed in charge of the building with instructions to allow no one to enter until various differences had been adjusted. The order for this was given through Justice of the Peace Henderson at the request of County Superintendent Johnson, the latter having been appealed to by the Township Board of Education.

The Diamond Hill School has been in existence for the past fifty years, but the attendances have gradually fallen off until this year it had only seventeen pupils. The authorities decided it would be much cheaper to close up the building and transport the children to the Berkeley Heights School. Miss Clementine O'Donnell of Oswego, N. Y., who has been the teacher for the past two years, was not re-engaged and the closing exercises were held Thursday.

Among the school fixtures were a concert phonograph and a large bell. Miss O'Donell started to pack up the phonograph to take it home, saying she had been so instructed by Squire Debbie who was one of the largest contributers to the fund which purchased it. Squire Debbie planned to take the bell for himself, on the ground that he had been the main instigator in its purchase. Robert Rogers, clerk to the Board of Education, made a remonstrance, asserted that the articles mentioned were the property of the citizens and could not be removed without the consent of the school trustees. The argument waxed long and warm and the placing of Constable Lutz in charge of the building was the final result. The ownership of the phonograph and bell and also anything else in the school will be decided at the next meeting of the School Board.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS LODGE ENDING SUCCESSFUL PERIOD

The activities of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, which has been especially pronounced since the first of the year, will be concluded next Friday night with a "get together" in honor of the organization's forty-third anniversary. The fact was announced at the regular meeting last night by Chancellor Commander William J. Trembath, whose term expires at the next session and who has given the lodge a decided impetus since election in January. The affair will be for the members only and an urgent invitation was extended to all of them to be present. There will be plenty of good speeches, a chance to renew brotherly friendship and the various other things that make up a good time.

Three applications were received last night and these will make six on the waiting list, for the third degree a class initiation will be held next month. Unity lodge, of this city, will contribute several candidates and the work will be done by Perseverance's degree team. Officers for the ensuing six months were nominated last night and the election will be held next Friday night. The membership campaign for the past half year has resulted in a large number of additions to the lodge and Chancellor Commander Trembath will retire with one of the best records made by any of his predecessors for the past few years.

Young Woman's Day---
Silk or Corduroy Coats, Linen Suits, Silk Dresses and Skirts
At Little Prices

Striped Silk Coats
Only $10 and so good-looking. Girls who want a coat a trifle more unusual than a sweater will like these.

They are pocketed and belted silk ones which come in blue and black, black and white, green and black, and red and white. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

"Best Linen Suits in New York"
We quote that because we hear it every day.

Some of the linen suits are our own exclusive copies of models sent to us directly by Jeanne Lanvin. Others show Cheruit touches, and there are plenty of Norfolk shooting jacket and other sports fashions. White and delightful colors. Ramie, mummie, cossack and ratine linen. $9, $10, $12.50, $15 and $18.50. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

Corduroy Coats
These duplicate a coat we sold earlier at $12.75. It is $7.75, and has a wide patent leather belt, threaded through to form pleats.

596 Pairs of Blankets
129 Individual Blankets
330 Summer Spreads
142 Comforters

These Oddments of Bedding—Majority Impossible to Duplicate—Will Be Offered at New Lower Prices—Disposal Starts Monday Morning.

NO room to store oddments here no matter how good they are. The seven groups of blankets, with only two exceptions, came to us by special purchase last winter. They are last small lots of entire mill stocks formerly marked far below last year's conservative rate. We cannot duplicate most of them at any price and so offer them as follows:—

179 pairs of the celebrated Physicians Favorite, 90 per cent. wool filling, 72x84 inches, a grade beyond competition at $5 pair; the next delivery will cost more so what remains of the stock on hand will be closed out at $5 pair.

(This price has not been approached in several years.)

64 white blankets with one border of flower festoons, silk-bound, were $6.50, now repriced $5 each.
Double bed size, were $9, now $7 each.

175 pairs blankets, full bed size, standard grade last year at $6 to $8.50, came here specially priced at $4.85 to $7, now $4 to $6.

139 pairs blankets, including some of pure California wool filling, were specially priced $5.50 to $9, now $4.50 to $8.

103 pairs full-size plaid blankets averaging 90 per cent. wool, were specially priced $6, now $5 pair.

Gray all wool camp blankets, 66x82 in., weighing 6 pounds, were specially priced $6.75, now $6 each.

31 extra large camp blankets, pure wool, weighing 8 pounds, 70x112 in., large enough to wrap one's self in several times, were specially priced $9, now $8 each.

"Any store that has not covered its blanket wants for the coming fall will be in a bad way, and if it can get blankets at anything like the opening wholesale prices put out in January, it will be fortunate," said a blanket manufacturer Friday. "Wool costs half again as much as last year. Not only that, but wool of certain kinds is scarce."

OUR customers naturally expect us to cover their next winter needs for blankets with our own advance orders. That is a part of our every day work. But a sale of good blankets has not been expected by anyone—and here it is.

Bedspreads—Odds

42 white bed spreads, Marseilles weave, light weight, hemmed, full bed size, specially priced $2.40.
41 white bed spreads, scalloped and cut corners, were specially priced $3.50, now $3.
70 satin finished spreads, 88x98 inches, were $3.50, now $2.75.
177 English printed spreads, various designs and colors, single bed size, were $2, now $1.50.
A few hand-block printed spreads, were $5, now $3.85.

Comforters—Only a Few Left

49 down-filled quilts made in our own factory, 72x72 inches, covered with flowered sateen, were $5, now $4.
44 quilts, down-filled, flowered sateen tops with plain colored borders and linings, were $7.50, now $6.
49 cotton filled comforters, silkoline top, plain sateen borders, full bed size, all colors, were specially priced $2.25, now $1.50.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"Up from the Depths" will be the dramatic feature of today's program at the U. S. Astor Theatre, together with the usual quota of high-grade comedies and dramas.

"The Slim Princess," a V. L. S. E. release by Essanay, with Francis X. Bushman and Ruth Stonehouse in the principal roles will be the topline film Tuesday. In addition to this rib-tickling comedy will be Charles Chaplin in his latest release "Work," in which he is given abundant opportunity to put all his Chaplinisms into effect. This is Mr. Chaplin's first appearance in a late release in several months. "Work" is said by far to be the best vehicle with which the screen has yet furnished him. The laugh-register recently installed in the Astor Theatre will record the number of laughs the film provokes. "Work" will be the comic feature Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

When one recalls the plot in the musical comedy, "The Slim Princess," as acted by Elsie Janis several years ago, it is not easy to see where the author of the scenario for this picture found the incidents on which to build four reels. George Ade, as everybody knows, wrote the original story and perhaps he had a hand in preparing the scenario; but whether the credit belongs to him or to some one else, the picture will be here as a V. L. S. E. offering and for at least three-quarters of the way, if not throughout, it makes distinctly pleasing entertainment with abundant comedy.

Surely Francis X. Bushman as "Alexander Pike," Ruth Stonehouse as "Princess Kalora" and Wallace Berry as "Popova," will be very well liked, for they give finely judged performances in a true comedy vein. In the garb of a Turkish princess, too slender to fill the beauty requirements of her countrymen, but exactly in line with American fashions, Miss Stonehouse is an alluring picture and her acting is marked by charm and vivacity. Mr. Bushman is just the type for the very wealthy and fearlessly outspoken young American, whereas Mr. Berry is the comedy hit of the production in his characterization of the princess' tutor, who resents being called a Christian dog and proceeds to retaliate by joining in an unholy alliance with his pupil and her American admirer.

FESTIVAL A GREAT SUCCESS.

The strawberry festival last evening, on the lawn of the Netherwood Reformed church, given by the Ladies' Aid Society, was a success. The evening was delightful, and so great a crowd gathered that it was necessary to send out twice for more supplies to meet the demand. The music of the orchestra added very much to the pleasure of the evening. A good sum of money was realized for the treasury of the society.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, JUNE 19, 1915.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is F. K. Anderson.

THE EDITORIAL POINT OF VIEW APPLIED TO THE INDIVIDUAL.

Since I received my first instruction in journalistic affairs from the former proprietor of this newspaper, each year I have been more impressed with the value of these editorial principles:

Never tear down without also building up.

Never denounce a situation or condition as bad without providing a substitute that is good.

Never attack anything for which you have no remedy to offer.

Make all opinions conform to the principle of the greatest permanent good to the greatest number.

They are principles by adherence to which we may be kept on the upward road to idealism, and the course of human action may be directed toward those things which are better.

It should be noted that these principles are not represented as a system by which to alter the forces of human nature, but rather as a code of conduct in compliance with such forces—progress from one condition to a better condition being accepted as the dominating influence in all known record of human life.

Complying as it does with the established and recognized system of world development, idealism seems the only attitude that common sense would justify, and this attitude directs most editorial and other public utterances of the present day.

It is the individual adoption of this principle that I am anxious to emphasize at this time.

The opinions and viewpoints which actuate us as individuals in our individual lives have more to do in determining the value of our existence both to ourselves and to others than our occasional participation in some big force or social movement.

The Progressive party was athrill with ideals. Those ideals, cemented into a tremendous social movement, accomplished a really remarkable thing in politics and sociology; two years later the Progressive party made a forlorn showing. Why? Not because of any fallacy inherent in the social ideals embraced by the party, but because the individual units of humanity composing it would not suffer or take the chance of suffering for their convictions. The ideals were none the less virtuous or desirable but there appeared to be gathering clouds that threatened discomfort and—a million men turned back.

Now I hold no brief for the Progressive party, as a party—in fact I have always claimed that it grew out of a spontaneous rather than a sustained impulse—but I do believe in individual adherence to ideals of betterment both individually and socially, and I do claim that thousands of people today make their ideals altogether social and not at all individual.

What the world needs most is individual point of view and action in conformity with that upward trend which constitutes human history. The upward trend goes on just the same, gradually propelled by unseen forces, always progressive, even though by means of unfathomable disaster; and it is slow with frequent interruption and retrogression because men as individuals cannot easily bring their opinions into harmony with the ideals of humanity, when such ideals clash with the stern demands of necessity and the perplexing problems of existence.

It seems to justify the opinion of a certain school of economists who argue that temporal problems of existence and bonds of necessity have had more to do with the determination of social history than spiritual forces; and to commend almost any economic transition that will permit an easier compliance with the ideals which the spiritual power in man fosters.

The point of view of the individual toward these problems and with respect to the general principle of social idealism will be severely tested in the near future and a willingness to permit personal interest and opinion to be governed by social interest and welfare will be demanded.

I can think of no better method by which the individual may meet the social requirement of modern life than to apply to private affairs and personal character the editorial code quoted at the outset of this article.

STRUCTURAL NOTED IN LOCAL BUILDING

But Four Permits Issued This Week Calling for the Expenditure of $7,400.

Permits for further building operations in this city took a drop during the past week, when four construction permits were issued by Inspector T. O. Doane. These cover the erection of two dwellings, one garage, and one alteration job, calling for the expenditure of $7,400. This record is against eight permits and expenditures amounting to $15,135 for the previous week. The total expenditures for the month now aggregate $26,095, or about one-fourth of the expenditures of last June.

Despite the comparative poor showing in actual permits issued thus far this month, as against the same month of last year, there is at present more plans out seeking bids and estimates than has been at any one time for quite a period. Reports are being received at this office continually of prospective buildings, contractors, architects, and other interested in the building activities directly are as one in the opinion that the best part of the local building season is still to come.

The permits as granted this week are as noted below:

Third Ward.

George Greenleaf, of West Front street, and the head of the drafting department of the Pond Machine Tool Company, has been granted a permit for the erection of a ten-room dwelling on West Eighth street, just west of Irving place. The structure will be frame, two and a half stories high, and of colonial architecture. It will have a frontage of thirty-six feet and a depth of thirty-four feet. A hot water heating system is to be installed. The estimated cost has been placed at $5,000. The plans were drawn by the owner. The contract for the mason work has been awarded to W. G. Clawson, while the carpentry work is to be cared for by the Apgar Construction Company, of Dunellen. Mr. Greenleaf is also to erect an 18x18 foot frame garage at a cost of $285, the contractors being the same as for the dwelling.

An extension, measuring 21x14 feet, to be used as a sleeping porch, is to be erected to the rear of the dwelling at 740 West Eighth street, the property being owned by Mrs. Gertrude Patterson. The cost of the improvements will amount o $1,115. William Pangborn's Sons are the mason contractors, and Michael Rimmer the carpenter contractor.

Fourth Ward.

Marguerite Zeller is to erect a two-story frame dwelling at 1357 South Second street at a cost of $1,000. The structure is to measure 20x44 feet. Morris Rabinowitz and Theodore Zeller are the mason and carpenter contractors respectively.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS.

Nathan Meyers, the owner of the former VanSyckle property at 740 West Fourth street, is having extensive repairs made to the residence. A new porch will be one of the improvements, and the interior is undergoing a general overhauling. An addition to the barn in the rear of the property is to be torn down and a modern milk house erected a few years ago is to be removed to another Meyer property to be used as a garage. The carpenter work is being done by Lewis Beekman, who is the general contractor.

LIBRARY ALTERATIONS.

Improvements to the second floor of the Public Library at Park avenue and West Eighth street, are being planned by the board of directors, alterations of the floor plans being the feature. The present building was erected in 1886, five years after its organization, on land donated for the purpose by Job Male, the first Mayor of Plainfield.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

Gaby Deslys, in her starring vehicle, "Her Triumph," was shown at the Airdome, last night, and will be repeated again this evening. The production is one that has more than average merit to commend itself to local movie fans and should be greeted at its repeat tonight by a capacity audience. A Charlie Chaplin comedy is also scheduled for this evening and with several one and two-reel comedies and dramas the program will carry the spectators through a fine three hours' entertainment.

Plainfield people are now fully acquainted with the fact that the Airdome is the best place in the city to see moving pictures. Manager Shannon controls the exclusive contract for the first run of all Paramount pictures and he has been giving the patrons a Broadway show at popular prices. He has a number of big features for next week, several of them guaranteed to be the best ever seen in the city. Friday night, June 25, has been set aside as B. P. O. E. night at the popular resort and on that occasion the members of Plainfield Lodge of Elks and their friends will accept the hospitality of the management and attend in a body. It is probable the delegation will number 500 in all and a special program is being arranged in consequence. One of the slogans of the Airdome is that it is "Just what the doctor ordered," and from the way in which the people are accepting the statement it is evident that physicians everywhere are giving the same prescription. Follow the crowd to the Airdome if you want to be in the swim with anything concerning all that is the best in moving pictures.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The present week at Proctor's Theatre will be concluded this afternoon and tonight with the splendid program which includes the great western picture, "Where Cowboy Is King." It is being repeated at the playhouse by popular request, having made lasting impressions when shown several weeks ago. The Paramount Travel pictures, the serial film, "The Goddess," and several one reel Mutual pictures are also on today's program.

A series of elaborate bookings for Proctor's Theatre next week will start off on Monday with the five-part World Corporation's feature, "The Boss," from the original senario as presented on the legitimate stage two seasons ago. Holbrook Blinn and Alice Brady, both of whom have acted on the legitimate stage in Plainfield and who are great favorites with local playgoers, will be seen in the leading roles. "The Boss" is from the pen of Edward Sheldon, who also wrote "Salvation Nell," "Romance" and "The Nigger," and several other exceptionally successful dramas. "The Boss" depicts Mike Regan, fighter, bartender, political boss, who saves the Griswold family from ruin because he loves the daughter Emily. The workingmen send a delegate to Regan to voice their demands for shorter hours and more pay. To show his contempt Regan knocked him out with a blow. Regan's pal commits a murder and Regan is accused of the crime. When everything looks dark and prison looms before the dethroned boss, his wife finds that she really loves him and fights with him shoulder to shoulder to success. This intense and virile play of love and politics was Holbrook Blinn's greatest stage success.

Among the other pictures to be shown on next week's program are the following: "Pro Patria" or "In Defence of the Nation," a five-part war drama featuring Valdemar Psilander; Daniel Frohman's production of "The Crucible;" Bosworth Company's production of "False Colors," Fox Company's production of "A Woman's Resurrection" and the Life Film offering, "The Curious Conduct of Judge Legarde."

EX-PUGILIST WILL TELL HOW HE FOUGHT TO WIN

All men over sixteen years of age are invited to attend the meeting to be held in the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon when "Jack" Cardiff, an ex-pugilist and now physical director for "Billy" Sunday, will speak.

"Jack," whose experiences in the ring cover a period of eighteen years with 297 battles, will tell of how he fought to win and what the results have been. He has a message that appeals to men everywhere.

The meeting will open with a song service at 3:45 and arrangements for special vocal and instrumental music have also been made.

CARRANZA HAS MORE ON HIS HANDS; LOCKS SELF IN PRISON

Washington, June 19.—General Carranza, alarmed at the dissatisfaction in his cabinet, has establish his headquarters in the fortified prison of Juan e Nilao, Consul Canada reported today. Four members of the cabinet resigned.

Disapproval of Carranza's handling of the situation with the United States is said to have caused the crisis.

MANY ACTIVITIES FOR Y. M. C. A. BOYS' CLASSES

Members of the College Club of the Y. M. C. A. have organized a Century Hikers' Club with an object of creating more interest in hiking. When a member has walked 100 miles he will receive a degree of "Master Hiker." The officers of the club are Donald Henwood, president, and Max Fullerton, treasurer.

The Sioux team of the association Indian League has been declared the winner of the out-of-door athletic schedule with a total of 385 points. The other teams finished as follows: Wawayanda, 343; Iroquois, 333, and Omaha, 236. The members of the winning team will be presented with ribbons. Next Monday afternoon the Indian Leaguers will hold their stunt day in the out-door gym. The program will consist of games, races and refreshments.

An out-door gym exhibition by all the classes of the Boys' Department will be held at the association Monday night, June 28, at 8 o'clock. All classes will take part in the program. A prize of a solid gold Y. M. C. A. pin will be given to the boy selling the most number of tickets, which are ten cents. This exhibition will close the spring schedule of the department. The summer schedule will start June 28, when the boys will have the use of the building in the morning as follows: Indian League, 9 to 10 o'clock, and College League and High School from 10 to 11.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIAL.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Hope chapel, conducted a pleasing entertainment in the Sunday-school rooms, last night, during which two comedy playlets were presented by the members. They were entitled, "A Cheerful Companion" and "Fuss and Feathers," both of which were very ably presented by the talented amateurs. During the evening musical selections were contributed by the Misses Josphine Snyder, Elsie Dellahunt, Eunice Eckert, Agnes Leighs and Margaret Mortimer.

LAWN FESTIVAL.

The members of the junior department of the First Baptist Sunday-school, had an enjoyable time at a social held on the church lawn yesterday afternoon. Games were played and refreshments served during the afternoon. Miss Sara Conover and Mrs. A. M. Harris had charge of the games and were assisted by other teachers of the junior department.

VISITED HOSPITAL.

Mayor Segar, of Passaic, and the members of the Board of Directors of the Passaic General Hospital, were visitors at the Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday afternoon. There will be a new hospital built at Passaic in the near future and the officials came to inspect the local institution for pointers. They were shown throughout the building.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 77 degrees; 11 a.m., 84 degrees; 12:30 p. m., 87 degrees.

You Touch a Magic Button When You Become a "Want Advertiser."

Our day is the day of "touching buttons."

A President presses a button in Washington, and a titanic explosion, thousands of miles away, weds the two great seas.

We are fond, nowadays, of accomplishing big effects with simple processes.

And so the "button-pressing" magic applies to the "little things" of life, as well as to the big episodes.

When you become a "want advertiser" you press a MAGIC BUTTON —and the influence is felt in the homes and business places of the city.

Your quest becomes of interest to the people who are able to help you accomplish it.

If you seek work, and "press the button" of Plainfield Daily Press want advertising publicity, your quest becomes one of personal interest to the people who need you. The same law operates in the working out of every "want ad task."

For classified advertising makes the whole city your market; makes the right people your audience; delivers your message to all people to whom it could have any interest or importance.

Best notes on keeping up the garden in Saturday's Daily Press.

Don't forget that classified advertisements must be in by noon on Saturdays.

The want ad way of tenant-finding is the accepted way—and means small expense and delay.

About the best place to fish in Lake Hopatcong is Woodport, where all of the best reported catches have been made. 10 bass or 10 pickerel is only a fair catch for the experts.

Fluke and summer flounders are starting to bite at he Long Branch pier. The fish will be more numerous in the next few days, as they come close to shore in great schools when the movement starts. A float to keep the live minnow moving makes the best bait, although clams and squid come in handy.

Catching undersized fish is bad business, as some anglers can testify. Game wardens can't be everywhere, but they do happen around at unexpected moments and somehow or other, find enough to start trouble. The law is liberal in its limit regulation and fish smaller than the length prescribed should not be taken, as, when the head and tail are cut off, there isn't enough left to fry.

It will be high water in Raritan Bay and Staten island Sound at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. With a high tide at noon there should be a number of weakfish taken down there.

Sewaren is a promising place for weakfish, fluke and eels. Shedder crabs are used for bait.

Bass, perch and pickerel may be caught in the Passaic River above Singac.

Anglers have been making good catches of rainbow trout in the tributaries of the Millstone River in Somerset county. Fifteen hundred rainbow trout were planted in a small brook near Chimney Rock a few days ago.

Following the announcement of the first weakfish haveing been taken off Morgan Station comes word that the first weak of the season has been located at Sewaren.

Good catches of bass are being made at Branch Brook Park Lake. Platt Adams, formerly of this city, landed two bass, one of which weighed two and a half ounces.

SAURER SUNDAY GAME.

Saurer balltossers are booked to appear at Bound Brook tomorrow afternoon, to meet the Bound Brook Bees. These teams met early in the season and the local nine came home with a 6 to 4 verdict. Another good game is expected tomorrow.

LEAGUE MEETING.

An important meeting of the Plainfield Baseball League will be held in the Daily Press offices Monday night. All managers are requested to be present at 8 o'clock.

TENNIS DOUBLES.

The first round of the women's doubles tennis tournament of the Plainfield Country Club will be played Monday.

GAME FOR TOMORROW.

The Netherwood baseball team, of the City Baseball League, will play the Highland Park aggregation at Highland Park tomorrow afternoon.

DIDN'T HIT BULLFROG, BUT GETS 30 DAYS

Metuchen, June 19.—Peter Banks went hunting bullfrogs at Silver Lake and because of that today he is a prisoner in the Middlesex county jail, where he must remain for the next thirty summer days to satisfy New Jersey justice.

Peter had a hankering for bullfrog legs. He took down his rifle from above the open fireplace and hied him to Silver Lake. He had been waiting for some time to get a shot at a big croaker, and when the chance came he took aim and fired. The bullet missed, but the heavy hand of the law was laid upon Peter's shoulder as he looked into the eyes of Game Warden Charles Steurwald. Peter remonstrated, asserting he did not kill the frog.

"Frog or no frog," said the Game Warden, "you must have a license to shoot a gun in New Jersey."

In default of a $20 fine and costs of $3.25, Justice of the Peace Sedam imposed the jail sentence.

TITLE FOR TRAVERS BY A SINGLE STROKE

Veteran Golfer Annexes National Open Golf Championship.

Jerome Dunstan Travers, amateur, of the Upper Montclair Country Club, is now the open golf champion of the United States. The four times amateur champion won the title yesterday by going round in 73 and 76, which, added to his total of 148 for the first day, gave him a grand total of 297. This was one stroke better than Tom McNamara, the Boston homebred, who won the metropolitan open title three years ago.

Travers is the second amateur to win the open title, the first one being Francis Ouimet, who came to the fore so wonderfully in that memorable play-off with Vardon and Ray at Brookline two years ago. Titles are no new things to Travers. He has held the national amateur championship four times, has won the metropolitan on five occasions and the New Jersey on three.

E. K. McCarthy, well known in this city, finished with a card of 166, 165—331.

PLAINFIELD BALL NINE SEEKING SOME OPPOSITION

The Plainfield A. A. baseball team will open its season one week from tomorrow when it will have as opponents the Plainfield Moose team, which to date has a clean record. The game will probably be played in Netherwood. The Plainfield team is composed mostly of former P. H. S. players, and Eddie Conshay, as pitcher, Compton, the former West End catcher, will probably perform. The manager of the team would like to hear from teams of this city, Bound Brook, Somerville and other places.

Games with the T. A. B., Perth Amboy and Metuchen teams have already been arranged. Those who will play on the team are Benny Rosenson, Aaron Hirsch, "Art" O'Leary, Bill Victorson, H. Bergen, Gifford Jones, Compton and Eddie Conshay.

CHANDLER CAPTAIN-ELECT.

Sherman Chandler, '16, has been elected captain of the North Plainfield High School tennis team for next year. He plays both singles and doubles. Two players will be lost by graduation this year, Captain Hoyt Tomkinson and Manager Elmer French.

FORMER PET RELEASED.

Leon Cadore, who pitched for the Plainfield Pets several years ago and who was very popular with the local fans, has been released by the Brooklyn Nationals to the Montreal club of the International League.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN THE PLAINFIELD BUILDING WORLD

WILL DEVELOPE A LARGE TRACT

The H. C. Lockwood Co. Has Acquired Lots in Residential Section.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS

Work is Now Advanced in Clearing Streets and This Will Be Carried on As Rapidly As Possible—Known as "Hillside Terrace."

A real estate operation of more than usual interest has just been announced. The tract of about two hundred lots located at Hillside avenue and Putnam street has been placed on the market by the H. C. Lockwood Co., which developed sections of Fanwood, and a considerable portion of Westfield. There are about 40 lots fronting on Putnam avenue, with all latest improvements; forty lots front on the extension of Hillside avenue, which passes through the finest grove of trees, which are left in Plainfield; forty lots front on Sunnyside place, a short street running parallel to Putnam avenue, and about eighty lots front on the extension of Berckman street, from Webster place to Putnam street, near Woodland avenue.

Nearly one-half of the tract is covered with fine trees; and all is centrally located, convenient to both Netherwood and Plainfield depots while the Netherwood trolley passes throuh Putnama venue. Work has advanced in clearing the streets ready for improvements, and will be carried on as rapidly as possible. Full but moderate restrictions will protect all lot buyers, and make of this an ideal section for commuters homes.

Since starting operations in Westfield eight years ago, the H. C. Lockwood Co. has sold miles of street frontage to successful investors, and there have been erected on these lots about one hundred and twenty-five houses in that time. It is predicted that there will be an active demand for lots in "Hillside Terrace," as the new subdivision is called, both for the reason that it is choice and centrally located, and because the good times are generally believed to be near at hand, when real estate purchases properly made will return handsome profits.

In connection with the taking over of this tract by the Lockwood concern, it is also announced that a local architect has secured the contract for the drawing of plans of nine dwellings to be erected during the course of the coming summer on this property. Each of the houses are to have distinctive features, and will be greatly instrumental in giving the eastern end of the city an enthusiastic boom at the offset. It is expected that a portion of these dwellings will be under way by July 15.

IN THE SUBURBS

Dunellen.

The parish house of St. John's church is being moved from its old foundation on Washington avenue to Fifth street.

The new home of Elwood Gary on Dunellen avenue is nearing completion and Mr. Gary expects to be able to move in on July 1.

Contractor Samuel M. Titus has been awarded the contract of erecting a house for the Standard Investment Company, a local concern, on Fourth street and Monroe avenue, Plainfield.

A lot of land situated on Lincoln avenue near the property of Constable Charles W. Blaine has been sold by the John Fedderman Agency to the Apgar Construction Company. The former owner was August Broshart, of New Brunswick. The construction company buys for development and will erect a modern house on the lot at an early date. The company is making quite a name for itself already in the building world since its organization only a few months ago.

The recently completed house of Contractor Herman B. Eckert on Third street has been taken by Mr. and Mrs. John T. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, who moved into their new home the latter part of last week.

Contractor Charles Wrage has been awarded the contract for the erection of two houses on Sanford avenue, Equator Park, the contract having recently been given out by President Samuel H. Schwartz, of the company. The houses will be of seven rooms each and the hustling contractor has already started work on the job.

Middlesex Boro.

A resolution was passed recently by the Board of Education to call a meeting of the legal voters in the Pierce School, East Bound Brook, on Tuesday night, June 29, to authorize the Board to purchase block No. 7, in Washington Heights, said block being 610 ft. by 200 ft., and bounded on the north by Lawrence street, on the east by Nelson avenue, on the south by Howard street and on the west by Fisher avenue, and to erect and furnish a school building on this site, the total cost of lot and building and furniture not to exceed $31,000.

Mt. Bethel.

Charles Crabb's farm at Mt. Bethel has been sold to a New York concern which will manufacture tile brick. The company has discovered an unlimited supply of fine clay. The plant has been built and machinery installed. Operations will begin within a couple of weeks.

South Plainfield.

Three building contracts have been filed at the county clerk's office for the erection of a new home for Clara M. O'Loughlin, at Oakdale Park, in Piscataway township. The carpenter work will be done by Robert W. Wright, of Plainfield, at a contract price of $2,100; the mason work, etc., will be done by Dennis W. O'Loughlin, of Plainfield, for $1,250 and the plumbing, heating, tin and gas work by Nicholas Cody, also of Plainfield, for $570. The plans and specifications for the dwelling were drawn by E. W. Stillwell. According to the terms of the contracts, the building is to be completed by September 15.

New Providence.

David W. Totten last week took title to a lot on Elkwood avenue, purchased from his parents, and will build a house upon it.

Christian Blatt last week purchased a lot of ground on South street from Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Samson.

STATE PERMITS.

An increase in number, but a decrease in value as compared with the preceding week, is noted in the plans approved by the State Board of Supervision of Tenement Houses, during the week ending Saturday. Twenty-five permits were issued by the Board last week, calling for the expenditure of $248,800. Three of these permits called for alterations at a cost of $5,500. During the preceding week, twenty-three permits were granted, calling for expenditures amounting to $287,500.

The Week's Work In Brief

Thin out fruit where it has set too thickly.
Feed the sweet peas with liquid manure as flower buds show.
Pot up strawberry runners for plants to set out later in the season.
Prune climbing roses as soon as the flowers have passed.
Sow sweet corn for succession.
Plant potatoes for late crop.

THINNING heavily set fruit clusters is too often neglected by the owner of the small home orchard. Nothing, however, makes for better results than judicious thinning. Where overcrowding is apparent, thin out by ridding the cluster of the fruit that is in the center of the bunch. This greatly improves the quality of the fruit that remains and, at the same time, disposes of some of the product that shows the effects of attack by either insect pest or disease. In addition to thinning from the center outward, be sure to remove all ill-formed, knotty or wormy specimens. If this process has been ignored in the past, a trial this season will convince the experimenter of its value.

Sweet peas, if the weather is dry, will demand artificial watering. If this is applied, make sure that enough water is supplied to reach deep into the ground. After a thorough soaking of this sort, apply a mulch of half-rotted leaves or of dry grass clippings. It is well to bear in mind, however, that sweet peas should be artificially watered only when the necessity is pressing. After a rain—or a watering—treat them to a liquid manure stimulant at the time the flower buds are showing. Be careful to keep the solution off the foliage. Pick the blossoms clean, cutting every morning as far as possible, rather than at night. If the flowers are not cut, the blossoms will quickly go to seed and flowering will cease.

If you grow strawberries in the matted row manner, after the second crop has been harvested, the runners can be allowed to establish themselves in the bare, or cultivated middle ground and, when well rooted, the old rows can be broken up and cleared at once to be, in turn, cultivated next season. Apply nitrate of soda after this cultivation, and keep the cleared ground well tilled. Potting the runners is also a simple process. Select the best plants, those that are thriftiest and most productive, which bear the largest number of the largest berries, and direct the runners from these to two-inch pots set, rim deep, into the ground and filled with rich, loose soil. By the end of August, the runners will have developed into splendid little plants and the pots will be filled with roots. These can now be lifted and transplanted at once to their new quarters.

Strawberry runners, rooting to make new plants.
Potting strawberry runners for transplanting a month later.

As soon as the climbing roses cease blooming, prune by cutting out the oldest canes and shortening back the canes produced last season. Among the climbers to be so treated are Dorothy Perkins, Crimson Rambler—if you still have the antiquated plant on your grounds—Hiawatha, the yellow and white ramblers, Lady Gay and Tausendschon. Cut away, also, the weakest of the new shoots. At the same time, look carefully to the other roses. The hybrid perpetuals, as blooming ceases, should be cultivated and pruned. Cut back the blooming stems one half; trim the others back one-third. Dress with bone meal—a liberal handful to each plant.

Spray all the roses for the last time with whale-oil soap, 2 ounces to one gallon of water. Be on the alert to guard at this time against the appearance of mildew. If its presence is observed, spray immediately with a solution of sulphide of potassium, one-half ounce to one gallon of water.

In the vegetable garden, be particularly watchful to prevent damage to young melon and cucumber vines and to squashes from the striped beetle. If this pest is detected, spray at once with the Bordeaux-arsenate of lead mixture—by far the best spray to use—or dust the leaves with powdered air-slaked lime. In the berry plantation, clip off the ends of the new blackberry canes when they are about thirty inches long. If disease appears, or is suspected, spray with Bordeaux. Jar the plum trees every other day and gather and burn all fruits that fall.

Potato plant at proper depth with withered seed-piece between the tubers. Seed piece on right showing proper size.

Sweet corn and other vegetables as needed should be sown now for succession and the late crop of potatoes should be planted. See that the cuttings are about the size of hen-eggs and are chunky, not thin, weighing about three ounces. Apply a liberal amount of commercial fertilizers to the seed bed—a fertilizer analyzing 3 per cent. nitrogen, 6 per cent. phosphoric acid, and 10 per cent. potash. Slight variation from this formula is immaterial and most dealers in fertilizers will be able to supply a special combination especially compounded for potatoes. Plant the seed-pieces not less than four inches deep. As soon as the plants appear above ground, begin cultivation and keep the soil worked thoroughly until the plants have attained sufficient size to provide heavy shade of their own.

OLD LANDMARK WILL SOON PASS

Gloekler Corner, With Its History, to Give Way to New Structure.

"SWIFTSURE" STATION

Was Stopping Place for Mail Stage Coach in Early Days—Popular as Gathering Place for Farmers Many Years Ago.

In consequence of the Gloekler property at West Front and Somerset streets recently being disposed of to the allied interests of the United Cigars Company and the Riker-Hegeman Drug Company, the tenants of the building at this location will have to, in the near future, vacate. The present structure is to be torn down, and a handsome two-story building erected in its place.

The present building is among the oldest in the city, and is recognized as one of the few landmarks that has withstood the progress of the city of Plainfield for more than three-quarters of a century, and if the exact date of the erection could be unearthed at this time, the history of this unique structure might be found to cover more than a century. As far back as the early '30's the father of the late Lewis E. Barkalew kept a hotel in the building, Mr. Barkalew being born there in 1832.

The inn and tavern, as hostelries were called in those days, was the stopping place for the old "Swiftsure" line stages plying between New York and Philadelphia, as well as for the mail stage coaches traveling between New York and Easton. The latter stages entered Plainfield by way of what was known as Rahway road, and was later changed to Watchung avenue. The "Swiftsure" line came in by way of East Front street, the last previous stop having been the Scotch Plains Inn. At this time Somerset street was known as Mountain avenue. A wheelwright shop for many years stood on the opposite corner, where VanCamp's store is now located.

In after years a small lean-to was erected on the Somerset street side of the structure for a peanut shop, and for over a quarter of a century has been occupied by members of the Lusardi family. Tony Lusardi, the present tenant, about fifteen years ago succeeded his brother, Julius, who went back to Italy. Mr. Lusardi's father, Anthony Lusardi, Sr., founder of the present tobacco and fruit business, established the place, buying out what was for many years known as the Clark confectionery and dining room. The Clark dining room was a popular resort for a long period for the farmers who brought fresh vegetables and dairy products into the city, and tillers of the soil for a great term of years recognized this corner as the Plainfield meeting place.

The present owner of the tobacco business is at present looking for another stand in anticipation of soon being forced to vacate the premises, but in all probability will not find another corner with as much trade as the one he now occupies.

Plans for the new building to be erected by the new holders of the property are now in the hands of contractors, seeking bids and estimates, and it is only a matter of a few weeks before the old building will be demolished. The structure is to be two stories high, according to Vice President Bater, of the cigar company, and will add much to the attractiveness of the most important corner in the city.

AUCTION SALE.

About twenty lots measuring 50 by 100 feet, facing on Myrtle avenue, Branford place and DeKalb avenue, portions of the old Taylor estate, are being auctioned off this afternoon, Bryan L. Kennelly, of New York, acting as auctioneer. This property is across Front street from the plant of the Saurer Motor Company, and the immediate vicinity of a number of prospective buildings.

SHERIFF SALE.

Only one piece of Plainfield property was sold Wednesday afternoon at the weekly sale in Sheriff Otto's office, Elizabeth. As the result of the chancery action brought by Nora Seal against the Central Holding Company premises in Prospect avenue, near Kensington avenue, Plainfield, were sold to the complainant for $2,000. The lot measures sixty by 177 feet.

COUNTY CONTRACTS.

County construction activities are in the midst of a slight slump at the present time. During the two weeks ending last Saturday, but sixteen construction contracts were filed with the county clerk at Elizabeth. These documents call for the expenditure of $71,140. These figures are somewhat slow for this time of year.

Homes of Individuality

Selected by Walter J. Keith, Architect

GAMBREL ROOF COTTAGE. DESIGN NO. D-1333

The above depicts a most attractive cottage home, with brick walls for the first story and shingles above. Its clean-cut lines and the harmonizing textures of the brick and shingles give it a distinctive and home-like appearance.

The floor plan below suggested for this exterior gives an arrangement of rooms that is very desirable. The living room is a cheerful apartment with its open fireplace and windows on three sides and could be built full width, clear across the front if desired. A sliding door opens to the dining room and a door under the stairs gives direct access to the kitchen. This is of ample size and connects with the dining room through a pass pantry. A large closet is provided in the passage to living room and here also descends a flight of steps to the basement with outside grade entrance on the platform three steps down. The entry from the rear porch gives space for the refrigerator and the maid's room on the ground floor is now preferred by many.

A basement extends under the main part of the house.

The cost of this cottage home is estimated at $2,400 exclusive of heating, plumbing, electric work, and decorations. Plans and specifications $20.

All inquiries concerning "Homes of Individuality" will be cheerfully answered by simply addressing "Homes of Individuality Department," Plainfield Daily Press.

QUOTATIONS ARE REPORTED HIGHER

With the Exception of Common Brick Prices Show a Marked Advance.

TRADE IS STIMULATED

Jump of Ten Cents a Barrel in Cement by a Large Company Induces Other Concerns to Follow Suit—Prices of Other Materials.

New York, June 19—Practically the entire building material list was shaded this week by distributors to induce heavy purchases by retailers before the close of the first half of the year. Actual quotations were kept high, however, with the exception of common brick which eased off about twenty-five cents a thousand at the Hudson River wholesale distributing station, and linseed oil. In some cases wholesale quotations were actually higher than in the preceding week, notably in Portland cement and structural steel, showing that the condition of the supply market is rapidly reaching a stage where prices will have to be at a better level than they have been.

One important cement company advanced its price ten cents a barrel, making its quotation $1.43, alongside of dock, N. Y. This lead was not followed by other big companies, but there was a marked reduction in the amount of shading being done by smaller companies. One railroad running out out of the Lehigh district to New York reported a heavier business in cement shipments during the month of May than at any time in its history. Kiln capacity now employed is near the 87 per cent mark with more kilns to be blown in between now and August 1. The $1.43 mill price for Portland cement is now within 6 cents of that prevailing before the war price began in January and by September 1 there are predictions being made that the price will be nearer a dollar a barrel, mill, or about $1.65 cents, alongside of dock, N. Y. This may account for the stiffness in present prices and the heavy shipments reported by railroad companies.

In the lumber department hemlock has eased off a little. On the other hand yellow pine has shown a tendency to improve. The range of prices for Eastern spruce are higher than they were a year ago, but in all kinds of spruce the present market price is based largely upon the amount of offerings made to the wholesale distributors here. Heavy shipments coming in from the Pacific coast of fir have sagged the price level of shingles and lath. Despite these higher quotations in the June-July lumber list the price situation in some lines is unsatisfactory to the wholesaler, quotations on some items having a difference of 21 to 50. This is because retailers are buying close to actual requirements, indicating that construction work in the suburbs is still sluggish.

On the other hand, the fireproof terra cotta companies are doing a bigger business in the suburbs than they are in the cities this year. Prices have stiffened, although there has been no actual change in lists except for purchases of large quantities, when advantageous concessions can be secured.

Common brick from the Hudson district can be bought at prices ranging from $5.75 to $6.25, New York dock. This drop was made to move some of the run of kiln brick that has been hanging over for a week or more owing to unsettled weather. The price is expected to rebound by the middle of next week.

Linseed oil, largely controlling the price of paints and varnishes, has receded. Quotations lack strength even at 64 and 65 cents. At the first of the month quotations were four cents higher. Black refined mineral lubricants run at about 13 and 13½ and are steady at that level.

Brass was the first to reach the 30-cent level, predicted at the time Italy entered the lists in Europe. Quotations for sheet brass this week reached thirty cents for large lots and copper went up another cent to 25½ cents and was very firm. July spelter is held at 20¾ which indicates a further stiffness in galvanized materials, such as rain gutter leaders, nails, screening and concrete reinforcement. Lead at New York was selling at 6.50 cents a pound. Store prices for structural steel is $1.85 and $1.90 and is steady. Manila rope is firmer and so is galvanized and copper wire rope.

FURTHER BUILDINGS NOW BEING PLANNED

Dwellings, Alterations and Business Buildings to Feature Local Construction.

Further announcements have been made during the course of the past week concerning prospective buildings for this city to be erected this summer. Plans are at present underway for the rebuilding of parts of the garage of the Laing Machine Company on Sycamore street, George H. Fisher, Jr., being the architect of the improvements which will make the garage one of the most modern and up-to-date places of its kind in the city.

Another announcement concerns the erection of a large dwelling on Washington avenue on the property recently secured by the Merchants and Traders Realty Company, of which Samuel Schwartz, of Arlington avenue, is the president. The property was recently secured by the realty concern through an exchange with Floyd Woodhull for other property in this city.

As indicated in another column, it is expected that the H. C. Lockwood Company, who is now opening up Hillside Park as a residential tract, will undoubtedly construct nine dwellings in this section during the course of the summer, as plans are now being prepared by a local architect.

The most important of the building notices of the week appeared in this paper Wednesday evening, when an interview with Vice-President Bater, of the United Cigars Company, was printed, telling of the erection of a modern two-story building at the corner of West Front and Somerset streets.

PENROD

Copyright, 1914, by Doubleday, Page & Company

Penrod's feelings underwent instant change, and in the sole occupation of disliking Mitchy-Mitch he wasted precious seconds which might have been better employed in philosophic consideration of the startling example just afforded of how a given law operates throughout the universe in precisely the same manner perpetually. Robert Williams would have understood this easily.

"Oh, oh!" Marjorie cried and put Mitchy-Mitch behind her with too much sweetness. "Maurice Levy's gone to Atlantic City with his mamma," she remarked conversationally as if the kicking incident were quite closed.

"That's nothin'," returned Penrod, keeping his eye uneasily upon Mitchy-Mitch. "I know plenty people been better places than that—Chicago and everywhere."

There was unconscious ingratitude in his low rating of Atlantic City, for it was largely to the attractions of that resort he owed Miss Jones' present attitude of friendliness. Of course, too, she was curious about the accordion. It would be dastardly to hint that she had noticed a paper bag which bulged the pocket of Penrod's coat, and yet this bag was undeniably conspicuous—"and children are very like grown people sometimes!"

Penrod brought forth the bag, purchased on the way at a drug store and till this moment unopened, which expresses in a word the depth of his sentiment for Marjorie. It contained an abundant 15 cents' worth of lemon drops, jawbreakers, licorice sticks, cinnamon drops and shopworn chocolate creams.

"Take all you want," he said, with offhand generosity.

"Why, Penrod Schofield," exclaimed the wholly thawed damsel, "you nice boy!"

"Oh, that's nothin'," he returned airily. "I got a good deal of money nowadays."

"Where from?"

"Oh, just around!" With a cautious gesture he offered a jaw breaker to Mitchy-Mitch, who snatched it indignantly and set about its absorption without delay.

"Can you play on that?" asked Marjorie, with some difficulty, her cheeks being rather too hilly for conversation.

"Want to hear me?"

She nodded, her eyes sweet with anticipation.

This was what he had come for. He threw back his head, lifted his eyes dreamily, as he had seen real musicians lift theirs, and distended the accordion preparing to produce the wonderful calflike noise which was the instrument's great charm. But the distention evoked a long wail which was at once drowned in another one.

"Ow! Owowooh! Wowohah! Waowwow!" shrieked Mitchy-Mitch.

"Ow! Owowooh! Wowohah! Waowwow!" shrieked Mitchy-Mitch and the accordion together.

Mitchy-Mitch, to emphasize his disapproval of the accordion, opening his mouth still wider, lost therefrom the jaw breaker, which rolled in the dust. Weeping, he stooped to retrieve it, and Marjorie, to prevent him, hastily set her foot upon it. Penrod offered another jaw breaker, but Mitchy-Mitch struck it from his hand, desiring the former, which had convinced him of its sweetness.

Marjorie moved inadvertently, whereupon Mitchy-Mitch pounced upon the remains of his jaw breaker and restored them, with accretions, to his mouth. His sister, uttering a cry of horror, sprang to the rescue, assisted by Penrod, whom she prevailed upon to hold Mitchy-Mitch's mouth open while she excavated.

This delicate operation being completed and Penrod's right thumb severely bitten, Mitchy-Mitch closed his eyes tightly, stamped, squealed, bellowed, wrung his hands and then, unexpectedly, kicked Penrod again.

Penrod put a hand in his pocket and drew forth a copper two cent piece, large, round and fairly bright.

He gave it to Mitchy-Mitch.

Mitchy-Mitch immediately stopped crying and gazed upon his benefactor with the eyes of a dog.

This world!

Thereafter did Penrod—with complete approval from Mitchy-Mitch—play the accordion for his lady to his heart's content, and hers. Never had he so won upon her. Never had she let him feel so close to her before. They strolled up and down upon the sidewalk, eating, one thought between them, and soon she had learned to play the accordion almost as well as he. So passed a happy hour, which the Good King Rene of Anjou would have envied them, while Mitchy-Mitch made friends with Duke, romped about his sister and her swain, and clung to the hand of the latter, at intervals, with fondest affection and trust.

The noon whistles failed to disturb this little Arcady. Only the sound of Mrs. Jones' voice—for the third time summoning Marjorie and Mitchy-Mitch to lunch—sent Penrod on his homeward way.

"I could come back this afternoon," he said in parting.

"I'm not goin' to be here. I'm goin' to Baby Reinsdale's party."

Penrod looked blank, as she intended he should. Having thus satisfied herself, she added:

"There aren't goin' to be any boys there."

He was instantly radiant again.

"Marjorie"—

"Hum?"

"Do you wish I was goin' to be there?"

She looked shy and turned away her head.

"Marjorie Jones!" (This was a voice from home.)

"How many more times shall I have to call you?"

Marjorie moved away, her face still hidden from Penrod.

"Do you?" he urged.

At the gate she turned quickly toward him and said over her shoulder, all in a breath: "Yes; come again tomorrow morning and I'll be on the corner. Bring your 'cordion!"

And she ran into the house, Mitchy-Mitch waving a loving hand to the boy on the sidewalk until the front door closed.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Woman Suffrage is GOING Not Coming.

Woman suffrage has been defeated as follows:

State. Year.	Majority Against.
Ohio, 1912	87,455
Ohio, 1914	182,905
Michigan, 1912	760
Michigan, 1913	96,144
Nebraska, 1914	10,104
Missouri, 1914	140,206
North Dakota, 1914	9,401
South Dakota, 1914	11,914
Wisconsin, 1912	91,478

In a recent statement one of the prominent campaign speakers for the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage said: "The proposed political change which would make all women over twenty-one who fullfill stated conditions the political equals of men in governmental responsibility, is a change of so serious a nature that Gladstone himself said that it would be revolutionary."

"The only justification for a political revolution is a condition of affairs intolerable through corruption; though general and flagrant injustice; through wanton disregard of the common good; through dead laws made a travesty; through power grown tyranical or inefficient; through public indignation focussed into great popular demands."

Cardinal Gibbons, in writing about woman suffrage, said: "I deprecate female suffrage. I am pleading for the dignity of women; I am contending for her honor; I am striving to perpetuate those peerless prerogatives of her sex—those charms and graces which exalt women and make them the ornament and coveted companion of man. We must remember that though women do not personaly vote, she exercises the right of suffrage by proxy. So powerful is the influence which a sensible matron exerts over her husband and sons that they rarely fail to follow her counsel, which comes from an inspired instinct rather than from labored reasoning."

"Woman is queen, indeed, but her empire is the domestic kingdom. The greatest political triumphs she would achieve in public life fade into insignificance compared with the serene glory which radiates from the domestic shrines and which she illumines and warms by her conjugal and motherly virtues. If she is ambitious of the dual empire of public and private life, then, like the fabled dog beholding his image in the water, she will lose both; she will fall from the lofty pedestal where nature and Christianity have placed her and will fail to grasp the scepter of political authority from the strong hand of her male competitor."

In a special "Suffrage Campaign Issue" of the Evening Post, New York, Thursday, February 25, 1915, column one, section two, and signed with capital letters, Dr. Annan Howard Shaw, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, wrote: "I believe in woman suffrage whether all women vote or no women vote; whether all women vote right or all women vote wrong; whether women forsake their husbands after they vote or will still love them; whethre they will neglect their children or never have any."

In introducing this astounding statement, Dr. Shaw said: "I believe I speak for the thousands of women belonging to the National Association.

The principal upon which the suffragists appeal is thus reduced to its simplest elements. In effect they say, "It is nothing to us what the effect the vote will have upon society or democracy if the State enfranchises a thousand people when only a hundred desire the privilege."

"We do not care what becomes of the country through adding an unwieldy mass of voters unfamiliar with political fundamentals."

"It is a matter of complete indifference to us if the majority, or all, of the new electorate votes against the best interests of the people as a whole."

"We are entirely irresponsible. What if whole families are disrupted and the social fabric shattered by the social revolution, of which the vote is the entering wedge..

"What of the fact that women will vainly seek to accomplish through legislation what can only be brought about through thoughtful and constant home training. What care we if women abandon home life for the public spot light? Why should we trouble ourselves about what becomes of the neglected children?"

"Give us the vote."

To the clear-thinking man and woman of today such propoganda is beyond all reason and cannot work to the good of any cause. Vote NO on October 19.

So They Didn't Spare the Rod Much.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little Boy In Colonial Days.

"BOYS in the old colonial days didn't have so good a time as they have now, especially if they happened to be poor," said daddy. "No, not by any means. Jack will be glad he didn't live in those days when I tell him about it.

"Those boys used to have to work. My, how they did have to work! And if they'd rather play than work they didn't have much of an opportunity to indulge in that desire. There was papa to be reckoned with.

"Papa was often a very solemn gentleman. His hand was heavy, and he had just as soon use it as not. When children were punished in those early colonial days they were really punished, I can assure you. There were no light punishments like standing in the corner or like going without one of your meals. Parents believed in the old adage, 'Spare the rod and spoil the child.' So they didn't spare the rod very much.

"Papa was solemn because he had troubles. The family lived in a rough log cabin with just the things they had to have. Papa didn't bring home packages of candy to the children on Saturday night or things like that. They didn't know what candy was like.

"Papa had to conquer the wilderness that grew around all about the cabin. The great trees had to be felled and chopped up for two reasons—to furnish firewood and to make room for the laying out of a little farm on which to raise grain and vegetables for the living of the family.

"The little boy had to help his father in the field and in the barn where father kept a horse and maybe a cow or two. He had to get up before dawn and go out to the stable and help with the work, and if it were winter he had to bring in the wood and chop it, maybe, and his poor little hands were pretty cold and red. I don't see how they could have helped being so, and while he was busy helping father his sisters were just as busy helping their mother.

"There was a school, but it wasn't much like the schools they have nowadays. Oh, my, no! It was situated in the woods, and the children came to it from long distances. But the days of schooling for the boy were apt to be few because he was needed at home to help his father, and those for the girls were few because they had to help mother, and people didn't think those days that girls needed much schooling, anyway.

"And there were the Indians to look out for, for the redskins were often at war with the settlers. The children had to mind their p's and q's or they would have been scalped.

"I think on the whole children of these days have a pretty good time."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"The baby's asleep," said Nell, tiptoeing out of the bedroom and softly closing the door. "I shall not be gone longer than is absolutely necessary, but I must attend to several matters of business. You will have your work all done, Mary, by the time he wakes up and needs your attention," and Nell let herself out of the house noiselessly.

By the time she had gone a few blocks she discovered that she had left an important memorandum and hurried back to get it.

"I can't afford to miss doing all the things I planned to get done," she thought, letting herself into the house as quietly as burglars and mothers of wakeful babes alone know how. She opened the bedroom door. There sat the maid at her desk, calmly reading Olive's last letter. The packet of letters had been untied and was strewn about the desk. So absorbed was the girl in her occupation, and so silent had been Nell's entry that she did not look up. Nell stood speechless with indignation on the threshold.

She stepped up behind the girl and took the letter out of her hand. Mary sprang to her feet and faced her mistress, who stood with blazing eyes, pointing to the open door.

When the bedroom door was safely closed and they had reached the living room, she found her voice.

"Sit down there," she commanded the thoroughly frightened maid. "Tell me what you were doing with my private letters."

There was no answer. The girl was too confused to construct a lie.

"You sent Miss Dunn's address to Mrs. Ellson?"

Still the silence was unbroken.

"It will be better for you to confess to the whole thing. You have been acting as her spy, listening to all our conversation, reporting all our doings to her; sending all her poison letters. Is this not so? Tell me!" she commanded in a hard voice

"Yes'm," came in a low voice, and the girl bowed her head on her arms and burst into tears.

"Do you think that was honorable? You are a common, vulgar eavesdropper. I'll not have you in my house another day."

Deep convulsive sobs shook the girl's frame.

"You have made no end of trouble for innocent people. Why did you do such a thing?" asked Nell in a softer voice.

"She was always good to me and I was sorry for her," came brokenly from the sobbing girl.

"Sorry for her!"

"Yes." The girl raised her tear-stained face. "She said I could help her by keeping her posted on what the doctor was doing; that she had no one else to help her."

"What does she think she can gain by sending her wicked, lying letters around, and causing so much misery?" asked Nell.

"I don't know," said the girl, dropping her head on her arm and sobbing afresh.

"She paid you for your trouble, of course," said Nell bitterly.

"Yes'm."

"Well," said Nell after a pause. "I'll pay you to the end of the week and you may pack your trunk at once. I won't have anybody around that I can't trust."

SUSPENDER DRESSES HOLD POPULAR FANCY.

No. 8973

While the suspender dress is popular it cannot be said to be a fad, for the idea is not new. The dress is bound always to be in favor because of its practicability and smartness. The dress above, cut by Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8937, is in extremely good taste, having a three-piece corded skirt with a gathered yoke. The waist is cut with full sleeves in sizes 32 to 42 bust measure, requiring in size 36, 4⅛ yards of 36-inch material and 1⅞ yards of 36-inch contrasting material.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

JUNE 19TH IN HISTORY.

325—The first general council of Nice, which composed the Nicene Creed, settled the doctrine of the Trinity and the time for observing Easter, opened Nice, a town in Bithynia, in Asia Minor.

1619—First assembly of Virginia met at Jamestown. Eleven settlements sent representatives with power of legislation.

1786—Died, Nathaniel Greene, a famous officer of the Revolution, aged 46.

1819—State of Maine separated from Massachusetts.

1821—Battle of Dragashan, in Turkey between the Greeks and Turks. Owing to treachery, Ypsilanti, the Greek leader, was defeated and the flower of the Greek youth was annihilated.

1842—Shanghai was captured by the British.

1865—The Alabama, which had wrought havoc with American shipping, was destroyed by the Kearsarge off Cherbourg, France.

1867—Emperor Maximilian of Mexico and his generals shot at Queretaro.

1900—Chinese ultimatum that foreign ministers should leave Pekin within 24 hours.

1914—Over 200 miners killed by explosion at Lethbridge, Alberta.

Household Hints..

ARTIFICIAL CRABAPPLES

For a pretty touch to any salad dish take soft cream cheese and put through the meat grinder, then roll it into balls the size of crabapples, dent the top with the little finger and place a parsley stem in the top to represent the apple stem, also dent in the bottom and put in a clove to have the blossom effect.

Color the cheese ball with red fruit coloring and you have a perfect crabapple, and few will wonder at these dainty apples in and out of season.

These are equally pretty to serve with pie.

NUT COOKIES

Mix a tablespoonful of butter with a cupful of fine brown sugar, and then add a beaten egg. Stir thoroughly and add a tablespoonful and a half of flour, well filled, and a cupful of chopped nut meats—pecans, walnuts or peanuts. Drop from a teaspoon on well buttered tin sheets and bake in a hot oven. Allow them to cool a little before removing from the tin.

THE TABLE

Jellied Ham—Mince fine sufficient ham (Wiltshire), which has been left over from yesterday, to make one and one-half cupfuls. Season with salt and pepper, a little paprika and a few drops of onion juice. Moisten with one and one-half cups thick white sauce, to which a heaping teaspoonful of gelatin, dissolved in cold water, has been added. (At this time of year better use two teaspoonfuls of gelatin). Have ready a number of molds lined with aspic jelly, fill a cold place to harden. Turn out. Serve with mayonnaise dressing made the previous day.

Jellied Rhubarb—One pint rhubarb cut in one-inch cubes, one cup sugar. Cook without stirring in double boiler till the rhubarb is soft, drain off the juice and boil till reduced to one-half the quantity, return the rhubarb to it and set away to cool.

Ham Omelet—Put enough boiled ham through food chopper so as to have one cup of ground meat, put small piece of butter in frying pan, put in meat and heat, have ready four well-beaten eggs, stir into meat and keep stirring until eggs are cooked, remove from fire and put on nicely toasted slices of bread.

Curried Eggs—Six hard-boiled egs, one cup curry sauce, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, the eggs in halves, slice enough of the white off the end of each to make them stand upright, sprinkle with salt and pepper, with sauce poured around them. Curry sauce: Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one cup milk, pinch salt, one teaspoon curry powder mixed with the flour, melt butter, add flour, then cook milk till thickens.

Nut Bread—Four cups flour, one cup sugar, one-half cup sweet milk, one cup nut meats, one egg, four teaspoons baking powder, salt; sift flour, sugar, baking powder together, then nut meats and lastly the beaten egg and milk; bake about 45 minutes in moderate oven; this is enough for two loaves.

Graham Gems—One and one-half cups flour, one and one-half cups graham flour, one tablespoon sugar, two eggs, one cup milk, one-half cup water. Mix flour, salt, sugar, add milk to beaten yolks, then the water; add this to the other ingredients, add the whites beaten dry and bake in hissing hot gem pans for 30 minutes.

Cream of Tomato Soup—One-half can tomatoes, one quart milk, one-third teaspoon soda, one sliced onion, three tablespoons butter, three tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon sugar, one-third teaspoon white pepper, few grains cayenne. Scald milk with onion, remove onion and thicken milk with flour and melted butter; cook tomatoes with sugar 15 minutes, add soda, rub through sieve, add seasonings, combine mixtures immediately before serving.

Whipped Cream Nut Cake—Cream one cup sugar with two tablespoons lard, add yolks of two eggs, one teaspoon vanilla extract, three-fourths cup sweet milk, two cups flour sifted with two teaspoons baking powder, pinch of salt, one-fourth cup finely chopped nut meats and eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Beat well and bake in three layers. To make filling: Beat one cup thick cream, add half tablespoon confectioners' sugar and one-fourth cup chopped nut meats. Spread between layers and on top of cake just before serving.

FRELINGHUYSEN AS HOST.

Somerville, June 19.—Farmers and grangers of New Jersey will be entertained this afternoon at the Raritan Valley farm of former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, president of the State Board of Agriculture. Addresses will be made by Dr. H. W. Collingwood, editor of the Rural New Yorker; George W. F. Gaunt, master of the New Jersey State Grange; Dr. J. G. Lipman, director of the New Jersey Experiment Station, and Dr. Frank McDaniel, president of Pennington Seminary.

TO HOLD BOX SOCIAL.

The Young People's Society of the German Reformed church will hold a box social Tuesday evening at the church to which the members and consistory have been invited. The invitation was extended by the society with the idea of giving the members of the church the opportunity to see how the new society conducts its meeting and to become better acquainted. Refreshments will be served.

SMALL BOYS ARRESTED FOR ROBBERS' ESCAPADE

Charged with breaking into a freight car on the Union Beef Company's siding in this city and stealing six boxes of bacon, three small boys, not one of whom could see over the top of the judge's desk, were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning. They were John and Joseph Morton and Harry Bundy.

Judge DeMeza gave the youngsters a heart-to-heart talk and two of them appeared to be asorbing his remarks with keen interest, but the third, Joseph Morton, was inclined to make light of the matter. In order to impress on him the seriousness of the offense of which he was accused, Chief Kiely locked him in a dark cell where he will remain secluded for twelve hours.

THOMAS McNEILL RETURNS.

COUPLE SHOWERED WITH FLORAL GIFTS

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevens Celebrate Wedding and Birthday Anniversaries.

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Stevens, of 340 Clinton avenue, celebrated two important events in their lives Saturday afternoon—the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding and Mr. Stevens' seventy-fifth birthday anniversary. The affair was informal, but friends and relatives to the number of about a hundred gathered to extend their congratulations. A reception was held in the afternoon, and this was followed by a dinner party in the evening. The house was decorated with a profusion of flowers and plants.

Mr. Stevens is secretary of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company, having held that office from the time of its organization, and the president of the company, C. W. Mackey, and the officers as a body remembered Mr. and Mrs. Stevens with gifts. From Mr. Mackey's estate on Long Island, "Harbor Hill," came a beautiful box of choice roses and lilies-of-the-valley, while from the officers of the company were sent a dozen gold and silver strawberry forks accompanied by a set of resolutions of congratulations, engrossed and signed by all the officers. Among the many gifts showered upon the couple were gold pieces, several pieces of antique jewelry and a great profusion of flowers.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, those present at the dinner were their son and daughter, George O. Stevens and Miss Florence Stevens, both of this city; George Stevens, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., a brother to John O. Stevens, and four sisters of Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. P. W. Brakeley, of Dunellen, and the Misses Louise A., Ida W. and Cynthia F. Davis, of this city.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were born in New York city, but at the time of their marriage the former was living at Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Their wedding took place on June 19, 1865, at Mrs. Stevens' home in Brooklyn, her name then being Catherine A. Davis. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. Stoffard Drowne, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Clinton place, Brooklyn. They made their home in Mt. Vernon for a time and thirty-five years ago removed to Plainfield.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stevens have had a very active life in Plainfield, the former being interested in political circles as a Democrat, and the latter being a prominent worker at Holy Cross church.

HENRY S. MASON DIES IN 62D YEAR

Well Known Plainfielder Passes Away After a Long Illness.

Henry Sheldon Mason, a well-known resident of this city, died at his home, 110 East Fifth street, Saturday night, following an illness that extended through many years. He was born in Westport, Conn., sixty-two years ago and comes of an old family well-known for many years in Greenwich and Westport activities. His father was Judge Myron L. Mason. Thirty years ago, Mr. Mason came to this city, where he has made his home ever since, and ten years after his coming to this city he suffered a nervous breakdown, which caused him to retire from active business. From that time until his death he was an invalid, but through all the years he bore his suffering with Christian fortitude and patience.

Until his health failed him he was a regular attendant at the Grace Episcopal church services. He was past master of Jerusalem Lodge of Masons and a member of the Mecca Lodge of Masons of New York city. He was also affiliated with Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

Mr. Mason's only surviving relatives are two sons, Howard S. Mason, of Montclair, and Charles Kendal Mason, of North Plainfield. His wife, who was Helen Baker, died many years ago. The funeral service will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the late residence and will be in charge of Rev. E. V. Stevenson, rector of the Grace church. The burial will be in Westport, Conn.

GRANTS LETTERS ON ESTATE.

Elizabeth, June 21—Letters of administration on the estate of William Hetfield, a wealthy recluse, who died in Plainfield June 5, have been granted by Judge Connolly to Hetfield's niece, Miss Harriet Terry, of Fanwood township. The heirs are Miss Terry, her brother, Winfield S. Terry; eight children of Daniel Terry, a son of Sarah Terry, sister of William Hetfield and the five children of William Terry, a nephew.

K. OF P. OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY

Graves of Departed Members Appropriately Marked With Flags.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES

Portchester, N. Y., Lodge Joins With Local Pythians in Visiting the Various Cemeteries—Visitors Entertained at a Banquet.

The annual observance of memorial day by the Knights of Pythias was held yesterday. Graves of departed members in the local cemeteries were fittingly marked with flags and growing plants and solemn services were recited over them. The North Plainfield cemetery, Evergreen cemetery, Hillside and Scotch Plains cemetery were visited, the lodge members marking eighteen graves in all.

Crescent Company, Uniformed Rank, No. 13, had charge of the services, and with this lodge were delegations from Unity Council, Uniformed Rank, of Elizabeth, numbering twenty-five members, and the Port Chester, N. Y., lodge, numbering eighteen. The latter delegation motored to this city. This was a return visit, the Port Chester lodge having entertained the Plainfield members recently.

Forming in front of Unity lodge-rooms, K. of P. Hall, the Knights marched to the station to meet the delegation from Elizabeth. Then headed by the Plainfield Fife and Drum Corps the procession, having re-formed in front of headquarters, visited the various cemeteries. After the ceremonies at Evergreen cemetery were over, special trolley cars conveyed the Knights to Hillside and later to Scotch Plains. On each grave were placed an American flag, a flag of the order and a potted plant. Over one grave in each cemetery the regular lodge memorial service was held.

Participating in the services were Col. Charles McGinley, Captain J. E. Flannery, First Lieutenant Fred Douglass, Second Lieutenant O. E. Pearson, Chaplain C. E. Watkins and Scribe Jeremiah Moore, all of Crescent company.

Upon the return from the cemeteries a collation was served in Unity Hall. Harry Werner was chairman of the entertainment committee, and assisted by William E. Bacon, decorated the hall in a manner which evoked much praise. Caterer Charles Hoff served the collation. About sixty partook. Mr. Werner was presented wth a souvenir from the Port Chester delegation in the shape of a huge cigar, which he will share with fellow lodge members at the next smoker.

Col. P. Frank Shanley, of Jersey City, head of the uniformed rank of the State, and Col. George May, of Paterson, were among the State officers present. Col. Shanley delivered a short address during the social hour.

THEODORE SHOTWELL, AGED 81, DIES IN BROOKLYN

Theodore Shotwell, aged 81 years, a native of Plainfield, but for many years a resident of Brooklyn, died at the latter place, Saturday afternoon, of heart trouble. Mr. Shotwell was born on Greenbrook road and spent his earlier life in this city. He removed to Brooklyn a number of years ago. He had been retired from business for some time.

There survives a wife and three daughters and three cousins, Mrs. A. L. Cadmus, of Plainfield avenue; William H. Shotwell, of Fairview avenue, the borough, and J. T. Vail, of Franklin place. The funeral was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Sixth Avenue Baptist church, Brooklyn. The burial will be private.

TO GIVE TWIN RECITALS.

Twin recitals will be given by the pupils of Grace Powell Karr-Giese at her studio on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, and at the Franklin School Auditorium on Saturday night. Ludwig Thomas, the blind composer of Plainfield, will make an address entitled "Music from the Composer's Point of View," at the recital given in the Franklin School on Saturday. Miss Marion V. Avery will illustrate the address by playing one of Mr. Thoms' compositions, "Oh Wings of Joy," also known as "I Should Worry." The public is cordially invited.

CREDIT ASSOCIATION MEETING.

The Business Men's Credit Association will meet at 8 o'clock tonight, in the Frost building on Park avenue, when matters of financial importance will be considered.

FRANK SENTENCE IS COMMUTED

Excitement in Atlanta, But Only Five Arrests Necessary to Keep Peace.

Atlanta, Ga., June 21—The death sentence of Leo M. Frank has been commuted to life imprisonment.

Following the announcement that he had commuted the sentence of Frank for the murder of little Mary Phagan to life imprisonment, saving the condemned man from the gallows which he would have mounted tomorrow, Governor John M. Slaton expressed himself as absolutely satisfied that he did right.

There was a good deal of excitement in the city when the news became public, but only five arrests have been made, all for intoxication. A mass meeting of protest was held in front of the City Hall at 8 o'clock. No signs of disorder have developed.

Frank was sent to the prison farm at Milledgeville before Governor Slaton officially announced his decision commuting the death sentence. Pending the announcement the Governor had Frank secretly removed from the Atlanta jail Sunday night, locked in a sleeper under heavy guard, and sent to Milledgeville, the greatest secrcy being maintained.

It was nearly an hour after he was taken from the prison at midnight before it became known that Frank had been spirited away, and two hours had elapsed before confirmation of the fact could be obtained. But for the keenness of vision of the gatekeeper at the terminal station Frank would have been in Milledgeville without the people of Atlanta knowing anything about his commutation or removal. This gatekeeper knew Frank and recognized him despite the handkerchief over his face.

The guards and Frank reached Macon at 2:15 o'clock this morning, where they left the train and took an auto for Milledgeville, fifty miles away. Frank, it is said, was allowed to select the auto by his guards.

The Governor had the prisoner spirited away before commutation was announced in order to avoid an outbreak in Atlanta. The feeling here and throughout Georgia is very intense, and it was almost certain that the announcement of commutation would cause trouble. So well did Governor Slaton lay his plans that neither Frank's lawyers, his aged parents nor his wife know of his removal from the jail. The wife of the prisoner, however, stated she was not surprised, showing presumably that she had an inkling that Governor Slaton intended to commute her husband's sentence.

Governor Slaton's term expires June 26.

MILLER BREAKS LEG IN SAURER CONTEST

City League Player Sustains Bad Injury During Contest at Bound Brook.

In attempting to execute the only stolen base of a well-played baseball game between the Saurer and Bound Brook clubs at the latter place, yesterday afternoon, George Miller, centre fielder for the local nine, twisted his ankle under him, breaking that member in two places. He was assisted to a doctor's office, where temporary relief was administered and he was later removed to his home in this city.

Miller has been one of the mainstays of the Saurer team for several years and his loss will be keenly felt in the City Baseball League race this year. It is probable that he will be out of the game for the remainder of the season. Saturday afternoon Miller appeared in the role of pitcher in the Saurer's first City Baseball League game with the T. A. B. outfit.

JAMES HENRY McCANN.

Jmes Henry McCann, the seven-year-old son of James J. and Mary P. McCann, of 18 Duer street, died yesterday at the home of his parents. The funeral service will be held at the parental home on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. E. C. Conover, pastor of the Temple Baptist church. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

PRESIDENT TO TAKE VACATION.

Washington, June 31.—President Wilson, it was announced at the White House today, will leave here Wednesday afternoon for Cornish, N. H., for a vacation of nearly two weeks.

Miss Helen Parsons, formerly of the borough, but now of Newark, has returned after spending the week end with Miss Reba Kline, of Somerset street.

SERIOUSLY HURT IN NIGHT CRASH

Edward J. Way in New Brunswick Hospital Suffering From Bad Injuries.

AUTO STRIKES HORSE

Head-on Collision on Lonely Road Near New Brunswick Early Yesterday Morning—Harry Shannon Escaped Unhurt—Horse Killed.

Relatives in this city are today entertaining considerable anxiety over the condition of Edward J. Way, of 514 Arlington avenue, who lies in a serious condition in St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, following an accident on the outskirts of New Brunswick at 3:20 o'clock yesterday morning. Besides numerous painful external injuries, Way is suffering from a punctured lung which was pierced by portions of a broken rib.

The mishap occurred on a poorly lighted thoroughfare when the automobile which Way was driving crashed head-on into a horse-drawn peddler's wagon belonging to Adam Miller, of New Brunswick. Miller's horse was instantly killed and the driver was entangled in the wreckage of the wagon which was bent and twisted into a mass of debris. Harry Shannon, of Plainfield, who occupied the car with Way, was thrown clear of the wagon and escaped uninjured.

From his position behind the wheel Way had no chance to protect himself when his machine collided with the wagon coming in his direction. He was doubled up underneath the steering gear and was hurried in a semi-conscious condition to the hospital. At that institution this afternoon it was reported that he was suffering considerable pain, but his injuries, while serious, are not thought to be of a critical nature.

According to the story told by the peddler, he was driving his horse in a northerly direction along the thoroughfare and had no intimation of the oncoming of the auto until it struck him. Miller says Way was piloting his machine on the wrong side of the road, but this fact cannot be definitely established at the present time, owing to Way's condition. The New Brunswick police are investigating the circumstances surrounding the incident.

Way is well known in this city, being the manager of the Plainfield Auto Supply Company.

RANDOLPH STELLE HOST FOR P. H. S. CLASS THESPIANS

Randolph Stelle entertained a number of Plainfield High School seniors at his home on Union street Saturday night.

The group was composed mostly of the members of the senior play cast. Dancing and games were enjoyed and refreshments were served.

ST. MARY'S SOCIAL CLUB WILL GIVE A PLAYLET

The third social event of the season will be given by St. Mary's Social Club, Friday night, and will be held in the T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street. The club has arranged an attractive program of events for the occasion, one of the features being a playlet in two acts with the following young men and women taking part: Miss Annabel MacAfee, Miss Helen Hogan, Miss Helen McCauley, Miss Molly Traynor, Frank Donnelly and William Sullivan.

Following the plays dancing will be enjoyed and refreshments will be served. The committee in charge of the affair is composed of Miss Mary Murray, chairman;; Miss Kathryn Neylon, Miss Regina Brady, Miss Betty Mara and Miss Alice McAfee.

FAMILY OF SEVEN HURT IN UPSET NEAR METUCHEN

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Levinson, of Trenton, with three sons and two daughters, were thrown out of their automobile at "Dead Man's Curve," on Middlesex and Essex turnpike, near Metuchen, and injured yesterday, when the automobile skidded on a newly oiled road and overturned. All were cut and bruised. Sammie, aged twelve years, and Herman, aged twenty-four years, were the most seriously hurt, being pinned under the car.

Dr. Clarence A. Hoper and Dr. Herman Cross hurried to the scene and dressed the injuries of the family, who returned to their home. The party was on its way to New York when the accident occurred.

ITALIANS ORGANIZE LODGE IN THIS CITY

Imposing Street Parade Held in Connection With the Institution.

Loggia Arnaldo da Brescia, No. 377, Order Sons of Italy, was organized here Saturday evening at Eagle's Hall, there being representatives from six branches of the order from New York and this State. In connection with the institution of the lodge there was a street parade in which about five hundred members of the order participated. The Plainfield Italian Band furnished the music for the parade which covered the principal streets of the city.

The institution was in charge of visiting lodge officers and was very impressive. At that time these officers were elected for the coming year:

President, D. Do Dapio; vice-presidents, A. De Marco and V. Vanutelli, orator, Rev. Aurelio Mangione; recording secretary, A. De Liddo; corrosponding secretary, A. La Cambora; treasurer, Ralph D. Matthews; trustees, Ralph D. Matthews, Frank F. Donato and Frank Macchio. The lodge will meet twice a month in Eagle's Hall and it starts off with a large and promising membership. The organization is quite largely fraternal and is also patriotic.

After the organization was completed there were addresses by Rev. Aurelio Mangione, who is pastor of the Italian Mission in this city; Attorney P. Cavicchia, Dr. E. Liva and Rev. P. Di Nardo, of Newark, as well as by some of the other visiting members.

The visiting lodges represented here were: Nicotera and 11th Bersagliere, of Newark; Annita Garibaldi, of Jersey City; Cavour, of New York, and Trento and Trieste, of Hoboken.

Following the institution and the parade, the visiting lodges were entertained by the Plainfield members and a social time was enjoyed until a late hour. A feature was the music by the band which was in charge of Ralph D. Matthews.

FEATURE PROGRAM FOR P. H. S. CLASS

Elaborate Exercises to Be Held in the Auditorium Tomorrow Night.

The graduating class of the Plainfield High School will hold its final rehearsal tonight in preparation for its class day exercises to be held in the school auditorium tomorrow night. Elaborate plans have been made to make the class' final appearance on the High School stage a success, as well as an evening of enjoyment to all those who expect to be present.

After the exercises the rest of the evening will be spent in dancing. Brummer's orchestra, of Westfield, will furnish the music. As a novelty to this year's dance, all the male dancers will wear sport shirts and if the weather is warm will be allowed to take their coats off. The whole dance, aside from a one-step, will be strictly a "card dance," and "no cutting" in will be allowed.

The members of the class day committee are: Fred Chamberlain, chairman; Muriel Cockburn, Dorothy Simons, Dorothy Stelle, Ernestine Wilson, Edward Ryder, Daniel McNamee and Harold Tomlinson.

DR. MEYER D. MOLEDEZKY GIVEN A FAREWELL PARTY

Dr. Meyer D. Moledezky, of 323 East Front street, who left for Chicago this morning, was tendered a farewell party last night by members and friends of the Young Men's Hebrew Association and the Young Women's Hebrew Association. With music and refreshments a very pleasant evening was spent. During an intermission in the festivities, Mr. Moledezky was presented with a pair of solid gold cuff links engraved with his monogram. Henry Rosenbaum acted as toastmaster, and short addresses were made by Abe Schwartz, I. Kunzman, A. H. Richard, Charles Kurtzman and Benjamin Markowitz. Dr. Moledezky will make Chicago his future home.

FELL DOWN STAIRS.

Mrs. Martha Summers, mother of T. C. Vail, of West Fourth street, with whom she lives, was considerably bruised last night, when she fell a considerable distance down a flight of stairs. She had reached the top of the stairs when she fainted and lost her balance. No bones were broken, fortunately, and Mrs. Summers is resting comfortably today.

EXPECT FALL OF LEMBERG SOON

Germans Optimistic About Victory for the Teutonic Allies.

HOT FIGHT ON WOEVRE

French Hold Trenches Taken—Austro-Germans Within Eleven Miles of Galician Capital and Russians Are Rapidly Giving Ground.

Berlin, June 21.—That Lemberg will fall into the hands of the Teutonic Allies before many hore hours is the firm belief in this city. Reports from the frant indicate that the Russians are preparing to evacuate the city. Despatches received this morning stated that the Austrians have stormed the last line of Russian defence on a ridge eleven miles from Lemberg, and that the shells from the artillery are actually falling in the suburbs of the Galician capital.

Since early yesterday trainloads of Russian wounded have been hurried toward the northeast in the direction of Brody, five miles from the Russian frontier. Aviators have brought word also that trains of heavy guns are moving out of Lemberg.

Hotly pursued by the Austro-Germans, the Russians who were driven out of Grodek fell back toward Lemberg. Through the gap between Lakes Drozdowiecki and Czerlanski Gen. Mackensen sent flying columns of cavalry and infantry. They drove the enemy eastward so rapidly that the Muscovites made only a feeble attempt at resistance at their first line of trenches, three miles east of the lakes. The Russian centre retreated so fast that the right flank had to give way and began falling back in confusion north of Grodek at daybreak yesterday.

The Russians continued to give ground, abandoning one after another of their rows of trenches on the hills east of Grodek. They are making their final stand on a four-mile ridge of hills.

The battle for the ridge began yesterday morning. The Russians beat off the early attacks, fighting desperately. When the last despitches were sent, Gen. Mackensen was hurling one regiment after another into the assault.

Paris, June 21.—Hard fighting has again developed in the Woevre district. Despite the heaviest possible counter attacks by the Germans the French were able to keep the two trenches which they had captured at Calonne, on the heights of the Meuse, yesterday. All the trenches taken by the French in Lorraine were filled with dead, evidence of the fierceness of the fighting in this district.

Vienna, June 21.—The Austria War Office says: "On the Isonzo and Corinthian fronts the enemy shelled our positions without result. Attacks on our positions east of the Sassa valley were undertaken by at least a brigade, the enemy being repulsed with heavy losses. At one point the corpses of 175 soldiers were counted on the field after the attacking forces had been driven off."

Petrograd, June 21.—The Russian War Office statement today says:

"Trans-Caucasian front—On Friday the Turks attempted to take the offensive against our right flank in the direction of the coast, but were repulsed.

PRIVATE FUNERAL FOR AUGUSTUS P. HETFIELD

Private funeral services were conducted this afternoon over the body of Augustus P. Hetfield, whose death occurred Saturday morning. The service was conducted at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Roger F. Murray, 901 Madison avenue, and was in charge of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Solos were sung by William Holmes and Miss Grace Carroll. The floral offerings from friends and relattives were numerous and beautiful, many handsome set pieces being included in the number. Burial was made in Fairview cemetery, Westfield.

FEAR SERIOUS RESULTS OF FLOODS AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., June 21.—Fifteen thousand homes in Kansas City are menaced as a result of the rapidly rising Kansas River. Thousands of persons have removed their household property to high ground and many wholesale concerns, including the big packing interests are carrying their stores to elevated places.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

BOARD OF TRADE WILL HEAR ABOUT SUFFRAGE

During the regular session of the Dunellen Board of Trade this evening, the question of equal suffrage for women will be presented to the members of the civic organization. Mrs. Edward P. Feickert, head of the New Jersey League for Women Suffrage, as well as a representative of the Montana League, will present the cause to the body of voters who are to gather at the Lincoln School building. Other business will be taken up by the Board, as a number of important questions have developed since the last meeting of the organization. It is possible that the matter of the consolidation of New Market and Dunellen, as well as the grade crossings of the Central Railroad at Prospect and Washington avenues, will be taken up at this time.

Mrs. John Dodd, of Bound Brook road, has returned home after a visit during the past month with Mrs. Edward Daly, of Cleveland.

Mrs. Edward Slingland, of Boston, is visiting Mrs. H. A. Todd, of West Front street.

Joseph Mejia, who has been spending the past two years in the borough, has returned to his home at Bogta, British Guanna.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shultz, of Ampere, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Frescoim for the past several days, have returned to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Kookegy, of New Market road, spent the week-end in the Pennsylvania mountains.

Miss Viola Brogly, of Princeton, who has been visiting Marshal and Mrs. Ernest A. Kepley for several days, left Saturday for Cape Cod, where she will spend the summer.

Mrs. Mary E. Turnbull, of Keysport, Pa., is spending two weeks visiting Mrs. F. A. Johnson.

The O. Z. T. Fraternity, of which a number of boroughites are members, held their last weekly meeting at the home of George Vliet, of Princeton avenue, Jersey City.

TRAIN HELD UP TRAFFIC.

There was considerable ill feeling toward the Central Railroad yesterday afternoon, when a large number of vehicles, as well as pedestrians, were prevented for over a half an hour from using the Prospect avenue crossing because of the presence of a long freight train moving backward and forward. It was only after threatened bodily harm that the engineer backed his train sufficiently to permit the use of the crossing, thus relieving somewhat of a conjested condition.

TO GIVE A CONCERT.

The social committee of the Holy Innocents' Episcopal church has completed arrangements for the first annual band concert and ice cream festival to be held on the church lawn, Thursday evening, July 22. The music of the evening is to be furnished by the Dutch Arms Concert Band, of the Trinity Reformed church, of Plainfield. A number of sub-committees will be in charge of candy and cake tables. The proceeds of the affair are to be used for the general up-building of the church. In order to work up interest in the affair, a contest is being arranged between the young people of the parish, the object being to award the two who sell the largest number of tickets.

SURPRISE RECEPTION.

Mrs. Philip Eder, of Columbia street, assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Herman, of Cranford, last week, gave a surprise reception to Mrs. Eder's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vroom, of Pluckemin, the occasion being the tenth wedding anniversary of the couple. The couple were tendered a miscellaneous shower, Mr. and Mrs. Vroom being the recipients of a number of pretty and useful gifts. Twenty-five guests were present from New Market, Dunellen, Plainfield, Bound Brook, Cranford and Pluckemin. The evening was spent in games of various sorts, while the evening was brought to a close with the serving of refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Vroom have a large number of friends in Dunellen who are extending their congratulations.

THE PRICE QUESTION.

The fact that you paid $20 for a suit of clothes isn't any consolation if the suit isn't worth it.

The recollection of a good time isn't any remedy when the festivities are over.

The time to consider the consequences is before you get aboard, and not after the train pulls out.

You can get a good line on a Rothberg suit before you buy it, and that's the only way to buy any suit.

You can see the fit and style, you can examine the making and you can leave the Rothberg store in the consciousness that the suit you buy is the best investment you ever made since you first learned the value of an American dollar.

Spring Suits $12 to $30.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Miss Ethel Strong, of Martine avenue, entertained Miss Augusta Allen, of Plainfield, over the week-end.

Maurice Hall, a private in the United States Army, has returned to his post at the Picatinny Arsenal at Dover, after visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Hall, of South avenue. "Maury" joined last winter just for his love of adventure and many were the predictions as to the outcome, but he has done excellent work and is already wearing the badge of a marksman.

Miss Margaret Van Hoesen returned home today, after a two weeks' visit with friends at Peekskill, N. Y.

Owing to the absence of a majority of the members at the weekly meeting of the Rifle Club, Saturday afternoon, nothing could be done regarding the amendments to the recently adopted by-laws. Two new members, both of Plainfield, were voted in and the boys tried their marksmenship with fifteen rounds of ammunition apiece.

Mrs. W. K. Woodbridge, of Paterson road, entertained several friends from New York over the week-end.

Frederick Alberts, of Farley avenue, has awarded a contract to Anthony Alberts, the local carpenter, for the erection of two two-and-a-half-story dwellings on the lots adjoining his property. It will be in August before actual work starts, as Tony Alberts has several big jobs to complete, including all the carpenter work on School No. 3, in the Graceland section of the township.

Robert Anson, of Park avenue, expects to leave tonight for Buffalo on a business trip.

The pupils of the graduating class of '15 at the local Grammar School will begin today decorating the large auditorium in the Baptist church in preparation for the graduation exercises on Thursday night. Henry Babcock, of North avenue, is now engaged as one of the engineers working on that section of the New York subway running through Canal street.

In place of the evening service at the Methodist church yesterday, the Sunday-school rendered a special program of music and recitations in observance of Children's Day. The interior of the church was prettily decorated for the occasion with ferns and flowers. The Rev. Raymond E. Marshal made a very interesting address.

Miss Beth Crolus, of New York spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George Reiner, of North avenue.

Miss Christine Bettmann, of Bloomfield, spent Sunday with friends in the borough, where she formerly resided.

At the meeting of the Sunday school of the Willow Grove chapel yesterday afternoon, the annual election of officers was held and resulted in the same persons being chosen again. William Sisserson is the superintendent; Charles Bener, assistant superintendent; Miss Ethelyn Terry, treasurer, and Miss Susan Scudder, secretary. The annual reports of the several officers showed the school to be in a flourishing condition and general plans for the ensuing year were made.

Watchung.

Children's Day was observed yesterday in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church. The services were combined with the church services. The front of the chapel and pulpit were banked with daisies, ferns, roses and potted plants. According to old custom, each child received a potted plant. Anna Mary Louise Mobus, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Mobus, was baptized by Rev. Mebane Ramsay. A large congregation enjoyed the following program: Violin solo, Effie Fell; recitation, "The Best Day," David Mobus; song, "When the Flowers Come Again," girls' chorus; recitation, "A Free Concert," George Mobus; exercise, "A Helpful Hike," seven girls; recitation, "A Summer's Day," Edward Snoden; song, "Welcome the Sunshine," Grace Titus, Ethel Steffens, Florence Luerssen, Adella Liebenau, Dorothy Hermann and Margaret Demler; recitation, "Gladness," Mary Leurssen; exercise, "'Neath His Banner," Hervey Mobus, Richard Cass, Edgar Titus; recitation, "The Robin's Song," Theodore Luerssen; song, "We'll Try Hard, Won't You?" primary class; recitation, "Cheer Up," Reeves Kennedy; exercise, "God's Gifts," seven girls; recitation, "June Roses," Walter Snoden; song, "Birds Are Happy, So Are We," Mary Leurssen, Lois Rogers, Mabel Snoden and Margaret Walker; recitation, "The Way to Do It," Mabel Snoden; exercise, "Sunbeams," Elmer Kingman, Lois Rogers, Margaret Walker, Kenneth Schmidt; recitation, "A Little Child's Prayer For Peace," Harold Mobus; song, "Bells of Summertime," girls' chorus; address by Rev. Mr. Ramsay. The committee in charge were Mrs. Charles E. Spier, the Misses Helen F. Schmidt and Gladys M. Sullivan.

The Watchung Indian Legend Players will meet Wednesday evening in the Improvement Hall.

Miss Elsie F. Schmidt is spending several days in Trenton, where she is attending the commencement exercises at the Trenton Normal School. Miss Schmidt, as president of the class of 1915, made an address at the alumni banquet on Saturday.

Mrs. A. Bodin and Miss Beatrice Bodin, of Brooklyn, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Bodin, of Mountain boulevard.

The executive board of the Mary E. Wilson Memorial church will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening in the chapel.

IMPRESSIVE WORDS FROM JACK CARDIFF

"Billy" Sunday's Physical Trainer Thrills Audience in the Y. M. C. A.

Before an audience of 150 men in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, yesterday afternoon, "Jack" Cardiff, one time prize-fighter and now physical trainer for "Billy" Sunday, delivered a strong and impressive message that held his listeners spell-bound from start to finish. Referring to that portion of his life devoted to pugilism Mr. Cardiff reviewed the battles he fought during his twenty-year ring career. Rated as a welter-weight in the sporting world he weathered 29 battles and from the various episodes in his life he drew lessons of a vivid and realistic nature.

His conversion was effected three years ago in one of "Billy" Sunday's camps at Canton, O., where he was training for a ring engagement. During that period of training, which was being done in a Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, he was approached by Rodney Weaver, "Billy" Sunday's organist who complimented him on his exemplary habits. He was induced to attend one of the revival meetings and after "hitting-the-trail" abandoned his pugilistic career and since that time he has been fighting a verbal battle in behalf of Christianity.

In closing his address yesterday afternoon, Cardiff urged his hearers, particularly those who attend church, to play the roles of individual missionaries and live righteous and holy lives. He laid particular stress on living straight seven days a week and abandoning the all too common policy of saving Christianity for Sunday.

The song service which followed was under the direction of Horace J. Martin and a portion of the Dutch Arms orchestra assisted in producing the program of music.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Following the pronounced success of the first "ice cream day" at Proctor's Theatre last Wednesday, Manager Sanderson has decided to repeat on Wednesday of this week. Ice cream will be served both afternoon and evening on that day, the hours designated being 1:30 and 8:30. Home made cake will be the added attraction upon this occasion.

"The Boss," one of those political stories that delights as well as stirs the heart of every red-blooded American citizen, is to be shown on the screen at this theatre tonight, a five-part verson of the play of the same name having been produced by the World Film Corporation. Holbrook Blinn and Alice Brady, popular idols of the screen fans, are taking the leading roles, this fact being enough to justify the most critical moving picture patron in attending this evening's performance. This film is here but for a one-night stand, and lovers of good pictures should not fail to embrace this opportunity.

A master production of war and romance in five parts, under the caption of "Pro Patria," or "In Defense of the Nation," is booked for tomorrow, at both afternoon and evening shows. This film is replete with thrills and interest, and undoubtedly will be of more than passing interest to the followers of the film. Those interested in war dramas in picture form should not fail to see this photoplay, as it is one of the strongest of its type being shown by any producing company.

MAJOR POINTS IN WAR ZONE NOTES

Extracts Show Chief Steps In Protests to Germany.

ALSO THE GERMAN REPLIES

Kaiser Disclaims Responsibility For Neutrals on Belligerent Ships and Asserts Lusitania Was Armed—Wilson Replies Liner Was Unarmed and Insists on "Strict Accountability."

Below are given the high lights of the correspondence between the United States and Germany beginning with Germany's "War Zone" decree and including the note which led to the resignation of Mr. Bryan as secretary of state.

Feb. 4.—Germany's "War Zone" decree said:

"Every enemy merchant ship found in this war zone will be destroyed, even if it is impossible to avert dangers which threaten the crew and passengers.

"Also neutral ships in the war zone are in danger. It cannot always be avoided that attacks meant for enemy ships endanger neutral ships."

Feb. 10.—America's note of protest said:

"The sole right of a belligerent in dealing with neutral vessels on the high seas is limited to visit and search unless a blockade is proclaimed and effectively maintained.

"If the commanders of German vessels of war * * * should destroy on the high seas an American vessel or the lives of American citizens it would be difficult * * * to view the act in any other light than as an indefensible violation of neutral rights.

"If such a deplorable situation should arise the government of the United States would be constrained to hold the imperial German government to strict accountability * * * and take any steps it might be necessary to take to safeguard American lives and property, and to secure to American citizens the full enjoyment of acknowledged rights on the high seas."

Feb. 18. Germany said in reply:

"The German government is forced to suppress, with all the means at its disposal, the importation of war material to Great Britain and her allies.

"Neutral vessels, which, despite warning, and notice * * * enter these war waters, will themselves bear the responsibility for any unfortunate accidents that may occur. Germany disclaims all responsibility for such accidents."

May 13. America's note, following the torpedoing of the liner Lusitania without warning and the consequent loss of more than a hundred Americans, said:

"The objection to their (Germany's) submarines method of attack * * * lie in the practical impossibility of employing submarines in the destruction of commerce without disregarding those rules of fairness, reason, justice and humanity which all modern opinion regards as imperative.

"American citizens act within their indisputable rights in taking their ships and in traveling wherever their legitimate business calls them upon the high seas.

"It (the United States) confidently expects, therefore, that the imperial German government will disavow the acts of which the United States complains that they will make reparation, so far as reparation is possible, and that they will take immediate steps to prevent the recurrence of anything so obviously subversive of the principles of warfare.

"The imperial German government will not expect the government of the United States to omit any word or any act necessary to the performance of its sacred duty of maintaining the rights of the United States and its citizens."

May 30.—Germany in response declared:

"It is known to the imperial government from trustworthy reports from its agents and neutral passengers that * * * the Lusitania had cannon aboard which were mounted and concealed below decks and that the Lusitania, as on earlier occasions, carried Canadian troops and war material.

"The German government has no intention of submitting neutral ships in the war zone which are guilty of no hostile acts to attacks by a submarine or subinarines or aviators.

June 10.—America's reply states:

"The Lusitania was not armed for offensive action. She was not serving as a transport. She did not carry a cargo prohibited by the statutes of the United States.

"But the sinking of passenger ships involves principles of humanity which throw into the background any special circumstances of detail.

"The government of the United States therefore very earnestly and very solemnly renews the representations of its note transmitted on the 15th of May, * * * deems it reasonable to expect that the imperial German government will adopt the measures necessary to put these principles into practice in respect of the safeguarding of American lives and American ships and asks for assurances that this will be done."

Rent one or your rooms and reduce your own rent materially. It's a simple and sensible plan—and it works.

LARGE ENROLLMENT AT SUMMER SCHOOL

Daily Sessions Will Begin at Rutgers College on June 28.

In an interview with the director of the Rutgers College summer session it was learned that the advance registration for the summer session which opens at the college June 28, is much larger than that of preceding years. Many teachers of New Jersey are availing themselves of the opportunities afforded to obtain college credit and credit for State certificates. The courses in industrial arts, manual training, domestic science, domestic art and vocational education, all of which will be offered in the new Middlesex Vocational School building situated near the Rutgers College campus are enroling students. The courses in international peace are likewise attracting many persons. This session offers also opportunities to pursue broad cultural courses in cathedral architecture, in the history of painting and the history of art.

Large dormitory and dining accommodations are available at low rates and all facilities of the college are at the disposal of the students of the summer session. One of the most attractive additions to the school is the $25,000 swimming pool, the gift of Mrs. Robert F. Ballantine, which has been completed very recently. These together with the numerous social advantages which accrue from attendance at a regular college and the central location of New Brunswick make Rutgers an ideal place at which to spend a summer in study. This is witnessed by the fact that a large number of Rutgers men will attend this session of their Alma Mater, to pursue various courses. Everything possible has been done by the college to make the summer session an interesting and profitable one. Excursions are being planned and opportunities for boating, canoeing, tennis and other outdoor sports are many. Social gatherings in the gymnasium and special entertainments will be a conspicuous feature of the social life. The session employs a social directress and an assistant to look after the interests of the student.

Over one hundred courses in the liberal arts and sciences, in education, psychology, manual training, domestic science and vocational education for teachers and college students are offered. All departments of the college will be opened to the summer students. The extensive libraries, the scientific equipment of the Agriculture and the Agricultural Experiment Station are open to men and women alike. An exceptionally strong faculty which includes many regular Rutgers professors and specialists from other institutions assures the summer student and the State of New Jersey that the instruction and facilities offered are of the highest grade.

ENGLAND AWAKES TO HER WAR TASK

Change In Cabinet Evidences a New Regime.

To appreciate the real meaning of the recent cabinet crisis in England it is necessary to go back to the history of the months, indeed the years, that preceded the outbreak of the present war and recognize the central fact that for some years Great Britain had been governed by a party or a coalition of parties whose leaders utterly misunderstood the Europe in which they lived.

For years Lord Roberts and a number of the most eminent of British statesmen asserted loudly that the

WINSTON CHURCHILL (ABOVE) AND LORD FISHER.

Germans were preparing for war. They filled the press with their appeals to their own countrymen to prepare. Lord Roberts' speeches, read now, seem to have almost the character of prophecy. But to all this Liberal-Labor-Nationalist leaders and journals turned a deaf ear or responded with derisive criticism. Then came a rude awakening.

That the storm should break about Winston Churchill is not surprising. His temperament, his personality, inevitably brought him into conflict with the professional naval officers, of whom Lord Fisher is the most eminent. Lord Fisher's resignation from the admiralty stirred up British public opinion against Churchill.

The recent cabinet crisis in England is final evidence that the British people are at last awake to the meaning of the German war. It means a stronger, sterner, more uncompromising spirit in the conduct of the war. This is the point of view of the new cabinet.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASSES HOLD CLOSING EXERCISES

The closing exercises of the Sunday-school classes of the Grace P. E. church were held yesterday afternoon, a large number of friends and relatives attending. The entire choir participated in the musical portion of the program, and the whole school joined in the singing. Yesterday's closing was held in connection with the annual flower festival service and was at 4 o'clock.

The flowers were donated to the Plant, Fruit and Flower Guild and will be sent to the patients of Bonnie Burn Sanatorium. Results of the written examinations were announced during the exercises and the fact was made known that there are fifty-eight scholars on the honor roll at present. The school will re-open in the fall probably about the middle of September.

FIND DYNAMITE NEAR SLEEPING CANADIAN TROOPS

Windsor, Ont., June 21.—A soldier on guard at the armory here stumbled on 26 sticks of dynamite in a bundle early today. A fuse attacked to the bundle was partly burned. Two hundred soldiers were asleep in the armory. August Frank, 28, a German-American, has been arrested. Just before the guard found the dynamite two explosions occurred in different nearby sections. One partly wrecked the plant of the Peabody Co., Ltd., in Walkerville, a suburb, and another did considerable damage to the factory of the Leather Label Overall Co., both of which have large contracts for uniforms.

MARINES ARRIVE IN MEXICO TO PROTECT AMERICANS

TROOP D ATTENDS DIVINE SERVICES

Plainfield Platoon Listens to Eloquent Sermon by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson.

Thirty members of Plainfield Platoon, Troop D., in full regalia, attended the morning services at the Grace P. E. church yesterday morning, an especially prepared order of services having been announced for their benefit. The edifice was appropriately decorated for the impressive occasion, the Stars and Stripes predominating. The entrances were bedecked with American flags and the pillars of the church were wrapped in bunting of the National colors.

Under the direction of S. Frederick Smith a program of music, appropriate to the event, was rendered by the church choir, this feature lending considerable effectiveness to the service.

The Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson preached an eloquent sermon dealing with patriotism, fraternalism and religion, applying these elements to the workings of the platoon.

HUSBAND KILLED, WIFE HURT, AS TRAIN HITS AUTOMOBILE

Somerville, June 21.—The Harrisburg express, which leaves this place at 6:03 p. m., struck an automobile at a crossing one mile west of this place, at about 6:30 Saturday evening. The automobile was demolished and one of the occupants, a Mr. Koller, was instantly killed. His wife was seriously injured. At a late hour no report of the accident had been brought to the attention of the authorities of the Somerset Hospital in this place.

Mr. Koller was a resident of the village of North Branch and in business in New York. Mrs. Koller had met him at North Branch station on the local train which arrived just ahead of the Harrisburg express, and they were returning to North Branch by a roundabout way. Mrs. Koller's arm was broken.

MRS. ELIZABETH BROWGHAL DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Elizbeth Browghal, widow of the late James Browghal, died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William J. Moore, 930 West Fourth street. She was in her eighty-eighth year. Infirmities of age and complications are ascribed as the cause of death. Mrs. Browghal was a naiive of Ireland, but made her home in this city for the past sixty years. Beside Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Browghal is survived by another daughter, who resides in Philadelphia and three sons, two residing in Kansas City and one in Iowa. All three will attend the funeral of their mother. The deceased is also survived by one nephew, Rev. Father Browghal, of Philadelphia, who will conduct the funeral service Wednesday morning in St. Mary's church at 9:30. Burial will be made in Holly Infants' cemetery, South Bethlehem, Pa.

LINCOLN SCHOOL NOTES

The pupils of the Lincoln School fifth grade having the highest average on final examinations are: Helen Brancati, .97; John Garretson and Redding Van Doren, 96, and Albert Allen, .95.

The pupils of 3-B grade entertained the fourth and fifth grades in the kindergarten room Friday afternoon. Miss Eastman was assisted by Miss Siegel who has been training with her. The children gave a pleasing program of recitations and songs, closing with a play, "Susie's Dream." Evelyn Johnston took the part of "Susie" and six boys were very realistic animals and birds.

FIELD DAY AT SOMERVILLE.

Somerville, June 21—The field day held under the auspices of the State Board of Agriculture at the home of President J. S. Frelinghuysen, Saturday, brought farmers here from every section of the State. Not only were the rural districts of the State well represented, but the occasion was taken advantage of by many New Jersey politicians to get together. Former Senator Frelinghuysen had about 1,500 people as his guests.

Gentlemen:-

No less than four reasons, — economy, convenience, efficiency and cleanliness — induced us to adopt your service seven years ago. Actual experience has not disappointed us in these respects.

The cost has been low, the power can be easily carried to any desired point, the current is always ready and there is no dust, dirt or other danger of contamination to our product.

We find the service satisfactory in all respects.

Very truly yours,

ADVICE FOR JULY FOURTH.

It was only a few years ago that the newspaper reports of Fourth of July fatalities told of thousands of serious accidents throughout the country following each anniversary of the nations birth. Tetanus, or lock jaw as it is more commonly called, was frequent, and scores died each year in terrible agony. In a recent bulletin the United States Public Health Department calls attention to the fact that while the total casualties on the glorious day last year were a quarter of what they were five years ago, the deaths from tetanus have shown a much greater reduction. In 1903 there were 417 victims of that dread malady, and last year there were but three.

It is with the idea of entirely eliminating the disease this year, that the bulletin is sent forth and every Plainfield parent would do well to follow the advice contained therein. When wadding from a blank cartridge or a fire cracker is driven into the tissues, as is so often the case, it carries with it a lot of bacilli, the disease being caused by the absorption of the poisonous products given off when these germs grow. If a physician is called he enlarges the wound, thus providing plenty of oxygen, absence of which would cause bacilli to thrive. The bulletin contains this advice:

Parents should realize that Fourth of July tetanus is easy to prevent but extremely difficult to cure. No blank cartridge wound is too trivial to receive careful medical attention. However slight the injury may appear, summon a physician and at once adopt energetic measures. Reliance upon home treatment may prove disastrous and result in the sacrifice of life. In 1903, before the widespread recognition of the possibilities of preventive treatment, one case of tetanus developed to every four blank cartirdge wounds reported; in 1914, there was but one case to every 40 such injuries. This is the measure of the success of preventive treatment.

It is now nearly three months since the act requiring automobiles to discontinue the use of glaring headlights in cities has been a law. The local authorities have been inclined to be reasonable in bringing about its enforcement, and a large number of automobilists have provided dimmers for their lamps. A few, however, still persist in using the glaring lights. Certainly there is no necessity for leniency any longer. Commissioner Dill, of the State Motor Vehicle Department, has given notice that all violators of the law shall be arrested, beginning this week, and his order will be pleasing to the many citizens who have been blinded because of the lack of consideration on the part of the motor car users. The Trenton Times is right when it says that modifying or toning down the blinding glare is in the interest of public safety. The drivers will not be so likely to indulge in reckless speeding at any time if they are compelled to proceed cautiously. But the greatest gain will be by the thousands in the larger cities who will be relieved of what has grown to be an intolerable nuisance.

Hundreds of residents of Plainfield and North Plainfield who know County Superintendent H. C. Krebs, of Somerset county will approve of the sentiment expressed in the Somerville Unionist-Gazette when it says that his re-appointment as "county superintendent of schools was a foregone conclusion because he has made a most valuable executive officer. Mr. Krebs is such a throrough school man that he adds strength to every school he enters where there are any weak spots. He is an encouragement to teachers who lack confidence and he has strengthened the whole system in the county especially in the county schools which have needed it so much. He has succeeded in having a number of new school houses built where they were greatly needed. His reappointment is a reward of merit and its announcement will be received with satisfection throughout the county."

Asbury Park is now interesting itself in the illegal baseball pools The Press of that city says that people there are beginning to realize the danger to the ancient and honorable pastime and rejoice in the movement to end gambling in connection therewith. And the Press is right. Gambling caused the all but complete cessation of horse racing as a sport, as was pointed out in these columns a few days ago, and now it is proving a bane to this great outdoor sport. Who can say how much of the present slump in the general public interest in baseball is due to the widspread gaming practices which have featured the recent history of the sport? Organized baseball itself should give its aid to the campaign against baseball "pools" and other betting schemes or the game will continue to suffer in popular estimation.

The plan of the Board of Education to throw the High School pool open to the public during the summer months is an excellent one, but it certainly seems as if a fee of fifteen cents for the use of a public pool is high. Certainly it cannot be expected that at that rate a great many people will take advantage of the opportunity, especially when the only thing secured for the money is the chance to dip in the pool, no towels or suits being furnished. And there is a time limit to the dip, too. While it is imperative that there be restrictions, and that a fee be charged, there is such a thing as going entirely too far in the amount fixed.

There's a lot of unnecessary excitement being created as to whether or not Dr. Meyer was a German spy, sent here to investigate our unpreparedness for war. All that was necessary to learn all about that subject would have been to get a copy of almost any newspaper published in this country.

Lulu! That's sure some name for that puma Mrs. Martine christened out in California.

SAENGERBUNDS ENJOY THEIR ANNUAL OUTING

A delegation of about sixty members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein attended the annual outing of the New Jersey Saengerbund Society which was held in the society's park at New Brunswick yesterday. A special trolley car was chartered to convey the Plainfield party and the day was spent pleasantly in the open.

As is the rule when Saengerbund society members get together, singing contests were held. Songs were sung in the competition by societies represented at the outing and also by individual singers. No prizes were offered, however. In the various competitions the Plainfield society held up its end creditably.

PETER BOROWITZ.

Peter Borowitz, of 14 De Kalb avenue, died this morning in Muhlenberg Hospital, following his removal to the institution Saturday, for an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Borowitz was in his fifty-second year and beside a wife is survived by three children. Notice of funeral will be given later.

CASE POSTPONED.

George Jackson, of 670 South Second street, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza in the police court, this morning, charged with riding his wheel on the sidewalk. His case was postponed until June 22.

ATTEND CAPT. GEARY'S FUNERAL AT EASTON

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Kinney, of Pearl street, have returned from Easton, Pa., where on Saturday they attended the funeral of Mrs. Kinney's uncle, Captain William Geary, aged 80 years, a well-known Civil War veteran. Captain Geary enlisted at the outbreak of the war in the 109th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, most of his service being with Sherman's army.

Captain Geary lived in the West for a number of years following the war, and later went to Phillipsburg, where he made his home with his brother, Nelson Geary. He was well-known in this city where he had visited several times. Beside a brother there survives three sisters.

YOUTHFUL THESPIANS GIVE SUCCESSFUL SHOW

An entertainment given at the home of Jamie Case, 1128 Martine avenue, Saturday afternoon, netted $12 for the benefit of Miss Sara Curry's summer camp on Leland avenue. The affair was attended by about thirty friends of the youthful performers who gave their various feats in a most creditable manner. The following young men participated in the numbers: Everett N. Case, Harold Loizeaux, Reginald Sykes, Walter Brown and Edwin Bartine.

The jokes, songs and witty sayings brought forth rounds of applause from the audience while the tumbling act in which the boys performed was unusually clever and well done. Miss Elizabeth Case recited an original poem entitled "Roses" in a pleasing manner.

WILL COMMENCE WORK ON NEW BRIDGE SOON

Work on the new bridge over Green brook, at Grove street, the contract of which was awarded last week to Arthur E. Smith, of this city, will be begun in a short time. The present bridge was sold to the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, $200 being the price settled upon. To effect this deal Somerset county will turn over to Union county the sum of $100, this county's share of the proceeds. The old bridge, an iron trussed structure, will be moved away by the Somerset County Freeholders and after being repaired, will do duty elsewhere.

The new bridge is to be a Luten of reinforced concrete. A feature, which was adopted through the efforts of Freeholder J. Hervey Doane, will be the handsome lighting standards, two of which will grace each end of the structure.

JUDGE WAS KIND TO HIM BUT MAN DIDN'T KNOW IT

An argument starting over some alleged "short-changing" on the part of Abram Brown, a trolley car conductor, resulted in the arrest of Andrew Harrigan on a Main Line car Saturday night, Patrolman Roy E. Martin bringing the man to headquarters on the complaint of the conductor. According to the police Harrigan was intoxicated and had no reason to start an argument with the conductor.

He was lodged in a cell and Judge DeMeza played the part of a Good Samaritan to him yesterday afternoon, and allowed him to take a walk to get the cooling afternoon breezes, at the same time warning him to appear for trial in the city court this morning. When court time came, however, Harrigan was missing and the police are scouring the city for him today armed with a warrant.

BOY SHOOTING BLANKS AROUSED NEIGHBORHOOD

Reports coming from the vicinity of Raymond avenue and Terrill road to police headquarters, yesterday afternoon, carrying with them frenzied descriptions of a daylight hold-up and shooting affair caused Captain John J. Flynn and Sergeant Maurice Higgins to mount bicycles and proceed to the scene post-haste.

Residents of that section were in a high state of excitement when the coppers arrived and had thrilling tales of a murderous attack all framed up. Grover Kretzel and Tommy Doyle acted as the police informants and told the officers that a boy had jumped from behind a clump of bushes and shot a girl who was passing by. It developed that the boy was playing with a blank cartridge pistol and happened to shoot it off as the girl was going by. She thought that someone had shot at her and became hysterical. Investigation failed to reveal the identity of the boy, who made himself scarce.

Mrs. Anna Mair, of Watchung avenue, has gone to Binghamton, N. Y., where she will spend the summer with her sister.

George Howe, of Codington avenue, has returned after spending a week cruising about the New York Bay.

ATTRIBUTES GOOD HEALTH TO SPORT

V. W. Nash, Sr., at Seventy-one, Bowls Daily and Takes Regular Exercise.

WELL KNOWN IN STATE

He Recently Retired From Active Law Practise—Has Been Active During Past Year in Masonic League Bowling Circles.

Holding a record seldom equalled by men of his age—that of being one of Plainfield's leading bowlers—Vincent W. Nash, Sr., of Prospect avenue, is today quietly celebrating the seventy-first anniversary of his birth Aside from receiving the numerous congratulations that have been showered on him by hosts of friends, Mr. Nash is spending the day much the same as he has spent the other 25,914 of his life, taking his usual amount of daily exercise, a feature that has been largely responsible for the preservation of his remarkable good health. Until recently Mr. Nash never knew what it was to be sick a day, but two months ago he was attacked with an illness diagnosed as a light case of appendicitis and for a time was under a physician's care. At the present time, however, he is in the best of health and in full possession of every faculty.

While he is probably one of the best known of Plainfield's citizens, Mr. Nash is of a retiring disposition and when sought by a Daily Press reporter today, it was stated by relatives that he would give out nothing for publication, preferring to spend the anniversary of his natal day in as quiet a way as friends would permit.

For years bowling has been his favorite pastime and to this variety of recreation Mr. Nash attributes much of the responsibility for his good health. Seldom does a day go by but what he visits the alleys at the local Elks' Club and indulges in a number of practice games. He has established a record for himself as a participant in the City Bowling League, Elks' Bowling League and Fraternal Bowling League competitions and durig the past season attracted considerable prominence by virtue of the steady and consistent game he rolled. During the schedule of games which the Masonic Bowling League recently completed he was perhaps, the best known figure in the league. Rolling at anchor on the Jerusalem team, he pinned many high scores and was recognized as a main cog in his team's scoring on each performance. Until his last illness Mr. Nash was high up in the individual ratings and had he not been compelled to temporarily abandon the sport it is not unlikely that he would have been among the list of winners.

Aside from his interest in bowling Mr. Nash has cherished another lifelong hobby. Before the alley pastime came into the public limelight he was a devotee to bicycling and as a charter member of the old Crescent Wheelmen, one of the best known cycling organizations in New Jersey, he took part in a number of notable events.

Recreation, however, has been a minor factor in Mr. Nash's life. Born in Brooklyn and being educated in the public schools of that city he early took up the stone cutter's trade in which he spent several years. He later took a decided leaning toward the study of law and has been a close student of Blackstone ever since. For thirty years he was a justice of the peace in Plainfield and until his retirement several years ago, was one of the municipality's best known practitioners.

He married Miss Margaret Crawford, of Jersey City, and the couple have six children, two boys and four girls. Both sons followed in their father's footsteps and took up the legal profession, Augustus Nash practising in Westfield, and V. W. Nash, Jr., succeeding his father in the Plainfield office at 221 Park avenue.

For ten years Mr. Nash has been president of the Exempt Firemen's Association and is a Past Grand Master Workman of the State in the A. O. U. W. He has been a member of the Free and Accepted Order of Masons for thirty-seven years, demitting from the Lafayette lodge in Brooklyn, to affiliate with Jerusalem lodge in this city. He is a member of the Order of Red Men, of the Elks and the Heptasophs.

HONORS FOR GRADUATES

business writing. Those who received this honor were Misses Nora Catherine Regan, Mary Frances McCauley, Norena Winifred Dunny, Margaret Wilhemina McCarthy, Mary Ellen McCarthy, Mary Appolonia Butscher, Mary Agnes McGauley, Cecelia Veronica Fee, Elizabeth Regina Mottley, Mabel Margaret Jackson, Catherine Margaret O'Connor, Alice Regina Ryan, Esther Teresa Regan, Anna Agnes Harrington, Margaret Joan Gallagher, Loretta Agnes Graniery, Margaret Louise Higgins, Marie Anna Brandt, Mary Madeline Dorgan, Nora Catherine Heffren, Julia Catherine Regan, and Messrs, Francis Augustine Connelly, James Michael McCarthy, Robert Joseph Clarkson.

A ten-dollar gold piece for punctuality, attendance and neatness, drawn for by forty children of the school, was won by Miss Elizabeth Regina Mottley. Two five-doller gold pieces were won by Miss Anna Magdalene O'Sullivan and John Joseph Regan. A gold medal awarded to the commercial student for excellence in studies was won by Miss Mary Elizabeth Traynor. Miss Agnes Elizabeth Dunny captured the gold medal for stenographic excellence, while Miss Margaret Louise Higgins was given a gold medal for the best essay. Robert Joseph Clarkson won the gold prize for arithmetic. Two medals awarded for leaders in Irish history were given to Miss Nora Catherine Heffren and Leo Vincent Keating. The donors of the various prizes were the following: Knights of Columbus, T. A. B. Society, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Mrs. Anna Slevin, John J. Hines, George J. Tobin and Hugh Tracey.

Albert LaRock rendered a vocal solo assisted by the entire choir. Among the visiting clergy were Rev. Father Hart, who acted as master of ceremonies; Father baldwin, deacon; Father Butscher, sub-deacon; Father McGraw, Father Sciolla and Father McDonald.

Rev. Father Bogan, pastor of the church, delivered the address of the evening, his theme being based on religious education as an essential part of patriotism. He quoted several extracts from President Wilson, ex-Presidents Taft and Roosevelt and several other notables who firmly believe in the conviction that without religion, without morality, there is no education.

Father Bogan took a Scriptural text from the seventeenth chapter of St. John: "This is eternal life that they may know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom Thou hast sent."

He said in part:

"From the realms of the theory of life and all its perplexities—of life that held such roseate promises through all the golden days freighted with hope bearing them ever on and on to fanciful havens of security and success, from all the dream of it happy and glorious as it has been, the graduates emerge from the threshold of this, their last day of preparation into the expanding reality; that wide, limitless sea of anxiety, for many unmarked and unchartered, yet for them peaceful and calm in the strength of its mighty heaving. Full-sailed their bark takes to the sea manned and equipped with unerring principles to warn it of the shoal shores, to pierce with their might the fogs of doubt and indecision; to guide them, let up hope, inevitably to the haven of a success secured by the out-stretching hills of integrity and righteousness, where in peace may they wait, each and every one of them, the 'sunset and evening star and the one clear call' of eternity.

"Not many years ago, I will not say even a generation ago, religion as the hand-maid of education, was looked upon as a stranger intruding upon the halls of study. Now from all sides come voices of approval, from men whose deep thought and unquestioned patriotism look with fear and anxiety to the not-distant day when cultured scoundrels, adept in what has been miscalled education, woefully lacking in the steadying principles of morality, may claim and may gain controlling influence in our councils and direction to the Ship of State, absolutely unequipped to guide it amid the shoals of anarchy and against the storms of threatening socialism. From statesmen, editors and influential writers, come the words of warning. Morality, morality directed by principles of religion, that alone can save us in the coming storm. Trite, indeed, it would be to quote for you the words of General Washington, commending morality from a religious basis as the only hope for constitutional preservation.

"We are taking for granted a moral intelligence which does not exist. We are leaning upon it, depending upon it, trusting to it, and it is not there.

"Our whole machinery of education from the kindergarten up to the university is perilously weak at this point. We have multitudes of youths and grown men and women who have no more intelligent sense of what is right and wrong than had so many Greeks in the time of Alcibiades. The great Roman Catholic church is unquestionably right in the contention that the whole system as it now exists is morally a negation. The great company of educators and the whole American community need to be sternly warned that if morality cannot be specifically taught in the public schools without admitting religious dogma, then religious dogma may have to be taught in them.

"We are within measurable distance of the time when society may for its own sake go on its knees to any factor which can be warranted to made education compatible with and inseparable from morality, letting that factor do it on its own terms and teach therewith whatever it lists.

"Equipped as you are in heart as well as mind to begin at least a modest contest in the battle of life you may find that despite your honesty of purpose with God ever summoned to be the witness of your efforts you may see the prizes of the world go by, your love for God as undoubtedly your love for country, may be questioned, but you have a history every page of which is open to nonest, unprejudiced, intelligent scrutiny, written as it is in the blood of your loyal ancestors, which is your passport to the respect and unquestionable confidence of the soldier-citizens of our country. The flag may not always wave its inspiration to your eyes, the patriot note may not be dinned into your listening ears, but never a word of secular knowledge linked sentence with sentence into learning that did not bear the message of patriotism to your receptive hearts. Obedience to authority, whether it be the law of the schoolroom or the law of the land, wielded by the tender solicitude of your teachers or administered by public officers who have but little sympathy with your faith, if not an open blasphemer of its principles, has ever been for you the voice of God; and because of that, fearing not man but loving God, your patriotism has been builded upon a foundation of intelligence. For you every star of our glorious flag flashed its message of sovereignity across the blue field of patriotism, and every stripe ran red with loyalty in company with the stainless white of your integrity. Love your God, dear children, fear not men. Trust in His all-protecting arms and the future holds no word of failure. Your alma mater is in very deed the nourishing mother who entrusts you from her yearning arms to the doubtful care of the future. Her strength and direction ever await you in the days of your anxiety. Sanctify the memory of your school days in lives of honor that shall reflect credit upon your teachers and give promise of success in time and the recompense of happiness in eternity."

FIGHTING INSOMNIA.

Some Advice About How to Woo "Nature's Sweet Restorer."

In fighting sleeplessness I have found nothing so helpful as a simple procedure based on the conditions which recent psychological experiment has proved to be fundamental to sleep. These are:

Mental and muscular relaxation, limitation of voluntary movement and monotony of sensation.

To obtain these the next time you find yourself wakeful select on the wall of your room some ornament or spot which, by reason of a ray of light from the moon or street lamp, seems to stand out clearly from its surroundings. Having selected this spot, assume a comfortable position in bed, taking care that you lie in such a way that you can see the spot on the wall without straining any part of your body.

Next, remaining perfectly motionless and thinking of nothing but the spot on the wall, gaze at it through half closed lids in such a way that it seems remote and indistinct.

Be sure not to try to get a full view of it. That would mean tension, not relaxation, and would defeat your purpose. Your gaze at the spot, while steady, must be without any straining of the attention.

Soon, if you have continued to lie perfectly quiet and to think of nothing but the spot on the wall, you will find your eyelids grow heavy and close completely. Open them half way, as before, and resume the process of gazing.

They will again grow heavy and close, when you must, if you can, open them once more. Before long you will find it impossible to open them, for you will be sound asleep.

Even if your room be in total darkness you can still make use of this sleep bringing method by calling up before your mind's eye some imaginary object and gazing at it between half closed lids exactly as though it were really before you. Remember, however, that you must lie perfectly still, moving neither your hands nor your legs.

Try this device the next time you are troubled by wakefulness. From personal experience I am satisfied that, if you follow it faithfully in its details, you will find that it works like a charm.—H. Addington Bruce in Kansas City Times.

Big Hats In Colonial Days.

The question of high hats at public places was of some moment, even in colonial days. In 1769 the church at Andover, Mass., put it to vote whether "the parish disapprove of the female sex sitting with their hats on in the meeting house in time of divine service as being indecent." In the town of Abington in 1775 it was voted that it was "an indecent way with the female sex to sit with their hats and bonnets on in worshiping God." Still another town voted that it was the "town's mind" that the women should take their bonnets off in meeting and hang them on the pegs.

An Egg Trick.

Hold a raw egg on end and spin it on a plate or other smooth surface. Quickly place the hand upon it for an instant, stopping the motion momentarily. When the hand is removed the egg will resume its spinning. This is because the liquid contents of the shell continued to whirl rapidly when your hand stopped the shell, and if it is quickly released the whirling contents will again set the shell to spinning.—American Boy.

An Irascible Mood.

"I want to ask your consent to my marriage with your daughter," said the formal youth.

"Young man," replied Mr. Cumrox, "don't you bother me with any more such talk. If you and Gwendolin get married it's her and her mother's doings, and I don't want to be brought into it. I'm tired of being held responsible for every kind of trouble that comes up in this family."—Washington Star.

The Roads of Norway.

A curious feature to travelers on the highroads of Norway is the great number of gates—upward of 10,000 in the whole country—which have to be opened. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or separate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

Very Much So.

"I wonder what the poet meant when he alluded to woman in her hours of ease as being uncertain, coy and hard to please."

"I don't know about the coy part," said the saleslady, "but when it comes to picking out a hat she's all the rest of it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

At Niagara.

"You had a day at Niagara, I understand."

"Yes; had a delightful time there too."

"Falls were pretty fine, eh?"

"Why—er—we didn't see the falls. We spent all our time at the movies."—Judge.

And Then He Was Fined.

Judge—Then when your wife seized the weapon you ran out of the house? Plaintiff—Yes, sir. Judge—But she might not have used it. Plaintiff—True, your honor. Maybe she picked up the flatiron just to smooth things over.—Boston Transcript.

GIRL IS HAILED AS NEW JOAN OF ARC

Young Italian Peasant Beauty Leads Bersaglieri.

KING VICTOR DECORATES HER

Maria Abbriani Guides Soldiers Up Mountain on Tyrolean Frontier and After Days of Heroism Shares in Bayonet Charge, Which Results In Austrians Being Driven Back.

Maria Abbriani, a dark eyed Italian beauty from a mountain village along the Tyrolean frontier, is the "Joan of Arc" of the Austro-Italian war.

King Victor Emmanuel has awarded her a decoration for her bravery in leading a bersaglieri company in a bayonet attack on the Trentino village of Nori under heavy artillery fire.

With the decoration went a personal telegram of congratulation from the king at his headquarters at the battle front.

The war office at Rome at the same time made public an official dispatch detailing the girl's heroic acts.

Maria lived with her father, an aged Italian, in the Trentino village under Austrian rule. With other Italian residents, she ran out, says the dispatch, to welcome the king's troops when they entered Nori from the south.

Austrians batteries opened fire on the Italians at the outskirts of the village. Maria hurried to the Italian commander, begged permission to be allowed to carry a gun and show the way to reach where the Austrians were hidden.

Her request was granted and one of the soldiers gave her a plumed bersaglieri hat.

For eight hours she was in the thick of the fighting, piloting Italian troops through the streets of the village and up the mountain paths to flank attacks upon the Austrian trenches.

In the final attack, she actually led a squad of bersaglieri in a bayonet charge that swept the Austrians out of the village.

A full bersaglieri uniform was given to the girl as a souvenir of the victory and her bravery.

GREATEST WHEAT CROP EVER

Federal Report Indicates That Yield May Reach Billion Bushels.

The greatest wheat crop the country ever has known is in prospect for the coming harvest. The federal crop reporting board forecasts the crop at 950,000,000 bushels, which would exceed last year's record crop by 59,000,000 bushels. With continued good weather the crop may reach a billion bushels.

The bulk is winter wheat, planted last fall on the greatest acreage ever sown.

Oats planted last spring, also on the greatest area ever sown to that crop, exceeding last year's area by almost 2,000,000 acres, is forecasted at 1,288,000,000 bushels, which is more than last year or in 1913, but 130,000,000 bushels less than the record in 1912.

The barley crop, from present indications, will be second in point of size, with 197,000,000 bushels, which would be 26,000,000 bushels less than the 1912 record crop, but more than grown last year or in 1913.

WAR WIPES OUT BRITAIN'S ENTIRE PEACE ARMY.

The total of British casualties from the beginning of the war to May 31 was 258,069 men, Premier Asquith told the commons.

The list he gave was:

	Killed.	Wounded.	Missing.
Officers	3,327	6,408	1,130
Other ranks	47,015	147,482	52,617
Total	50,342	153,990	53,747

Losses in the naval division and in the various small wars in Africa and the near east are not included.

In the first six months the British losses were 104,000. In the next four months they were 154,000.

In the last two months they have averaged about 2,000 men a day.

The army Great Britain just sent to the front numbered 170,000 men.

The entire British army at the opening of the war numbered 262,000 men. It is believed that few of these men are now left.

The total number of men sanctioned so far by parliament for the war is 3,500,000.

The naval losses due to foe are given as 6,409 officers and men.

NEXT WEEK'S SCHEDULE.

Hope Chapel at Saurer.
Netherwood at Clinton Avenue.
T. A. B. at First Baptist.

City League activities got underway with a rush Saturday afternoon, the three numbers on the opening program being of high calibre and well worth witnessing. The T. A. B. aggregation sprang the surprise of the afternoon by trimming Saurers to the tune of 5 to 4, the Saurerites being conceded the most likely candidate to championship honors. Netherwood's got a flying start by walloping the Baptists by a count of 12 to 2 and the Chapelites copped the larger end of the score contesting matters with the Clinton Avenue combination.

Many faces well-known to Plainfield baseball fans appeared in the various lineups and every indication points to a big season for the six aggregations enrolled in the organization. Favorable returns were received from each pilot and three more appetizing morsels are on the baseball menu for next Saturday afternoon.

Two heavy hitting combinations came to the surface by virtue of the opening day's returns, Hope Chapel and the Netherwoods leading the way. Particularly noticeable were the long clouts of the West Fourth street churchboys who registered numerous telling licks during the course of the afternoon.

TELLING LICKS WON FOR HOPE CHAPELITES

Fourth Street Crew Pounded Brick's Offerings to the Four Corners of the Lot.

Hard hitting by Hope Chapel, with Third-baseman Walls leading the way, swamped the Clinton Avenue squad in the opening City League contest on the latter aggregation's field Saturday afternoon, the final score being 7 to 2. A fusilade of bingles gathered in bunches gave the Chapelites a substantial lead over the rival clan and good fielding kept the Clinton's safe at all times. The winners' tallies came in bunches and were earned by clean-cut wagon-tongue wielding.

The Chapelites made a decidedly favorable impression and if first game results may be taken as a criterion, the West Fourth street crew will have to be reckoned with when the gonfalon is passed around next September.

"Hoppy" Walls, the first man to face Arthur Brick in the opening stanza, clipped a fast one for a two-station trip, and crossed the gutta percha on "Art" Thorn's single. This gave Hope first blood. In the second Jimmy Montross drew a free ticket to first, pilfered the second bag and tallied on Overland's triple-decker. Overland registered from third when Tommy Heron knocked a hard one at Brown, who fumbled the pellet. Heron stole second and scored on Schott's twin-sacker to center. Another trio of tallies were credited to Hope in the fourth frame when Walls led off with the second of his three doubles; Thorn walked, and Grisley cleaned up with a four-station swat. This wound up the Chapelites heavy stick work and Brick was derricked, giving Rosenson an opportunity to show his wares.

The Clintons came to life in the eighth when Dunham bagged a safety, went to second on a passed ball and came across on Jim Henry's three-bag lick. Evidently cherishing the run-getting habit in the last canto, Benny Rosenson started another rally for his teammates by waiting out Schott for a free trip. Pennoyer, running for Rosenson, registered on a series of fumbles from the first corner.

SOUND SPANKING FOR THE BAPTIST OUTFIT

Netherwood A. C. too Husky With the Willow to Let Rivals Get Decision.

Clever battery work pulled down a decision in the opening game for the Netherwood A. C. with the First Baptist City Title League contenders, Saturday afternoon. Stewart and Moran, working in the points for the victors, had things pretty much their own way throughout the fracas and appeared to gather considerable satisfaction in forcing the Baptists to eat out of their hands. Stewart's offerings yielded the Baptists but two safeties, while the Netherwood hitters connected for thirteen bingles, all healthy licks to safe places.

Mills and Morley did the slab-work for the losing side and the delivery of each individual was touched up for a healthy collection. M. Terry led the hitting for Netherwood, gathering a trio of clouts, while Dodd, V. Terry, Stewart and Moran each got a brace. Savidge, Morley and Mills were the only hitters on the Baptist outfit.

SLOW WEEK IN SPORT IS THE OUTLOOK AT PRESENT

Present indications point to the slowest week of the year in sports during the next half dozen days, few contests of importance being on tap in and about Plainfield. Whether or not this respite has been taken by managers to get their charges in shape for Fourth of July activities is not known but it is a foregone conclusion that there will be plenty doing over Independence Day.

The tournament to decide the Plainfield Country Club's women's doubles title will get under way on the club's tennis courts this afternoon and the probabilities are that it will last several days. Outside of this single event there will be nothing doing until Saturday, when the City Baseball League will stage three contests and the weekly golf and tennis competitions will be run off at the local clubs.

WASHBURN WINS.

New York, June 21—W. M. Washburn won the metropolitan championship tennis singles Saturday, on the courts of the Bronxville Athletic Association, scoring his second holding of the title by defeating Robert LeRoy, 6-1, 6-3, 75. Harold H. Hackett and W. M. Rall won the doubles championships, beating H. J. Steinkapf and A. M. Lovibond, 10-8, 6-3, 6-0.

ABSTAINERS SPRING OPENING SURPRISE

T. A. B. Balltossers Put a Win Across at Expense of Saurer Clubbers.

One run in the eighth inning put the T. A. B. City Leaguers on the bigger end of a 5 to 4 tally card with the Saurer aggregation, Saturday afternoon. The contest, close and interesting throughout, was witnessed by a large crowd of baseball followers and the outcome occasioned no little amount of genuine surprise among the rival factions.

Ten solid clouts were registered by the Saurer batters from Tone Denny's offerings, but they were of the scattered variety and did little damage. With a collection of six bingles gathered from Miller's delivery the Abstainers managed to gain the advantage in the final score. Jack Garretson, wearing a Saurer uniform was the leading swatsmith of the afternoon, garnering a brace of two-sackers and a single out of four appearances at the rubber. McCarthy, of the T. A. B. outfit, also had his batting eye with him, copping a twin-decker and a single out of four trips.

IMPORTANT CITY LEAGUE SESSION ON TAP TONIGHT

The weekly meeting of the City Baseball League will be held in the editorial rooms of the Plainfield Daily Press tonight, and a full attendance of officials is requested as matters of importance will be discussed. Several questions have arisen during the past week concerning the location of diamonds and assignment of umpires and the issues will be definitely settled tonight.

Various phases of the league activities brought to light through the contests waged Saturday afternoon will be taken up and it is possible that several innovations will be decided upon.

CRANFORD STAR AT FAIR.

San Francisco, June 21—R. N. Williams, American tennis champion, is expected to battle again with Maurice E. McLoughlin, of California, former national champion, in the Panama-Pacific Exposition tennis championships, which will be held here July 10 to 17, it was announced Saturday by the Pacific States Lawn Tennis Association, which will supervise the event. In addition to Williams, other Eastern cracks, including George M. Church and Dean Mathey, are expected to compete.

L. G. CARMAN SCORES FOR GOLF COM. CUP

Also Wins Sweepstakes Event at the Plainfield Country Club.

With a net score of 69, L. G. Carman won first honors for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday afternoon, and with the same score also won the sweepstakes event. D. O. Rogers took second honors for the cup with a 70, while D. W. Taylor, Burnett C. Kenyon and J. Whitney Baker were tied for third place with a net score of 76, the playing throughout being close. The leading scores for the President's cup follows:

L. G. Carman, 81, 12-69; D. O. Rogers, 77, 7-70; D. W. Taylor, 99, 23-76; Burnett C. Kenyon, 92, 16-76; J. Whitney Baker, 85, 9-76.

These scores were posted in the sweepstakes event:

L. G. Carman, 81, 12-69; E. T. Willson, 89, 15-74; H. T. Eaton, 87, 13-74; A. J. Watson, 84, 8-76; Burnett C. Kenyon, 92, 16-76; H. A. Robinson, 104, 27-77; W. M. Alling, 93, 13-80.

In the evening there was the weekly dinner-dance which was attended by an unusually large number of members. The dinner was served soon after the play was concluded on the golf course, and was followed with dancing which was continued until near midnight.

H. E. BLAZIER WINS SPRING CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeats H. H. Woodland 5 up and 4 to Play in the Final Round.

Harold E. Blazier won the Spring championship cup at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, defeating H. H. Woodland in the final round, 5 up and 4 to play. The match was closely contested from start to finish. Blazier will play the winner of the Fall championship cup for the premier honors of the club, the championship.

R. V. Carpenter won first honors for the President's cup with a net score of 70, while Charles B. Morse, with a 72, finished second, and R. G. Morse, with a 73, received third honors. The leading scores were as follows:

R. V. Carpenter, 90, 20-70; Charles B. Morse, 90, 18-72; R. G. Morse, 88, 15-73; Harold E. Blazier, 86, 12-74; R. M. Smith, 105, 30-75; Royle T. Phillips, 91, 15-76; Clarence J. Hand, 96, 19-77; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 96, 13-83; J. A. Wilson, 113, 16-97.

RUNYON AND FRITTS MAY CHANGE CLUBS

Sterling Local Athletes Have An Attractive Offer From Irish-Americans.

What bears all the ear-marks of being a well qualified rumor is in circulation here today to the effect that Ralph Runyon and Jack Fritts, captain and coach, respectively, of the Plainfield High School track team, are contemplating jumping from the Pastime A. C. to the Irish-American A. C. It is a well-known fact that the performances of these two athletes in recent meets has awakened keen enthusiasm between the two metroploitan clubs and about a month ago each was approached with a proposition by the Irish-American outfit.

Fritts and Runyon have long been kicking because of the long trip and amount of time expended in reaching the training quarters of the Pastimes and they have been in favor of lining up with some organization easier to reach. Fritts joined the Pastimes at the solicitation of a friend before he had gained any considerable renown in the track and field game and only recently induced Runyon to take out membership in the same club.

Inasmuch as the Irish-Americans won the senior track title at Travers Island, Saturday afternoon, and the fact that this club is considered the strongest in the metropolitan district, Runyon and Fritts both feel that it would be to their advantage to get in line. Whether or not they can do this without bringing disfavor and disqualification on their heads by the A. A. U. remains to be seen. Runyon has an excellent opportunity to "make" the team that will go to the Panama-Pacific Exposition to represent the East and it would be folly for him to render himself ineligible by "jumping" at the present time.

MULLIN IN A RECORD GAME WON BY RAHWAY BALL CLUB

Tommy Mullin took part in a game of baseball at Rahway, Saturday afternoon, which baseball wiseacres declare set a record for time. The contest was won by Rahway, defeating the Elizabeth A. A. by a score of 1 to 0, one tally in the last half of the ninth doing the trick. The nine innings were played in fifty-five minutes.

When the fact is considered that this allows but a little more than three minutes to a side per inning, it is a remarkable feat. Mullin was dressed and waiting for the 5:30 trolley for Plainfield.

Although he had a big day in the field, Tommy failed to connect safely out of four trips to the rubber. He pounded out three sacrifices.

RALPH RUNYON ONE STEP NEARER HIS GOAL IN WINNING PLACE ON EXPOSITION TEAM

By virtue of his stellar performance in the polt vault event at the metropolitan senior track and field championships, held Saturday at Travers Island, Ralph Runyon, captain of the Plainfield High School track team, will probably be named as one of those whose expenses will be paid to Cambridge next month to take part in the Eastern tryouts for the Panama-Pacific Exposition team to be held at the Harvard Stadium. Should he be successful in Cambridge as he was at Travers Island, Runyon will be among those who will represent the East in the big meet at San Francisco.

Saturday afternoon he tied for first place in his favorite event with Fred Gaegan, of the New York A. C., clearing the bar at 11 feet 3 inches. On the jump-off, however, he was weak and had to be contented with second medal. J. C. Nagle, Jr., of the New York A. C., came in third. Runyon was one of the two Jerseyites to place in the meet, Wallace Maxwell taking second place in the shot-put.

Jack Fritts, coach of the Plainfield High School track team, and to whom much of the credit for Runyon's advancement in pole vaulting circles is due, accompanied his protege on the trip and tried his hand at throwing the discus. Fritts had an off day, however, and the other men in the event passed his mark.

One of the surprises of the afternoon was the defeat of Russell Lawrence Beatty in the 16-pound shot-put event. "Rus," as he is familiarly known in Plainfield where he learned how to throw the iron ball while a member of the local Y. M. C. A. and Leal Preparatory School, was decidedly off color and the mark that won the event was two feet under Beatty's best heave. It was by Pat McDonald, the big New York cop, sporting the colors of the Irish-American A. C., who threw the heavy pill 47 feet 3½ inches.

Platt Adams, another former Plainfield boy, who gained considerable renown hereabouts as a member of the Y. M. C. A. baseball team, was the star of the field events. Representing the New York A. C., he captured two gold medals, one in the running broad jump and the other in the running hop, step and jump.

The Irish-American A. C. won the meet with 92 points, and the New York A. C. was second with 71 points. Runyon and Fritts both competed under the colors of the Pastime A. C.

Scattered Sport Gleanings

Saturday's performances give credence to the rumor that there will be a peppery fight for Plainfield's amateur baseball title this year. Right in line with every other kind of a revival it looks as though the Queen City was due to get a baseball boom.

"Hank" O'Day is responsible for the statement that an umpire is half a ball game. In view of this fact it would not be expedient for us to pass up an opportunity to give the trio that performed Saturday a little boost. All handled the indicator in "A-1" style, and the managers and players were thoroughly satisfied.

Hope swatters clouted the batting limelight. Four doubles, a brace of triples, one homer and two singles were credited to the Clinton Avenue conquerors.

"Whaddayaknow about the Abstainers trimming Saurer?" was the query that received the most juggling Saturday night. The whipping administered to the factoryites was the big surprise of the afternoon.

President Dobbins wore one of the smiles that won't come off, Saturday night. Yes, Dobbie, old scout, that infant protege of yours looks like a pretty healthy baby.

The T. A. B., Hope and Netherwood teams lead the percentage race. Followers of these aggregations better take one long and juicy look at the ratings for it's one safe bet that the trio won't be intact this time next week.

It was definitely announced Saturday night that Tommy Mullin had jumped from the Saurer and T. A. B. teams to Rahway. Inasmuch as it would be well nigh impossible for Tommy to perform for both of the clubs that had his John Hancock on their lists, his action in signing up with the Rahway clan was a pretty timely occurrence in our opinion.

NO JULY 4 MEET ON PARKER FIELD TRACK

Financial Backing Needed for Such An Event Would Not Be Forthcoming.

"Depression in the money market" is assigned by Supervisor George W. Wriston as the reason for the abandonment of the annual Fourth of July field and track meet for Parker Field this year. Mr. Wriston announced definitely Saturday that there will be no program of athletic events staged on the Plainfield playground on Independence Day, the popular meeting of last year being abandoned for 1915.

Queried concerning the reason for this Mr. Wriston said that the pocketbooks of Plainfielders have been "touched" so heavily and so frequently of late that he did not think it advisable to call upon citizens for financial support in such an undertaking at the present time. His reason is an extremely good one and will probably be accepted at its face value by genuine sportsmen despite the fact that they will be deprived of the year's big athletic event in these parts.

Keep posted on building news. See Saturday's Press.

MULLIN QUITS CITY LEAGUE FOR BERTH ON RAHWAY NINE

Settling once for all the controversy that has arisen over the appearance of his name in two rosters in the City Baseball League, Tommy Mullin announced Saturday night that he has secured a permanent job with the Rahway A. C. to play Saturday afternoon baseball. Mullin has been sought by the Saurer and T. A. B. outfits and when the respective lineups of these two clubs were handed to President Walter Dobbins bore a contained Mullin's name. This naturally gave rise to considerable speculation and the rivalry as to who would get Mullin waxed hot. He is considered the peer of local shortstops and would prove a valuable asset to any of the City Baseball League aggregations.

He played a number of games with the Saurer club, but was in no way bound to that organization for the season. The several games he has played in and about Rahway have earned for him a warm place in the hearts of fans in that end of Union county and his appearance there is a welcome one.

Saturday afternoon he went to Rahway for the purpose of filling in and at the conclusion of the contest was offered a permanent berth.

WILFRID REID WINS.

Although not playing bad golf, Jerome D. Travers, the open champion, figured in a losing match on the links of the Upper Montclair Country Club, Saturday. It was a four-ball exhibition in which Travers and Arthur Reid, the Montclair professional, competed against Max R. Marston, the Baltusrol and New Jersey champion, and Wilfrid Reid, the Seaview pro, who played here several weeks ago. The visiting pair won by 5 up and 4 to play.

RANDOLPH BEATEN.

Twirling for the Lancaster team at Olympic Field, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, in the first engagement of a double-header with the Lincoln Colored Giants, Cliff Randolph was sent down to a 4 to 0 defeat. Cliff was opposed on the mound by "Cyclone Joe" Williams, who held the Lancaster swatsmiths to three bingles. The Lincolns garnered nine from Randolph's offerings. Randolph hit one, walked one and struck out nine.

KRAMER A WINNER.

There was nothing disappointing in Frank Kramer's exhibition in the quartermile national championship cycling race at the Newark Velodrome yesterday afternoon. He won the final handily, with Alfred Goullet second, Joe Fogler third and Reggie McNamara fourth. Both Bob Spears and Al Grenda was eliminated before the final was reached. Goullet, by annexing three points yesterday for finishing second to Kramer, has taken first place in the points table, with 13. Kramer is second with 12 points, Grenda third with 9 pionts and Spears fourth with 7 points. Joe Fogler broke into the table by finishing third yesterday, earning two points. McNamara has one point to his credit, for finishing fourth.

102-YEAR-OLD ROOTER SEES HOPE CHAPEL BEAT RIVALS

One of the most interested spectators at the Hope Chapel-Clinton Avenue City Baseball League clash on the old soccer field diamond Saturday afternoon, was Bennet Brittin, Plainfield's oldest citizen, who last week celebrated the 102d anniversary of his natal day. Although he had weathered more than a century of this world's strife Brittin maintains his love for the national pastime, having followed the sport ever since its early stages, when it was known as the game of "Rounders."

Many at the contest were attracted by the sight of the stately old gentleman viewing each play with the eye of an expert and evidently harboring a keen desire to get into the fray himself.

SPICER ATHLETIC MEET AND OUTING AUGUST 7

The annual outing and athletic meet conducted yearly for employes of the Spicer Manufacturing Company has been set down on the calendar for the first Saturday in August. Last year's successful undertaking at Highland Beach has led the committee to decide on that resort as the objective point again and an elaborate program is now in the course of preparation. Sports of all sorts will be on the menu and a large array of valuable prizes will be competed for.

The committee in charge is arranging for a special car to convey the excursionists to and from the beach and several side trips to various points of interest may be taken.

LOOKS LIKE A BANNER WEEK FOR BOUND BROOK ATHLETICS

Bound Brook has the marathon fever! At any rate, that's the admission of sportsmen claiming residence in that burg this morning. The annual carnival of the fireman of South Bound Brook is in full sway this week and one of the juiciest morsels on the program is the athletic competition. Interest just at present centers around tonight's big event, a one mile run and from the appearances of the entry list this afternoon it looks as though half of Bound Brook's male population would toe the starting mark.

Saturday night a relay team representing Bound Brook defeated a similar outfit sporting the colors of South Bound Brook. The contest was run over a five-mile course, five men composing the respective teams and each man racing a mile. The feat was accomplished in the good time of twenty-nine minutes by the victors. Hundreds lined the course and the event served as an eye-opener for the festivities of this week. Five colored middle-distance pacers represented South Bound Brook and they were pitted against the cream of Caucassion from Bound Brook proper.

INDUSTRIAL DEFINITIONS.

For the young student of political economy.)

The Farm.—A place from which many of us came and to which we always advise others to go back. Produces the food of the country, most of the energy, and a good deal of the brains. Regarded by the urbanites as a place of ideal independence; by those who live on it as a good deal of a bore.

The Home.—An obsolete term, except in a few rural communities. Said to contain children and happy mothers and fathers.

Cost of Living.—Something always a little higher than we can afford.

The Factory.—An institution for the manufacture of commodities and high tariff arguments. Constantly in need of more duties to protect it from the pauper labor of Europe.

The Press.—A means of consuming large quantities of pulp timber. Frequently used for private purposes, but generally for making public what is nobody's business—therefore everybody's business. Makes free with everything—hence the term, "a free press."

The Government.—A consumer of taxes. Established by the people for the people, used by the politicians for the Interests. Has its head in Washington, its fingers in everybody's pockets.

The Public. — An inconspicuous mass, lost in the haze of its own immensity. Its duty is to take what gets—and pay for more.

Prosperity.—A condition existent when the lambs have money to be shaken away.

Panic.—When it is all taken away.

Socialist.—Anybody who does not believe in the divine right of capital. Also known as anarchist, demagogue, agitator of class hatred.

Money.—A paradox. Known as old cash, it burns holes through the pockets. It is desired by all, earned by most, and kept by the few. Buys food and drink, art, automobiles, legislatures, immunities and souls. Engages with equal readiness in the business of the Lord or the devil—and serves both well. Yet no one would be without it.

THE BIG FIND.

"How does it happen that Brown treating everybody in sight?"

"Why, you see, years ago he presented his wife with a little toy bank which the children could keep their pennies."

"I see; and now he finds himself the head of a frugal industrious family."

"No, now he finds the bank."

DIFFERENT.

Visitor.—I saw your husband in the crowd downtown to-day. In fact he was so close that I could have touched him.

Hostess.—That's strange. At home he is so close that nobody can touch him!

TRY-OUTS.

Crawford.—Don't you miss the theatre living out here in this one horse town?

Suburbs.—Why, man, we see plays here that you never see in New York!

CHAPTER XII.

The Inner Boy.

PENROD went home in splendor, pretending that he and Duke were a long procession, and he made enough noise to render the auricular part of the illusion perfect. His own family was already at the lunch table when he arrived, and the parade halted only at the door of the dining room.

"Oh, something!" shouted Mr. Schofield, clasping his bilious brow with both hands. "Stop that noise! Isn't it awful enough for you to sing? Sit down! Not with that thing on! Take that green rope off your shoulder! Now take that thing out of the dining room and throw it in the ashcan! Where did you get it?"

"Where did I get what, papa?" asked Penrod meekly, depositing the accordion in the hall just outside the dining room door.

"That da—that third hand concertina."

"It's a 'cordion," said Penrod, taking his place, at the table and noticing that both Margaret and Robert Williams, (who happened to be a guest) were growing red.

"I don't care what you call it," said Mr. Schofield irritably. "I want to know where you got it."

Penrod's eyes met Margaret's. Hers had a strained expression. She very slightly shook her head. Penrod sent Mr. Williams a grateful look and might have been startled if he could have seen himself in a mirror at that moment, for he regarded Mitchy-Mitch with concealed but vigorous aversion, and the resemblance would have horrified him.

"A man gave it to me," he answered gently and was rewarded by the visibly regained ease of his patron's manner, while Margaret leaned back in her chair and looked at her brother with real devotion.

"I should think he'd have been glad to," said Mr. Schofield. "Who was he?"

"Sir?" In spite of the candy which he had consumed in company with Marjorie and Mitchy-Mitch Penrod had begun to eat lobster croquettes earnestly.

"Who was he?"

"Who do you mean, papa?"

"The man that gave you that ghastly thing!"

"Yes, sir; a man gave it to me."

"I say, Who was he?" shouted Mr. Schofield.

"Well, I was just walking alone, and the man came up to me. It was right down in front of Colgates', where most of the paint's rubbed off the fence"—

"Penrod!" The father used his most dangerous tone.

"Sir?"

"Who was the man that gave you the concertina?"

"I don't know. I was walking along and"—

"You never saw him before?"

"No, sir. I was just walk"—

"That will do," said Mr. Schofield, rising. "I suppose every family has its secret enemies and this was one of ours. I must ask to be excused."

With that he went out crossly, stopping in the hall a moment before passing beyond hearing. And after lunch Penrod sought in vain for his accordion. He even searched the library, where his father sat reading, though, upon inquiry, Penrod explained that he was looking for a misplaced school book. He thought he ought to study a little every day, he said, even during vacation time. Much pleased, Mr. Schofield rose and joined the search, finding the missing work on mathematics with singular ease—which cost him precisely the price of the book the following September.

Penrod departed to study in the back yard. There, after a cautious survey of the neighborhood, he managed to dislodge the iron cover of the cistern and dropped the arithmetic within. A fine splash rewarded his listening ear. Thus assured that when he looked for that book again no one would find it for him, he replaced the cover and betook himself pensively to the highway, discouraging Duke from following by repeated volleys of stones, some imaginary and others all too real.

Arrived upon the populous and festive scene of the dog and pony show, he first turned his attention to the brightly decorated booths which surrounded the tent. The cries of the peanut venders, of the popcorn men, of the toy balloon sellers, the stirring music of the band, playing before the performance to attract a crowd; the shouting of excited children and the barking of the dogs within the tent, all sounded exhilaratingly in Penrod's ears and set his blood a-tingle. Nevertheless he did not squander his money or fling it to the winds in one grand splurge. Instead, he began cautiously with the purchase of an extraordinarily large pickle, which he obtained from an aged negress for his odd cent, too obvious a bargain to be missed. At an adjacent stand he bought a glass of raspberry lemonade (so alleged) and sipped it as he ate the pickle. He left nothing of either.

Next he entered a small restaurant tent and for a modest nickel was supplied with a fork and a box of sardines, previously opened, it is true, but more than half full. He consumed the sardines utterly, but left the tin box and the fork, after which he indulged in an inexpensive half pint of lukewarm cider at one of the open booths. Mug in hand, a gentle glow radiating toward his surface from various centers of activity deep inside him, he paused for breath, and the cool, sweet cadences of the watermelon man fell delectably upon his ear:

"Ice cole watermelon; ice cole watermelon! The biggest slice of ice cole, ripe, red, ice cole, rich an' rare; the biggest slice of ice cole watermelon ever cut by the hand of man! Buy our ice cole watermelon!"

Penrod, having drained the last drop of cider, complied with the watermelon man's luscious entreaty and received a round slice of the fruit, magnificent in circumference and something over an inch in thickness. Leaving only the really dangerous part of the rind behind him, he wandered away from the vicinity of the watermelon man and supplied himself with a bag of peanuts, which, with the expenditure of a dime for admission, left a quarter still warm in his pocket. However, he managed to "break" the coin at a stand inside the tent, where a large, oblong paper box of popcorn was handed him with 20 cents change. The box was too large to go into his pocket, but having seated himself among some wistful Polack children he placed it in his lap and devoured the contents at leisure during the performance. The popcorn was heavily larded with partially boiled molasses, and Penrod sandwiched mouthfuls of peanuts with gobs of this mass until the peanuts were all gone. After that he ate with less avidity, a sense almost of satiety beginning to manifest itself to him, and it was not until the close of the performance that he disposed of the last morsel.

He descended a little heavily to the outflowing crowd in the arena and bought a caterwauling toy balloon, but showed no great enthusiasm in manipulating it. Near the exit as he came out was a hot waffle stand which he had overlooked, and a sense of duty obliged him to consume the three waffles, thickly powdered with sugar, which the waffle man cooked for him upon command.

They left a hottish taste in his mouth; they had not been quite up to his anticipation, indeed, and it was with a sense of relief that he turned to the hokey-pokey cart which stood close at hand, laden with square slabs of Neapolitan ice cream wrapped in paper. He thought the ice cream would be cooling, but somehow it fell short of the desired effect and left a peculiar savor in his throat.

He walked away, too languid to blow his balloon, and passed a fresh taffy booth with strange indifference. A bare armed man was manipulating the taffy over a hook, pulling a great white mass to the desired stage of "candying," but Penrod did not pause to watch the operation. In fact, he averted his eyes (which were slightly glazed) in passing. He did not analyze his motives. Simply he was conscious that he preferred not to look at the mass of taffy.

For some reason he put a considerable distance between himself and the taffy stand, but before long halted in the presence of a red faced man who flourished a long fork over a small cooking apparatus and shouted jovially: "Winnies! Here's your hot winnies! Hot winny wurst! Food for the overworked brain, nourishing for the weak stummick, entertaining for the tired business man! Here's your hot winnies! Three for a nickel, a half a dime, the twentieth pot of a dollah!"

This above all nectar and ambrosia was the favorite dish of Penrod Schofield. Nothing inside him now craved it—on the contrary. But memory is the great hypnotist. His mind argued against his inwards that opportunity knocked at his door. "Winny wurst" was rigidly forbidden by the home authorities. Besides, there was a last nickel in his pocket, and nature protested against its survival; also the red faced man had himself proclaimed his wares nourishing for the weak stummick.

Penrod placed the nickel in the red hand of the red faced man.

He ate two of the three greasy, cigar-like shapes cordially pressed upon him in return. The first bite convinced him that he had made a mistake. These winnies seemed of a very inferior flavor, almost unpleasant, in fact. But he felt obliged to conceal his poor opinion of them for fear of offending the red faced man. He ate without haste or eagerness, so slowly indeed that he began to think the red faced man might dislike him as a deterrent of trade. Perhaps Penrod's mind was not working well, for he failed to remember that no law compelled him to remain under the eye of the red faced man, but the virulent repulsion excited by his attempt to take a bite of the third sausage inspired him with at least an excuse for postponement.

"Mighty good," he murmured feebly, placing the sausage in the inside pocket of his jacket with a shaking hand. "Guess I'll save this one to eat at home after—after dinner."

He moved sluggishly away, wishing he had not thought of dinner. A side show, undiscovered until now, failed to arouse his interest, not even exciting a wish that he had known of its existence when he had money. For a time he stared without comprehension at a huge canvas poster depicting the chief attraction, the weather worn colors conveying no meaning to his torpid eye. Then, little by little, the poster became more vivid to his consciousness. There was a greenish tinted person in the tent, it seemed, who thrived upon a reptilian diet.

Suddenly Penrod decided that it was time to go home.

DAINTY GIFT FOR A BRIDE.

Give Her an Attractive Perfuming Cap For Wedding Gift.

If there is one place more than another where perfume is pardonable—nay, even delightful in suggestion—that place is the coiffure. There is a freshness, an intoxicating charm, about beautiful hair delicately perfumed, but the fragrance must be carefully selected, for a heavy scent entirely spoils the suggestion, which should be one of elusive, impalpable sweetness. For the bride a most attractive little gift will be a perfuming cap. This cap is, of course, designed for general boudoir and breakfast wear, like any other cap of its kind, but there is special provision inside for the perfuming cap, attached by snap fasteners to the inner edge.

The boudoir cap is made of point d'esprit—inexpensive, but always daintily pretty—and frills of white net, which may be bought by the yard. A feature of the cap is the deep crown, which fits down over the head and ears, covering every bit of the hair. This crown is attached to a circular brim of point d'esprit, which is joined to the puffed crown under the upper fall of frilling, and the lower frill is sewed to the edge of this circular brim. The crown is made of a straight length of point d'esprit, shirred in two places under ribbon run beading and gathered to a three inch disk of the point d'esprit at the top. Rabbit-like ears of lace stick out at each side.

The perfume cap is of pale blue pussy willow silk, simply a large circle gathered at the edge and finished with an elastic run casing. Snap fasteners at intervals along this casing attach the perfume cap to the casing under the net cap. Cut the pussy willow circles in duplicate and slash one for several inches through its center. Face the edges of the slash and close with snap fasteners. The freshly perfumed layers of thin cotton may thus be inserted between the silk circles through the slash without disturbing the edges of the cap. Orris and violet make a delightful hair sachet, or orris alone may be used. Heliotrope and such heavy perfumes should be avoided.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Journey Of a Little White Cloud.

And It Looked Down at the Field.

"A LITTLE white cloud took a journey," said daddy to Jack and Evelyn. "Away up in the sky it sailed, the sky that was blue—as the sea, I was going to say—but I don't just think that is right, for all the seas that I have seen have been green rather than blue—such a pretty shade of green, too; a beautiful emerald green.

"Well, this little white cloud started out to see what it could see. It was a lovely little fleecy white cloud, a regular little dream of a cloud. There is nothing prettier, you know, than a little white cloud afloat in the blue sky. I say afloat because it seems to sail like a ship, doesn't it?

"This little cloud was as white and fleecy as Mary's little lamb, and it was very well satisfied with its adventure. So it started out to sail, and it looked down to see what it could see, and it saw many things worth while.

"It looked down at the earth far below as it started upon its sail, and it saw at first some lovely green woods, all green and wavy in a light summer breeze, and the leaves on the topmost branches seemed to flutter joyfully up at the little white cloud as if they felt a spirit of fellowship for it, and they seemed to be calling, 'Come down, little cloud, so we can see you closer and find what you are made of.'

"But the little white cloud would have shaken its head if it had had any head to shake, for it had business to do. It was traveling for pleasure, and it had to be on its way.

"So it sailed, and it sailed, and by and by it sailed out over a green field, and it looked down at the field, and it saw some golden buttercups and some white petaled daisies with golden hearts in the center of them, and the little flowers were so far down that you could not have seen them, I fear, if you had been up as far as that cloud was, but the cloud saw them quite plainly.

"And the flowers seemed to be beckoning to the cloud, too, but the little white cloud paid no attention, for you see it was on travel bent for the pleasure of the day.

"And it sailed, and it sailed, and by and by it passed over a town that was all full of houses and streets and people, and the houses were little, and the streets looked so funny and narrow, and the people—why, the people were just like so many little specks walking around that I am sure the little cloud would have laughed if it could have laughed.

"And finally the little white cloud in the blue sky sailed out over the green ocean, and whatever finally became of it—well, I'll tell you some other time what became of it."

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Put the butter in a cake the last thing before putting in pans, and the cake will not fall.

Cleaning the Food Chopper—After a food chopper has been used for some time the knives will become dull, both in color and in cutting power. When this happens, take a piece of scouring soap and pass it through the chopper; grind it up as you would an article of food. The knives will become bright and sharp, and the powdered soap may be used again.

Mending a Basket—If your market basket or clothes basket of willow shows a few loose ends, but it to soak for twenty minutes or half an hour in lukewarm water. A good way to do this is to put the basket into the bathtub, resting it on the part that is to be repaired, then turn in enough water to soak this part. The important thing is to get the willow ends soft and pliable. When this is accomplished the strips can be readily bent back into place, and if you push them in firmly they will stay in place when dry. Never try to bend the willow strips while they are dry, as they will be sure to snap off.

To Clean White Kid Gloves—Make a thick paste of flour and gasoline, cover gloves, let dry, brush off with a small brush and hang out in the sun for several hours.

KEEPS ASPARAGUS WHOLE

Every housekeeper knows how difficult it is to cook asparagus and keep the stalks whole. Here is a cooker that will answer the purpose and is easily made at home.

If you have an egg poacher take the perforated piece of tin that holds the eg gcups. This has four to six round holes. Fit this in a granite kettle. It should go about half way down in the kettle. Wash the asparagus, cut off the tough ends and stand in the kettle with the tips through the holes in the tin. Fill with boiling salted water up to the tin. Cover closely and boil 20 minutes. The steam will usually cook the tops tender. If it does not, add enough boiling water to cover during the last five minutes of cooking.

Drain, and use in any desired way. Use the water for cream of asparagus, or add to vegetable soup or stew.

THE TABLE

"Ma Perry"—Half pound bacon, one onion cut small, three eggs, one cup rice (boiled), one cup chopped chicken, veal or roast pork (other meat does not taste so good). Mix this with brown gravy and boil ten minutes, then put it in pan and bake half hour.

John Mousette—This is a delicious, wholesome dish and makes a good meal with creamed, baked or scalloped potatoes. To one pound round steak chopped or ground, take equal amount celery diced and two medium onions cut fine. Cook together until celery is tender, then add one pint tomatoes, half box spaghetti boiled in salt water and drained. Mix all together, put in baking dish with grated cheese on top. Bake half hour. This serves eight people.

Cocoanut-Orange Dessert—Butter mold, sprinkle bottom and sides with fresh grated cocoanut, crumble a stale sponge or cup cake. Fill mold almost to top with alternate layers of cake, cocoanut and sliced or pulped oranges. Beat well three eggs, one pint sugar. Pour slowly over mixture in mold, steam forty-five minutes. Garnish with whipped cream, cocoanut and oranges.

Strawberry Combination — Select six large, ripe bananas; split one side open and carefully remove pulp, mash to a cream, measure and add half as many strawberries sliced fine, a tablespoon lemon juice, three tablespoons powdered sugar and a little orange juice to taste. Mix well, pour off juice if too liquid. Fill banana skins, stand on cracked ice until thoroughly chilled. When ready to serve they may be tied with narrow ribbon to correspond with the color scheme selected.

CEMENT FOR FLOOR

A first-class cement for filling cracks in old floors can be made by mixing one part of plaster of paris with yellow ochre, a dry earth paint at about three cents a pound, and mixed with flour paste or starch to the consistency of soft putty.

PRETTY MORNING DRESS.

No. 8995.
A very pretty little morning dress is the Ladies' Home Journal Pattern shown above. It is delightfully smart, yet simple and easy to make—a dress that has the utmost practicability without sacrificing good looks. It opens in front, as shown. The blouse can be made in either of three ways, having full-length or shorter sleeves and a [illegible] skirt raised waistline. Sizes 32 to 46. Size 36 requiring 5⅝ yards 36-inch material.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Dick, I want you to read Olive's letter," said Nell as they rose from the table. "I feel greatly encouraged over the success of my plan. See what you think. I'll put the baby to bed now."

Dick lit a cigar and stretching himself out in the morris chair, opened the letter and read:

"Dear Nell: I suppose you are holding your breath to know about my visit to Ann Arbor. The boys turned the frat house over to the girls and got rooms outside. It was a lovely time, but through it all I had a haunting sense of the transitoriness of all things in general and of this friendship in particular.

"Mr. Joplin is a mere cub. He says the family record shows him to be twenty-three, as old as I am, but he has never had a responsibility in his life and is incredibly young. One of the indications is that he shows signs of losing his head over me. I always maintained that a girl need never have a proposal if she did not want it, so I have commenced to throw up breastworks behind which to retire.

"I read somewhere that no properly constituted man ever saw a stone wall but he was fired with a desire to climb it, and it is proving true in this case.

"Mother has taken a great liking to the boy and is forever discoursing to me on his merits and my lack of proper appreciation. He is just what she would choose for me.

"'What have you against him?' she asks. 'He certainly takes infinite pains to please you.' And when I reply, 'A man might take too much pains,' I call down platitudes on my head. Finally I said, 'He is too young.' She finished her discourse with, 'Why, Olive, he is as old as you are. If you married him you could develop him along the lines of your interests.'

"That's just the trouble. I don't care to model in wax. If I ever am married it will be to a man; developing a boy is a mother's province, not a wife's. I wanted to say that to mother, but refrained. Then, why will women remain blind to the truth that open urging is a damper to love, just as surely as opposition serves only to fan its flames.

"I am afraid for me love will never exist. I said as much to Daddy the other day in one of our walks. He looked at me sharply for a moment, then said:

"'Is this the penalty for the hard-headed common sense I have developed in you since babyhood?' Then after a pause he added: 'There are worse fates than not marrying, and one of them is marrying without love. Don't make that mistake. Perhaps yours is a capacity for wide friendship. That is a great gift,' he concluded.

"I think Daddy is right. I have become friends with a fine, strong man and every callow youth palls on me by comparison. Why am I so old for twenty-three unless this wonderful companionship made me old? Really, I am quite a problem. Don't you think so?

"I'll not afflict you with any more of my puzzle today. Very soon you will be here, and then we can talk the thing out. Lovingly,

"OLIVE."

Dick sat peacefully smoking when Nell came in a little later.

"You're a clever schemer. Now all you have to do is to keep absolutely mum. The doctor is only thirty, but he is mature. Life has been a series of hard knocks for him and this divorce of his would have been a knock down blow to most men, but he holds his head up gallantly after the 'bludgeons of Fate' have done their worst."

"We live in deeds, not years," said Nell softly.

PAN-AMERICAN FEELING GROWS SINCE WAR, LATIN STATESMEN TELL BURTON

PRESIDENT BENEVIDES and SENATOR BURTON

The high altitude of the Andes possessed no terrors for Theodore E. Burton, former U. S. senator, whose journey down the west coast of South America has been attended by a display of official hospitality on a scale never before tendered a private American citizen.

The senator arrived in Santiago bronzed by the sun of the tropics through which he passed and radiating health and energy, astonishing the English-speaking colony by the manner his physique had withstood the rigors of the mountain country.

The thin air of the tremendous Andean heights, ranging from 10,000 to 15,000 feet above sea level, is itself a physical test which many American travelers find unendurable. But added to the ordinary discomfort of a reduced oxygen supply is the peculiar Andean affliction, soroche, a sort of intensified sea-sickness, which has not infrequently proved fatal to persons of low resistence.

Because of these conditions, Mr. Burton is one of the first Americans of prominence to visit and study the mountain regions of Peru and Bolivia. Neither Roosevelt, Root nor Robert Bacon on their memorable visits to South America, attempted to go up on the high Andes.

Mr. Burton, however, showed that his exhausting fights against the river and harbor pork barrel bill and the ship purchase bill in the Senate last fall and winter did not weaken his health. He spent two enjoyable weeks in the Andes, studying the regions on which Peru and Bolivia base most of their hopes for prosperity.

He began his mountain experience by ascending the Oroya railroad, which starts from Lima and carries its rails to a point higher than that attained by any other railroad on earth. Later he traveled over two other Andean-piercing railroads, crossing into the upper plateau of Peru at an altitude of 14,866 feet.

He visited Cuzco, ancient seat of Inca civilization, crossed Lake Titicaca, the highest navigable water on earth, and devoted a week to Bolivia, stopping at La Paz, where he was shown many honors by the government. Some of his excursions were on horseback over rough, dizzy trails.

The republics of Peru and Bolivia showed their appreciation of Mr. Burton's interest by entertaining him lavishly. The ministers of these countries in Washington had informed their governments that the former senator is a strong Presidential possibility in the United States and the local administrations spared no effort to make an impression on the guest who might some day deal with them as the head of his nation.

In the many speeches exchanged at the capitals, and in the smaller towns visited by Mr. Burton, the hope was frequently expressed with fervor by the Latins that the European war may result in a strengthening of ties between the United States and the South American republics, and that the manifestation may be a greatly increased South American trade for American manufacturers.

THIS MAY BE YOUR FATE.

SEEK REMOVAL OF NEWARK BAY BRIDGE

New Jersey Commission Recommends That Central Be Compelled to Act.

Trenton, June 21.—The New Jersey Harbor Commission has today forwarded to Colonel Frederic V. Abbot, Corps of Engineeers U. S. A., district engineer in charge of the Newark Bay and Passaic and Hackensack Rivers, a recommendation that the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey be compelled to remove the present bridge across Newark Bay from Bayonne to Elizabeth and replace it with a modern structure.

This improvement, it is estimated, will cost the railroad company more than $2,000,000. The New Jersey Harbor Commission adopted the report made to Colonel Abbot by unanimous vote at its meeting on Friday last. The Commission had been considering the Bay bridge problem for more than one year, Colonel Abbot having referred the matter to the Commission, April 23, 1914, turning over to the Commissioners all the data in his possession accompanying a complaint from the Common Council of Elizabeth and the Board of Street and Water Commissioners of Newark that the bridge formed a dam across the Bay and was a menace to navigation.

The Harbor Commission placed the investigation of the complaint in the hands of Commissioner Richard C. Jenkinson, of Newark, vice president of the Commission. Mr. Jenkinson has been more than a year studying every phase of the problem and had public hearings at Bayonne and Newark, at which testimony was taken from manufacturers, steam-boat men and others regarding the financial loss they had incurred because of the bridge conditions. The Central Railroad Company of New Jersey was invited to take part, and did take part in all the public hearings and was kept fully informed regarding all information concerning the bridge received by the Commission. It was Mr. Jenkinson's final report upon the bridge matter which the Commission unanimously adopted and has forwarded to Colonel Abbot to guide him in recommending Federal action to end the nuisance complained of.

Accompanying the report the Commissioners furnished Colonel Abbot with seventeen photographs taken by Chief Engineer B. F. Cresson, Jr., of the Harbor Commission, and Mr. Jenkinson, showing the spacing between the vents in the bridge obstructed by abandoned piles, batter piles and buttresses; twelve photographs showing ice difficulties in Newark Bay because of the bridge and specimens of rock and slate taken from under the water between the piling of the Central Railroad bridge by a diver June 24, 1914. Also a statement of under-river conditions in the territory surrounding the bridge.

The Commission has therefore reported to the Federal Government that, in its opinion, the present structure should be removed or replaced with a proper structure and that the railroad tracks should be conducted across the Bay in such manner that would not dam the ice in the Bay and would permit commerce to pass with less interference than is caused by the present structure.

SILVER CUPS FOR WINNERS IN BIBLE STUDY CONTEST

After much deliberation by the judges, Dick Williams and Eleanor Bucklin have been respectively awarded the first and second prizes for the best papers submitted in answer to a series of Bible questions, at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Sunday-school. The examination was held on Children's Day and was open to all children in the main school who wished to take it, and ten of the young people availed themselves of the opportunity. The questions, fifty in number, dealt with general knowledge of the Bible outside of the regular Sunday-school lessons. So well did those who took part do their work that it took the judges a week to decide the winners, and then it was decided that all who did not get a prize should be awarded honorable mention. Aside from the prize winners those who took the examination were May DeForest, Jane Stout, Martha Williams, Robert Miller, Burnham Carter, Harold Condict, Rodman Parvin and Clarence Garrigues. The winners will receive attractive silver cups.

CONTRIBUTORS TO HAVE FREE SEATS

Special Inducement Offered Those Who Aid Celebration of Independence Day.

$207 NEEDED FOR FUND

Time Extended to June 28 to Determine Upon the Final Plans for the Observance—Urgent Appeal Made for Contributions.

If Plainfield is to have a suitable celebration of Independence Day on Monday, July 5, the sum of $207 will have to be subscribed between now and next Tuesday evening, when the Playground Commission's committees will meet to decide whether there will be a public observance of the day or not.

The Commission feels that the money will be forthcoming by June 29, the latest possible date in which to arrange for a band concert or a fireworks display, or both, as the Commission hopes to provide. It is the plan to have a band concert between the hours of 6:30 and 8 o'clock, followed by a fireworks display.

Arrangements have been made to provide a pyrotechnic exhibition which will include patriotic figures, a representation of Niagara Falls in fire, the symbol, "July 4," a photograph in fire of George Washington, "Aladdin's Jeweled Tree," several giant pinwheels, a myriad of beautiful skyrockets and a huge "revolving sun." About three hundred pieces are included in the display which is one especially arranged by the Pain Fireworks Company at a cost of $150.

The committee in charge of the band concert, of which J. F. Zerega, is chairman, promises an exceptional musical program that will include classical as well as popular airs.

"We had planned," said a member of the Commission, "to give Plainfield one of the finest community celebrations ever seen here. We were able to make exceptional arrangements with the fireworks company and knowing this we felt entirely confident that the public spirited people of Plainfield would be willing to contribute to the modest sum required. There has been a generous response by those whose contributions have been reported.

"A contribution was received yesterday from 'A Mother,' who sent with her donation of $2 a note stating that the editorial endorsing the public celebration idea had just been brought to her attention. There must be many other parents in this city who would prefer to give their children a fireworks display at night sufficiently large and magnificent to stimulate their patriotism and pride in their city by making a contribution, no matter how small. There is a great deal of danger from injury in setting off small private displays. In a big public exhibition this danger is eliminated. Besides the enjoyment of a high-class band concert is an added feature.

"Arrangements have been made whereby those who contribute to the fireworks fund will be provided with free grandstand seats for the entire performance. They merely are asked to display the acknowledgement of their contributions sent by Secretary George W. Wriston, at the gate.

"Those who wish to help in this patriotice effort to suitably observe Independence Day are asked to mail their contributions today to the editor of the Daily Press."

The following are the contributions to date;

PREPARING TO PUBLISH LIST OF DELINQUENTS

The meeting of the Business Men's Credit Association, last night, was well attended and the reports showed that collections during the month had been unusually good, considering the bad financial conditions existing. The recently appointed assistant collector was not able to be present with his report, but President J. L. Bennett stated that he was doing very satisfactory work.

Following a new departure this year, the regular meetings will be held during July and August. It was announced that the new delinquent list is being made ready, and that it will be published in a few weeks.

ELABORATE PROGRAM FOR COMMENCEMENT

Address by Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton to Be a Feature of Exercises.

An elaborate program has been arranged for the forty-fifth annual commencement of the Plainfield High School which will be held in the auditorium of the school Thursday night at 7:45. Rev. Dr. Birney C. Hudson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will pronounce the invocation, and Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of the Madison Avenue Baptist church New York city, will deliver the address of the evening. The salutatory address and essay will be given by Miss Mary Elizabeth Smith, while Harold Grant Davis will give the valedictory essay and address. Presentation of prizes will take place at that time also. The Waldorf Quartette will furnish music for the commencement.

The complete program for the evening is as follows: Selection from "The Only Girl," Herbert, orchestra; invocation, Rev. Dr. B. S. Hudson; salutatory address and essay, Miss Mary Elizabeth Smith; address, Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton; Idyl-Extase, Ganne; orchestra; presentation of awards, by Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, for mathematics (the late Dr. C. H. Stillman prize), offered by William M. Stillman; for English composition, (the late G. H. Babcock prize), offered by George L. Babcock; for English composition, offered by the Daily Press; for English compostion, offered by the W. C. T. U.; for English composition, (the late Craig A. Marsh), offered by Mrs. Craig A. Marsh; for Latin, offered by Alexander Gilbert; for commercial studies, offered by E. R. Ackerman; for United States history, (the late Dr. J. B. Probasco prize), offered by Mrs. J. B. Probasco; "Goodbye Girls, Goodbye," Caryll, orchestra; valedictory essay and address, Harold Grant Davis; presentation of diplomas, by president of the Board of Education, Archibald Cox; march, "Arms of America," Pryor, orchestra.

Beside the members of the graduating class and speakers who will occupy the spacious stage the following members of the High School faculty and Board of Education will have seats on the platform: Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools; Lindsey Best, principal of High School; Archibald Cox, president of the Board; Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, secretary of the Board; Floyd T. Woodhull, vice-president of the Board; A. A. Tilney and Frank J. Hubbard.

PRIZES FOR BEST GRADUATION GOWNS

Winners to Be Announced at Exercises in Borough School on Thursday.

Two prizes will be awarded Thursday morning at the exercises in the chapel of the North Plainfield High School, when the winners of the prize graduation dresses will receive first and second honors in the contest conducted under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association of the school. A meeting was held yesterday at which time seven dresses that competed in the decision of the judges were presented for inspection. The following committee composed the judges: Mrs. Alexander Milne, Mrs. H. C. Krebs and Mrs. Mary E. Bolsterlie. Mrs. Milne has donated a first prize of $5 and a second prize of $3 to the girls who show the best proficiency in the making of their commencement dresses.

The agitation was started sometime ago when the Parent-Teacher Association announced the fact that they would conduct a contest in which any girl senior might enter. The restriction placed upon each participant was that not more than $5 should be spent in the preparation and each girl should make it by herself. Any kind of material the girls chose could be used.

P. H. S. CLASS DAY WILL BE AN ELABORATE EVENT

Members of the Plainfield High School Senior Class will participate in their annual class day exercises in the school auditorium, tonight, an elaborate program having been planned for the event. The numbers include the reading of the class history, the individual statistics of members, the class prophecy and several musical numbers.

Dancing will be a feature, following the rendition of the programmed events. This will continue until midnight, music being furnished by an orchestra from Westfield.

SPECIAL SCHOOL ELECTION JULY 13

Borough Voters Will Be Asked to Approve of An Expenditure of $3,000.

FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Dr. A. H. Dundon Finally Consents to Re-appointment as School PhPysician After Withdrawing Resignation.

With all members present, the North Plainfield Board of Education held a protracted session, last night, re-engaging Dr. Arthur H. Dundon as borough school physician for another year, selecting a new teacher for the science department and arranging for a special election to be held July 13, when the question of negotiating a note for $3,000 to pay for improvements about the Somerset School shall be decided. Reports from the building and grounds committee showed that work on the new school building was progressing satisfactorily, and that it will be ready for occupancy by September 1.

The report of Supervising Principal D. Fred Aungst showed an increase of forty-three in school attendance for June, 1915, over the corresponding month last year. Mr. Aungst's annual report will be submitted at the next meeting. It was announced by the supervising principal that Miss Jubilee Rowley, a member of the graduating class, has not been absent or tardy during a period of ten years. This was referred to as a distinguishing record.

Dr. Dundon appeared before the

AUTO LAW TO BE RIGIDLY ENFORCED

Beginning Today the Police Will Arrest Those Who Disregard Regulation.

Beginning today police departments throughout the State will begin the rigid enforcement of the New Jersey Department of Motor Vehicles' law governing automobile headlights. The time limit set to allow automobile owners to comply with the regulation ended on Sunday, but Motor Vehicles Commissioner William L. Dill granted one more day of grace and yesterday was the last in which mere warnings will prevail. Those individuals who persist in using dazzling or glaring headlights will be subject to arrest and Police Chief Kiely, of this city, is determined to enforce the law by making examples of the guilty parties. He has already issued orders to the local patrolmen and during the past two weeks much time has been consumed in warning offenders, but no arrests have been made. The time is now ripe to impress the new State restriction on the minds of persistent violators with something more than a warning and the local authorities are determined to see that the law is carried out to the letter.

Ignorance of the requirements of the regulation has been the most common plea of those held up and admonished by policemen, but hereafter this excuse will bear no weight. An order from the State Commissioner was received by all departments this morning and the five weeks' campaign of education in the requirements of the law will be put to a practical test. Not only will the police make arrests but the inspectors in the State Department of Motor Vehicles will also aid in the crusade for a time, spending two or three hours each evening in stopping offenders. It is understood that those who have made no effort to comply with the law will receive small consideration and that no excuses will be accepted.

For the benefit of procrastinating owners who have not yet equipped their auto headlights to conform with the law it may be said that the most common way of diminishing the glare, which has been approved by Commissioner Dill, is the painting or frosting of the front glass of the headlights. A fairly heavy coating should be used, particularly with electric lights. In the case of gas headlights the coating should extend at least three-eighths of the way down from the top, while with electric lights the coating must cover the upper two-thirds of the glass. There are several other approved methods of curing the glare evil and many patented devices have been certified as satisfactory by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

SMALLEY WILL RUN FOR MAYOR

Announced Today That He Would Seek Rob't Clark's Office in the Borough.

M'GEE FOR COUNCIL

Latter Consents to Be a Candidate on the Republican Ticket—Both Widely Known in North Plainfield—Believe Clark Will Retire.

Rumors to the effect that a new name would appear on the Republican ticket for the borough mayoralty in the fall materialized this afternoon when William L. Smalley, of Greenbrook road, admitted that he would be a candidate for the office now held by Mayor Robert Clark, Jr. As related in the Daily Press last week, Mr. Smalley has been urged for some time past to cast his hat into the ring for this office, but because of personal reasons he was reluctant to accept the candidacy. Approached by a Daily Press reporter this afternoon, Mr. Smalley consented to allow his name to be used and further stated that he was prepared to make a hard fight for the office.

The new candidate is a brother of former Mayor Newton B. Smalley and has been an active worker for the borough's interests for many years. He was born in Plainfield but early moved to the municipality across the brook.

Mr. Smalley's acceptance brought out the fact that Clifford McGee, of Willow avenue, would be a candidate for one of the two seats in the Borough Council, two councilmen's terms being due to expire in 1916. Both Mr. Smalley and Mr. McGee are well-known to a large number of boroughites and that they will have a substantial backing in ther races for the respective offices is a foregone conclusion.

Mayor Clark, when approached by a Daily Press reporter, stated that he was not prepared to say whether or not he would seek a re-election, but constituents of his in the borough believe that he is ready to retire after holding the office for two terms.

WILSON PESSIMISTIC ABOUT MEXICAN AFFAIR

Latest Turn Leaves Matters in Southern Republic More Mixed Than Before.

Washington, June 22—President Wilson takes a gloomy view of the situation in Mexico, visitors to the White House learned today. The President said frankly today that matters were not shaping themselves up in any way that he could discern. On the contrary, he declared, he feared they were "shaping themselves down" and that "another question mark" had been thrown into the Mexican machinery. He would not intimate what this "question mark" might be, but it was generally understood that the apparent overthrow of Gen. Villa's influence had embarrassed this Government's efforts to restore order.

Advice to the Navy Department today, declared that Admiral Howard had not landed his 800 marines from the cruiser Colorado, and now was consulting with the consul at Guaymas. Instructions were sent him not to land troops without specific instructions from Washington.

New 1916 Hudson Car Is Smashing All Sales Records.

Probably all sales records for a car of its price and character were smashed by the new 1916 Hudson car, which made its debut last week. The new 1916 Hudson car, with its graceful yacht lines, its ever-lustre, body finish, larger tonneau and a $200 reduction in price, made an instantaneous hit with the motorwise buying public. "The Hudson car this year, both mechanically and its coach work" typifies in the highest degree the best modern ideals of good taste, and that is the secret of its place and class. It shows quality, elegance and refinement in every line, and at the same time its very simplicity of design tends towards the reduction of superfluous weight and waste in every direction without any scrimping of strength or power. These facts, combined with the factory's concentration on one model for a period of over four years, made it possible to sell this wonderful car for the modest sum of $1,350. Be sure to see this most talked about car at Thompson's Garage.—Adv. ***

You can't, even through a "For Sale" ad, sell that used article for its original cost, nor near it; but you can get its cash value at the present time for it.

WEST END DWELLING DESTROYED BY FIRE

Home Occupied by Joseph Winiski on Lee Place Completely Gutted.

An alarm of fire from Box 47 at 6:30 o'clock last evening called the fire department to 224 Lee place, where the frame house owned by the estate of Adam Young and occupied by Joseph Wniski, was found in a blaze. The fire was put out after an hour's work, the damage being placed at $1,000. The dwelling was cov*ered by insurance.*

The origin of the fire is unknown. Chief Doane, who responded in person, was unable to discover anything that would enlighten him on this point. Mrs. Winiski said that she sat in a downstairs room when she heard a crackling noise which attracted her attention. She opened the back door to find the enclosed porch in a blaze. In her fright she left the door open, which created a draught and the fire gained headway by leaps and bounds. When the apparatus arrived the entire lower floor was afire. Three hydrant streams were used in extinguishing it.

CHANCES SLIM FOR RECOVERY OF WAY

Local Young Man in Serious Condition at New Brunswick Hospital.

Reports from St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, this morning, indicate that the condition of Edward J. Way, the Plainfield young man who was injured in an automobile and wagon collision near New Brunswick at 3:20 Sunday morning, is about the same. His chances for recovery remain grave and he lies in a semi-conscious state the greater part of the time.

Mr. Way's most serious injury is a punctured lung, the rupture being caused by the broken end of a rib. Owing to his condition no efforts have been made by the police to secure a statement from him. The peddler, who owned the wagon that figured in Sunday morning's accident, still claims that Way was driving his car one the wrong side of the road and ran into him.

ELKS' WIVES TO GIVE CARD PARTY

Elaborate Social Function to Be Enjoyed at Watchung Avenue Clubhouse.

In order to raise funds for the purchase of a banner for the local delegation of Elks when they attend the State convention in Atlantic City in September, a committee composed of the wives of members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., have arranged a card party to be given at the club rooms on Watchung avenue, Friday afternoon, July 2. Play will start at 2 o'clock. Five hundred will be the principal game and prizes will be awarded at each table for those proving proficient in the finals. A set of eight games has been arranged for and expectations point to a capacity room of participants, those in charge having prepared to have sixty-nine tables to accommodate players. Refreshments will be served throughout the period of play and all who attend are promised a most enjoyable time. Tickets for the event may be procured from the members of the committee or at the clubhouse on Watchung avenue and they are not only restricted to the members of the Elks alone. The committee extends a general invitation to the public to attend.

The committee in charge of the affair is composed of the following: Chairman, Mrs. Robert Gow, assistant chairman, Mrs. C. L. Crist; secretary, Mrs. V. W. Nash, Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Smith; assistant treasurer, Mrs. A. E. Force; purchasing committee, Mrs. A. McVoy, Mrs. A. E. Force; reception committee, Mrs. Walter Apgar, Mrs. George R. ROUSING FAREWELL FOR THOMAS M. MUIR Affair Given on the Eve of His Departure for Lake Hopatcong.

Prominent West End residents, numbering over fifty, turned out in the meeting rooms of the Reminiscent Club, last night, to extend to Thomas M. Muir a rousing farewell on the eve of his departure for Lake Hopatcong, where he conducts Camp Ramshorn during the summer months. Included in the gathering was Fire Chief T. O. Doane, Councilmen Charles Graves and Theodore Martin and many other well known Plainfielders, all of whom have been lifelong friends of Muir. The program was an interesting one from start to finish, the numbers being unique and entertaining. During the intermissions refreshments, consisting of ice cream, punch and cake and cigars, were served by the committee. Captain Mehl acted as master of ceremonies, introducing a number of speakers during the evening.

One of the most enjoyable portions of the program was the rendition of musical numbers by Professor Kogan's boy orchestra, the little musicians receiving round after round of applause for their splendid efforts. The orchestra was made up of Jacob Rabinowitz, Morton Kline, Morris Lerman, Israel Lerman and Harry Goldberg, on violins, and Fred Zweifel, trombone, Wilbur Moke, cornet, and Frank Shattle, drums.

An excellent exhibition of buck and wing dancing was given by Anthony Martell, accompanied at the piano by Fred Zweifel. Mr. Martell also sang several bass solos. Tom Muir gave a demonstration of the "Essence of Old Virginia" and also rendered a number of topical hits. Other vocal selections were given by the "Smoke-eaters' Quartet," composed of Tom Muir, William Jaeger, George Leland and Andrew Zeisz; and Wilbur Moke sang a vocal number.

Addresses were made by Fire Chief T. O. Doane, Councilmen Graves and Martin, Tom Muir, Captain Mehl, Joseph Pennington, Charles Ryder, David L. Coleman and Frank Shattle. Charles Johnson rendered a number of drum selections.

The committee in charge included Captain George Mehl, Jacog Schlick, Barton K. Davis, Charles Ryder, William Jaeger, Edward Vail and Thomas R. Randolph.

CZAR IS DEFEATED ALL ALONG LINE

So Reports Berlin, Which Says Army Is Ten Miles From Lemberg.

SHELL DUNKIRK AGAIN

Allied Fleets Bombarded Town of Gallipoli—Russians Claim That Austrians Have Made No Progress in Galicia or Bukowina.

Berlin, June 22.—The Overseas News Agency gave out the following today:

"The Russians are defeated all along the line. They are fighting only to gain time and save artillery and war material. Our forces are ten miles from Lemberg."

Paris, June 22.—Throwing shells from a distance of more than twenty miles, the Germans have again bombarded Kunkirk. Fourteen shells fell upon the city, killing several persons. The bombardment occurred at night. The Germans are now using poisonous gases along the northern end of battle line in France.

Athens, June 22.—The Allied fleet yesterday began violent bombardment of the town of Gallipoli on the base of the Peninsula from the Gulf of Saros. Fires were seen to break out in several parts of the shipping and business districts.

Petrograd, June 22.—Today's Russian statement says: "On the Dneister the Austrians delivered attacks between Mikolaiow and Jidachew. They were driven back from the village of Denanka and Lesma, sustaining heavy losses. On the rest of the front in Galicia and Bukowina, although stubborn fighting continues in some sectors, the Austrians have not succeeded in making progress anywhere."

It is officially announced that Russian submarines have sunk a large steamer and two sailing vessels belonging to the Turks in the Black Sea.

Rome, June 22.—The War Office gave out the following statement today:

"There is nothing to report on the Tyrol-Trentino frontier. In the San Pellegrino Valley we occupied Ponte Tasca. In the eastern zone of Monte Nero the enemy tried unsuccessfully to throw us back on the operations, started on the 19th, and which were carried to a successful conclusion on the 20th, notwithstanding inclement weather, on the right bank of the Isonzo at Plava."

London, June 22.—The British steamship Carlsbrook, of Glasgow, from Montreal, for Leith, Scotland, was sunk by gunfire from a German submarine on June 21, at a point forty miles north of Kinnairos Head. Eleven members of her crew were saved and thirteen were unaccounted for.

Constantinople, June 22.—The Turkish War Office gave out the following official statement today: "On the Dardanelles front feeble artillery and infantry duels have occurred near Avi Burnu. Yesterday afternoon the enemy attack on the left wing near Sed El Bahr, begun earlier in the day, was also repulsed. Our Anatolian coast batteries on Monday shelled with success the enemy's destroyers, mine sweepers and artillery trains."

Geneva, June 22.—The Frankfurter Zeitung declares that the negotiations between Bulgaria and Turkey have not yet been formally opened.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF HENRY S MASON HELD

Simple but impressive funeral services for Henry Sheldon Mason were held last night at 8 o'clock, at his late home, 110 East Fifth street, where he died Saturday, following a long and tedious illness. Rev. E. V. Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church, conducted the obsequies. Miss Grace J. Carroll rendered two solos in exquisite voice. They were "Face to Face" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul." The floral tributes were especially beautiful and the esteem in which Mr. Mason was held was evidenced by the large number of set pieces from friends and lodges with which he was affiliated. Included in the number were pieces of singular beauty from Jerusalem Lodge of Masons, of this city, and also from members of the family.

The body was taken this morning to Westport, Conn., the native place of Mr. Mason, where the interment will take place in the cemetery at Westport.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

BOROUGH ABOUT DUE FOR BUILDING BOOM

Many Dwellings to Be Erected Within the Next Few Months.

What promises to be one of the largest building booms of this section in a number of years is promised Dunellen and New Market in the course of the next month or two. Many dwellings are about to be erected on the south side of the Central tracks, due mainly to the present erection of two factories, one at New Market, and the other at the Samptown section of Piscataway township.

From fifty to sixty dwellings is a conservative estimate of the number needed to house those who will come into this general vicinity to take up employment at the former factory, where chemicals are to be manufactured. From reliable sources, it was announced yesterday that the concern, of their own accord, would shortly start the construction of at least twenty to thirty-five, six rooms, with bath, dwellings, and rent them to its employes at from $12 to $15 a month.

Should this step be ultimately taken by the company, it would have a tendency to create much enmity on the part of local builders, who are already studying the situation to see how they might beat the concern to it. However, should fully thirty dwellings be erected, this would not be a sufficient number to meet the demands of those who are to be employed by the manufacturers, as it is expected that fully 300 will be at work by August 1.

In regards the conditions to be created by the putting into full operation of the Harris-Baker-Silvers works, the New Market section would undoubtedly reap the greatest benefits as far as construction work is concerned. With a pay list of 400, it is highly probable that a vast number of houses will have to be erected for the accommodation of so large a number of families. Granting that a portion of the men, especially those who may be single, will board, there will have to be constructed at least 200 houses between New Market and Dunellen. The plant of this concern will probably be in force by September 15, and local contractors are expecting to erect a number of residences on their own initiative before that time.

From present indications, fully 800 men will be employed between the two concerns when the shops become under full sway, and the problem of housing these employes is one of a serious nature, confronting, as it is, Dunellen and New Market, where there is comparatively few dwellings advertised for sale or rent.

BRICK BY THE CARLOAD.

Several carloads of brick has been received at the local station of the Central Railroad during the course of the past week, all of which are to be used on the new sewerage collecting system.

POPULATION OF BOROUGH MAY EXCEED 3,000 MARK

From the latest returns from Robert Bogardus, census taker, residents of the borough need not be surprised if the population of the town passed the 3,000 mark. Mr. Bogardus explains that the population south of the Central tracks is of such proportions that this figure should be passed with ease.

MERCHANTS ADOPT THE WEEKLY HALF-HOLIDAY

With few exceptions, all the business houses in the borough will be closed tomorrow after 1 o'clock, this being the second week in which the weekly half-holiday is to be in vogue. With this weekly occasion now an established fact, the clerks in the various stores are now planning to get together to organize ball teams of the married and single men to play a series of games at Wayside Park, Wednesday afternoons.

An effort is also to be made to interest a number of the trolley men from the local car barns to organize like teams, and thus afford much pleasure and enjoyment for all concerned. Other athletic games are to be arranged for from time to time, and carry the athletic program throughout the entire summer season.

PLANS ARE UNDERWAY TO ORGANIZE A Y. M. C. A.

The growth of Dunellen during the course of the past few years has gradually developed a desire on the part of the men of the borough to form a Young Men's Christian Association. An endeavor is to be made by several of the prominent local citizens to organize a preliminary committee for the purpose of planning for definite organization during the early fall. The present plan is to have the committee to consist of three men from each of the local churches, this committee to care for all of the work necessary to the final organization.

The success of the bowling alleys and the basketball courts at the Presbyterian church during the course of the past two or three years has led several of the most prominent men of the borough to believe that conditions are now ripe in Dunellen for the forming of such an organization as a Y. M. C. A., and all of the local churches will undoubtedly favor such a move early in the fall.

The Rothberg skeleton koat may be properly deskribed as simplified spelling in klose.

Its resemblance to simplified spelling konsists in the diskreet omishon of the unnecessary.

By the eliminashon of the lining, Rothberg has made one blade of grass suffice where two were a nuc-ance.

It is as lite and flutterful as a stok certifikate, but its workmanship has the stability of a gold bond.

As a matter of fakt, a Rothberg skeleton garment is the koolest in koncepshon, and the most ekonomikal in kost ever shown in the city of Plainfield.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE LEAGUE IS FORMED

Stirring Addresses Made at Organization Meeting Held Last Night.

The Dunellen Equal Suffrage League came into being last evening, following the meeting of the Board of Trade, when Mrs. Lillian Feickert, president of the N. J. State Woman's Suffrage League, and Miss Florence Leach, of Montana, addressed a large gathering of borough citizens, although the members of the fair sex predominated the gathering. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Board of Trade at the Whittier School building, the session being an open one, thus affording non-members and women to attend the discussion of the national question of equal suffrage for women.

President Walton, of the Board, introduced Mrs. Feickert as the first speaker, Mrs. Feickert speaking on the theme, "Woman Suffrage As a Political Issue." The speaker referred to the increasing number of States going on record for the cause of suffrage, the greater number of women who are now using the ballots as a means of defense. Mrs. Feickert brought the attention of her hearers to the fact that if the State of New Jersey failed to pass the suffrage amendment this fall, its last chance will be gone, as a similar law will be passed by the National Legislature at the next session. Mrs. Feickert also took the opportunity of clearing a number of minds on the question of voting interfering with women's duty at the home, and made the statement that one day was sufficient to vote, and duties at the home could be cared for properly the rest of the year. She also expressed the opinion that candidates would undoubtedly be willing to hold babies while the mothers were voting at the polls.

Miss Leach, in her talk, dwelt chiefly on the economic point of view of the suffrage question, and spoke of the need of the right to vote on the part of the 9,000 working women in the United States.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Ernest Brown, Mrs. Post, Mrs. Haightsling, Mrs. George T. Schenck and Miss Grace Parker were elected as an organization committee. This committee is to report at another meeting to be held at the residence of Mrs. Feickert, Thursday, July 1.

ALUMNI RECEPTION GIVEN TO GRADUATES

Alumni and graduates to the number of one hundred and fifty attended the reception given by the former to the latter in St. Mary's School Hall, last night. Dancing, games and card playing were the principal features of the gathering, which was replete with good fellowship and sociability throughout. Local business men and many of the mothers, former students and graduates of the school, mingled with the youth who have completed their courses and renewed old acquaintances with their teachers and alma mater. The hall was attractively decorated for the event with pennants, cut flowers and potted plants. Music for the affair was furnished by Prof. Albert Squire's orchestra. Refreshments were served throughout the evening by a committee composed of the alumni.
